The matron of the reformatory was seen by a reporter yesterday. [illegible] companion were found in the [illegible] the account of the tragedy as given in the morning papers. They recalled the [illegible] tunate woman and her general [illegible] while she was confined within the reformatory. The matron said that Jennie Wonch was a very quiet and peaceable woman. She never once saw her out of temper or show a disposition to quarrel with the other inmates, but was obedient to instructions and very industrious. She was a simple-minded creature, in fact quite easily wrought upon, and she must have been influenced to commit the crime imputed to her. The matron also related a similar occurrence which fell under her observation while she was in charge of the female reformatory at Indianapolis. She said there was a woman in the institution who was serving a life sentence for the crime of murdering her two children, the one an infant and the other about 4 years of age. She was influenced to commit the horrible crime under the promise of marriage made her by a man who required that she should first destroy her children.

The matron further stated that parties who were acquainted with the woman Jennie Wonch wished to have the reformatory management commit her to the asylum for inebriates immediately after her release from the reformatory, but they had, of course, no authority to do so. The records show that Jennie Wonch was 20 years of age when she entered the reformatory, which would make her 31 years old now.

She had an infant in her arms when she was serving her sentence and it is more than likely that this is one of her victims.

RIPPEY'S VENGEANCE.

He Says Mackay Caused Him to Lose $22,000 and Ruined Him.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 28.—Health Officer James W. Keene, physician in attendance upon John W. Mackay, yesterday said that Mr. Mackay had passed a very good night.

"I dressed his wound at 9 a.m." said Dr. Keene, "and found it in tip-top condition. To-night I intend to take out some of the stitches. Mr. Mackay is feeling very well and is able to sit in an easy chair."

Wesley C. Rippey, the old man who shot Mr. Mackay, is sinking rapidly at the receiving hospital yesterday. Police Surgeon Gonners has no hope of the man's recovery.

When he was seen Monday he said he was sorry he had not made a good job of the shooting. He added:

"I am an old man, 73 years of age, and I knew perfectly well what I was about when I fired that shot. At one time I had over $22,000, but a combination—fire, flood and Mackay—caused me to lose it after it was invested in stocks. That loss changed my whole life. Instead of the hopeful, energetic man I once was, I became a misanthrope, avoided the society of my fellow-men and became a stranded hulk in Pauper-alley. I may be wrong, but I think all rich men like Mackay should be killed. I would do the same thing over again, but the next time with better success, I hope."

A fit of coughing interrupted the old man, and turning wearily on his side he refused to say any more. Later he talked of his two boys in Cincinnati and how he did not want them to be humiliated by anything he had done.

A HORRIBLE DEED.

A Man Lies Down On a Carriage In a Sawmill and Saws His Head Off.

NEWCASTLE, Pa., Feb. 28.—A horrible suicide was committed by a man named Lee Taylor, five miles southwest of this place, late Saturday evening. Taylor had become financially embarrassed, and had been brooding over his troubles. For the past week he had been working at a sawmill. Saturday evening, while the fireman and engineer were engaged at the boiler, Taylor deliberately lay down on the log carriage, grasped the frame work with one hand and the shaft with the other and pulled himself up to the rapidly-revolving saw.

His head was instantly severed from the body and rolled down into the dust pile. The engineer, noticing a jar in the machinery, went back to the saw and was horrified to find the bleeding trunk still lying on the carriage.

The deceased was recently married, and leaves a wife, but no children.

Goldwin Smith Replies.

TORONTO, Feb. 28.—Goldwin Smith addressed the St. George's Society of Washington Saturday. He referred to the attempt made to expel him from the society in Toronto. The object of the society, he said, was benevolent, not political. Yet they proposed to expel him because he advocated by constitutional means the re-union of the Anglo-Saxon race on this continent.

The present attack on him was wholly political. Some years ago when he ran for the presidency he was defeated for the same reason.

Not appreciating his associates he had long ago withdrawn from active membership in Toronto and joined the society in Washington, where it was not used for political purposes. He had neglected, however, to have his name erased. Now, J. Castell Hopkins, an employe of The Empire, a paper which had assailed him virulently for years, moved to have him expelled. The motion was illegal, because Hopkins was a defaulter in his dues and therefore not eligible to take part in the proceedings.

In conclusion, he declared that the St. George Society of Toronto, in allowing itself to be made the engine of political rancour and personal malice, would degrade the society more than it could degrade him.

A VETERAN COUNCILLOR HONOURED.

Presentation of a Richly Engrossed Complimentary Address to Mr. Michael Sanderson, ex-Reeve of Smith and ex-Warden of the County —Handsomely Remembered.

It will be remembered that last December Mr. Michael Sanderson, Peterborough's Grand Old Man for 22 years, consecutively reeve of Smith, and for a term or two warden of the county, announced his retirement from the council on account of the infirmities of advanced age. On the assembling of the county council Mr. Sanderson could not resist the habit of twenty years, and was present and was honoured by being invited within the bar, where he took his place amid an enthusiastic demonstration of applause, which deeply touched the venerable gentleman. And the demonstration was a genuine expression of feeling, for Mr. Sanderson during his long term of office, won the love of all by his simple, straightforward kindliness of character and demeanour, by the energy and ripened wisdom he brought to the consideration of every subject of municipal interest, and was honoured for his unbending integrity and his earnest devotion to the county's interests. During the session a special committee was appointed to draft an and on the closing day the committee reported the following address:

To Michael Sanderson, Esq., Ex-Reeve of the Township of Smith, and Ex-Warden of the County of Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—The county council of Peterborough desire to express to you their sincere regret that advancing years have compelled you to retire from municipal life and from this council, of which for twenty-two years you have been one of the most honoured, useful and prominent members.

During that period many works of great importance have been undertaken by the county, which have been brought to successful completion, mainly owing to your advice and co-operation, and your wide experience of public matters.

To your wise counsel are due many of the amendments and many of the reforms which have been adopted in our municipal system, and we feel that you can look back with pride and gratification to your life and labours as a representative of your township and county.

The council wish that you may long live to to enjoy the esteem and confidence of your fellow men and that you will long be able to watch the increasing advancement of this county and Dominion, both in material happiness and prosperity, and in municipal and legislative progressiveness.

County Council Chamber,
Peterborough, Jan. 28th.

Of course the address was unanimously adopted and a committee appointed to make the presentation.

Accordingly on Monday afternoon at the office of the county treasurer, Mr. Sanderson met the committee, Messrs. W. Anderson, Warden J. Moloney, John Burnham, W. H. Casement, Jos. Forster, J. E. Belcher, county engineer, and Mr. Pearse, County Treasurer.

Mr. John Burnham, in making the presentation of the address, which was beautifully engrossed and framed, referred to the lengthened time of service of Mr. Sanderson, and to the important benefits these services had been to the county. The improvements which Mr. Sanderson, had during his 21 years of continuous occupancy of the chairmanship of the committee on county property, made in the court house and county buildings, were a testimony to Mr. Sanderson's practical talent for economical and efficient administration. He then read and presented the address.

Mr. Sanderson who was deeply moved by the circumstances, feelingly thanked the committee, as representing the council, for their feeling address, and for the kind consideration which had been invariably exhibited towards him during his association in the county council. It was a reward for services he had rendered to the best of his ability, which he valued very highly—the respect of so important a body as the county council of Peterborough.

Mr. John Moloney contributed a few words in Mr. Sanderson's praise as a county councillor and feelingly referred to the pleasant associations of past years. Particular reference was made to the energy, persistence and insight displayed by Mr. Sanderson during the 18 years Grand Junction legal fight, and in which at last the county had come out a winner. In the two boundary legal fights over the Kinmount bridges and the three over the Bobcaygeon bridges, Mr. Sandrson's services had been largely instrumental in securing the victory of this county in all these contentions.

Messrs. Casement and Forster bore testimony to the personal advantage they had derived from association with Mr. Sanderson on their first entry into the council. His advice, and his unusual store of municipal knowlege, and his large experience were placed willingly at their service, and had helped them serve the county better than they would have been able to do without such assistance.

Mr. Belcher, county engineer, also bore testimony to the practical and valuable nature of Mr. Sanderson's services. Ever since he (Mr. Belcher) had been engineer for the county, Mr. Sanderson had been an active member of the building committee of every iron bridge the county had constructed. Mr. Pearse also spoke of the great value of Mr. Sanderson's services, and of how much he had profited by Mr. Sanderson's advice and assistance.

In conclusion, Mr. Sanderson again gave his hearty thanks for the handsome recognition of his services he had received, and added that very much of what had been effected was due to the harmonious co-operation of the councillors as a whole and the county officials, and he was very much pleased on retiring from a long course of municipal life to see that owing to these causes the affairs of the county were in as good a position as they ever were.

THE EXAMINER is happy to add its congratulations and to wish Mr. Sanderson many happy years of life to enjoy the leisure and rest his active and useful life have earned.

"McLEAN RESCUED."

HORNINGS' MILLS, Feb. 27th.—People of this village and vicinity who read with wonder and astonishment the marvellous cure Dodd's Kidney Pills made in the case of Sam Murray, of Gravenhurst, and Mrs. Brown, of Toronto, which seemed almost too startling to be true, are now no longer in doubt that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest medicine on earth as there has been a cure right here in this village almost as wonderful. Mr. Wm. McLean, of this place, has for months been troubled with backache, nevousness, on, lack of ambition, loss of appetite and flesh. Symptoms which only exist when the fell destroyer "Bright's Disease" has the victim in its grasp, which is generally regarded as incurable. Mr. McLean has been thoroughly cured by a two months' use of this remedy and frankly says that they saved his life.

A LITTLE GIRL.

And Her Dress For Afternoon and Parties.

There is shown herewith a dress for a little girl, of cream cashmere, strewn with pink and blue flowerets. The trimming is of blue velvet. The sleeves and bodice are plain cream cashmere and the collarette is of cream lace. It is suitable for afternoon wear or for a small evening party, and, although so stylish looking is remarkably easy to make. For half mourning it would look very well in cream and black.

Feather boas seem to be more worn than ever. Nothing is more becoming and I know of nothing that, as a single accessory, adds more of distinguished effect to costume. Better have a twenty dollar dress, made with taste, and a forty dollar boa, than a sixty dollar dress. Because, for one thing, the boa will add beauty to any number of dresses. So many woman, too, do not have beautiful necks, yet they realize the dressy effect of a bit of throat showing. A gown made with a mere slit taken out in front is not pretty, but almost any neck looks lovely if the gown is cut well away and a feather boa is worn over the shoulders. The needed bit of throat shows in the front, and there is the suggestion of more beauty to show if those jealous feathers would only curl the other way. If the boa is not made out of all proportion, it adds to the appearance of height, too, by its straight fall from throat to hem of gown. Of course it should face to the hem of your gown.

FLORETTE.

English Pronunciation.

The curiosities of pronunciation are many. The famous Derby day of England is known to the natives solely as Darby day. Norwich and Harwich are designated as Norrich and Harrich. Lord Cholmondley notwithstanding his long patronymic, is content to be called Chumley, while Mr. Beauchamp goes by the name of Beecham. The French can more than match these peculiarities. Mr. Laurier, the Canadian politician, becomes Mr. Lorriyay in conversation, and Mr. Mercier is Mr. Merciyay. The latter's law partner, Mr. Beausoliel, shrinks in the vernacular to Mr. Bosby German names are apt to be very much worse than these.

The Wise King.

Louis Philippe and Queen Victoria were once walking in the garden at Eu when he offered her a peach. The queen seemed rather embarrassed how to skin it, when Louis Philippe took a large clasp knife from his pocket. "When a man has been a poor devil like myself," he said, "obliged to live on forty sous a day, he always carries a knife. I might have dispensed with it for the last few years. Still, I do not wish to lose the habit—one does not know what may happen."

Vegetable Experiments.

The agricultural experiment station at Yuma, Ari., has been testing during the year the varieties of early fruits and vegetables which can be cultivated to the best advantage in that torrid climate. It is thought by the people of that region that Arizona and some of the favored parts of southern California will ultimately furnish eastern cities with the supply of winter vegetables which now largely come from Bermuda and the southern Atlantic states.

People troubled with sick and nervous headaches will find a most efficacious remedy in Ayer's Cathartic Pills. They strengthen the stomach, stimulate the liver, restore healthy action to the digestive organs, and thus afford speedy and permanent relief

Why People Grow Gray.

Gray hair is so common now that one wonders what it comes from. Young men have it in profusion and young women are very proud when they have a coiffure in which gray has a prominent part. The prevalence of gray hair is attributed to frequent cutting and soap. The doctors speak of inherent tendencies and old women gabble of early piety, but soap and the barber do more toward taking color and strength out of hair than anything else does. The singeing of hair is done to prevent the oils from exuding from the ends of clipped hairs, and singeing it is in this regard better than cutting. But ammonia-loaded soaps are the worst factors. Many persons use ammonia when washing their head and it enters into all shampoo mixtures. It is also an ingredient of most soaps. It dries up the scalp and robs the hair of all its moisture. That is where most of the gray hair of to-day comes from.

A Veritable Queen in Death.

A French Princess is said to have been crowned after death. This was Ines de Castro, who was murdered in the fourteenth century by three assassins. The lady was the wife of a Portuguese crown prince, and she was murdered by order of the king—her father-in-law. The prince never spoke to his father again, and when the old man died the remains of Ines were lifted from the grave, placed on a magnificent throne, and crowned queen of Portugal. The clergy, the nobility and the people did homage to the corpse, and kissed the bones of her hands. There sat the dead queen, her yellow hair hanging like a veil round her ghastly form. One fleshless hand held the scepter, the symbol of royalty.

Her Weapons Like Her Nature, Concealed.

A prominent jeweler tells that he sells many daggers to women. These are not ornaments, but serious weapons. They are just large enough to slip easily inside a woman's gown. Some women have these made to order, when they are lavishly adorned and incrusted with precious stones. They are frequently carried in traveling, when they are intended as weapons of defense. They are preferred to revolvers, which are likely to go off summarily and in the wrong direction.

The Plain Truth

Is good enough for Hood's Sarsaparilla—there is no need of embellishment or sensationalism. Simply what Hood's Sarsaparilla does, that tells the story of its merit. If you have never realized its benefits a single bottle will convince you it is a good medicine.

The highest praise has been won by HOOD'S PILLS for their easy, yet efficient action.

To the Peterborough Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN,—If there is any medicine in the world that I pin my faith to it is Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. In my business I have to stand on my feet a good deal. About a year ago my back began to give out, weakening pains set in across my kidneys, I felt tired all the time and could hardly stand up to my work. I began to lose strength and at last had to give up work altogether. A customer advised me to try your cure which I did. Before half the bottle was used, I felt the pains and weakness leaving me and to-day I enjoy good health and can bear fatigue and work all right. One bottle was all I used.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A 12th August called at a Steady-plod-along,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the boys" coming down from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was timid and shy
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blamed lie,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently assertedby Companies whose business is nearly all tontined, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides, by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

A Doubly Sad Affliction.

On Friday week last Chas. O'Neil, son of Mr. John O'Neil, Chambers street, died from that dread disease consumption at the age of 22 years. This morning his father received a telegram from Toronto stating that an older son Michael died in the hospital last night from typhoid fever, after an illness of about two weeks duration. Deceased was about 35 years of age and leaves a wife and five children to mourn his sad departure. Deceased has been a resident of Toronto for several years and his remains will be interred in that city. His parents in Peterborough will receive much sympathy in the unusually sad affliction of the loss of their two sons in such a short time.

Coming to Your Neighbourhood.

For convenience of Physicians, Druggists and the general public, I will visit the following places. Don't mistake the dates, as I am there on time:—Will visit Peterboro, Oriental hotel, Saturday, March, 4th, 1893; Belleville, Queen's hotel, Saturday, March 11th, 1893. If you are Ruptured or Deformed, call on me. My experience in adjusting and knowledge of requirments for Rupture and Deformities, such as Club Feet, Spinal Trouble, Bow Legs, and all Deformities of the Frame, is not equalled, twenty-three years, continuous experience in Canada of designing and manufacturing of these articles. Bring your child. Three months will cure it of Rupture. Chas. Cluthe. 134 King Street, West, Toronto, Ont.

Ashburnham Items.

The Epworth League of Christian Endeavour in connection with the Mark street Methodist church held its semi-annual meeting last night and elected officers for the next six months. After the business was transacted a very pleasant hour was spent in social intercourse, during which time the ladies supplied coffee, sandwiches and cakes, to a large company of members and their friends. All seemed to enjoy themselves from appearances. The league is in a prosperous condition.

Mr. A. Peters, Mark street south, is recovering from an attack of erysipelas, and hopes to be out again in a few days.

All the scarlet fever placards which have been posted on the doors of several residents are nearly all removed now. Very few cases of the disease are still existing and the Board of Health deserve credit for the prompt manner in which they have been successful in averting serious results.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Mr. E. Elcombe conducted the service at the Park street Baptist Mission on Sunday night.

The choir of the George street Methodist church sang two admirable anthems at Sunday evening's service. The solo parts, of one, were taken by Mrs. Seward and Mr. Manning the other, in good voices.

Capt. Wm. Heift, of Seaforth, formerly of Ottawa, assisted at the services in the Salvation Army barracks on Sunday. At the evening meeting, which was largely attended, there were two conversions.

A consecration meeting was held by the St. Andrews church Y. P. S. C. E. last evining. The meeting which was led by by Mr. A. J. Hamilton was well attended. Mr. Robt. Russell one of the most faithful members of the society who is leaving for Toledo, Ohio, was bid "good-bye," and that familar old hymn, "God be with you till we meet again," sung.

There was a large attendance at the Gospel service in connection with Bethany church Sunday evening, the hall being filled to the doors. Pastor Fisher spoke on 2nd Kings, 10-9, "But who slew all these." He held the attention of the people as he described the headlong rush of hundreds and thousands on their way down to hell through the curse of the liquor traffic and other heinous sins and urging the unsaved to stop in their downward career. Pastor Zimmerman also made a powerful appeal to those who are going down on another line, that of procrastination and neglect, to turn and not reject Christ any longer. A large number remained.

Can they go hand in hand is the burning question of the day. Very often they do not and are classed as two seperate things altogether. Hear what Rev. T. Goldsmith has to say on this point in St. Paul's church on Tuesday, March 7th. He will deliver an intensely interesting lecture on the above subject under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. on that date. The proceeds will be in aid of the Montreal Christian Endeavour Convention to be held in July next. Don't forget the date. 1d

What the People are Saying.

In 1874, when Toronto had a population of 56,000 in round numbers, there were 530 licenses of all kinds, while in 1891 with a population of 181,00 there were but 211,000 including wholesale and shop licenses.—Hon. A. S. Hardy.

The men we want are men of physical strength, men with thorough education, good moral men, men with self control, patient and steadfast, men of courage, true manliness, honest men, active men, men of sympathy, with faith in a Higher Power.—Hon. John Dryden.

The Coming Musical Treat.

The Belle Botsford Concert Company which appears in the opera house here on March 8th under the auspices of Otonabee Lodge, I. O. O. F., is composed of artists of rare talent. Miss Botsford is spoken of by an exchange as follows:—"Miss Botsford's playing justly places her in the foremost ranks of the great violinists of the day. The 'Faust Fantasie' was delightfully rendered, and her encore, 'The Last Rose of Summer,' was given with all the grace and sentiment possible." Of Miss Jenny Corea, the soprano vocalist, the New York Times says:—"Miss Jennie Corea, the soprano, satisfactorily tested a well trained voice, rendering a pleasing solo and also singing with the glee club. The audience enjoyed her singing to an extent which roused its enthusiasm, and she will win a hearty welcome if she should return here during an amusement season." Tickets 50 and 25 cents. Plan now open at Sailsbury's bookstore. 1d

SINGERS RUN BY ELECTRICITY.

Twenty Machines Operated by Motor Power in Mrs. Ensign's Corset Factory.

Mrs. Ensign who runs an extensive corset factory on Simcoe street, has shown considerable enterprise and progress in the manufacture of her celebrated goods.

Mr. J. H. Greer, electrician, has just erected for her in the manufacturing department a one-horse power electric motor, made in Hamilton, which runs no less than twenty Singer sewing machines. The driving wheel of the motor makes no less than 2,050 revolutions per minute, and each machine makes from 200 to as high as 800 stitches per minute, as desired. The machines were all purchased from Mr. W. Laishley, the efficient agent for the Singer Company in Peterborough, and consist of three centre bobbin machines, a family machine, a joiner, and fifteen corset machines. These machines number ten on each side and are placed on two long parallel work tables 32 feet long. Mrs. Ensign, so increasing have grown the demands for her well known and durable corsets has increased the number of her hands to twenty, each one of whom will operate a machine. Among Mrs. Ensign's manufactures are the open back corset and the superb corset with lace sides and elastic back. These goods have given the utmost satisfaction, comfort and wear to all lovers of a neat fitting and durable corset. Among the other makes are the abdominal and elastic corsets, which are meeting with a larger sale from year to year. The firm also manufactures all kinds of shoulder braces for ladies and gentlemen. A visit to the factory on Simcoe street where everything has a hum, ring and go about it, would well repay any one.

For the Good of Others

Rev. Mr. Williams Heartily Endorses Hood's Sarsaparilla.

We are pleased to present this from Rev. A. A. Williams, of the Silsbee street Christian Church, Lynn, Mass.:

"I see no reason why a clergyman, more than a layman, who knows whereof he speaks, should hesitate to approve an

and worth, from which he or his family have been signally benefited, and whose commendation may serve to extend those benefits to others by increasing their confidence. My wife has for many years been a sufferer from severe for which she found little help. She has tried many things that promised well but performed little. Last fall a friend gave her a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It seems surprising what simply one bottle could and did do for her. The attacks of headache decreased in number and were less violent in their intensity, while her general health has been improved. Her appetite has also been better. From our experience with characterised by three features—immensity of variety, exclusiveness in design, with the lowest possible prices for superior qualities. These goods are imported direct from the manufacturers, and include in ends of 4 to 4½ yards, which we will offer at less than half regular prices. This is an opportunity that seldom presents itself. Do not fail to see these goods.

Nervous Headache

Hood's Sarsaparilla

I have no hesitation in endorsing its merits."

We will also offer special value in White and Grey Cottons, Prints, Table Linens, Towels, Towellings and General Staple Goods. You will do well to see these goods and note our prices before buying.

This is an age in which bottom values are sought after and expected. The days of high credit prices are gone. The community in general, especially those engaged in the agricultural industry, have signified their endorsement of the above in unmistakeable terms. The question now is, how close can the loom and the consumer be brought together? It is an admitted fact that no better terms can be made, to produce bottom values, than CASH RIGHT DOWN ON THE NAIL. All our goods are bought for cash and will be offered to you on the same basis at prices that will convince. Our aim will be to obtain reliability in every article offered. We won't and don't keep rubbish at any price.

The time for this great offering will be Saturday, Feb. 25th.

COUNCIL MEETING.—Council met; all the members present; the reeve in the chair. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. The auditors presented their report and the clerk was instructed to have 150 copies of the same printed for distribution. A by-law appointing overseers of highways, poundkeepers and fence viewers passed its several readings and was signed and sealed. Messrs. Dunlop and Hunter, as a deputation from the North Monaghan council, addressed the council in regard to the proportion of expenses which should be borne by each municipality in repairing boundary between the townships, and the reeve and Coun. Armstrong were appointed a committee to meet with them for the purpose of trying to make satisfactory arrangements for the same. The sum of $75 was granted for the purpose of repairing the South Buckhorn and Burleigh road provided the county council grant $150 for the same purpose. A resolution was passed providing that for road purposes a load of gravel shall be one yard, and instructing all overseers of highways to be governed thereby. The treasurer was instructed to pay to Mr. Armstrong $9.20 for support of H. Fredenburgh. The council then adjourned to meet on Monday the third day of April.

Indispensable.

There are some simple remedies indispensable in every family. Among these, the experience of years assures us, should be recorded PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER. For both internal and external application we have found it of great value; especially can we recommend it for colds, rheumatism, or fresh wounds and bruises.

POLICE COURT.

TUESDAY, Feb. 28th

At the police court this morning Geo. Rose charged Mrs. Pogue, a tenant who resides in a house belonging to complainant on Park street, with malicious injury to property. The complainant alleged that defendant destroyed the fence, broke a lock and also a quantity of shelving. The evidence of several witnesses was taken but their testimonies proved to be very contradictory. The magistrate accordingly dismissed the case, with costs, which amounted to $1.55 in all.

Chief Rossel charged A. Rountree of the Comercial House with selling liquor during prohibited hours (on Sunday.) The offence was admitted and the magistrate imposed a fine of $40 and costs, $2.10. Five other parties who assisted in the offence were each fined $10 and costs, the highest fine that could be imposed.

A Charming Winter Climate.

"One of the chief delights of America," a famous foreigner recently said, "is the remarkable diversity of climate and altitude. Every taste can be suited there." The rigor of our Northern winters tells on a great many constitutions and such people are obliged to "winter South," or to move there altogether. To this large and increasing class North Galveston offers peculiar advantages at prices within the reach of the most modest purse. This new and coming commercial point offers business openings for the merchant; work for the labouring man; homes for the delicate; rich harvest to the fruit-grower—profits and pleasure for all. In no place in America is there better opportunity for safe investiment. All classes of persons, therefore, are interested in the development of North Galveston and any inquiry will be answered and full information furnished by T. Hurley, Peterborough Ont., the local agent of the North Galveston Association.

CRISP CURLING CHRONIQUES.

What is Going on at the Rink Where Curlers Most do Congregate.

At a meeting of curlers held at the rink last night the following skips were elected to do battle against the Prospect Park curlers, who will arrive here to-morrow six rinks strong, if not eight. The following were appointed: Messrs. Rutherford, McGill, Ferguson, Ray, Attrill, Dr. Boucher, Judge Weller and J. H. Connal.

The Torontos will be down on Friday noon six rinks strong, and it is expected that the six remaining rinks will arrive in the evening, making in all a twelve-rink competition. The town skips and rinks which will do battle against the visitors will be identically the same as those who bested the Granites so badly on Thursday last. The present week promises to be an unusually interesting one for the lovers of the roarin' game.

A scratch match took place at the rink last evening between the following quartettes:

I. M. Hayes,	W. Hall,
W. D. Parker,	R. B McKee,
R. B. Edwards,	T. Connal,
Judge Weller, s'p 7	R. S. Davidson, s'p. 12

12 ends were played.

A fourteen end game was played with five on a side between Skips J. B. Pentland and A. McNeil. The dentist's following downed the commercial travellers' samples by 9 shots.

The greatest of the great—a triumphal struggle for the oysters came off at the rink last night. The affray was witnessed with interest by an excited crowd of spectators and speculation ran rife as to who would be the winner. The skips were Messrs. Rutherford and Belleghem. The furniture monarch was given a handicap of five shots over the well known contractor. At the 18th end both sides stood 18 exactly and the 19th end had to be played. The feeling ran pretty high, but Skip Rutherford got the necessary one to make him the champion, and so coerced his opponent into purchasing the bivalves, which he did with becoming grace. Following is the score.

T. LePlante,	W. Snowden,
A. Blade,	S. Ray,
S. Clegg,	C. McGill,
T. Rutherford, sk. 19	D. Belleghem, sk. 18

A return match will be played on Monday night next.

Another match took place in the afternoon between skips Belleghem and W. Snowden for bivalvular supremacy. Again misfortune turned against the cabinet maker and his exchequer was accordingly somewhat depleted. Only two men played on a side and five ends wound up the struggle in favour of skip Snowden by 4 shots. S. Howson viced for Mr. Snowden and A. McNeil for Mr. Belleghem.

THE "SOOP" OF THE GRANITES.

At the banquet of the Granites and Peterborough's after the Waterloo of last week our reporter absorbed so much of the "spirit" of curling that he could only relieve his mind by breaking into poetry. As a penalty for such an offense his "poem" was pigeon-holed for use on some suitable occasion, such as the visit to-morrow of the Toronto curlers, half a hundred strong. Under a solemn promise, under bonds, that the reporter will draw the metrical line at spring poetry, his little effusion is given as follows:

The Granites came down like the wolf on the fold,
And their bonnets were gleaming with heather and gold;
The sheen of their stanes was like stars on the sea
As they gathered around our own pot-lid and tee;
Like the leaves of the forest when summer is green,
The hopes of the Granites all verdant were seen;
Like the leaves of the forest when autumn was brown,
The hopes of the Granites lay withered and blown,
For the angel of luck spread his wings on the blast
And breathed in the face of our ice as he passed,
And Badenach, Creelman and Myles by name,
Bereft of their luck, played a farmer's own game.

A CONDUCTORS DEATH.

Geo. Armstrong of the C.P.R. Passes Away at Farnham, Quebec.

The death of Mr. Geo. Armstrong, a popular young conductor on the South Eastern road in Quebec, took place at Farnham on Thursday last. Deceased was an enthusiastic member of the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, and also of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. His remains arrived in Peterborough on Sunday morning by the C.P.R. in charge of the following members of the societies to which the late Mr. Armstrong belonged. Brothers E. N. Goddard, L. L. Callander, A. Ready, J. R. Campbell and N. Beaton. They were met at the station here by Brothers R. R. Hamilton, Auster, W. A. Jackson, McClure, Harrington and others. The body was taken to the home of deceased mother, Mrs. Goodfellow, at Fraserville, for interment. The late Mr. Armstrong was at one time conductor on the road between Lindsay and Belleville. He was only 27 years of age and but recently married. His many friends will learn with sorrow of his early demise.

A few of the workers in the association met in the parlour last evening between 9 and 10 to say good-bye to Mr. R. M. Russell who leaves next Wednesday for Toledo, Ohio. The chair was occupied by Mr. G. J. Early. Brief addresses were made by the chairman and Messrs. Hamilton, Wesley, Clarke and Secretary Chapman, all of whom expressed their thorough appreciation of Mr. Russell's Christian character and past services to the association and their regret at his departure.

Mr. S. P. Miller, a member of the Winnipeg Association, who has spent some time on the Pacific coast gave some interesting reminiscences of his acquaintance with Mr. Geo. Gilchrist, whom he met nearly a year ago in New Westminster B. C., almost immediately after Mr. Gilchrist's arrival from Peterborough.

Remember the reception to young men next Thursday evening. Every young man will be welcome.

ALLEGED ELOPEMENT.

Her Husband Arrived, But Found the Birds Had Flown.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 28.—Local gossips had an appetizing morsel served to them yesterday when it became known that a certain young married woman, well known in Belleville, had suddenly left the city in company with a young man of hitherto good character.

Last week Mrs. William Ryan came to Belleville from Napanee ostensibly to visit relatives in this city. On Saturday night about 10 o'clock she engaged a rig and was driven to Sidney Crossing, where she met Arthur Christie, Grand Trunk operator at that station. The pair are said to have taken a western bound train for parts unknown.

The young woman's husband suspected his wife's unfaithfulness and came to Belleville on an early train yesterday morning to find that his suspicions were only too well founded and that the bird had flown. He at once secured a rig and drove to Sidney, but could get no further trace of the couple than that they had gone west. He drove to Trenton, Christie's former home, with similar results. He returned to Belleville and took the train for Napanee last night.

The woman in the case is well known in Belleville, where she lived most of her life. Her maiden name was Lizzie Thompson. She lived with her parents in Dundas-street. She was married to Mr. Ryan about three years ago in Belleville. She is good looking. Mr. Ryan a few months ago took hold of the Hub Hotel in Napanee, which he has run successfully.

It is thought Christie will come back, if he has not already done so. His father is postmaster at Trenton. For some time the former was an operator at the Grand Trunk depot here. During the recent changes made in the staff he was transferred to Sidney. He is a young man of good appearance and was an enthusiastic lacrosse player while stationed at Belleville. He drove to Napanee about a week ago and remained there over Sunday. It is not thought that either of them has any money to speak of.

Mr. Ryan's father was seen to-day by a reporter. He said he was not aware that his daughter-in-law had eloped; he saw his son yesterday, but the latter did not say anything about his wife. "They have had their family jars, like the rest of us," exclaimed the father, "but I do not think there is any truth in the rumor that she has eloped."

SMOKERS INTERRUPTED.

A Cigaret Fiend Aided By a Can of Gasoline.

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 28.—A Paris, Ky., despatch says a smoking car on the Kentucky Central branch of the Louisville & Nashville road caught fire when near Talbot Station while the train was at full speed and was destroyed. A newsboy lit a cigaret and threw the match beside a leaking can of gasoline. The fluid caught fire. An effort to kick it out of the door resulted in spilling the can and increasing the fire. The passengers ran for their lives, some jumping through the windows. Eight men were painfully burned.

Hunger in England.

LONDON, Feb. 28.—Great suffering exists in Oldham owing to the prolonged struggle between the master cotton spinners and the operatives. The number out of employment in Oldham alone is 34,000 Thousands of these are destitute of food and shelter, only those belonging to the Operatives' Union receiving union aid.

The prolonged cold weather has caused bitter hardship to multitudes of those out of work on account of the strike, and the frost and snow linger with a persistence that points to fatal suffering unless relief speedily comes to the shivering and starving poor of the great cotton manufacturing centre.

The local authorities are over-burdened with demands upon them, and private charity has been exhausted by the continual and increasing drain since last November. Oldham has not seen such misery since the time of the American War, when the scarcity of cotton caused thousands of Lancashire operatives to be thrown out of employment.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

It's rather too much for you —the ordinary, bulky pill. Too big to take, and too much disturbance for your poor system. The smallest, easiest to take, and best, are Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They leave out all the disturbance, but yet do you more good. Their help lasts.

Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick or Bilious Headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and permanently cured. They're guaranteed to give satisfaction, or your money is returned.

A "COLD IN THE HEAD" is quickly cured by Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. So is Catarrhal Headache, and every trouble that is caused by Catarrh. So is Catarrh itself. The proprietors offer $500 in cash for any case which they cannot cure. Sold by all druggists.

ARE ANIMALS IMMORTAL?

The Curious Speculations of Rev. Josiah Adams.

Rev. Charles Josiah Adams believes they have—or at least that upper intelligent class of the domestic animals, of which the dog stands as the best example. To prove it he cites numerous examples from animal life showing that they possess the same faculties as human beings, sometimes in a less degree sometimes more intense. Among the faculties which animals possess together with men are, according to this author, courage, acquisitiveness, forethought, self-esteem, love of offspring, the power of appreciating form, size, color, weight, number, and locality. Time and tune are also to some extent comprehended by animals in a surprising way. There is nothing very new or striking about the examples of animal intelligence Mr. Adams cites, but the following is worth quoting for the sake of example:

A thrush once picked up the end of a ball of twine which lay partly unwound on the lawn, and tried to make off with it to help build its nest. The ball caught in the grass and the thrush came tumbling to the ground. After trying this three times with the same result, the thrush flew off and came back with its mate. The task was too much for the two birds, who tried it several times, each time falling down in a ludicrous confusion of wings and legs. In half an hour they returned with two others, and the four birds united their strength. They made good progress so long as the slack of the twine lasted, which was not long. Then they came to the ground in a bunch, but tried it again and again, till a lady came to the rescue and cut the twine. Of course they now had no difficulty and were soon away among the trees with the piece of twine which had so tried their patience.

The sense of continuity, says Mr. Adams, must be strong in birds who would act thus. "But has the possession of this faculty anything to do with the question of immortality? A very great deal. That which one undertakes and sticks at he cannot be satisfied to not accomplish, and every desire that is not wrong must be gratified. The poet, the scientist, the philosopher, dies with his mind set upon an unfinished work. He says: 'I have not been able to solve the problem or do the work in time. It must be solved, it must be done. I will solve it, I will do it, in Eternity!' Continuity springs an arch and enables one to walk in the light over the Valley and the Shadow of Death."

The fact of a Christian minister arguing in favor of immortality and future happiness for the brute creation as well as man shows an immense and wonderful advance from that condition and period when religion seemed to consist in a narrow effort to compass one's own individual salvation, and to suggest that the white man's dog, as well as the Indian's horse might share in the joys of heaven would have been looked upon as horrid blasphemy.

Aphorisms.

Affectation, like melancholy, magnifies trifles.—Leigh Hunt.

Nothing is pleasant that is not spiced with vanity.—Bacon.

The man who fights against his country is never a hero.—Victor Hugo.

True valor lies in the middle, between cowardice and rashness.—Cervantes

The same vices which are huge and insupportable in others we do not feel in ourselves.—La Bruyere.

Trust lies at the basis of every scheme of human life, and is the corner stone of the temple of human happiness.—J. G. Holland.

A wise man will make haste to forgive, because he knows the full value of time, and will not suffer it to pass away in unnecessary pain.—Addison.

It is another's fault if he be ungrateful; but it is mine if I do not give. To find one thankful man I will oblige many that are not thankful.—Seneca.

Without books, God is silent, justice dormant, natural science at a stand, philosophy lame, letters dumb, and all things involved in Cimmerian darkness.—Bartholin.

In the commission of evil, fear no man so much as thyself; another is but one witness against thee; thou art a thousand; another thou mayest avoid; thyself thou canst not. Wickedness is its own punishment.—Quarles.

Temperance, in the noble sense, does not mean a subdued and imperfect energy; it does not mean a stopping short in any good thing as in love or in faith; but it means the power which governs the most intense energy, and prevents it acting in any way but as it ought.—Ruskin.

No flowery rhetoric can tell the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla as well as the cures accomplished by this excellent medicine.

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Peace and quietness reign here at present, so your correspondent has nothing of interest to tell you. It is so dull here this last week. I might say the Point is "out of scenery."

Our school teacher, Mr. Cummings, is at home at present on account of illness. He was taken ill about two weeks ago, but there is a Mr. Craig teaching in his place. Mr. Cummings resumes his duties on Monday.

Mrs. Cain, of Peterborough, is visiting with Mrs. P. P. Young.

The snow is very deep around this locality, and we will be "travelling in in luck" if we are no flooded out this winter.

Mr. C. Young purchased a fine team of driving horses this week; he bought one from Mr. Jeremiah Carew, the other from Mr. John Halpin, both of Peterborough. They are as fine a team as travels to town.

Mr. F. J. Young lost a valuable horse last week with inflamation.

The members of the Ebenezer church here presented Mr. Richard Reid with a purse of twenty-two dollars on Thursday night. The present was a reward to Mr. Reid for diligence and punctuality, he being one of the oldest members, and the event was celebrated by a very enjoyable social held in Mr. Reid's house. The Rev. Mr. Bartlett, of Lakefield, read the address, and the evening was spent pleasantly with music and singing.

Mr. H. J. Kearny has accepted a position in the dry goods firm of Hall, Gilchrist & Co., and his friends at the Point wish him success.

An obedience to the simple laws of hygiene and the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla will enable the most delicate man or sickly woman to pass in ease and safety from the icy atmosphere of February to the warm, moist days of April. It is the best of spring medicines.

A Cure for Dyspepsia.

Dyspepsia is a prolific cause of such diseases as bad blood, constipation, headache and liver complaint. Burdock Blood Bitters is guaranteed to cure or relieve dyspepsia if used according to directions. Thousands have tested it with best results.

Ministers, Lawyers, Teachers, and others whose occupation gives but little exercise, should use Carter's Little Liver Pills for torpid liver and biliousness. One a dose. Try them.

For Sprains, and Bruises.

No other remedy cures sprains, bruises, cuts, wounds, chilblains, sore throat, rheumatism, etc., so promptly as Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It is an old standard remedy that has given perfect satisfaction for 30 years.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. a package.

Some symptoms of worms are:—fever, colic, variable appetite, restlessness, weakness and convulsions. The unfailing remedy is Dr. Lowe's Worm Syrup.

Cures Others

Will cure You, is a true statement of the action of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, when taken for diseases originating in impure blood; but, while this assertion is true of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, as thousands can attest, it cannot be truthfully applied to other preparations, which unprincipled dealers will recommend, and try to impose upon you, as "just as good as Ayer's." Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's only, if you need a blood-purifier and would be benefited permanently. This medicine, for nearly fifty years, has enjoyed a reputation, and made a record for cures, that has never been equalled by other preparations. AYER'S Sarsaparilla eradicates the taint of hereditary scrofula and other blood diseases from the system, and it has, deservedly, the confidence of the people.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this, my body was covered with pimply eruptions. The remedies prescribed failed to help me. I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and, in a short time, the pains ceased and the pimples disappeared. I advise every young man or woman, in case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. L. Jarmann, 33 William st., New York City.

FANCY DRESS.

A Peg Woffington For the Next Party.

I wonder if among all the adaptations of old styles the quaint picturesqueness of the paniers and short skirts worn in Peg Woffington's time will have any chance. It is the Dolly Varden style with variations. Of course there are objections. The woman is charming because her dress is, and the dress is not particularly so because she is. It follows its own quaint lines and in its grotesqueric there is a charm that of course the woman shares. Gowns didn't fit particularly well in those days, but what of that. A good figure cannot be disguised. They wore queer little jacket affairs with a sort of Watteau pleat in the back. The overdress was puffed up at the hips and at the back. Sometimes it opened in front over a petticoat; sometimes it didn't. If it didn't the folds in front were all in a bunch and curved and calculated, according to modern ideas, to make a woman look like a bushel basket. But she didn't look like one, or if she did, a bushel basket was the nicest thing in the world for a woman to look like. Her sleeves had no puffs, that condemns the dress at once, I suppose, but the most ambitious women would hardly want puffs at the hips and sleeves too. The hat could be bent into all sorts of shapes and that would suit us now, and it was trimmed with fluttery bows, ends, and feathers anything nice and vagrant looking that became the pretty face and general eccentricity. Besides all this she carried a stick, tall as herself. It was lacquered, furnished with any sort of a handle that she fancied, and tied round with a bow at the top, the ends of which floated, and the knot of which held fast a bunch of my lady's favorite flowers. On her feet she wore quaint high heel half shoes, and for all the world she looks the dearest Bo-Peep in the world, and the wonder is that all the rest of the world didn't forthwith take to being sheep and crying to be found. Of course the sketch described is not offered as a model for everyday wear, but for a fancy party it could be made in materials of reasonable price to look novel and handsome.

FLORETTE.

An Unusual Religious Ceremony.

A very strange ceremony is observed in the Cevennes mountains every New Year's eve. This is the so-called "Animals' Mass." The church where this takes place is described as "a poor little tumble-down place, with lichen-grown walls and a square, ungraceful steeple." While the "cracked bell tolls frantically" the mountaineers inside the church, dressed in their festal clothes and each one holding a lighted candle, sing the old Cevenol hymn beginning, "Night more beautiful than day," and the oxen, the cows, sheep and goats are driven to take their places in long rows before the open portico of the church. Mass is then celebrated in the usual manner, but when the Ita missa est is pronounced the priest once more raises the host, and chanting the "Magnificat" marches toward the door, followed by the whole congregation. The drivers and shepherds fall upon their knees and an acolyte with a holy water sprinkler walks through the ranks of the bellowing and bleating animals and anoints them with the holy fluid. Moved by some unknown instinct or excited by this ceremony, the animals which have been lying down rise to their feet, while the venerable cure blesses them. The ceremony concludes with a loud hosanna, in which everyone joins, and the sound, mingled with the voices of the animals, is echoed from the surrounding hills.

More Valuable Than Diamonds.

Cod liver oil from the cod fish when combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda, as in "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," will build up the cellular tissues and create new blood. This is just what consumptive patients need. It has cured thousands of people who would otherwise have been at this time occupying narrow spaces in the graveyards of our country. Miller's Emulsion is worth a trial. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all drug stores.

From the Far North.

In northern climates people are very subject to colds, but the natural remedy is also produced in the same climate. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchits and all throat and lung troubles. Price 25c. and 50c.

A Sensible Man.

Would use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. It is curing more cases of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup and all Throat and Lung Troubles, than any other medicine. The proprietor has authorized any druggist to give you a Sample Bottle FREE to convince you of the merit of this great remedy. Large bottles 50c. and $1.

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, added by the use of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

Bad Blood Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters for bad blood and find it, without exception, the best purifying tonic in use. A short time ago two very large and painful boils came on the back of my neck, B.B.B. completely drove them away.

SAMUEL BLAIN, Toronto Junction.

Ask your neighbors if they use Dodds Kidney Pills? They strengthen the nerves, tone the system, and the most stubborn cases of kidney disease yield to their influence. They are especially appreciated by the old. Ask your neighbors about them.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN

NERVINE TONIC

AND

Stomach & Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public.

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also of the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nervine tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

IT IS A GREAT REMEDY FOR THE CURE OF

All these and many other complaints cured by this wonderful Nervine Tonic.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.
To the Great South American Medicine Co.:

DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If everyone knew the value of this remedy as I do you would not be able to supply the demand.

J. A. HANDEE, Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

REBECCA WILKINSON, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I had been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness, Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly, with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which done me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world."

HARRIET E. HALL, of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to the Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration, and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors, with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it is the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

MRS. ELLA A. BRATTON, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I cannot express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic, and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

No remedy compares with SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE as a cure for the Nerves. No remedy compares with South American Nervine as a wondrous cure for the Stomach. No remedy will at all compare with South American Nervine as a cure for all forms of failing health. It never fails to cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia. It never fails to cure Chorea or St. Vitus' Dance. Its powers to build up the whole system are wonderful in the extreme. It cures the old, the young, and the middle aged. It is a great friend to the aged and infirm. Do not neglect to use this precious boon. If you do, you may neglect the only remedy which will restore you to health. South American Nervine is perfectly safe, and very pleasant to the taste. Delicate ladies, do not fail to use this great cure, because it will put the bloom of freshness and beauty upon your lips and in your cheeks, and quickly drive away your disabilities and weaknesses.

Large 16 ounce Bottle, $1.00.

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED.

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITAS' DANCE OR CHOREA.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.

My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health, from whatever cause.

A DESCRIPTION OF HELL

CAUSED A WOMAN IN CHURCH TO GO CRAZY.

It Is Feared That a Woman Who Was Attending Church at Shippensburg Insane Through the Graphic Picture of Hell Given By Her Pastor.

FORT DODGE, Feb. 27.—Mrs. William Wilbur of Rowan has been adjudged insane and sent to the asylum. The immediate cause of her losing her mind was a graphic pen picture of hell drawn in the pulpit by her pastor.

The preacher's description of the torments of the damned made such a vivid impression upon Mrs. Wilbur's mind that her reason was overthrown and it is feared that she is hopelessly insane.

A CAPITALIST SHOT.

The Crime of an Englishman in Barcelona Discovered.

BARCELONA, Feb. 27.—An Englishman named Mac Pastor entered the office of Bofill Bros. Saturday and drawing a pistol fired deliberately at Jose Bofill, a member of the firm. Jose Bofill had only time to utter an exclamation before falling lifeless on the floor of the office. The assassin then turned his weapon against the other Bofill, who was trying to save his brother. The assassin's aim was not so true in this instance and he only succeeded in inflicting a severe but probably not fatal wound. Then Pastor aimed the weapon at himself, but a crowd rushed into the office and seized him. There was great excitement and some of the people threatened violence against the murderer, but the police finally lodged him in prison. The cause of the shooting is not yet known.

The Englishman is a coal agent named Willie. Immediately after his arrest he attempted to conceal his identity and gave the name of Pastor. In his cell Willie tried to strangle himself, but was resuscitated by the turnkey. He is now bound hand and foot.

Willie was once a clergyman. He went into the coal business several years ago, but was not successful. The motive of his crime yesterday is believed to have been trade rivalry. Jose Bofile was a conspicuous citizen. As he was city councillor at the time of his death his funeral will be public.

Mackay's Assailant.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 27.—Wesley C. Rippi, the man who shot Mackay, formerly lived here. His wife and two sons are still here, the latter in business. Some years ago Rippi deserted his family.

They heard from him at intervals up to 1887. Since then they have heard nothing from him and concluded he was dead.

He was regarded as a peculiar man, but it was not thought he was insane.

Mackay Knew Rippi.

DENVER, Feb. 27.—W. C. Rippi is well known by many of the pioneers of Denver. Charles Leichsenring probably knows as much about him as any one in the city. Mr. Leichsenring is also well acquainted with Mr. Mackay, and was greatly shocked to hear of the shooting. Rippi came to Denver in 1860 or 1861 and was fairly well off. He followed the business of trading in fast horses. In 1874 Rippi first met Mackay. Mackay was then in Denver and the two were introduced to each other by Leichsenring. This fact is a direct contradiction of the report from San Francisco which stated that Mackay did not know his assailant. Mr. Leichsenring, however, positively asserts that the men were well acquainted and had dealings together. Rippi left Denver in 1876.

A despatch from San Francisco says: Rippi is disappointing the doctors, who predicted at first that he could not live 12 hours, but finally made it 48 hours. He has passed this point and seems to be gaining rather than losing strength. To-day he talked a little, and in regard to the shooting he said:

"I had been laying for Mackay for about a month because I regarded him as the cause of all my losses. I am not sorry that I shot at him, but I made a bad business of it, for at that close range I ought to have killed him at the first fire."

Mackay is getting along nicely, but his doctors still enforce the rule that he shall have no callers and discuss no business.

HARRY GRAY'S ARREST.

His Friends Regard His Crime as a Foolish College Boy's Prank.

TORONTO, Feb. 27.—The family of Harry C. Gray of No. 235 Lenox-avenue, New York, refuse to talk about his arrest in Chicago on Wednesday for robbing his college friends, E. N. Pugh and George Stacey. They had run away from Upper Canada College at Toronto and were on their way to Honolulu. The arrest was made upon the complaint of Pugh, who is the son of a New Orleans planter.

It was the intention of the boys to join Gray's uncle, who has lived in Honolulu for several years, but that gentleman arrived in New York yesterday on a visit to Gray's father, Robert J., who is proprietor of the Harlem River Foundry Works.

Money has been sent to Harry in response to a telegram from him. His act is regarded by his acquaintances as a college boy's prank, and they expect to see him home within three days. He arrived at the college only three months ago.

E. Jardine, North Sidney, C. B., says:—"I have used your Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with decided success, and would recommend them to any one suffering as I did from weakness and impoverished blood. Your pills have afforded wonderful relief and I believe them to be unequalled." All dealers or by mail, post paid, at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams' Med. Co. Brockville, Ont.

A Valuable Hint.

When you are attacked by cough or cold do not delay but commence at once to use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. This old, standard remedy removes all irritation, loosens the phlegm, and heals the mucous surfaces, curing coughs and colds of all kinds.

Rough Skin.

Caused by cold weather, is made perfectly smooth by one application of Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses. Try it. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal.

Ladies appreciate Anti-Dandruff from the fact that it not only thoroughly removes Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its orignal color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing being used. Clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

A Great Surprise.

Is in store for all who use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the great guaranteed remedy. Would you believe that it is sold on its merits and that any druggist is authorized by the proprietor of this wonderful remedy to give you a sample bottle free? It never fails to cure acute or chronic coughs. All druggists sell Kemp's Balsam. Large Bottles 50c. and $1.

DIVISION ON THE BUDGET TO BE TAKEN TO-NIGHT.

Projected Changes in the Franchise Act By Which Money and Time Would Be Economized—Dr. Sproule Moves For the Redemption of the Log Duty.

OTTAWA, Feb. 28.—Hon. Mr. Costigan yesterday introduced his bill to amend the Franchise Act, and explained some of the proposed changes in the act. These are in the direction promised by Hon. Mr. Patterson last year, that is, simplification and reduction of cost.

Mr. Costigan said that some months ago his predecessor had taken the opinion of judges, revising officers and others, and the result of the enquiry was that the printing of the preliminary lists should be dispensed with as unnecessary. The bill, therefore, provides that the revising officer shall take the old list and strike off all the names to be struck off by running a pen through them. He shall then add all the new names by writing them on, and these lists shall be posted for inspection as provided in the law with regard to declarations.

A change is made by which each voter must make his own declaration. He cannot make a declaration for any other person; but provision is made by which the names of absentees who are entitled to vote shall be put on the list.

Another change is the reverting to the first of August as the time for receiving additional names, instead of the 15th, which will have the effect of making the list a little earlier.

Hon. Mr. Laurier said he had no remarks to offer on the bill at its present stage, but he must express his disappointment that it was not more radical in its scope. Last year the then Secretary of State (Patterson) promised that the act would be revised this year, but the changes indicated were very trifling and not nearly so great as he had expected.

Hon. Mr. Davies complained of the way in which the revising-officer in his constituency, Queen's, P.E.I., had done his duty. He had not put on any new names at all, but only those for which he got declarations. The candidates and their friends had to do all the work of putting on and striking off names. He thought the revising-officers ought to be made to do their duty.

Hon. Mr. Mills also expressed his disappointment at the bill. He had hoped that the Government would return to the condition of things which existed before the introduction of the Franchise Act, and which had worked satisfactorily for 18 years.

The bill was read a first time.

On the orders of the day being called, Mr. Welch, Queen's, P.E.I., moved the adjournment of the House in order that he may read an item from The Ottawa Free Press of Feb. 4, in which it was stated that an order-in-council had been passed extending for one year the time given the Chignecto Marine Railway Company for completing the work. Mr. Welch objected to any further extension of time, and wanted the Government to say what it had promised.

Hon. Mr. Foster said the statement read was incorrect. The time could only be extended by Parliament. What the order-in-council provided was that if proper assurances were given that the money necessary to complete the railway would be raised Parliament would be asked to extend the time for completion one year.

Quite a little discussion followed, in which Messrs. Davies, Dickey and Edgar participated, Davies and Edgar opposing any further extension of time being given, and Mr. Dickey contending that it would injure the credit of Canada in England if the claim of a limitation of time was made against a company which had made so large an investment of its own money and had experienced difficulty in raising the whole amount required on account of the failure of some of the financial institutions on which they had depended.

The motion to adjourn was then withdrawn, but not before Mr. Speaker had called attention to the abuse of the motion to adjourn by members and a quotation from an authority to show that a motion to adjourn was not intended to be used as a means for having a debate.

After recess the budget debate was resumed by Dr. Cameron (Inverness), who was followed by Messrs. Gillies, Flint and Chesley until 12.20.

The adjournment of the debate was moved by Mr. Perry (P.E.I.). It is arranged that the division will take place to-morrow night.

In reply to Hon. Mr. Laurier Sir John Thompson said that the writ for South Middlesex had been issued. Nomination would be on March 15. J. S. Dewar of London is returning officer.

The following bills passed through committee were read a third time and passed:

To amend the Act to Incorporate the Buffalo and Fort Erie Bridge Company (as amended by Select Standing Committee on Railways, Canals and Telegraph Lines)—Mr. Sutherland.

Respecting the Grand Trunk, Georgian Bay and Lake Erie Railway Company (as amended by Select Standing Committee on Railways, Canals and Telegraph Lines)—Mr. Tisdale.

Respecting the Central Counties Railway Co. (as amended by Select Standing Committee on Railways, Canals and Telegraph Lines)—Mr. Bain (Soulanges).

Respecting the Western Counties Railway Co., and to change the name of the company to the Yarmouth & Annapolis Railway Co. (as amended by Select Standing Committee on Railways, Canals and Telegraph Lines)—Mr. Flint.

The following bills were read a second time and referred to committee:

Act to revive and amend the act to incorporate the Equity Insurance Co.—Mr. White (Cardwell).

Act respecting the Canadian Power Co.—Mr. Tisdale.

Act to incorporate the Maritime Manufacturing Co. (limited)—Mr. Stairs.

This has been cholera day in the Senate, the whole afternoon being taken up discussing a question by Hon. Dr. Ferguson as to what the Government is doing with regard to quarantine and other precautions against cholera. Dr. Ferguson made a long and carefully prepared speech, in which he went very fully into the question of protection against cholera.

The debate was participated in by Messrs. Sullivan, Power, Scott, Almon, Kaulbach, McInnes, McDonald and Angers, who made a very clear statement as to what the Government had done and was doing at Grosse Isle and other places. With regard to land quarantine and the possibility of cholera attacking Canada through the United States, he made the important statement that in the event of cholera making its appearance in the United States the Government would at once limit the port of entry, so as to have the smallest number of places possible to guard.

Hon. Mr. Foster said in reply to Dr. Landerkin that the Government had purchased its two-rowed barley from James Carter & Co., London, for 23 sterling per quarter.

Sir John Thompson said in reply to Sir Hector Langevin that the Government had had not made any communication to the Imperial Government regarding the interest Canada put in Hawaii, unless the representations made some years ago on the subject as to the importance to the British Empire of having a telegraph connection with the islands assured.

Dr. Sproule moved that it is expedient to reimpose the export duty on pine and spruce logs, and in doing so took occasion to reply to the speech made by Mr. Charlton on the Budget debate, in which he dealt with the question of the export duty on logs, holding that it should not be reimposed. Mr. Sproule spoke up to 6 o'clock, answering Mr. Charlton's statements and holding generally that our forests were being depleted annually at an alarming rate; that the American forests were practically all cut, not five years' supply being left in Michigan, and that therefore the Americans would be obliged to purchase our lumber whether they wanted to or not.

He quoted a large quantity of figures to show that the high price paid for timber limits was an indication that limits were getting scarce, and entered into the whole question of the export duty very fully.

Mr. O'Brien moved the adjournment of the debate, and in doing so said he would vote against the motion.

Amongst the petitions presented to-day was one by Mr. Ryckman from the Hamilton branch of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, in support of Mr. Lapine's bill to determine the length of the working day for workmen and labor employed by contractors on Government works.

Mr. McKay gives notice to-night that he will ask on Wednesday whether it is the intention of the Government to bring into operation the Labor Bureau, and if so, when?

Mr. Hughes gives notice of the following question: "Is it the intention of the Government, with a view to enlisting the best class of Canadians, increasing the efficiency of both officers and men, fostering the national spirit and upbuilding and consolidating the British Empire, to take steps towards having successive annual or biennial exchanges between one of the permanent corps batteries of Canadian artillery and companies of Canadian infantry from Canada on the one hand, and a battery of Imperial artillery and company of infantry from Great Britain, Gibraltar or other (home) stations on the other?"

The Supreme Court met Saturday morning, when the election appeal of Mr. McMillan, M.P., Vaudreuil, was dismissed, there being no defence. Mr. McMillan was defeated at the general election by Mr. Harwood. Mr. Harwood was afterwards unseated and Mr. McMillan was elected during the last session of Parliament. A protest was entered and Mr. McMillan was in turn unseated by the courts below. He appealed to the Supreme Court and to-day the appeal was dismissed, thus voiding the election.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

A DIVISION WITH A GOVERNMENT MAJORITY OF 54.

On Mr. Cartwright's Amendment—Laurier and Foster Cross Swords in Debate—The Exodus and Reciprocity Were the Leading Questions.

OTTAWA, March 1.—On Sir John Thompson making the motion of which he had given notice, that the Government would take Thursdays for Government business, Hon. Mr. Laurier objected at this stage of the session, when the order paper was now filled with notices of motions and other private business, to any day being taken permanently, but suggested that in view of Sir John Thompson's early departure for England and his wish no doubt to settle up some Government business before he left, that the Government should take next Thursday and leave the question of other Thursdays in abeyance for the present. After a short discussion this was agreed to.

On the orders of the day being called, Hon. Mr. Laurier asked if it was true, as stated in the press, that an order-in-council had been passed referring the Manitoba school question to the Supreme Court, and if so, whether a copy of the order-in-council passed, would be brought down to-morrow. He would add that the order differs somewhat from the ordinary reference, as the Manitoba Government and the representative of the minority in Manitoba had been asked to confer with regard to the questions to be submitted.

Hon. Mr. Laurier enquired whether the Government was yet in a position to give any information respecting the treaty with France.

Sir John Thompson said he hoped to lay a copy of the treaty on the table by the end of the week.

Mr. Perry then resumed the Budget debate, traveling over a good deal of the ground already traversed by previous speakers on the Opposition side, and was followed by Mr. McDougall, who performed the same feat from the Government standpoint.

After recess the debate was resumed by Hon. Mr. Laurier, who commenced by touching on the question of the exodus, holding that the natural centres of attraction for population were east or west, but with us it was towards the south, and that only occurred in counties where there was too heavy taxation.

He next turned to the census, claiming that the statistics of manufacturers were unreliable and presented altogether too rosy a view of the case. The Government had refused a few days ago to give the names of manufacturers in some of the towns. This, he thought, proved their unreliability.

He next touched on the condition of the farmer, claiming that the decrease of value in farm property was due to the National Policy. The farmer was subjected to intolerable taxation and the result was that to-day land was a drug in the market, which could not be sold. He admitted that the condition of the American farmer was little, if any, better than that of the Canadian farmer, but laid the blame for both on the policy of protection adopted by both countries.

When the National Policy was introduced it was represented to the farmers that they would get better prices on account of the larger home market, but he claimed that these promises had been a delusion, and instead of a home market and Government prices they had a restricted market at lower prices, while the taxation had been increased on every article he used.

He admitted that some new industries had been added by the National Policy, but held that manufacturers generally had not been benefited and would have been in a more healthy condition without the National Policy. He dealt with the duties on pig iron, which were imposed for the purpose of developing the iron trade, but which had proved a failure and had hampered the iron trade so that numerous petitions had been presented for the repeal of the duty on pig iron.

Taxation, he claimed, was an evil which could never produce prosperity. He stated that the policy of the Liberal party was a revenue tariff—to take no more from the people than was actually needed for purposes of government. He claimed that the American people by the result of the last elections had decided for free trade, and that although the tariff would continue it would be so changed as to make it for revenue and not for protection.

He denounced the Canadian tariff as a fraud, and said the Minister of Finance would never reform the tariff, because he would never dare to eliminate protection. The McKinley bill was the last spasmodic effort of protection, and the American people had pronounced against it, and it would be repealed at the next session of Congress.

Turning to the question of reciprocity, he quoted from a speech of Governor Campbell of Ohio, to show that the Democratic party was disposed towards reciprocity with Canada.

If we had a commercial treaty with the United States, restricted or unrestricted, the political position of the two peoples must remain the same, and there would be no danger of annexation.

He quoted from Mr. Blake's West Durham letter the statement that unrestricted reciprocity would lead to annexation, and endeavored to show that Mr. Blake did not exactly mean what he said. With regard to discrimination against Great Britain, he claimed that Great Britain had practically admitted that there may be discrimination against her, and quoted from the negotiations of Hon. George Brown in 1875 in support of this contention. In 1854 England consented to our discriminating against nations with which she had treaty, and in 1874 she consented to our discriminating against her own manufactures, for although the Brown treaty was never signed it was consented to by Great Britain.

Hon. Mr. Foster, in rising to reply, was greeted with hearty applause. He said it was almost necessary to apologize for speaking again after a long 10 days' debate, but it was necessary to answer a few arguments. The leader of the Opposition had been going about the country crying for free trade, but to-night he had talked small, and all his free trade was confined to one country, and for the sake of unrestricted reciprocity he was willing to build a Chinese wall against Great Britain and all other countries.

The cause of emigration of population was either land hunger or labor hunger. The former took people to the plains of the west and the latter drew population to the centres of industry where work can be had. People went west because they wanted land and they went south because they wanted work. If we had more factories there would be more work.

Referring to the census, he said that the honorable gentleman was willing to quote the census as supporting his exodus argument and say it was all right, but when the manufacturers were reached he doubted the accuracy of the census. He could not do that. The census must stand as a whole, as must the National Policy.

Dealing with the agricultural depression he said that the most depressed country in the world for the agriculturists was free trade England. If the honorable gentleman would go to England he would find in some places that the owners of land would give their land to be worked for nothing, but cannot get farmers to work it. The reason why the price of wheat was low was because the supply of wheat exceeded the demand, but free trade could not possibly amend that.

The Conservative party did something for the farmer, but the Liberals did nothing but talk about him and hold him up as a poor, miserable creature. He went over a list of many of the articles used by the farmer to show that the greatest number of these articles were produced in Canada and there was not a cent of tax on them.

As things are this year the farmer pays less for his sugar than he would if there was no National Policy. Where is the country, he asked, where the farmer gets so bountiful a supply at so low a cost? There was no country in the world where the farmer paid less on the articles required in his daily life than were paid in Canada.

He analyzed the amount of revenue collected to show that the larger part of it was not taxation, but merely the cost of service through the mails or by railways, and went on to refute the argument advanced by Mr. Laurier that all taxation was an evil which prevented prosperity.

After dealing with the question of assimilation of tariffs between Canada and the United States, he challenged the Opposition to show how there could be unrestricted reciprocity with the United States and discrimination against Great Britain without having an assimilation of the tariffs of Canada and the United States.

He took up the question of the Brown treaty with the United States in 1874 and claimed from the records of the negotiations to show that there was no discrimination against Great Britain ever contemplated and that all through the negotiations the greatest pains were taken to provide that there should be no discrimination against Great Britain.

In conclusion of that branch of his subject he said that the matter had been threshed out again and again, and it was ridiculous at this date to attempt to argue that any discrimination had been intended against Great Britain by the Brown negotiations of 1874.

In conclusion he reviewed the statements of policy made by various leaders of the Opposition, such as Mills, Cartwright, Charlton, Paterson, Tarte and others to show how little they agreed as to what their policy was. The only thing they seemed to be agreed on was the destruction of protection.

In a very brilliant peroration he said that he was perfectly content to leave the question of free trade or protection to the people, being perfectly confident of the result.

The debate was continued by Mills, Metcalfe, Edwards and Davin until 2.25, when the members were called in and divided on Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment, which was defeated:

ABOUT ARBITRATION.

Caprivi Says In No Case Would Germany Give Up Alsace-Lorraine.

BERLIN, March 1.—The question of international arbitration came up in the Reichstag through a question asked by Dr. Barth, a leader of the Freisinnige party, who desired to know if the Government would join the Governments of Great Britain and the United States in an effort to establish arbitration as the method of settling national disputes.

Freiherr Marschall Bieberstein, Minister of Foreign Affairs, replied that the Imperial Government was entirely willing to accept arbitration in special cases.

Herr Bebel, the Social Democrat, suggested that the nationality of Alsace-Lorraine should be admitted to international arbitration.

This suggestion brought Chancellor von Caprivi to his feet. The Chancellor declared that if that question was submitted to arbitration and the arbitrators decided that Germany should surrender Alsace-Lorraine the nation would refuse to acquiesce in the decision. Rather than give up that country Germans would prefer to shed the last drop of their blood.

The Chancellor's statement was greeted with patriotic cheers.

THE WONCH CASE.

The Alleged Murderess is in Jail in Collingwood.

COLLINGWOOD, March 1.—Interest in the Wonch murder case is still high. Yesterday your reporter visited the hut, which is situated in a swamp and is a miserable hovel about seven feet square, six feet high at the front and four feet high in the rear.

In the shanty there was a rusty box stove, two chairs, a frame of an old lounge and a few pots and pans. The door was broken off and lying on the ground.

Last night Chief Lewis went to Meaford to arrest Jennie Wonch, the alleged murderess. He brought down his prisoner this morning and placed her in the lock-up, where her idiot brother John is incarcerated.

To Chief Lewis she stated that she was guilty of no crime and was only working to get money to buy a coffin.

Constables are endeavoring to thaw out the bodies, in order to prepare them for the post-mortem examination, which will be held to-morrow by Dr. Aylesworth. The inquest will be continued to-morrow evening.

HE IS AIDING CANADA.

The Colonial Secretary Urges the Removal of the Cattle Embargo.

LONDON, March 1.—At the instance of the Dominion Government, the Colonial Secretary is giving strong support to Canada's case now before the British Board of Agriculture touching the schedule against Canadian cattle.

The Colonial Secretary urges that the doubt heretofore entertained that Canada was not free from pleuro-pneumonia is no longer tenable, while the new 90 days' quarantine, at the Northwest, especially, removes the legal objection to the free entry of cattle exported from the Dominion.

There is urgency in the matter, the memorandum adds, for both Canadian shippers and the British importers should, in common justice, be allowed to complete the season's plans early, and not be kept so long in suspense.

In view of this new factor in favor of Canada an early decision is probable.

AFTER A TRUANT WIFE

WITH TWO REVOLVERS AND BLOOD IN HIS EYE.

J. W. Brooks of Elgin County Hunting a Woman in Toronto Through an Advertisement—She Has Skipped With a Hired Man.

WINDSOR, March 1.—A very angry man was J. W. Brooks of Springfield, Elgin County, when he arrived in Windsor yesterday. He is hunting for his wife and hired man, who were around Windsor all day yesterday and crossed on the ferry to Detroit last night.

Mr. Brooks claimed they took with them more than $800 of his money which he had in the house. He said his wife was about 30 years of age, and that they had been married only about six months.

He became acquainted with her through an advertisement he inserted in a Toronto paper. After several letters had been exchanged he went to Toronto and was married by Rev. Mr. Cooper.

He has now ascertained that a man named Herbert Peters, whom he had hired about five months ago, was her first husband and they had played a game on him.

He has two revolvers in his possession and swears that if he sees them a double murder will take place. Judging by the wild look in his eyes, it is believed that he will carry out his threat. He crossed to Detroit.

CHICAGO'S HORROR.

Eight Persons Instantly Killed By a Falling Wall.

CHICAGO, March 1.—By the falling of the walls of John Yerkes' drygoods store at Halsted and Nineteenth streets, at 1.30 o'clock yesterday morning, seven (and perhaps eight) persons were instantly killed and four others seriously injured.

The wall was shaken by the high wind last night, but no danger was apprehended until after midnight, when the cracking was heard by some persons on the street, but no alarm was given. When the fall came the frame buildings adjoining were crushed and covered by debris and those within had no chance to escape.

The crash aroused everyone in the block, and as the ruins took fire at once an alarm was turned in and ten engine companies began the work of attempted rescue. The ruins were crushed into the basement and now lie even with the sidewalk.

It is impossible to get upon the debris to attempt the work of rescue, and the firemen are compelled to throw water on the smoking ruins, knowing that their work might be ending the life of some unfortunate lying half dead in the wreckage.

In the building No. 763 was the family of John Kunze, who kept a jewelry store on the ground floor. The family consisted of the father, mother and son Frank, who was associated with his father in the store. The weight of the wall, which came down with the velocity of a shot, demolished the little frame structure, and they died in their beds without a sign. Their bodies are still in the wreckage.

The building No. 761 was occupied on the ground floor by the saloon of John Smith, with his family he occupied the second story. In this structure, which received the weight of the top of the wall, the greatest loss of life occurred. The family consisted of John Smith and his wife and their children—Dolly, aged 12 years; Faith, aged 10 years, and Hattie, 4 years; the servant Pauline and the bartender, George. All were crushed when the building became a mass of splinters, brick and mortar.

The fire which broke out from an overturned stove as soon as the wreck occurred, showed through the ruins in tongues of flame and masses of smoke, betraying the destruction beneath. After the fire was under control the work of rescue began. The first person taken out was Frank Kunze, the 21-year-old son of the jeweler. He was pinned down by a heavy door that had fallen across him. He was taken to a liquor store near by and cared for. Mrs. Smith was the next rescued. She will die. Nearly thirty feet from where Kunze was found the police heard groans and the debris was rapidly cleared away. In a bent position Mrs. Smith was lying beneath a section of the wall that was still held together by the mortar. This made it all the more difficult to extricate her, and it was 15 minutes before she was lifted out. She had lapsed into unconsciousness, and was carried into the drug store at No. 747 South Halsted-street in a dying condition. Her skull was crushed and her right arm broken.

Yerkes' establishment was burned out the morning of Jan. 11, entailing a loss of $285,000. During the conflagration the three-story brick adjoining, owned by Mrs. C. R. Lott, was partly demolished by the falling of brick, mortar and stone from the south wall of the Yerkes building.

HAVELOCK.

The Meeting for the Nomination of a Reeveship Candidate.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

HAVELOCK, 23rd Feb., 1893.

A meeting of the electors of this village was held to-day for the purpose of nominating candidates for the office of reeve, made vacant by the acceptance of the resignation of A. McAuley, Esq. The resignation of Mr. McAuley was apparently due to two causes, that of a desire on the part of the C.P.R. authorities that he would retire, and on the other hand a want of unanimity at the council board in transacting the business in the interests of the village. A largely signed petition was forwarded to the assistant superintendent of the C. P. R. for permission for Mr. McAuley to again become a candidate for the reeveship, which permission was granted, but now Havelock finds itself possessed of a number of aspirants to the reeveship. The candidates are: Messrs. A. McAuley, W. Wemp, J. B. Pearse, D. McIntyre and J. Wiseman. After the closing of the nominations a number of the candidates and their nominators and seconders, addressed the electors briefly. An address to the electors from Mr. McAuley, who is confined to his house by illness, was read by his seconder, Mr. F. Stevenson. The address was as follows:

To the Electors of the Village of Havelock:

GENTLEMEN,—I regret that the pleasure of meeting with you to-day is denied me, by a severe attack of sciatica, which compels me to remain quiet, and avoid exposure to cold. However in addressing you by a written address, I will say that in accepting a nomination for the reeveship of this village again, I do so with a great measure of reluctance, as most of you are aware that the majority of the council elected with me have hitherto been indisposed to assisting me to transact the municipal business of the village in the interests of the ratepayers. Only to not shirk the duty of defending a protest to the late election which was strongly talked of, was my resignation not tendered at the first meeting of the council.

The complaint of the C. P. R. officials against my holding the office of reeve, gave me strong grounds for tendering my resignation, and in the crisis of affairs, the block system being practiced by the majority of the council, no business being done, the interests of our young and thriving village being menaced, I was glad to avail myself of the opportunity of resigning. I will also say that it is not from any personal ambition on my part that I accept the nomination, but to acquiesce in the desire of my numerous friends in the village, and as it has been arranged with the C.P.R. as to the acceptance of the nomination, I place myself again at your service.

Some important business awaits the immediate attention of the council. The consideration of passing a bylaw making a grant to encourage the building of a grist mill in the village, the settlement of affairs between the village and township. Further enactments by by-law regarding licenses is necessary in my opinion, also some arrangements regarding a supply of plank for building and repairing sidewalks should be immediately considered, and numerous other matters should be considered in the early future * * * *

(Signed) A. MCAULEY.

The address was criticised by Councillor Joyce and others, followed by Mr. William Patterson, in support of Mr. McAuley. The meeting then closed.

It is understood that all the candidates have retired except Messrs. McAuley and Wiseman, between whom the contest will be.

Polling takes place on March 2nd.

Havelock School Board met on the 20th Feb. in the school room at 7 p.m., all the members present. Minutes of previous meeting read and approved. The account of S. S. Copp, that John Maidens get the articles for caretaker and present account at next meeting.—Carried. Moved by J. Maidens, seconded by B. McAllister, that the secretary advise the teacher to put the maps on the partition across the room.—Carried. Moved by J. Maidens, seconded by A. Copp, that the sec.-treasurer sign the agreements of the teachers.—Carried. Moved by J. Maidens, seconded by B. McAllister that the secretary procure a copy of the revised school manual for this school board. Moved by J. Maidens, seconded by H. Copp, that we as trustees, on seeing any stray children running on the streets, ascertain who they belong to and notify the secretary to write the parents to see that their children attend school or the trustees will take steps to have them attend school as provided by law. Carried. Moved by A. Copp, seconded by D. McIntyre, that the secretary send the minutes of this school board meeting to the Peterborough EXAMINER for publication. Moved by B. McAllister, seconded by J. Maidens, that we adjourn to a call of the chairman. Carried. The meeting then adjourned.

A paragraph referring to the reeveship contest was received with this report, but as the reeveship election will be practically over before this issue of the EXAMINER reaches Havelock readers, it will be unnecessary to publish it.

WILL OUR PEOPLE

Take the Advice of Medical Experts?

LET US PREPARE

For Any Cholera Invasion!

THE PLAGUE MAY APPEAR

Early Next Summer!

Medical experts in every civilised country loudly proclaim, that cleanliness and sound physical health are necessary to successfully resist the deadly onslaught of a cholera invasion.

Many close observers believe that cholera will appear in Canada during the coming summer. What are we doing for our protection? True, our authorities in some large cities are already on the move, and are trying to perfect quarantine arrangements.

The great work, however, mainly depends on individual effort. The best efforts for escaping cholera must be made in the home. Those who are the first attacked are the weak, run down, sickly and diseased. All who are physically unsound fall quickly before a cholera scourge.

Men and women are reminded that there is no time to be lost. Action must be prompt, decided and careful. All doubtful and untried remedies should be avoided. In view of critical times, one special and well tried health restorer is strongly recommended: we refer to Paine's Celery Compound—a medicine that has never failed in restoring the weak, frail, debilitated and suffering. The use of Paine's Celery Compound means the building up of broken down and shattered constitutions, brought on generally by overwork, sleeplessness, nervousness, dyspepsia and rheumatism. There is nothing else known to medical science that will put the health of men and women in more perfect condition, than this great remedy, Paine's Celery Compound. In every respect it is the medicine for resisting coming dangers.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR COLUMN.

"FOR CHRIST AND THE CHURCH."

[All communications intended for this column must be marked "Christian Endeavour" and sent to Box 113, Peterborough, not later than Friday previous to date of issue.]

OPEN THOU OUR EYES.

And He drew near and talked with them,
But they perceived Him not;
And mourn'd, unconcious of that light,
The gloom, the darkness, and the night,
That wrapt His burial spot.

Wearied with doubt, perplex'd and sad,
They knew, nor help, nor guide,
While He who bore the secret key
To open every mystery,
Unknown was by their side.

Thus often when we feel alone,
No help nor comfort near,
'Tis only that our eyes are dim;
Doubting and sad, we see not Him
Who waiteth still to hear.

"The darkness gathers overhead,
The moon will never come."
Did we but raise our downcast eyes,
In the wide-flushing eastern skies
Appear the glowing sun.

In all our daily joys and griefs
In daily work and rest,
To those who seek Him, Christ is near,
Our bliss to calm, to soothe our care,
In leaning on His breast.

Open our eyes, O Lord, we pray,
To see our way, our guide;
That by the path that here we tread,
We, following on, may still be led
In thy light to abide.

FOR CHRIST AND THE CHURCH.

Topic for week beginning March 5th: The Lord's Day. How shall we keep it?—Neh xiii, 22; Matt. xii, 8-13.

Questions on Sabbath keeping:

Which is the greater danger to-day, too careful or too lax observance of the Sabbath?

What is proper Sabbath reading?

What is the physiological argument for a Sabbath?

How may we abuse the freedom in regard to the Sabbath that Christ gave us?

How are we to make our Sabbath restful?

How does hard work on Sunday for religious purposes rest one?

What are some Sabbath occupations usually called necessary that are really unnecessary?

What is the best way to bring about a better observance of the Sabbath?

Wherein is the harm of Sunday newspapers?

Why is Sabbath keeping of so much importance to the Christian life?

How about letter writing on Sunday?

How about taking walks on Sunday?

—GOLDEN RULE.

For the cultivation of this high spirit (reverent regard for Jehovah) a holy day is needed. A soul-rest is provided. A Sabbath is given. Remember it, keep it holy. So shall the name of God become more dear; he only shall fill the soul. No other God will be sought or trusted. "The secret of the Lord is with them that fear Him."

DAILY READINGS.

First Day—"God's command," Exod. 20, 8-11.
Second Day—"Christ's words," Luke 6, 1-10.
Third Day—"Christ's custom," Luke 4, 16-22.
Fourth Day—"Reward for keeping the Sabbath," Isa. 56, 1-7.
Fifth Day—"Call the Sabbath a delight," Isa. 58, 13-14.
Sixth Day—"Hallow the Sabbath day," Jer. 17, 21-27.
Seventh Day—"The Lord's day. How shall we keep it?" Neh. 13, 22; Matt. 12, 8-13.

COUNTY WORK.

On Sunday evening last, Feb. 26th, a number of Christian Endeavour workers, representing different societies throughout town and county, left Peterborough about six o'clock and drove to Springville Presbyterian church, where a special C. E. meeting was held. Mr. R. A. Ward, Keene, occupied the chair, and after opening exercises of singing, prayer and Scripture reading by Mr. H. P. Kennedy, Miss Barker, Peterborough, sang a solo in pleasing voice, after which the topic of the evening, "Joy in God's Service and in His House," was introduced by Mr. A. J. Hamilton, president Peterborough Local Union. Mr. Hamilton's words to the young men were earnest and stirring. Following Mr. Hamilton, Mr. M. W. Matchett, Miss Quinn, Miss Barker, each spoke for a short time, testifying to the joy they had found in worshipping and serving God.

Mr. Matchett then followed in a brief but earnest appeal to associate members. After singing, a consecration service was conducted by Miss Kennedy. In this service a number took part testifying to their knowledge of the saving power of Jesus. Rev. Mr. Bennett, Springville, spoke a few words of encouragement and gratitude to the workers. The meeting throughout was interesting and impressive, and we pray that blessed results may follow.

KEENE, Feb. 15th, 1893.

A junior Christian Endeavour Society was organized in this village on January 27th, with six active and two trial members. Three more active and seven more trial members have since been added and now, Feb. 15th, we have a membership of eighteen. We have in the society, lookout, prayer meeting and sunshine committees.

For study during the next six months—it has been decided that, in addition to the prayer meeting topics, we take up week by week the names of a certain number of the books of the Bible with their authors, also the beatitudes.

To the Peterborough Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN,—If there is any medicine in the world that I pin my faith to it is Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. In my business I have to stand on my feet a good deal. About a year ago my back began to give out, weakening pains set in across my kidneys, I felt tired all the time and could hardly stand up to my work. I began to lose strength and at last had to give up work altogether. A customer advised me to try your cure which I did. Before half the bottle was used, I felt the pains and weakness leaving me and to-day I enjoy good health and can bear fatigue and work all right. One bottle was all I used.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the bore" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently assertedby Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine forms of insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

All members of the company as well as Miss Botsford have now warm words of praise. An exchange says:—"Mr. Lythgoe charmed the audience, by first singing in his rich baritone voice the well known "Les Rameanse," as soul stirring a song as one ever hears. Every piece on the programme was repeatedly applauded by the large and appreciative audience, all of whom throughly enjoyed the excellent programme rendered. The music, although not too classic, did not diverge into the nothingness that we hear so much of these days" Tickets 50 and 25 cents. Plan now open at Sailsbury's bookstore.

WEST PETERBORO' FARMERS.

THE NORTH SMITH AGRICULTURISTS AWAKE.

Interesting Institute Meeting at Selwyn—Dairy Subjects Thoroughly Discussed.

A very largely attended meeting of the West Riding Farmers' Institute on Tuesday assembled in the Temperance Hall, Selwyn. Mr. H. C. Garbutt, president, presided, and introduced the several speakers. He made a few remarks respecting the benefit of membership in the Farmers' Institute, and also exhibited a sheaf of Ontario Agricultural College and Experimental Farm bulletins to show what information he had secured for the small membership fee of 25 cents.

Hon Charles Drury, ex-Minister of Agriculture, endorsed the remarks of the chairman, and added that Institutes first originated in the United States. The benefit of the farmers would be in proportion to the extent they availed themselves of the information the Minister of Agriculture placed within their reach. He (the speaker) had taken an active part in organizing granges, which were the origin of the Institutes. He spoke also of the educative effect upon the farmers of their uniting together in Farmers' Institutes. Farmers should not allow the visitors to monopolize the meetings, but should take an active part in the discussion themselves. The exchange of information each derived from his experience would add to the common stock.

THE DAIRY COW.

Mr. Yuill, of Carleton Place, dealt with the care of the dairy cow. As a practical farmer, he bore testimony to the benefits to be derived from exchange of information with other farmers. The care of the dairy cow should begin with the calf. The calf should not be allowed to slug, but should be kept within reach of the cow for a few days. For setting milk the plain can, 8x20 inches, was the best. It was easily kept clean, which was an all important matter in dairy operations. To insure profit the dairy cow should have the best of care. The speaker kept his cattle stalled for six months, only letting them out on fine days. He fed chiefly beaver hay, which he thought was a good ration with ensilage. He found the best way to handle manure was to put it out in the winter. Regular milking only gave the best results. Feed twice a day always the same ration. For a ration of 10 lbs, 4 lbs. of barley meal, 8 lbs. of peas, oats and barley, 20 lbs. of mangolds at a cost of 8½ cents, a pound of butter resulted worth 25 cents per pound. His average for a year was $56 worth of butter from cow including the raising of 20 calves worth from $50 to $70, at 8 or 9 months of age. He kept thoroughbred Ayrshires. His silo was 18x20 and 16 feet high—it should not be less than 20 feet high, to be the best.

Prof. Whitton spoke of the dairy cow, her requirements and capabilities. On a 40 acre farm eight cows cost 12½c. per day. The increased cost of feeding always paid. The total profit for one season for nine cows was $527.57—$59 per cow, after paying rent of pasture and all.

Mr. J. B. McEwen, superintendent of the experimental butter station at Welman's Corners, spoke of paying for milk according to quality. He began by pointing out that extra feeding improved the quantity but not the quality of milk. He gave results of several tests with the Babcock tester, which did not show a variation of one per cent. in a year. He used the Babcock tester belonging to the North Smith Dairy Company, and tested two samples of milk which had been watered, one more than the other, and the test showed the difference very exactly.

At the close of the afternoon session the ladies provided a bountiful spread which was heartily enjoyed.

THE EVENING SESSION

was presided over by Mr. M. E. Sanderson, president of the North Smith Dairy Company, to whom the larger share of the credit of holding the meeting at Selwyn and its success were due.

Hon. Charles Drury was glad to see so large and appreciative an audience. He spoke on the subject of "Farming as an occupation,"—to show some of the bright sides of it—for the speaker admitted that there were disadvantages. He would be the last one to quarrel with a bright young farmer's son seeking a professional life, for some of the brightest professional men of to-day were farmer's sons. Yet he urged young men to be cautious in leaving the farm for a profession for which they were unfitted. The bright sides of farm life were its independence as contrasted with the professions; the farming profession was an honourable calling and far above the opinion of those who spoke of the farmer with contempt. No right thinking young farmer should for a moment consider his calling less honourable than that of a bank clerk or a tape measurer in town. The farmers life afforded constant employment, a great advantage contrasted with the countless city classes where employment was uncertain, and idleness, positive suffering. The father of a farmer's son was a far better taskmaster than he would find in the employment of a factory in a city or town. He graphically contrasted the struggles of thousands of young men in cities, with the independence plenty and comfort of the farm. Farming was a healthy profession and there was little of the worry, struggle and mental strain that wore out the business men before half their days were told. The inestimable blessings of health, which the farmer enjoyed should outweigh the glittering attractions of city life. The farm with independence and comparative leisure afforded chances for the best quality of mental culture, which hardly any other profession enjoyed.

A vocal duet "Sweet Genevieve" was very enjoyably presented by Misses McKee and Pearson.

Mr. Yuill continued the subject dealt with by Hon. Mr. Drury in the afternoon session.

Mr. McEwan spoke on the subject, "Will winter butter making on the co-operative system pay?" He pointed out that Ontario had taken a front place as a cheese producing country, the export last year amounting to thirteen millions of dollars. The object of the four experimental winter butter stations maintained in Ontario under the direction of the Dominion Dairy Commissioner, Prof. Robertson, was to advance the object of making winter dairying profitable, an event which would revolutionize farming operations. Ensilage was essential to the success of winter dairying. The experimental stations were established to show that winter butter making could be made to pay. Cows that started milking early in the fall would furnish a greater quantity of milk. Winter dairying being carried on when labour was cheaper, was another point in its favour. In selling butter practically no manurial value was taken from the farm. With the improvement in quality, our butter, while the creamery system would create the demand for Canadian butter in England, would be equal to the demand for cheese. The better the butter the better the demand. He described the system practised at Wellman's Corner's. The Government put in the plant and made the cream supplied into butter for 3½c. By the separation system practically every particle of butter fat was got out of the milk. Milk treated in large quantities admitted of it being handled under the best conditions to secure the best results. The result was that butter was made at a profit of 20c. per pound. He closed by urging upon farmers the importance of practically considering the subject of winter butter making.

A bright and cheery quintette, "Come Where the Lillies Bloom," was admirably sung by Misses Plewett and Isbister, Mrs. J. H. Sanderson, and Messrs. McKee and Fitzgerald.

THE SILO AND WINTER DAIRYING.

Prof. Whitton treated of the silo and its relation to winter dairying—describing it as a gold mine. Ontario was the best dairying country under the sun. The speaker's silo (for a 40 acre farm) cost him $50, and a silo can be built to hold 180 tons for $150 to $200. According to his experience a silo did not require to be frost proof entirely—it might be cheaply constructed. A silo would pay for itself about every year. He found that the ensilage grown from an acre of land would yeild as much milk as fifteen acres of pasture. He believed winter dairying paid better than summer. He urged farmers not to get the creamery craze and overdo the business by starting too many factories. In answer to Mr. C. Quinn the speaker said his $40 silo fed 8 cows and 25 head of stock.

Mr. J. C. Galvin pointed out that there were too many cheese factories in this township—six, when there should be only three—there was too much expense to make the profit what it should be and this mistake should be avoided in the creamery business.

Mr. Fanning sang a solo excellently to the accompaniment of Miss Kearney.

Mr. Sanderson said the question of a butter factory for this section impressed him as a most important one. He hoped to see a factory established in North Smith, and had in company with Mr. Braden visited the factory at Wellman's Corners, and was impressed with the fact that we in this section were pursuing a system that did not give the best results. At this visit he learned that farmers in that neighbourhood had made with winter dairying $67 per cow. He spoke of the difficulty of establishing cheese factories; then, prejudice and custom were in the way of starting a winter butter factory. The cheese company had paid six per cent. in its investment. He had hopes that a winter butter factory would soon be established, for Smith could do as much as Wellman's Corners. If this part of Smith did not succeed, in establishing such a factory, he would co-operate with any other place in the neighbourhood. He did not anticipate any difficulty in raising funds, for Messrs. Stratton and Stevenson, of Peterborough, had offered to take ⅓ of the stock, and others were also ready to invest. At any rate a meeting to be held at no distant date would decide.

Mr. Yuill said he had visited two or three farmers' institutes, where they were running winter dairying successfully in sections like this where there were too many cheese factories, of which two or three had been federated into a successful butter factory.

Mr. Whitton spoke strongly of the benefit of winter dairying—it was the coming business.

Mr. Yuill said that butter or cream was the only farm product that did not rob it of manurial value. He spoke briefly on "What shall we teach our boys and girls?" He advised farmers to send at least one of the boys to the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Boys were in a healthy moral atmosphere there, and mothers need have no fear for their boys. The speaker in a speech brimming with Ayrshire wit, kept the mouths of his hearers open with laughter, ready to swallow the "chunks" of wisdom, sugar coated with funny stories illustrative of the sound and sensible advice he gave to parents on the subject of training their sons and daughters.

Votes of thanks were tendered to the deputation of the Farmers' Institute for giving Selwyn this meeting, the singers and to the ladies, who provided the supper.

The meeting closed with the hearty singing of the National Anthem.

THE FORESTERS' ANNIVERSARY

Celebrated Last Night—A Large Assembly and a Capital Programme.

The fourteenth anniversary of Court Peterborough, No. 29, Canadian Order of Foresters, was celebrated in their spacious hall on Simcoe street last night. A choice tea was served in the lodge dining room from 6 to 8 o'clock, and partaken of by many. The rooms of the Foresters were prettily decorated for the auspicious occasion, and everything passed off as successfully and pleasantly as the most sanguine could have desired. The hall was well filled by a company of some 400 Foresters and their friends, and that they thoroughly enjoyed themselves goes without saying. Bro. W. J. Hooper, C. R., made a capable chairman, and kept all in good humor. At the outset he called upon Bro. Dr. Rose P. C.R., to give a short history of Court Peterborough, and the progress Forestry had made in Peterborough during the past fourteen years. Bro. Rose stated that Court Peterborough was established just fourteen years ago on Thursday night, February 27th, with 21 charter members. To-day they had no less than 250 members and enjoyed the proud distinction of having the largest membership of any court in the Dominion. They paid out $1,000 yearly in sick and relief benefits and during the past 14 years have paid out some $16,000 to widows and orphans which was a creditable showing. There had been paid out some $25,000 in the last 14 years to members throughout the town and county. Two other courts had been organized since 1879, viz., Courts Little John and Langton, both having a good average membership. The prospects for Court Peterborough and Forestry in Peterborough were never brighter, all the lodges being in a flourishing condition. The following programme was pleasantly executed, all the numbers being artistically rendered and deservedly applauded. To individualize would be unjust for all had a claim upon the honors accorded the performers by the delighted audience.

Mr. Armstrong and Miss Baker were the talented accompanists of the evening. After the rendition of the programme, the older and sedater persons wended their way home, while the younger element indulged in dancing until an early hour this morning, and enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The Foresters of Court Peterborough are to be congratulated on the signal success of their fourteenth anniversary celebration.

TO STOP THE PROGRESS of Consumption, you will find but one guaranteed remedy — Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. In advanced cases, it brings comfort and relief; if you haven't delayed too long, it will certainly cure. It doesn't claim too much. It won't make new lungs—nothing can; but it will make diseased ones sound and healthy, when everything else has failed.

The scrofulous affection of the lungs that's caused Consumption, like every other form of Scrofula, and every blood-taint and disorder, yields to the "Discovery." It is the most effective blood-cleanser, strength-restorer, and flesh-builder known to medical science. In all Bronchial, Throat and Lung Affections, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

A perfect and permanent cure for your Catarrh — or $500 in cash. This is promised by the proprietors of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

FOR THIN ARMS.

A Dinner Dress That Makes Them Bewitching.

Here is a dinner dress of buttercup gold crepe, trimmed with a ruche of mousseline de soie to match, upon which are laid thin flakes of marabout. The sash and bows are of buttercup satin ribbon. Such a costume is suitable for a dark beauty, but any shade can be substituted for the one described. The sleeves of this dress will be an inovation gladly welcomed by those skinny armed people to whom the usual mode of evening dress is so very becoming.

The idea embodied in the Empire styles of emphasizing the lines of the bust has been seized upon by the girl who isn't going to sacrifice her pretty waist line to do it, either. She wears a sort of Zonave jacket that is cut short under the arms and across the back. This jacket is of velvet, say bright green. It is low-necked, the edge being turned away all around into a wide, full rever that swells out over the shoulders and turns back to the very edge of the jacket in front The sleeves are simply too huge puffs, and they reach to the elbows. The jacket, of course, does not meet in front, but is open over the closely fitting black bodice beneath. The closely fitting bodice outlines the round waist as mercilessly as ever any fashion permitted. About the hip a belt of the green velvet is drawn in folds. A big rosette is placed at the back almost reaching the edge of the jacket, and in the front comes to a point, more to outline the slenderness of the girl who wears it. The skirt is black net over silk, not full, but flat and fastened down. It sets ont prettily at the back and below the hips is not too tight even in front. At the edge is a ruching of the velvet. The black bodice may be cut out about the neck. The whole makes a beautiful reception dress. I need not point out that the edge of green on the skirt, and the jacket of velvet may have rejuvenated a last year's black dress, or, it may make a charming change in a new black dress. Let me advise you to go in for some of these jackets.

FLORETTE.

Why is a Serpents, Etc.

A neat illustration of the value of sagacious advertising was given at the Portland Young Men's Christian association meeting on Sunday, when General Secretary McDonald stated that he had some curiosity to know what method of advertising reached the most people. He had circulated thousands of little dodgers, giving notice of the meeting, and asked those who had seen them and had been moved to come through that means to rise. The hall was packed as full as it could hold, and of the entire number about fifteen arose. Then Mr. McDonald asked all who had read the notices in the newspapers and had been influenced by them to rise, and the crowd rose in a body.

A Splendid Art Gallery.

The Corcoran art gallery, in Washington is to be greatly enlarged. The institution long since outgrew its present accommodations. The trustees have recently purchased a piece of ground diagonally opposite the state department, at Seventeenth street and New York avenue, upon which they will erect a building with a frontage of 281 feet on Seventeenth street, 170 feet on New York avenue and 150 feet on E street. When finished the addition will represent an outlay of $1,000,000, exclusive of the ground, which cost about $130,000.

Gray is Discharged.

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—Harry C. Gray, the Upper Canada College pupil who was arrested a week ago for robbing his travelling companions, E. N. Pugh and George Stacey, was discharged by Justice Lyon yesterday. Gray's father, who is a wealthy manufacturer in New York, was in court and will take his son home with him. Pugh and Stacey asked the Justice to discharge Gray, as he was drunk when he took the money and they did not believe he meant to rob them.

A mine Accident.

COALTON, Ohio, Feb. 27. — Saturday evening an accident occurred in the Tom Corwin coal mines here by which three men lost their lives. Sam Brown, his son Sidney and George Brown were being hoisted to the top of the cage. Near the surface the cage tipped and the three men were hurled to the bottom of the shaft, a distance of 125 feet. All were instantly killed. Two other men coming up at the time escaped death by clinging to the bars of the cage.

"I've tried all sorts of blood purifiers," said an old lady to a "cutter," "and you can't persuade me that any other Sarsaparilla is as good as Ayer's." There's where she had him. She knew that Ayer's was the best—and so did he, but it paid him better to sell a cheaper brand.

Cures Others

Will cure You, is a true statement of the action of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, when taken for diseases originating in impure blood; but, while this assertion is true of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, as thousands can attest, it cannot be truthfully applied to other preparations, which unprincipled dealers will recommend, and try to impose upon you, as "just as good as Ayer's." Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's only, if you need a blood-purifier and would be benefited permanently. This medicine, for nearly fifty years, has enjoyed a reputation, and made a record for cures, that has never been equalled by other preparations. AYER'S Sarsaparilla eradicates the taint of hereditary scrofula and other blood diseases from the system, and it has, deservedly, the confidence of the people.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this, my body was covered with pimply eruptions. The remedies prescribed failed to help me. I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and, in a short time, the pains ceased and the pimples disappeared. I advise every young man or woman, in case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. L. Jarmann, 33 William st., New York City.

THE APIARY.

The Formation of Comb—How to Regulate the Cells.

I have been interrupted in the studies of the physiology of the honey bee by travelling and a severe illness, but will again resume, says Mrs. L. Harrison in the Orange Judd Farmer. When a swarm of bees are hived, they immediately begin to build what is called comb, which they use as cradles for their young, and as a storehouse for provisions. Bees usually begin to build comb from the highest point in their hives downwards; if a break occurs in repairing it and they build upward, the comb is very irregular. Wax is not chemically the fat of bees, as it is sometimes called, but is produced when food is abundant and the bees not especially active. It is secreted in four small pouches on each side of the abdomen of a worker bee. The scales of wax are very delicate and of an irregular pentagonal (five-sided) shape and so thin and light, that one hundred of them weigh scarcely as much as a kernel of wheat. Building comb and gathering honey go on simultaneously, and when honey fails, comb building ceases until there is another flow.

HONEY COMB WITH QUEEN CELL.

[Section of comb placed horizontally with queen cell attached to the side. Also bee development from egg.]

When bees are secreting wax they hang in chains with the fore feet of one, holding to the hind feet of the bee above, and present an interesting spectacle. No bee alone builds a cell. One takes a scale of wax in its mandibles (jaws), puts it in place, gives it a pinch. Another gives it a pinch or polishes it. This is repeated over and over again until the work is completed, the whole being the united efforts of many. They skip briskly about over the delicate comb, yet never break or mutilate it. The cells of a honey comb exhibit the greatest wisdom in construction, as they have the greatest capacity for strength, occupying at the same time the least space and consuming the least labor in building. The bottom of each cell is formed of three diamond-shaped pieces of wax, each one forming one-third of the base of three opposite cells. When the bottoms are completed, the queen deposits eggs, or honey is stored, walls being built as needed.

The cells in which queens are bred are large and hang with their mouths downward. It does not appear to make any difference if they are cut out, and placed in some other position. As they are usually built on the edge of the comb, it may be only to economize space. Unlike the cells of drones or workers, they are used but once. When the queen leaves, they are cut off and then resemble acorn cups. By counting these, the number of queens reared can thus be ascertained. The cells of the drone are larger than those of the worker. Bees display wonderful sagacity, in changing from one sized cell to another, by building a set of intermediate ones. While they are secreting wax, they need pollen as well as honey, as it is always found in the stomach of wax producing workers, and they never build comb so rapidly as when they have free access to it. Since the introduction of comb foundation, the kind of cells built can in a measure be controlled. If the frames are filled with worker foundation, the cells will be of worker size. It the queen is young and prolific, they may not care for drone cells; if she is old, they will fill all empty space with them. A colony is most profitable, which does not rear a lot of useless consumers. Curtailing the rearing of drones, also lessens to a considerable extent the desire of bees to swarm.

A Foolish Garden Practice.

It is a foolish practice to plant the seeds of cucumbers, melons and other vegetables which suffer easily from drouth upon hills or elevations. Better make a drill or furrow which will permit of planting them below rather than above the level. They will retain moisture better in that way, and can be more easily irrigated, if you desire.

An Essential.

An abundance of bedding is essential in winter dairying. It has two purposes—to promote cleanliness, and to increase the manure pile. A filthy stable, reeking with foul odors, will not give its owner a reputation for cleanliness, and an unclean dairyman stands a poor chance for good prices, and does not deserve them. Nastiness is not necessary.

More Valuable Than Diamonds.

Cod liver oil from the cod fish when combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda, as in "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," will build up the cellular tissues and create new blood. This is just what consumptive patients need. It has cured thousands of people who would otherwise have been at this time occupying narrow spaces in the graveyards of our country. Miller's Emulsion is worth a trial. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all drug stores.

From the Far North.

In northern climates people are very subject to colds, but the natural remedy is also produced in the same climate. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchits and all throat and lung troubles. Price 25c. and 50c.

A Sensible Man.

Would use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. It is curing more cases of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup and all Throat and Lung Troubles, than any other medicine. The proprietor has authorized any druggist to give you a Sample Bottle FREE to convince you of the merit of this great remedy. Large bottles 50c. and $1.

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, aided by the use of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

Bad Blood Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters for bad blood and find it, without exception, the best purifying tonic in use. A short time ago two very large and painful boils came on the back of my neck, B.B.B. completely drove them away.

STATUTE LABOR.

A Review of the Situation by a Provincial Land Surveyor.

In a great many townships in Ontario at the last municipal election the people were asked to vote upon a by-law for the commutation of statute labor, and the result of the balloting was surprising, as in almost every instance the by-law was defeated, the principal argument being that the farmers wished to perform the labor of building and maintaining the public roads themselves, under the supervision of one of their number.

It is difficult to understand why the people of to-day are so anxious to cling to a system which is but a relic of feudal and slavery days.

At the time when the country was new and the people were not in a position to pay money tax for building roads, it is quite easy to understand their reason for adopting the statute labor system as they did the system of making bees for chopping out a piece of forest or clearing up a fallow, but, as their financial position improved, they realized the fact that it was not profitable to spend days and possibly weeks of their time to repay by day's work the time put in for them by men whose services were little better than useless, and as time went on the people became aroused to this fact, as well as to the fact that one-half the value of their time in money paid to good men would secure to them the same amount of work, performed in a better manner. In my opinion, the statute labor system is one that should be as readily and perfectly discarded as the old system of invited labor. In the same way, statute labor is unfair because it recompenses inferior hands the same as those who are good workers: it places all classes of workers on the same basis. The system compels each man to work on the public roads for so many days, and the actual cost of maintenance is far greater than under any other system, because, though the township pays no money to maintain the public roads, their maintenance costs its citizens an enormous amount of labor, which represents so much money to them. Many townships employing the system complained of, have the worst maintained public roads to be found anywhere. The system has no points in its favor and should be abolished wherever in use.

In the United States seven states and one territory only employ this system entirely in maintaining their public roads. These are: Alabama, North Carolina, Georgia, South Carolina, Mississippi, Louisiana, Kentucky, and New Mexico Territory—all southern states—who still cling to their slavery notions, and, according to reports, in no state which has adopted the taxation system would they for a moment think of returning to statute labor.

Who would think of using this plan in large cities! Economy requires that the highways of cities be maintained by money taxation and the money expended in the most systematic and economic manner possible. The labor system would be too cumbersome for cities. The laborers could not be properly directed. The system is altogether impracticable.

The payment of taxes in labor is not profitable, in that taxpayers thereby shirk their duties, and responsibilities to such an extent that the roads suffer from neglect and mismanagement. By some, the greater part of their time is spent in telling yarns, while others, who are more conscientious, do the work that is accomplished. It allows property owners to impose on their township by substituting inferior hands, while they draw the same compensation for them as those receive who are able-bodied workers. In this respect it is unfair to those who possess no property. Such transient labor cannot be as systematically directed as can the labor under a contractor who expects so much work from his men, and sees that they accomplish it.

It is estimated that in the State of Pennsylvania $200,000,000 have been spent during the last fifty years in the maintenance of the public road system. This would be at the rate of $4,000,000 per year. This has certainly been an enormous expense. The average cost to maintain one mile of Macadam road is $10 per year while ordinary dirt roads cost from $30 to $90 per year for each mile. If $1,000,000 or $1,500,000 could be appropriated annually by the state and divided among the counties, it would prove of great value to the rural districts, and the advantages derived from improvements carried out in this manner would be beyond estimation. Such an outlay of money would repay itself many fold in a few years.

In every municipality there are a number of old men in poor circumstances who are not able to do heavy work, but whose services would be valuable in breaking stone, and looking after new work until the gravel had packed sufficiently to do away with the further danger of spreading. After municipalities abolish statute labor and begin road making on an improved and uniform plan, they will find that the expense of road machines, heavy road rollers, etc., will not increase the taxes, and that these machines will be a necessity. The purchase of road machines is a step in the right direction and is economical, one of them properly handled will do more work in a better manner in one day than would be done in twenty days under the statute labor system.—A. W. Campbell, P. L. S., C.E., A. M., C. S., C. E., in The Municipal World

Ex-Mayor Robert Bowie, Brockville, Ont., says:—"I used Nasal Balm for a bad case of catarrh, and it cured me after having ineffectually tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head. There is no case of cold in the head or catarrh that will not yield to Nasal Balm. Try it. All dealers at 50c. and $1 a bottle, or by mail, post paid. G. T. Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Valuable Hint.

When you are attacked by cough or cold do not delay but commence at once to use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. This old standard remedy removes all irritation, loosens the phlegm, and heals the mucous surfaces, curing coughs and colds of all kinds.

Rough Skin.

Caused by cold weather, is made perfectly smooth by one application of Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses. Try it. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal.

Ladies appreciate Anti-Dandruff from the fact that it not only thoroughly removes Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its orignal color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing being used. Clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

A Great Surprise.

Is in store for all who use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the great guaranteed remedy. Would you believe that it is sold on its merits and that any druggist is authorized by the proprietor of this wonderful remedy to give you a sample bottle free? It never fails to cure acute or chronic coughs. All druggists sell Kemp's Balsam. Large Bottles 50c. and $1.

As a pick-me-up after excessive exertion or exposure, Mulburn's Beef, Iron and Wine is grateful and comforting.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

GLADSTONE HAS NO LIKING FOR BI-METALLISM.

He Says the United States Took the Initiative and Must Offer a Tangible Scheme Before He Would Adopt a Double Standard of Currency.

LONDON, March 1.—Sir Henry Meysey-Thompson, Liberal-Unionist member for North Handsworth, Staffordshire, moved in the House of Commons yesterday that the British Government should use its influence to bring about a reassembling of the International Monetary Conference with the object of finding a remedy for evils attendant upon the divergence of values between gold and silver.

Sir Henry argued that mono-metallism was a national misfortune and that a fixed bi-metallic ratio was the sole remedy for existing difficulties growing out of the currency question.

Mr. Samuel Montague, Liberal member for Whitechapel and well-known as a member of the banking house of Samuel Montague & Company, earnestly supported Sir Henry's motion and argued in favor of bi-metallism.

Other bi metallists also addressed the House in behalf of the proposition.

Mr. Gladstone, in reply, reminded the House that the International Monetary Conference met at the initiative of the United States, and it would be an unprecedented proceeding now to deprive America of the initiative. England had followed the Brussels discussion with more or less sympathy, and had a right to expect from the United States a declaration as to what step that country proposed to take next. In the opinion of the Government no plan yet proposed showed how it was possible to change the standard of value of Great Britain. [Hear, hear.] It would place the Government in a ridiculous position if it should assume the initiative in reopening the conference, having nothing to recommend for discussion.

Continuing, Mr. Gladstone said that England was not alone among civilised nations in her determination to adhere to her present monetary system. Seven other powers, without the slightest reference to England, had signified their intention not to change their currency. Half of the powers represented at the conference had shown that they leaned towards bi-metallism, but as yet they had not given the most shadowy indication of what change they were prepared to make.

In conclusion, Mr. Gladstone made an elaborate exposition of the benefits of mono-metallism and the dangers of bi-metallism.

Mr. Chaplin, President of the Board of Agriculture under the last Salisbury administration, supported the motion of Sir Henry Meysey-Thompson. At the Brussels conference he said Bertram Currie (British delegate) persistently and deliberately did everything in his power to defeat the objects of the meeting.

Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, Chancellor of the Exchequer, replied to Mr. Chaplin's charge [illegible] British delegate, he said, [illegible] the only ones to support the American resolution to have [illegible] silver. MONTREAL, March 1.—There is a great flutter among the church circles over the recent performance of "The Gondoliers" by an amateur opera company. Members from nearly all the choirs in the city sang in the opera, and this coming immediately after the strong denunciation of theatres by the Protestant Ministerial Association has caused a good deal of curiosity to know what the different churches will do.

At the prayer meeting in one of the Presbyterian churches prayers were offered up for one of the leading lady singers and "her companions in sin," as they were called, and it is stated one of the Methodist churches has requested the resignation of a lady member because she sang in "The Gondoliers." The performance itself was a great serial and operatic success.

Riot in Pennsylvania.

MONOGAHELA CITY, Pa., March 1.—There was a riot yesterday at the Cincinnati mines, where about 100 colored miners are working at reduced rates, and one was probably fatally injured. The trouble was started by the colored miners indulging freely in drink.

Thomas Russell threw a brick at the wife of a negro miner named William Love, which struck her on the top of the head.

Her husband interfered and Russell smashed him with a brick, cutting a bad gash in his head. Love fired a revolver at Russell, but missed him. Russell picked up a hatchet and struck Love with it, making a probably fatal wound. More trouble is anticipated.

The Suggestion Will Go Unheeded.

PARIS, March 1.—M. Thiebaut lectured to an immense audience in the Cirque d'Ete on the Panama Canal. The speaker urged that the French Government should make an annual grant of from five to ten million francs for operations on the canal until the work should be completed. The audience, which included many members of the Panama Committee, applauded with great enthusiasm Thiebaut's suggestion.

Tariff Reduction.

CITY OF MEXICO, March 1.—An official decree has been issued by President Diaz making several important reductions in the tariff on horses, hogs, cloths, tobacco, soap not perfumed, liquor, drugs, seeds, cottons, lace and fibre.

PATRONS OF INDUSTRY.

The Crushing of the Salt Combine Asked and Reduction on Binder Twine.

TORONTO, March 1.—The second annual meeting of the Patrons of Industry convened at the St. Lawrence Hall yesterday afternoon, with President C. A. Mallory of Warkworth in the chair. Delegates from all the county lodges throughout the province, and several from the Provice of Quebec, were present. The President congratulated the society on its growth and said that it had assumed large proportions. Among other things the address said: "The true aims of this association are to build, not palaces, but men; to exalt not titled stations, but general humanity; to dignify not idle repose, but assiduous industry; to elevate not the few, but the many." In the course of the year over 600 subordinate associations have been added. It says that the English portion of Quebec is nearly all organized and that the French portion is being canvassed with that view. Reference was made to the removal of the high duty on binder twine, and as the result of the order's petitions. Credit was also taken to the order for crushing the salt monopoly.

Dominion Grangers.

TORONTO, March 1.—The 18th annual session of the Dominion Order of Grangers commenced at the Albion Hotel in this city yesterday. The chief business of the day was the reading of the president's address. Some 50 delegates from different lodges throughout the province were in attendance. President H. F. Hepinstall of the county of Huron presided. His address dealt with a number of subjects of interest to the order, such as the condition of farm products and most of which would seem to be in a healthy condition. Party government was denounced, annexation termed a "clap-trap," independence a dream; and it was further pointed out the country is over-governed and would hail with delight any feasible scheme that would reduce the burdens.

Fire in New York.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Four alarms were sounded at 6 o'clock yesterday morning for a fire in Munro's publishing establishment, an 8-story brick building at No. 22 Vandester-street. The damage will reach $100,000.

Rippey May Live.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—Rippey, Mackay's assailant, was still alive and in a somewhat improved condition last night.

Another Brewery Combine.

NEW YORK, March 1.—An evening paper states upon the authority of Lawyer Samuel Untermeyer that another mammoth brewery trust is being formed in this city and Detroit. It will include 30 breweries, mainly in the States of Michigan and Ohio, and will represent property to the value of $20,000,000.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

TWO DIVISIONS ON BINDER TWINE AND CORN.

And These Articles Will Not Be Placed on the Free List—Mr. Temple Votes Four Times on One Division and Creates Considerable Amusement.

OTTAWA, March 2.—Almost the only topics of conversation about the lobbies yesterday have been the closing the ten-day budget debate.

In connection with this, the first vote in a full House since the formation of Sir John Thompson's Government, it may be interesting to give the composition of the House by provinces, there being two vacancies, caused by the death of Mr. Armstrong, Liberal, and Mr. Gordon, Conservative:

	Ministerial.	Opposition.
Ontario	60	32
Quebec	34	31
Nova Scotia	16	5
New Brunswick	14	2
Prince Edward Island	6	4
Manitoba	5	6
Northwest Territories	4	0
British Columbia	5	0
	140	78

Government majority, 67.

After last night's storm to-day's proceedings have been very mild and quiet, and a good deal of private business has been got through with.

Mr. Weldon moved the House into committee on his bill to disfranchise electors who have taken bribes.

Mr. Davies objected to the bill because it punished the poor devil who took a dollar for his vote but let off the man who bribed him.

Sir John Thompson approved the principle of the bill, which he considered good.

Mr. Jeannotte made quite an amusing speech in French in which he ridiculed the idea of not buying votes. Everybody did it, he said; he had done it himself. [Laughter.] In conclusion he moved that the committee rise, which motion on a count was carried 83 for to 30 against, which has the effect of killing the bill for this session unless the House should consent to have it restored to the order paper from which it was so unceremoniously dropped.

The debate on Mr. Mulock's motion to put binder twine on the free list was resumed, and after several members had spoken, a division was had and the motion lost, 51 for to 91 against. Mr. McCarthy was the only Conservative voting for the motion.

A division was then had on Mr. Pope's motion to place corn on the free list, which was lost 50 for, 90 against, Messrs. McCarthy, Pope, Temple (York, N.B.), and White (Shelburne), voted for the motion, and Messrs. Colter and MacGregor (Liberals) against it.

A great deal of amusement was caused by Mr. Temple accomplishing the extraordinary feat of voting no less than four times before he got his vote recorded the way he wanted it. When the speaker called for those in favor of the amendment to vote, the assistant clerk turned to the Government side, as usual, and Messrs. McCarthy, Pope, Temple and White voted yea. When the Speaker called for those opposed to the motion to vote the assistant clerk again turned to the Conservative side of the House and Sir John Thompson and other Conservatives voted. When it came to Mr. Temple's turn he unthinkingly nodded his head and was at once recorded as voting against the amendment, amid a very audible smile from a few in his neighborhood, who saw his mistake, although he maintained that he had not voted the second time. When the vote was stated by the Clerk of the House as being 50 for to 91 against he also called the Speaker's attention to something on the division list, and Mr. Speaker announced that the member for York, N.B., had voted both for and against the motion.

This caused great amusement which rather flurried Mr. Temple, who rose in his place, and when Mr. Speaker asked, "Does the hon. gentleman vote for or against the motion?" answered amid a perfect storm of laughter: "I vote against it." Warned by the continued laughter that he had made another mistake, he remained standing until the Speaker again asked how he wished his vote recorded, and he answered that he wished to vote for the motion, thus voting in favor of free corn as he wished to do, and also accomplishing what is believed to be the unprecedented feat in the history of the Dominion Parliament of voting twice each way on the same question.

The house has not had so much fun in a decade, and poor Mr. Temple was so covered with confusion that when the House adjourned a few minutes later he was forced by some of his friends to accompany them to the restaurant and "set 'em up for the boys."

In reply to Col. Denison, Hon. Mr. Patterson said that a petition had been received from the Canadian Institute of Toronto praying that steps be taken to preserve the old French stone magazine in Fort George, said to be of La Salle's time, and that it was the intention of the Government to repair the magazine.

Hon. Mr. Foster stated in reply to Mr. Guillet that there was 7½ per cent. of alloy in Canadian silver coinage and 10 per cent. in the American silver coinage. The Government was not aware that it was proposed to largely increase the coinage of American silver.

Sir John Thompson said in reply to Mr. McKay that the Minister of Trade and Commerce was considering the question of bringing into operation the Labor Bureau.

Mr. McMullen moved "That, in the opinion of this House it is desirable that the gross amount of the annual expenditure of the Dominion should be reduced and thereby the drain on the people's resources lightened as far as possible; and that the act providing for the superannuation of civil servants should be repealed and the system of superannuation abandoned."

He attacked the superannuation system, saying that during the last 13 years there had been paid out in connection with superannuation $1,786,074 more than had been paid into the fund. The act was grossly absurd and should be repealed.

Hon. Mr. Foster said that, as the whole question superannuation would come up on his bill dealing with that subject, he thought it would be best if the motion was withdrawn, and on Mr. Laurier saying the suggestion was a fair one Mr. McMullen withdrew the motion.

After recess the following private bills were read a second time and referred to committee:

To revive and amend the act to incorporate the Moncton and Prince Edward Island Railway and Ferry Company;

To incorporate the Grand Council of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association of Canada;

To revive and amend the act to incorporate the North Canadian Atlantic Railway and Steamship Company;

Respecting the Columbia and Kootenay Railway and Navigation Company.

The whole of to-day's session of the Senate was taken up by Hon. Mr. Boulton in discussing the following resolution: "That a select committee be appointed to enquire into the statistics of the country and its industrial progress, with the view of assimilating our commercial policy with that commercial policy that has increased the prosperity of the people of the United Kingdom, of Great Britain and Ireland in such a marked degree, with power to send for persons and papers and to employ shorthand writers."

The honorable gentleman had not concluded his remarks when the House rose.

Mr. McMillan of Vaudreuil just got in his vote in time on Sir Richard Cartwright's amendment, as at the sitting of the Supreme Court this morning his appeal against the decision of the trial court unseating him was dismissed with costs, and Vaudreuil is therefore again vacant.

At a meeting of the Railway Committee to-day a bill was reported ratifying an agreement between the corporation of Toronto and the Canadian Pacific and Grand Trunk Railways as to the settlement of the long outstanding question regarding the Esplanade.

WANTED HER HUSBAND DEAD.

A Wealthy Frenchwoman Anxious To Rid Herself of An Encumbrance.

PARIS, March 2.—An extraordinary case, which will no doubt rank as one of the most interesting causes celebres of the year, is now being investigated by the police authorities at Lorient. The case is to be tried by the Morbihan Court of Assizes.

Mme. Berthe Crouan is accused of attempting to cause the murder of her husband, Octave Crouan, against whom she was engaged in a suit of separation.

The supposition of a crime rests on the declarations made by some street porters at Lorient, who were found to be possessed of a comparatively large sum of money, which they declared was transmitted to them as the price of killing M. Crouan in such a way that it would appear to be an accident.

The street porters declared that they had considered it more prudent not to do the deed, with a prudence no doubt similar to that which induced them to keep the money.

On the strength of these declarations warrants for the arrest of Mme. Crouan and her servant, Marie Cristen, were issued, but Mme. Crouan escaped to Switzerland.

At length, tired of living away from France, Mme. Crouan wrote from Geneva that she intended to give herself up a prisoner. She has been, in fact, of her own free will imprisoned in Lorient jail.

Mme. Crouan is the daughter of a very wealthy contractor, M. Brian, who has compiled an enormous fortune by his own efforts. A greater part of his energy characterized his daughter, who was, it appears, disappointed early in life about a marriage she wished to make. M. Brian lived about 20 or 30 years ago at the Chateau de la Madeleine, near Verades (Loire-Inferieure).

When the marriage on which Mlle. Brian had set her heart had been forbidden and put a stop to by her father she was affianced to Octave Crouan, an engineer, who was closely connected with M. Brian in his business relations.

Mlle. Brian announced to her future husband that it was dangerous for him to be the accomplice of her father in opposing her will. But the threat appeared to M. Brian to be due simply to the petulance of youth.

They were married and two children were born, for which their mother had a strong and unbounded affection.

Unhappily, this love does not appear to have extended to her husband, and in 1890 Mme. Crouan formed a liaison with M. Kerneur, who exercised the profession of teacher in a riding school.

For a time the liaison was kept secret, but at the expiration of a few months Mme. Crouan and M. Kerneur took the children of the former and fled to Paris. M. Crouan followed them, found them and after treating his wife with much leniency induced her to go and live with him again.

But in January, 1891, M. Crouan was deserted again and the guilty pair, traveling in great state as man and wife, visited Nice, Mentone and Monte Carlo. After much trouble M. Crouan found them and obtained the guardianship of the children.

During the last summer vacation M. Crouan stayed with the children at Belle-Isle-en-Mer and Mme. Crouan at Quiberon. The mother was to see her children every fortnight. They took the boat for Quiberon in the morning and returned to Belle-Isle at night.

On one occasion they did not arrive; they had missed the boat and had been obliged to stay at Quiberon all night.

M. Crouan was, however, not fully reassured by this explanation, and decided in future to accompany the children. While they were with their mother he used to pass the time walking about the cliffs. It was while thus engaged that the street porters say they were paid to see that he had a fatal accident.

The affair is at present being thoroughly investigated by the police. It is expected that many sensational revelations will be made at the trial with reference to the career of Mme. Crouan. It should be added that M. Kerneur is not implicated in the affair.

SWITCHMEN'S STRIKE.

Railroad Agent Shot in the Leg While in a Shanty.

CHICAGO, March 2.—The railroad strikers and their sympathising friends are getting dangerous. On Monday night, while John Rayborn, an agent for the Chicago & Western Indiana Railroad, was sitting in a switch shanty at 45th-street and Stewart-avenue, he was shot in the leg by some one on a Fort Wayne train that was passing at the time.

About the same time William Crothers, agent for the same company, was assaulted at Root-street and Stewart-avenue by unknown persons and was badly hurt.

Jacob Sells and Benjamin Recoryberry, two non-union switch tenders employed by the Western Indiana Belt Line to take the places of strikers, were assaulted Tuesday night at Thirty-ninth-street and the Western Indiana tracks, while engaged in tending the switches at that point, by two unknown men who are supposed to have been union men.

Sells and Recoryberry applied to the police for protection, and two officers were sent out to Meekean to investigate. Neither of the assaulted men were badly injured. No trace of the assailants could be found.

Kicked a Crazy Man to Death.

AUSTIN, Tex., March 2.—The death of W. H. Culpepper, an inmate of the insane asylum, Sunday afternoon, attracted little notice until yesterday, when investigation indicated that Culpepper was murdered. Evidence taken in the case goes to show that two keepers deliberately beat and kicked the victim to death.

Shot Two Negroes.

CLARKSVILLE, Tenn., March 2.—At Trenton, near here, Bad Garth became involved in a difficulty with two negroes yesterday and shot them both. One is dead and the other is dying.

THE JENNIE WONCH CASE

SHE HAS CONVULSIONS DURING THE INQUEST.

Dr. Aylsworth is of Opinion That the Old Woman and Child Died From Burns and Not From Blows From an Axe Handle.

CHATSWORTH, Ont., March 2.—Last evening an inquest on the body of Mary Wonch was continued in the court-room, which was crowded to the doors. The County Crown Attorney was present, and examined the witnesses on behalf of the prosecution. Detective Grier of Toronto was also present.

Dr. G. M. Aylsworth, who held the post mortem examination, was the first witness called. He said: I made the post mortem examination this morning, assisted by Dr. A. R. Stephens.

To the coroner he made the following written report:

1. That he found no evidence of violence having been done her beside the extensive burns, except a slight bruise upon the front of the chest, above and a little to the right of the left breast.

2. In my opinion the bruise would not cause death.

3. In my opinion the extensive burns referred to above caused her death.

He gave further evidence, substantiating his written report. While giving his evidence the witness was called to an adjoining room where Jenny Wonch, the accused, fell in convulsions.

James Wonch, a son of the deceased woman, was next called. After being sworn he said he had not seen his mother alive since last summer. The first place he saw her since her death was lying on a sleigh at John Rice's. I know nothing of what caused her death. She is about 66 years old. My mother and daughter quarreled occasionally.

Hugh Best, sworn—I know Jennie Wonch. Saw her on Thursday last cutting wood on the railway track. I spoke to her there.

Jennie Wonch, the alleged murderess, was put in the box, but was not sworn. She said that by the advice of her counsel, John Birnie, she would not make any statement.

County Crown Attorney Cotter addressed the jury. In his opinion a further post mortem examination should be made. He asked for an adjournment of two weeks, and also that a further post mortem examination be made by Dr. Aylsworth, with another medical man.

Foreman Archer stated that the jury was unanimous in asking for an adjournment of nine days and that the body be exhumed and a further post mortem examination be held by Dr. Aylsworth and another physician.

The statement of the jury was agreed to, consequently the inquest will be continued on Friday, 10th inst., at 7.30 p.m.

The coroner informed the jury that he would order a post mortem examination to be held on the body of the child. It is probable that the same jury will be empanelled.

NO SENSATION.

Emperor William's Speech at a Special Banquet Was Very Mild.

BERLIN, March 2.—Emperor William failed to make the sensational speech expected of him at the banquet of the Brandenburg diet yesterday evening. He spoke with unwonted earnestness and animation, but gave utterance to no such suprising sentiment as that expressed by him a year ago concerning the emigration of all malcontents in the Empire. Part of his speech was as follows:

The living generation is fond of comparing the monarchical traditions of the past with the present regime, to the disadvantage of the latter. This is a fruitless task. Let us look back upon the splendid past without useless regret. Let us endeavor to become worthy of our ancestors' deeds. I myself hope to establish a state of things with which all Germans who desire to be content will be content. I hope that the good will of my people will strengthen my resolution, although I know that it will be impossible to satisfy everybody.

The Emperor made no direct reference to the Army Bill, but spoke emphatically of the hearty accord in which he found himself with his Chancellor, Count Von Caprivi.

A SAILOR'S BIGAMY.

His First Wife is Living in Toronto—He is Committed.

BUFFALO, N.Y., March 2.—James Duffy, who was married in Toronto a dozen years ago and about three years ago duplicated that occurrence with a woman in this city, was up in the Police Court yesterday charged with bigamy.

Duffy claims that his first wife is dead, and was dead before he married the Buffalo woman.

Toronto police say Mrs. Duffy No. 1 is alive and living in that city, and the judge held that the evidence was sufficient to send the case to the grand jury. Duffy was admitted to bail in $500.

Harvard's Benefactor.

BOSTON, Mass., March 2.—It is stated on the authority of a Harvard professor that Gordon McKay, the millionaire inventor and manufacturer, is the man who has left between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 in trust to Harvard University.

Mr. McKay formerly lived in Cambridge and there he perfected most of his inventions, such as the McKay sewing machine, the heeling machine, the stitcher and the McKay metallic fastener. Much of his spare time was spent in the study of music, of which he was a great lover. He owned a rare collection of old violins.

An Ocean Steamer Overdue.

NEW YORK, March 2.—The White Star line steamer Naomic, which left Liverpool for this port on Feb. 11, is now nine days overdue, and it is certain she has met with some serious mishap, probably to her machinery.

Will Interchange Pictures.

HAMILTON, March 2.—The Photographic Section of the Hamilton Association has discussed a proposition from the Toronto Camera Club in regard to the various Canadian amateur photographic societies forming a lantern slide interchange for exhibition purposes. The members of the section heartily approved of the proposition, and it is likely that before long the Hamilton slides will be figuring in exhibitions in Toronto, Montreal and other places, while the members of the Hamilton Photographic Section will enjoy slides made by other clubs.

Talmage's Salary.

NEW YORK, March 2.—There was a rumor in Brooklyn yesterday that Rev. T. De Witt Talmage might resign the pastorate of the Tabernacle. The church is greatly in debt.

Dr. Talmage says that in three years and four months he has received $62.8 net from the church.

Lumber Combine.

WINNIPEG, March 2.—All lumbering companies of Lake of the Woods district have been consolidated, eight large companies being in the deal. The aggregate output of these companies is 65,000,000 feet per year. D. L. Mather of Keewatin is president of the new company.

AN OLD ESTABLISHED HARDWARE FIRM.

Kingan & Co. Remove to their Elegantly Fitted up and Greatly Enlarged New Premises—An Immense Stock.

For the past few weeks extensive repairs and sweeping alterations have been going on at Burnham's block, corner of George and Hunter streets, in the store formerly occupied by Mr. Thos. Kelly, dry goods merchant. Everything is nearly completed, the finishing stroke is being put on the elaborate work, and on Monday last Messrs. Kingan & Co. removed their gigantic hardware stock and supplies from their temporary quarters on Hunter street, formerly occupied by Mr. Errett, to their new commodious and handsome premises. The exterior appearance of their handsome shop is very imposing and the new business house of Kingan & Co., occupies a prominent site. The main floor not only takes in the store formerly occupied by Mr. Kelly but also the hallway and steps which were situated on the south side and led up to the offices of T. Hurley and others. The shop is brilliantly lighted by a plate glass front comprising 14 magnificent plate glass in all. The desirable premises are also provided with double windows and an immense amount of goods can be exhibited to perfection. Handsome large fan lights are situated at either side of the main entrance doors. The business flat is 52 feet deep and 31 feet broad—1,612 square feet in all. A neat here while the ceiling is made of varnished basswood, presenting a bright and cheery appearance. The fittings throughout are of walnut and look exceedingly neat. There are four large birch counters, two on each side, while many tables laden with stacks of hardware goods are prominent. The hundreds upon hundreds of shelves, drawers and adjustable slides for exhibiting cutlery, etc., lend an air of business, push and enterprise to the establishment.

HARDWOOD FLOOR HAS BEEN LAID

To the rear of the front shop and separated by an artistically finished arch is a cosy office, vault, etc. These apartments are well lighted and prettily papered, with a deep, rich border. The painting is a light terra cotta in colour. Near the partition between the front shop and office is a large elevator 52 x 60 inches. Thus goods are enabled to be hoisted from one flat to another very handily. To the left are the stairways communicating with the cellar and also the second story. The large cellar underneath is 52x31, part of it is floored with cement for the storing of oils, etc., and a large proportion is planked. At present the four flats, all of which are used to meet the demands of their ever increasing business, are heated with stoves but these will be taken out and replaced by a furnace and hot water service. The shop is well lighted artificially from cellar to attic by two arc lights on the main floor and numerous incandescents upon all the storys. The second and third storeys are used for storing purposes and keeping extra stock. Kingan & Co. now have a total flooring space in all of 6444 square feet not including the extra accommodation furnished by a detached two-storey brick structure also utilized as a store-house.

LONG BUSINESS CONNECTIONS.

Messrs. Kingan & Co. have enjoyed the confidence and patronage of the public of Peterborough town and county for the past twenty-five years and each successive year has been marked by greatly increased sales, and consequently the firm's facilities must keep pace with their large business. Hence their steady growth and development until to-day they occupy one of the finest, best equipped and centrally located establishments in the Province. They will be pleased to have their customers pay them a visit in their new store and examine their really magnificent premises, the alterations and furnishings of which have been made at a cost of $2,000. They will give you a warm welcome. It is a trite but nevertheless true saying that "you can get anything you want at Kingan's. They have everything in stock from a needle to an anchor." This statement is not a mere metaphorical assertion. It is true in a literal sense, and its veracity has been established for many years by the firm's numerous customers. They deal in all hardware, light and heavy, paints, oil and varnishes, house furnishing goods, black smiths goods, lumbermens goods, contractors supply, mill supplies, carpenters and machinists tools, upholsters goods, etc., etc. Give them a call in their new stand, corner of George and Simcoe streets.

Rev. Sylvanus Lane

Of the Cincinnati M. E. Conference, makes a good point when he says: "We have for years used Hood's Sarsaparilla in our family of five, and find it fully equal to all that is claimed for it. Some people are greatly prejudiced against patent medicines, but how the patent can hurt a medicine and not a machine is a mystery of mysteries to me."

HOOD'S PILLS cure liver ills.

An Inactive or Torpid Liver must be aroused and all bad bile removed. Burdock Pills are best for old or young.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. a package.

For Sprains, and Bruises.

No other remedy cures sprains, bruises, cuts, wounds, chilblains, sore throat, rheumatism, etc., so promptly as Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It is an old standard remedy that has given perfect satisfaction for 30 years.

THE VALUE OF AN ORCHARD

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—My remarks made at the meeting of the Fruit Growers Association as to the value of an orchard may have been misunderstood. What I meant to convey was that an acre of orchard in good bearing should be worth in net returns after all expenses are paid, from $40 to $60 a year, equivalent to a fair interest upon a valuation of $1,000 an acre. There are about 50 trees to the acre, set 30 feet apart. Two barrels a tree is not an extravagant estimate, and $1 per barrel in the orchard is not an extravagant price. An orchard, therefore, of the proper kinds of trees should yield year in and year out from $75 to $100 per acre. The cost for working is not as great as that for many other kinds of crops, and the net results that I have mentioned may be easily obtained by any farmer who chooses to make the experiment. I say advisedly that the orchard must consist of the proper varieties of apples. And it is to get and to disseminate the knowledge of what are the proper varieties that our Association is aiming at. A few leading varieties of winter apples are sufficient. These and these alone can be considered the proper varieties for the "commercial orchard." What is the cost? Fifty trees can be bought and planted in an acre of land at a total cost of $12.50—say 25 cents a tree. By combining together those who wish to plant can buy the best varieties laid down in Peterborough at from 15 to 20c. a tree. Any members of our Association who wish to secure such rates, can easily do so by communicating with me or with any other member of the Committee before the 15th of March.

It is proposed if thirty farmers will put in each fifty trees the coming spring to have a competition and offer prizes of $20, $10 and $5 for the best acre of orchard—say fifty trees—to be judged at the end of two years. Are there any willing to compete?

It does seem to me strange, Mr. Editor, that in a county which can raise apples of the best quality that can be produced anywhere in the world, there is not one orchard of even five acres that can be called a good "commercial orchard"—that is, an orchard producing the proper fruit for export and sale.

Yours, etc.,
E. B. EDWARDS.

DROWNED LIKE RATS.

Terrible Fate of the Inhabitants of a Hungarian Village.

VIENNA, March 1.—A terrible calamity has overtaken the village of Gergely, near the town of Paks, in Hungary, situated on the River Danube, about 60 miles south of Buda. Owing to a sudden rise of the Danube the 1600 inhabitants of Gergely found the mud huts in which they lived surrounded by waste waters. The frail dwellings gradually yielded before the furious current which was continually rising, and the people took refuge in the church and school, which were constructed of stronger materials, hoping that these buildings would be able to hold out against the flood.

The people, led by their pastor, offered up earnest prayers for safety and mothers and children clung to the altar, beseeching the intercession of the saints. They saw their homes disappearing in the raging stream, and the swelling waters began to beat against the church and school buildings with such fury that at last they decided that to remain would mean the destruction of all of them, while if they fled some of them might escape.

Opening the doors, they started out into the flood, which surged nearly to the waists of the grown-up people. Fathers and mothers carried their children, and the sick and feeble were helped along by those who were stronger.

They fled as fast as they could in the direction of Paks. One mother, with five children, sank in the waters and perished. Many others, the number of whom is as yet unknown, were drowned in the flood, and the survivers reached Paks in a most deplorable condition.

The people of Paks gave the fugitives all the succor possible although deeply concerned for their own safety, as the Danube is 20 feet above its normal height. Nothing can be done toward recovering the bodies of those who have perished until the river retires within its usual channel, and it is believed that many have been swept many miles away.

THE INCREASE IN RATES.

Has Injured Immigration Prospects For the Whole Season.

LONDON, March 1.—The increase in the steamship immigrant rates to Canada continues to excite much talk in immigrant circles.

The steamers now leaving for Halifax are quite full, and will be for the next two months.

The best class are mostly booked for the Northwest.

The steamship companies are inclined to point to this fact as justifying their increase, but this statement is met with the reply that while every other interest is making a sacrifice for the speedy settlement of the Northwest the steamship lines alone demand their pound of flesh.

There is no exaggeration in stating that the selfish action of the steamship companies must injure the emigration prospect for the entire season.

German Interests in Hawaii.

BERLIN, March 1.—The Coelnische Zeitung in commenting upon Robert Louis Stevenson's utterances in Auckland, says that he is an inveterate foe of Germany and that he purposes inciting the United States to treat Samoa as they have treated Hawaii.

As regards American interests in Hawaii the paper says that the relations of foreign interests are illustrated by the population statistics, which show that the Germans there number 1600, the Americans only 1000 and the English hardly 800. The annual imports from Germany, moreover, averaged 800,000 marks' worth.

British Naval Estimates.

LONDON, March 1.—Earl Spencer, First Lord of the Admiralty, has published a statement of naval estimates, which indicate his intention to follow the program of the Salisbury Government and promote the arming of new war ships with lighter guns. The general adoption of the new cordite powder is also foreshadowed.

The Behring Sea Case.

LONDON, March 1.—The British representatives before the Behring Sea Arbitration Committee have returned from Paris to London and are now further completing the line of argument to be followed. The case, as far as Canada is concerned, is regarded as impregnable. The court will reassemble on March 23.

IN MEMORIAM

Of Mrs. Thomas Casey, who Died January 19th, 1892. To My Departed Mother.

I.

Mother, mother, thou hast left us.
Thy toils and cares are o'er;
In heaven we hope at last to meet thee,
But on earth, alas! no more!

II.

Affectionate, kind and gentle wert thou,
Oh! thy loss we deeply feel;
Pray that kindest heaven may send us
Some consoling balm our hearts to heal.

III.

Our guiding star through life's troubled ocean,
Our only hope in grief or woe,
Mother, mother! canst thou hear us!
Still for comfort to thee we go.

IV.

No pleasure thine, unless we shared it,
No sorrow came but pierced thy heart.
Ah! can it be, that Death so cruel
Should will it thus—that we must part!

V.

Alone through life we now must wander
Thy loving voice no more to hear;
Alas, our home is sad and lonely,
No mother's form now lingers near.

VI.

Yet must we bow in meek subjection
To each decree of Holy Will,
In heaven thou rest, on earth we mourn thee,
In dream, dear mother, we see the still.

VII.

One fair child had reached before thee
That blessed home where thou dost dwell,
There with her may we soon join thee
Till then, loved mother, we say, "Farewell.

PETERBOROUGH, Jan. 21st, 1892.

To the Peterborough Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN,—If there is any medicine in the world that I pin my faith to it is Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. In my business I have to stand on my feet a good deal. About a year ago my back began to give out, weakening pains set in across my kidneys, I felt tired all the time and could hardly stand up to my work. I began to lose strength and at last had to give up work altogether. A customer advised me to try your cure which I did. Before half the bottle was used, I felt the pains and weakness leaving me and to-day I enjoy good health and can bear fatigue and work all right. One bottle was all I used.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place last week
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the boys" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired of the talk
Of canvassers and agents—'twas all a blind bluff,
Which one's cuff must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontined, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Government Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the Macbeth at the Collegiate Institute.

The Collegiate Institute Literary Society will hold an open meeting Friday evening, March 3rd. The entertainment provided will be an instructive and interesting one. A short lecture will be given by Mr. Jeffries on "Macbeth." This will be accompanied by a recital from the tragedy by several members of the society. A very attractive feature of the programme will be a series of tableux illustrating picturesque and impressive parts of the drama. Excellent music will also be provided. Meeting begins at 8 o'clock. Admission to public 15 cents.

A Fine Vaudeville Show.

Gus Hill's New York Vaudeville Stars appeared at the opera house here last evening and gave a first class performance and variety show. The house was crowded to the doors with a delighted crowd, and applause was frequent. The juggling, contortion and acrobatic feats of the three Donazettas were remarkable. The Ethiopian comedy of Emerson and Cook was original and in their songs they created many a hearty laugh. Miss Maud Beverley in her vocal personifications was capital and she proved herself a favourite. The other features of the aggregation were also good and novel, the whole concluding with a side splitting farce entitled "A Hot Pickle."

Every Member is a Star.

Let no one who can appreciate good music fail to attend the Belle Botsford Concert in the opera house on March 8th, under the auspices of Otonabee Lodge, I. O.O.F. The programme will be varied and yet will not have a single weak number among its rendition. Every member, from the talented young lady, Miss Botsford, who is so accomplished as a violinist, down to the accompanist, is a possessor of more than ordinary talent and combined they have scored great successes wherever they have appeared. Of Miss Jennie Corea, the soprano vocalist, the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle says: "A special feature of the entertainment was the singing of Miss Corea. She has a delightful, high and pure soprano voice, which she used with taste and skill." Tickets 50 and 25 cents. Plan now open at Sailsbury's bookstore. 1d Badly Defeated at Port Hope.

The juniors or Peterborough Colts played a hockey match at Port Hope last evening with the Trinity College School boys. The boys had to play on a big field, so to speak, and the ice was in very bad shape. The deep snow along the sides hindered the progress of the game, which resulted in a tremendous victory for the Trinity aggregation by a score of 7 goals to 0. The Port Hopers took three goals in the first half and four in the second. Being used to the lie of the rink the collegians put up a well played and fast game. Peterborough Colts, although badly beaten, are still "in the ring." The decisions of the referee are said to be very unfair, that dignitary allowing too many fouls and too much offside playing. The Port Hope players were Helliwell goal, Gamble point, Palmer cover, Seagram, Wilkie, Stairs and Sinclair, forwards. The Port Hope town team will play the Peterborough seniors at the rink here on Saturday night at 7 o'clock. A great game is expected.

You can never tell what a slight cold may lead to; it is best, therefore, to give yourself the benefit of the doubt, and cure it as soon as possible with Aye'r Cherry Pectoral. A day's delay, sometimes an hour's delay, may result in serious consequences.

CRISP CURLING CHRONIQUES.

What is Going on at the Rink Where Curlers Most do Congregate.

THE THISTLES' GREAT ACHIEVEMENT.

A great bonspiel contest occurred at the rink last night between five rinks of the Granites and five of the Thistles. The battle was rather one-sided as the latter easily vanquished their opponents by 32 shots. All the quartettes of the Thistles were successful in beating the Granites, except one. The bonspiel was a capital practice for the home stane throwers and will serve them in good stead for their fight to-morrow with the Torontos, who will arrive 12 rinks strong. Six rinks will play in the afternoon and six in the evening. The ice is in capital condition and the local curlers are in jubilant spirits. Following are the results of last night's events:

A match for new spring hats will come off at the rink this evening between Skips Ed. Brown and Sam Clegg.

The Toronto papers state that Prospect Park will visit Peterborough next Tuesday.

The match between McKee & Davidson and the Ontario Bank rinks, will come off to-night for a certainty.

Mr. W. J. Montgomery yesterday played a thirteen point game with J. H. Connal, and was defeated by a score of 13 points to 8. Mr. Connal has now to play off with E. Rutherford, who has the bye, to decide the question who is the champion 13 point player of the Granite Division.

Another close contest for the oysters took place again last night between Skips Wm. Snowden and A. Blade. Mr. Blade was sharp enough to cut his opponents to pieces, and then he and his followers afterwards hacked at the oysters with keen appetites whetted by vigourous exercise—and all, too, at the expense of Skip Wm. Snowden. Here is the score:

Ed Brown,	J S Knapman,
S Hay,	S Clegg,
A McNeil,	T Rutherford,
Wm Snowden, s'p .. 12	A Blade, skip 20

An interesting challenge match for new hats came off at the rink yesterday afternoon and was witnessed by a very large crowd. The interest in the game was unflagging from beginning to end. Twelve ends were played, and skip Ed. Brown's rink bested their opponents by a majority of five shots. As a result the victors are all sporting nobby Christies to-day, and they are the latest style out, too. Following was the score:

G W Hatton,	H Snowden,
W Sailsbury,	Wm Croft,

The trial was one where Andrew Allen, president of the Pine Grove Cheese Factory Association, Douro, laid an information against Geo. Singleton, one of the patrons, charging him with selling adulterated milk to the factory. Three or four witness were examined on behalf of the prosecution. When the evidence of the defence was taken, Singleton admitted that "he had put a few pails of water into his milk, The court levied a fine of $40 and costs upon the defendant.

CO-OPERATION AND WORK.

MEMBERS OF THE CHURCH MUST ORGANIZE AND UNITE.

For in Union There is Strength—Practical Results Will Follow—Able Addresses Delivered by Laymen in St. John's Church—Pointed Remarks by the Rector—The Brotherhood of St. Andrew Movement.

St. John's church Sunday school room was well filled last evening by a large audience at the regular Wednesday evening Lenten service, Rev. J. C. Davidson conducted the service. Previous to the arrival of the speakers, Messrs. T. R. Clougher and R. J. Brown, of Toronto, Rev. Mr. Davidson gave a powerful address. He said the meeting was held in the school room instead of in the church and he hoped each one would feel unconstrained and informal. The previous speakers a fortnight ago had great difficulty in speaking in the church. They felt more constrained but he hoped to-night all would feel more at home. This was distinctively a layman's meeting, and a meeting intended to bring forth the feeling of the laity. Hence the audience if if they felt so disposed might very properly encourage the speaker by applause. The speaker then went on to say that we lived in a critical age—in an age when the its tone in the world of science and business. Things were changed to-day; the notions, fashions, the whole constitution of things were different. The world was apparently going faster than half a century ago. Men decided public questions quicker, they thought out great problems in shorter time, feelings were growing stronger, and the battle was raging more furiously. Things were changed all around "from the good old times we hear so much about." There was far more religion in the world to-day than fifty years ago, although many thought otherwise. There was more decision; men were decidedly with the ranks of Christ's people or just as strong against them. Younger people were taking a greater interest in Christianity to-day than they ever did before. The lines of demarcation were more marked to-day, and those who were not energizing and praying for religion and the ordinances of the church had drifted into the other ranks and were also fighting. A good deal of blame was cast upon the clergy for all the new-fangled ideas and services in connection with the church, as some people called all these extra services, and the speaker did not know but that the clergy might be blamed as well as any one else, it was the most convenient. We were fighting with the weapons of to-day and not of so many years ago. The weapons of intercourse with God through his word and communion with him still carried on the good work effectively. But there were also additional weapons, small acts, small deeds, small prayers, small kindnesses. In the Brotherhood of St. Andrew we had work, activity and and energy, such as the day and land we lived imperatively called for on the side of religion. The laity were coming forward and instead of being like the Dead Sea—always receiving and never giving out—we have men who are giving valuable help to the clergy and the church by going forward in a brave, bold and enthusiastically united effort. It was about time such was the case, and in the Women's Auxiliary and Brotherhood of St. Andrew and other organizations there was an earnest effort being made to help Christ's cause.

CHURCH MEMBERS MUST ORGANIZE.

Mr. R. J. Brown, of the Grand Trunk freight sheds, Toronto, and Mr. Clougher having arrived, Mr. Brown was next introduced. He said when the Rector's brother asked him to come down and say something he refused as he was not accustomed to speaking but as he was interested in church work, if his presence would help he would gladly come. We wanted men to-day who would make a sacrifice for church work. We wanted to co-operate and organize among ourselves and so push church work. This could be done by each individual member taking an interest in the church and studying her history. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew had done good work and he thought every male member should be a Brotherhood man—not to join the organization, perhaps, but do the Brotherhood work, spending an hour or two hours a week in earnest work and the battle would almost be won. Men in fraternal societies were banding themselves together for organization, and why should not church members do the same. We should recognize our responsibilities in this matter. We should know each other better. The speaker belonged to one church in Toronto for six years, and he only knew three members there. The church should assert her rights and each one of us be not ashamed to own that we were churchmen. We must organize. There must be a better understanding among each member of the church. The present was the time to do this. We by example could influence infidels and unbelievers by being earnest and true ourselves. Every church member was watched in his actions and criticized. All of us should be consistent and then we would gain respect. There should be a better understanding between clergy and laity. The speaker would impress upon all at this juncture of the world's history the necessity of being true. Trade was organizing and so were labour unions; why not the Church do likewise? and good results were sure to follow.

Rev. Mr. Davidson thanked Mr. Brown in a few words for his forcible and practical address. He advised all to organize, to be earnest, and great power would follow. He strongly pointed out the necessity for thorough organization. He wanted to see more reality in our fellowship. The speaker urged all to co-operate and work in helping on the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. We could not help realizing that the brotherhood of all who fought under it the banner of Jesus Christ was a great power.

IN UNION THERE IS STRENGTH.

Mr. T. R. Clougher, of Grace Church Chapter, Toronto, and business manager of the Week, said it was a privilege for a layman to have an opportunity to speak to men in this age. We wanted consolidation—all things were being joined together, and run under one great management for one great object. We would work in one steady line, the same as factories, getting the best work at the least outlay. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew had not changed men's hearts. All should work alone one steady line. They should stand shoulder to shoulder, for in union there was strength. The Church of England and the Church of Christ should have a unity like that of ancient France. We must have co-operation if we wished to carry the Gospel to every land on earth. England's united squares won the struggle at Waterloo, and it was just where the church was going to lose, if the church did not stand a solid rank when the tide arises. It is an age that we feel the church is doing little socially. It is natural for each one to want sympathy and the church has not given that love and sympathy. Other organizations were doing good work, upon the lines laid down in the Bible but nevertheless they were alienating people from the church. An Oddfellow would help the sick and fallen because that society was organized, why not the church members do the same? This was not an age for idle comment. We should not say we have the Apostolic church when we find other churches and organizations doing the same work as we are doing. He believed in co-operation, and should go hand in hand. If our interests were one in business they should also be one in religion. There were several things the Church of England must take upon herself or they would be taken up by Satan's ambassadors. A Christian man's duty was to be the greatest where Satan reigns supreme. We should stand side by side wherever the work demands us, whether among the rich or the poor or wherever necessary. We wanted Christian work to be carried on right along this line. It was incumbent upon all to live and act Christ every day. The young women alone could evangelize the world in a very short time if they would only organize and put their influence down on the wrong. Co-operation was not easy without a head and he thought that all should come out and stand beside the few who were striving to do good work. The speaker said it was not for each one to sit in judgment upon the Women's Auxiliary and Brotherhood of St. Andrew's, and other organizations, and say we regret the church is doing so little. Let us unite them in the church of Christ. Ten years ago outside of the bishops there were only 1187 curates assisting them in their work in the broad Dominion. Since the Brotherhood of St. Andrew had been organized in the past ten years they had doubled this number and so strengthened the clergy greatly, and what could be accomplished in the next ten years? He urged all who did not take an interest in church work to join the brotherhood and assist the rector in his arduous duties The result would be overwhelming growth and power. Let us all band together said the speaker and endeavour to win the small boys and girls between the ages of of 12 and 15 for the service of the Master. We should sound the trumpet and throw off our sectarian and hypocritical cloaks. We should stand man to man, labouring for the church of Christ.

NOT ASHAMED OF OUR COLORS.

An offertory was then made during which Mr. S. R. Gorman, of Belleville, who spoke recently in Peterborough, was called upon to say a few words. Mr. Gorman said he was a union man. We should be sympathetic and we should do little things; they were what counted. We wanted to do great things though and this was our snare. We were all brothers and sisters and we should realize this more and more. We wanted in the present day not so much churchgoers as Christians. As Brotherhood men they should be prosecutors. He was a thorough Brotherhood man and believed in no other church than that which Christ had established. We were watched and should be an example. We must not be ashamed of our colours. We were fighting under one flag and that was the cause of Christ. We Brotherhood men should relieve the Rector that he might have more time to look after the interests of the parish. We neglected the one great means of grace—the holy communion that which alone could make us strong.

After a few earnest words from Mr. Davidson, thanking the speakers for their forcible addresses and practical suggestions, the meeting dispersed.

The next address will be delivered by Rev. S. Daw, rector of Christ church, Belleville, on the subject "From Above."

EAST PETERBORO' FARMERS

MEET IN MUTUAL CONSULTATION AT KEENE.

Winter Dairying Attracting Great Attention—Finding Constant Work For the Creamery Cow—How Hon. Chas. Drury Underdrained His Farm—How Mr. Yuill Cares for His Stock and Makes Farming Pay.

The first winter meeting of the East Riding Farmers' Institute was held at Keene Wednesday. There was a fair attendance of farmers—the old familiar faces always seen at such meetings being varied by the presence of a few new recruits.

Mr. Birdsall, president, occupied the chair, and gave a brief account of his visit to the annual meeting of the Central Farmers' Institute, to which he was a delegate. The chief subjects considered were: Preferential Trade with Great Britain, the question of the exclusion of American hogs on account of disease, the removal of the embargo on Canadian cattle in Great Britain, the removal of the duty on coal oil, and the question of Free Trade, which principle was endorsed by the institute, although he (the speaker) voted against it. The chairman also read a memorial to be signed requesting an amendment to exempt farmers from the operation of the Employers' Liability Act. A subject discussed was the question of requiring teachers to possess an elementary knowledge of agriculture as a condition of receiving a certificate.

Hon. Thomas Ballantyne gave a synopsis of his experience with cows in cheesemaking. He got from seven cows 490 lbs. of cheese for each and from one heifer 350 lbs. His cows netted him $468.40; his best cow gave 12,400 lbs. of milk. Another delegate gave the relative prices he received for milk delivered to cheese factory and creamery as 63 cents and 72 cents respectively, besides with the latter the milk was returned to the patron. Another delegate gave his successful experience with ensilage mixed and cut with horse beans and heads of Russian sunflower as a full ration, dispensing with a mixture of grains. Hon. Mr. Dryden, Minister of Agriculture, had wished the speaker to intimate to the members of the Institute that hereafter all bulletins and reports would be sent directly to members through the mail.

In answer to Mr. Drummond, Mr. Birdsall said he had met many persons who were well satisfied with their experience of winter dairying. Professor Robertson said that creamery butter could be made and shipped the year round. Mr. Birdsall had had his silo in use five years. If it were not for ensilage he would be inclined to quit farming. It only required about 6 lbs of grain in addition to ensilage for a cows ration. It gave a good flow of milk. He made experiments which proved that ensilage was far superior to hay or turnips for producing milk. His ensilage cost him, including every item of expense, rent of land, hauling manure, labour, etc., $1.40 per ton, but with a silo more convenient than his the cost could be reduced to $1.25 per ton. He wouldn't do without a silo and intended to build another next year.

UNDERGROUND DRAINING.

Hon. Mr. Drury dealt with tile drainage in the line of his experience with his own farm, largely clay. He began 20 years ago with a ten acre field, so swampy that it would mire cattle. Tiles not being accessible he used wooden drain, which was still in good working order though he preferred tile when they could be got. He had not had much satisfaction with stone drains. Soil in its normal condition—neither very wet nor dry—that collected water in a test pit 3 ft 6 inches deep during 24 hours required underdraining. Rain water had elements of fertility absorbed from the air through which it fell, and if this ran off too readily the soil suffered the loss of this fertility. Underdraining filtered the rain water through the soil which absorbed the fertilizing qualities of the water, and this was one great advantage of underdraining. Another advantage was that it lengthened the season for farming operations, which in Canada was only of seven months duration. On his own farm underdraining, on an average, lengthened the season for farming, three weeks—he could get on land earlier and work on it later. In unduly wet seasons undrained land suffers far more than drained—all the difference between losing and saving a crop. He also showed that in exceedingly dry seasons drained lands suffered least. Surface cultivation brought the deeper moisture in the soil up to the roots of plants, and underdraining made the soil more porous and the roots of soil went deeper so that the underground water came to the surface. What he had said on this subject was the result of his practical experience, and from his experience he testified under oath before the Agricultural Commission that if he had not the money he would be willing to pay ten per cent. on borrowed funds rather than go without underdraining. But there was a provincial drainage fund of $100,000 to assist farmers in underdraining—and the loan was on such easy terms—so cheap that 7 per cent. would pay principal and interest at the end of 20 years equivalent to an interest charge of four per cent. The speaker gave simple, practical instructions as to how to lay out drains, get proper levels, lay tiles, etc. Tile should never be laid upon quicksand; lay on a six-inch board or puddle with clay. A plan of a drained field should always be made for reference in case of repairs. Lateral drains should be thirty feet apart. The cost of a 2½ inch tile drain would be about 46 to 48 cents per rod. The speaker concluded by saying that if the Province of Ontario were underdrained like England, the yield of grain and other products would be increased by 20 or 30 per cent.

A lively discussion followed; Mr. Yuill and others endorsed what Mr. Drury had said about the benefits of tile draining, and Mr. Robert Spears cited instances of a partially drained pasture, where cattle refused the sour grass on the undrained part and the drained part was grased bare.

WINTER DAIRYING.

Mr. Yuill gave an address on winter dairying which interested the farmers at present more than any other subject. The preliminary conditions of successful winter dairying were the right breed of cattle, treating them well, and feeding them well, and for the latter purpose the silo was almost indepensible. The great problem of farming was to maintain the fertility of the soil—to retain the three essentials, nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash. Butter was a farm product that contained none of these ingredients, and therefore its manufacture retained soil fertility—the chief benefit of winter dairying. He described the method of feeding stock and treating calves, which he managed to have come in the fall. A cow calving in the fall produced much more milk the year round, a paying flow during the winter and a better flow in the summer. He depended largely upon ensilage for winter feeding, and in answer to Mr. Blezard he said he could not feed as much ensilage as he wanted to because his silo was not large enough. Cows were creatures of habit and could be trained to milk the year round. The speaker had a cow that had had a calf every year for twelve years, and never went dry. Cows that milked the year round were to a great extent free from milk fever. The winter temperature of stables was kept at 60 degrees as nearly as possible. Winter dairying gave employment to the hired men in winter. A cow gave from 20 to 30 per cent more milk if she came in the fall instead of the spring. He advocated some arrangement by which cheese factories could be used for cheese in summer and for butter in winter. The chief requisites for winter dairying were good stock, well housed, well fed, kindly treated. In answer to Mr. R. S. Birdsall, the speaker said his usual feed was two lbs. of bran, two lbs. peas, and three lbs. of oats to forty lbs of ensilage. In answer to Mr. Bacon, Mr. Yuill said that clover cut before it was too ripe) mixed with straw, was a good feed for cows.

He also said turnips not exceeding 30 pounds fed before milking would not taint milk. If a cow milked hard insert a little peg of maple in the opening in the teat and thus enlarge it; a cow that leaks her milk could be cured of the habit by dipping the tip of the dug in a solution of alum after milking.

In reference to a statement of a farmer who said he would go 100 miles to see a man that had made 4 per cent. by farming, Mr. Yuill said that 30 years ago he started farming, with a wife and without a cent, bought 200 acres on credit and paid for it, and added 40 acre to acre till he had now 600 acres all paid for, with the best farm buildings in Eastern Ontario, and his family well educated and he had made every cent by farming.

Mr. Blezard said in reference to winter dairying, that it was reasonable that it paid better to work a cow the year round, than have her work seven months and five in idleness and fearing; besides, calves that came in the fall would come out in the spring and thrive on the grass.

Dr. Johnson, V. S., spoke on indigestion and colic in the horse. The causes were improper feed, high feeding, and then a change to lower feed, and defective teeth. The symptoms were staring coat, sluggish motion, constipation and pain. The remedy suggested was sending for a qualified veterinary surgeon.

The meeting adjourned.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

The Provincial Legislators for Hygienic Measures in Session.

TORONTO, March 2.—The quarterly meeting of the Provincial Board of Health was held yesterday. Dr. Cassidy, the president, was in the chair. The other members present were Drs. McDonald, Vaux, Rae and Secretary Bryce.

A good deal of routine business was transacted. The report of the Committee of the Ontario Medical Association on vital statistics was received. Amongst correspondence were suggestions as to the amendment of the acts on registration and the public health. A committee was appointed to consider the suggested amendments to these acts. Reports as to outbreaks of disease in various portions of the province were received.

This was an elaborate document. It stated that the most striking fact in the sanitary world is the deep-seated and universal dread of cholera, both in Europe and America. Fortunately the people are willing to follow their sanitary advisers to the fullest extent. In Canada the Federal Government had taken a forward step by assembling at Ottawa a conference of heads of provincial departments and sanitary experts in order to consider the relations between Dominion and provincial sanitation and to recommend any necessary improvements in the quarantine of Canadian maritime and inland ports.

Dr. Cassidy then gave his report of the Ottawa conference, the proceedings at which have already been published.

The chairman continued: The Federal Government has already intimated what course it intends to pursue with regard to the recommendations of the conference. There is good reason to hope that nearly all of them will be carried into effect. A special meeting of the Provincial Board was held in September last in reference to cholera. Its recommendations were passed by order-in-council. Various amendments to these were now suggested. The committee on publication has revised the pamphlets on contagious and infectious diseases and the disposal of sewage. After referring to this the chairman referred to Toronto's water supply.

He said: "We cannot but look with positive dread at the condition of the city's water supply. Viewed in the light of the epedimic at Hamburg last summer one would almost say that the municipal authorities are trifling with the grave danger at their gates, instead of taking those well-known and efficient precautions by which an inferior may be converted into a first-class water. The condition of the people of Toronto during this winter in the matter of water supply has been positively pitiable. One does not require to be fastidious to object to drinking boiled sewage, and yet that is really the best water to be obtained in this city as present."

The chairman referred to its injurious effects in diarrhœa and typhoid fever. He said even if the pipe extending across Toronto Bay were made water-tight there was no guarantee that it could be kept so, and the Toronto water supply would therefore continue to be of a very uncertain or even dangerous character. Would it not be better for Toronto people to cease agitating for such a supply and to devote their energies and their money to the filtration of that which they have?

A considerable length the chairman recommended the Hyatt filters. Many wells were in urgent need of cleansing. The water contains salt probably derived from neighboring privies, or else from the top-dressing used on the land finding its way into the source of supply. The services of the analytical chemist should be made use of.

Adverting to the smallpox outbreaks the chairman praised the beneficent results of isolation and disinfection. He maintained that if vaccination and re-vaccination were universally practised smallpox would soon cease to exist, and it would not be necessary to resort to expensive and often annoying means in order to prevent its epidemic spread in this country.

The address was, on motion of Dr. Bryce, seconded by Dr. Vaux, approved and ordered to be printed in the annual report.

At the afternoon session Secretary Bryce reported that the law in regard to the appointment of a local board of health by municipal councils had in past years been very generally carried out throughout the province, but there had been instances in which the provisions of the act had been overlooked. The secretary had written each municipal council: "In view of the great danger which exists of cholera making its appearance on this continent, and in this province, during the present year, the Provincial Board, with a view to having every preparation made to place the province in the best possible sanitary condition to minimize the dangers from this source, would urge, through the powers given it in sections 9 and 31-32 of the act, the appointment under section 47 of a Medical Health Officer and one or more sanitary inspectors as executive officers to carry on public health work in your municipality. It is trusted that the Provincial Board will have the co-operation of every municipal council in this matter, and that it may within the next few weeks have the pleasure of knowing that local Boards of Health, with executive officers, have been appointed in every municipality in this province."

In response to these circulars replies to the following effect had been received: That little more than one-half of the boards have medical officers of health. Those figures would have to guide the Provincial Board as to taking further steps to have the local boards in a position competent to deal with an outbreak of cholera or other infectious diseases. "We must see that the local boards are properly organized," said Dr. Bryce. "Not more than 50 per cent. have complied to the request of the circular and the recommendation of the Ottawa conference. Hence the Committee on Legislation has drawn up an amending order dealing especially with this matter of appointment of medical health officers. We likewise provide in this new order that inspectors of this board shall see that the local boards carry out their work."

The amended order-in-council was submitted, and the board, with Dr. Rae in the chair, went into committee on its consideration. This occupied the whole of the afternoon.

The committee rose and reported progress, and on the motion of Dr. Bryce, seconded by Dr. Vaux, these amended regulations re cholera of the order-in-council dated Sept. 17, 1892, were adopted. Except as regards the enforcement of the appointment of medical health officers and inspectors, no material alterations were made.

The board adjourned till this morning.

THE HORTICULTURIST.

WINTER WORK FOR HIM AMONG INJURIOUS INSECTS.

Some Apple Tree Pests—The Apple-Leaf Bucculatrix—The Apple Tree Tent-Caterpillar—The Eye-Spotted Bud-Moth—The Cecropia Emperor Moth.

There is no time of the year, not even in the winter, when the thermometer is fluctuating about the zero point, that the careful fruit grower can afford to call a truce with his insect enemies. Indeed this is the time when he must prosecute his warfare energetically, because many of them are then at his mercy. The truth of the assertion frequently made by entomologists concerning the importance of learning the life-histories of insect pests is now proved, for those which pass the winter in some form upon the trees are now easily detected, and steps can be taken for their eradication. Insects pass the winter in all stages of their development, either as (1) an egg, (2) a larva or caterpillar, (3) a chrysalis, or (4) the perfect state. They hibernate in all kinds of positions, on branches of the food plant, in crevices of bark, beneath moss or leaves, or beneath the surface of the ground. As a general rule, but not invariably, the individuals of any one kind of insect pass the winter in the same manner—for instance, the caterpillars of most of the Owlet Moths, better known as "outworms," hatch late in summer, and pass the winter half grown; others, however, do not hatch until the following spring, or the species hibernate as chrysalis in the earth. I purpose, on the present occasion, to draw attention to some of those injurious insects which may be found now in the orchard, and for which it will well repay the fruit grower to be on the look-out.

THE APPLE-LEAF BUCCULATRIX (Bucculatrix pomifoliella).

Fig. 1c shows an enlarged figure of a beautiful little moth, the caterpillars of which occasionally occur in sufficient numbers to injure apple trees seriously. There are two broods in the year, the second of which passes the winter inside white ribbed cocoons upon the twigs (Fig. 1a, natural size; b, enlarged). These are reported in large numbers from St. Catharines this winter. The best remedy is, probably, to take note of the trees which are badly infested during the winter, and then destroy the caterpillars by spraying the trees thoroughly, just after the flowers have fallen in spring, with Paris green, 1 pound in 200 gallons of water.

THE EYE-SPOTTED BUD-MOTH (Metocera ocellana).—This troublesome enemy of the apple-grower may now be found in the caterpillar state upon twigs in the orchard. The eggs are laid about midsummer, and by October the caterpillars are half-grown. They then leave the foliage, and spin silken shelters in any small depressions on the twigs. Here they remain until the following spring, when they emerge and commit great havoc by boring into the bursting buds. Spraying the trees as soon as the leaf-buds burst, and before the blossoms open, with Paris green, 1 pound to 100 gallons of water, or with Kerosene Emulsion, has given good results.

THE APPLE-TREE TENT-CATERPILLAR (Clisiocampa Americana).—A very successful method of clearing orchards of this pest is to collect the eggmasses (Fig. 2) during the winter. These masses are easily recognized after a little practice, and as they are nearly always placed upon the small twigs at the end of branches the work of looking for them is much simplified. The egg clusters are laid in the month of July by an active brown moth (Fig. 3) and each cluster contains from 200 to 300 eggs. The caterpillars when full grown are nearly two inches in length, and when undisturbed the brood of a single cluster of eggs is able to entirely strip a tree of considerable size.

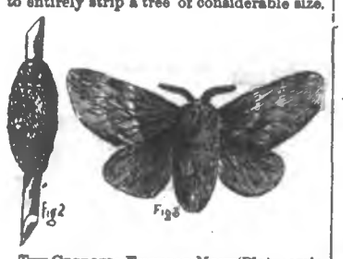

Fig2 Fig3

THE CECROPIA EMPEROR MOTH (Platysamia Cecropia).—In going through an orchard in the winter time, a large, elongated, irregular cocoon, three inches or more in length, may frequently be found firmly attached to a twig of an apple or cherry tree. This is the winter home of our largest and most conspicuous Canadian moth. It will be well worth the while of anyone who may find one of these cocoons to take it into the house to see the magnificent creature which will emerge from it about March or April. The caterpillar is very large, nearly four inches, and naturally consumes a large amount of foliage every day; but it seldom occurs in sufficient numbers to be considered very injurious. Besides the apple, cherry and plum it feeds upon the pear, the maple, the willow, the elm, the butternut, the hickory, and several other trees. Gathering the cocoons in winter or handpicking the caterpillars in summer are usually efficient means of keeping this insect in check.—James Fletcher, Dominion Entomologist, in London Farmer's Advocate.

Catarrh in the head is a constitutional disease, and requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla to effect a cure.

A Home Vengeance.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 1.—Monday night the pipes of the Crescent Pipe Line Company were torn up at Mowry's Mills, 20 miles from here, and 4000 barrels of oil poured out into the creek. The depredators chopped down a number of telephone poles, destroying communication and set fire to the oil.

The blazing oil destroyed a number of bridges and much valuable timber.

It is generally believed that persons living in the neighborhood who have done work for the company and claim they were not paid are responsible. These people have frequently threatened to destroy the company's property.

Dr. Ryerson Elected.

TORONTO, March 1.—Dr. Ryerson, the Conservative candidate, was yesterday elected to fill the vacancy in the Ontario Legislature caused by the death of Mr. N. G. Bigelow, Liberal. The vote was: Ryerson, 7631; Ogden, Liberal, 7039 Thompson, Labor, 640.

The Coal Question.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Anthracite coal is not to be any cheaper just yet. The eastern sales agents and the western sales agents held separate meetings yesterday afternoon, and both agreed to allow prices to remain as they are.

Irishmen Thank Gladstone.

BELFAST, March 1.—At a meeting of the National Federation Mr. Thomas Sexton, M.P., was elected president. The meeting adopted resolutions thanking Gladstone for his Home Rule bill and condemning the attempt of Lord Salisbury to incite the Orangemen to outrage and riot in opposition to Irish Home Rule.

Stanley Getting Better.

LONDON, March 1.—Hon. Arthur Stanley is slowly recovering, although the nervous symptoms are still present and show no signs of lessening.

"I've tried all sorts of blood purifiers," said an old lady to a "cutter," "and you can't persuade me that any other Sarsaparilla is as good as Ayer's." There's where she had him. She knew that Ayer's was the best—and so did he, but it paid him better to sell a cheaper brand.

Ministers, Lawyers, Teachers, and others whose occupation gives but little exercise, should use Carter's Little Liver Pills for torpid liver and biliousness. One a dose. Try them.

Some symptoms of worms are:—fever, colic, variable appetite, restlessness, weakness and convulsions. The unfailing remedy is Dr. Lowe's Worm Syrup.

Cures Others
Will cure You, is a true statement of the action of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, when taken for diseases originating in impure blood; but, while this assertion is true of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, as thousands can attest, it cannot be truthfully applied to other preparations, which unprincipled dealers will recommend, and try to impose upon you, as "just as good as Ayer's." Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's only, if you need a blood-purifier and would be benefited permanently. This medicine, for nearly fifty years, has enjoyed a reputation, and made a record for cures, that has never been equalled by other preparations. AYER'S Sarsaparilla eradicates the taint of hereditary scrofula and other blood diseases from the system, and it has, deservedly, the confidence of the people.
AYER'S
Sarsaparilla
"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this, my body was covered with pimply eruptions. The remedies prescribed failed to help me. I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and, in a short time, the pains ceased and the pimples disappeared. I advise every young man or woman, in case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. L. Jarmann, 33 William st., New York City.

A Great Mineral Collection.

The largest and richest private cabinet of minerals in America is said to be that of Clarence L. Bement of Philadelphia. His collection fills nearly a whole floor of his large house, which is lighted with special reference to seeing his treasures to advantage, and none of the great public museums have specimens of a size, beauty and perfection to surpass those that he has been patiently gathering for the past twenty years or more. The leading dealers in this country have standing orders to send him the best of what comes to them, and they willingly do so, for he is prompt and liberal in his payments, being a gentleman not only of enthusiasm but of ample fortune. What he does not take is sent to the British museum as the second best buyer. While it is difficult to set a price on a scientific collection, it is said by those who should know that Mr. Bement's cabinet is worth at least $125,000.

The Sudden Uses of a Knife.

The usefulness of carrying a sharp jackknife was shown the other day in a Lewiston, Me., mill, when one of the young women's hair came tumbling down as she passed a piece of heavy machinery and the ends of it caught in some slowly revolving cogwheels. The girl screamed, but did not have the presence of mind to break away at once before more strands of her hair were caught and dragged in. She stood there holding out her arms and screaming, while her head was drawn nearer and nearer to the fatal wheels. Then up came a man with a sharp jackknife. He compassed the hair of the girl within his left hand and held it firmly as he might a rope and with the other hand severed the hair close to the wheels.

A Fact About Borings.

There are very important evidences of internal heat derived from the universal phenomenon of a fairly uniform increase of temperature in all deep wells, mines, borings or tunnels. This increase has been usually reckoned as 1 degree Fahrenheit for each 60 feet of descent, but a recent very careful estimate by Professor Prestwich, derived from the whole of the available data, gives 1 degree Fahrenheit for every 47.5 feet of descent. It is a curious indication of the universality of this increase that even in the coldest parts of Siberia, where the soil is frozen to a depth of 620 feet, there is a steady increase in the temperature of this frozen soil from the surface downward.

Grafting Wax.

The Bulletin of the Experiment Farm at Ottawa, where much grafting is performed, especially of the cherry, gives the composition of the grafting wax there employed. A wax for outdoor use is made by melting together five parts of resin and two parts of beeswax; to this is added one and a half or two parts of linseed oil. For winter use in the grafting-room less oil and beeswax make a more suitable composition.

Dairying in New Zealand.

New Zealand cheese and butter makers have urged their government to secure the services of a leading expert, to lecture and instruct in cheese and butter making. They also advise the establishment of a model factory, the granting of certificates for skill, also that the produce shipped to the London market should be inspected by a competent judge before being offered for sale.

Miscegenation.

Negroes and whites are allowed to intermarry in twenty-three states and territories. They are all northern states but one—Louisiana. They are as follows: Connecticut, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming. In all the other states such marriages are absolutely void.

A Curious Railway Accident.

One of the curiosities of the recent cold weather at Allentown, Pa., was the freezing fast to the wet rails of three long and heavy coal trains. One of them suffered an accident compelling it to stop, and when it was ready to move its 125 cars were frozen fast and could not be moved. One train after another came along on the same track and, on stopping for those in front to move, suffered the same fate. It was several hours before the blockade was raised.

Scottish Divorces.

There has been a large increase in the number of divorces granted in Scotland in late years. Between 1864 and 1874 the average number was thirty-five a year, which increased to fifty-nine between 1874 and 1880. Last year 127 divorces were granted there, as against 109 in 1891 and eighty-nine in 1890. Of last year's decrees sixty-eight were obtained by husbands and fifty nine by wives. Infidelity was the ground for considerably more than half.

More Valuable Than Diamonds.

Cod liver oil from the cod fish when combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda, as in "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," will build up the cellular tissues and create new blood. This is just what consumptive patients need. It has cured thousands of people who would otherwise have been at this time occupying narrow spaces in the graveyards of our country. Miller's Emulsion is worth a trial. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all drug stores.

From the Far North.

In northern climates people are very subject to colds, but the natural remedy is also produced in the same climate. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Price 25c. and 50c.

A Sensible Man.

Would use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. It is curing more cases of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup and all Throat and Lung Troubles, than any other medicine. The proprietor has authorized any druggist to give you a Sample Bottle FREE to convince you of the merit of this great remedy. Large bottles 50c. and $1.

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, aided by the use of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

Bad Blood Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters for bad blood and find it, without exception, the best purifying tonic in use. A short time ago two very large and painful boils came on the back of my neck, B.B.B. completely drove them away.
SAMUEL BLAIN, Toronto Junction.

Ask your neighbors if they use Dodds Kidney Pills? They strengthen the nerves, tone the system, and the most stubborn cases of kidney disease yield to their influence. They are especially appreciated by the old. Ask your neighbors about them.

UNHAPPY PAGE.

A Lesson for Those Who Grow Tired Early.

She was a woman of middle age, thin and plain, with no claim to beauty except the eager dark eyes shining startlike from a wistful, care-lined face. Twenty years ago she had slipped her trustful hand into that of another, and counting the world well lost for the sake of her love and faith, had entered upon a life of such toil, privation and heroic endurance as only women in frontier settlements, amid primitive conditions, know.

"I have tried my best," she said, simply, "to keep up with the children. Father and I resolved, when our first boy was a baby, that, stint and scrape and contrive as we might, we'd educate all that heaven sent us. And we have done what we could. I wasn't willing that my children should get ahead of me; I've tried to study their lessons with them, and to enter into their feelings. I don't want them to outstrip me in the race."

This mother had been one of those to whom early rising and late retiring had been always essential, in order that the routine of the house-work should not suffer. In that part of the country where she lived, hired help for domestic purposes was almost unheard of; women did their own work, a neighbor's daughter sometimes lending a kind hand in an exigency, and the men of the family doing their share at need. In her determined effort to keep step with her children in their intellectual development, she had in another direction builded better than she knew; for the children, boys and girls alike, had early been pressed into her service, and had, as she explained, "taken hold" of whatever was to be done. The boys could make beds and set tables as well as draw water and split wood. The girls were facile housekeepers, with a practical knowledge of cooking and laundry-work—in our society as essential in the outfit for life to the richest as to the poorest. Though the living in the household was plain, it was abundant, and the ideal set before the family was something nobler than a mere strife for wealth. Everything was open and above-board. Books were read and prized in common, and so much was going on to interest everybody that there was no temptation to devour poisonous tidbits in secret. So it came to pass that the keeping up with the children brought great good in its wake.

At last a day dawned when the mother felt as if the first stone had been set in a wall of separation. Two of her brood had found their wings. A daughter was going to college. A son was entering upon a business career. The little wistful woman yearned to keep pace with them both, yearned perhaps to ordain the pathway of both, as she always had done. But it was inevitable that there should be some parting of the roads. Brave as she was, she kept down a heartache under her cheery show of courage.

"Have comfort, dear," said an older friend, who had been through a similar experience. "The children will never outgrow you; you had a twenty years' start of them. And you have so disciplined your mind, and trained your heart, and elevated your own thoughts above the daily rut, the fret, and the stir, that you dwell in a serene atmosphere, favorable to expansion of every faculty. They may acquire facts, but they will fly like honey-laden bees back to the hive. The mother who has kept pace with her children from babyhood to adolescence will never lose them."

A Dinner Gown.

A young lady's gown illustrated is of pink satin merveilleux. Around the skirts are two narrow folds of black velvet, with gold embroidery on the space between. The deep girdle is similarly embroidered. The bodice is draped to cross at the front, and there edged with velvet. The sleeves are half-long puffs.—Harper's Bazar.

Ex-Mayor Robert Bowie, Brockville, Ont., says:—"I used Nasal Balm for a bad case of catarrh, and it cured me after having ineffectually tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head. There is no case of cold in the head or catarrh that will not yield to Nasal Balm. Try it. All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

A Valuable Hint.

When you are attacked by cough or cold do not delay but commence at once to use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. This old standard remedy removes all irritation, loosens the phlegm, and heals the mucous surfaces, curing coughs and colds of all kinds.

FARMERS AND ARTISANS

RESOLVE TO UNITE FOR THEIR COMMON INTERESTS.

Fiery and Eloquent Speakers Declaim in Favor of What They Claim Are Their Rights and Appoint Committees for Combined Action.

TORONTO, March 2.—The Patrons of Industry and Dominion Grangers in conjunction with a number of the different labor organizations held a well-attended and enthusiastic meeting at the St. Lawrence Hall last evening. Mr. C. A. Mallory, president of the Patrons of Industry, occupied the chair, and on the platform were several gentlemen prominent in the different farm and labor organizations throughout the province and in this city. The meeting was addressed by T. W. Banton, President of the Trades and Labor Council, P. Hopenstall, President of the Dominion Grangers; John Miller, Grand Vice-President of the Patrons of Industry; Mr. Robinson, Dominion Grangers; A. F. Jury, A. Gifford, G. T. Beals, President of the Trades and Labor Council of Canada; T. O. Currie of the Patrons of Industry; D. A. Carey, E. H. Hilburn, J. Lockie and F. Kennedy. The key note of the addresses was organization for mutual protection politically, and if the enthusiasm evoked by the speeches may be taken as an indication of what the future has in store there will be mighty few professional gentlemen representing rural constituencies in Parliament in the years to come.

Class legislation and combines were bitterly assailed, and one speaker strongly advocated the adoption of the referendum. There was no end of eloquence, and the general culture manifested by the rural speakers must have indeed been surprising to those present from the city. One gentleman, a member of the Patrons of Industry, closed a brief and pointed speech with this eloquent peroration: "Let us, the common people, have our rights as well as those who gloat in ease behind tariff walls."

At the conclusion of the meeting this resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Moved by J. Lockie Wilson, seconded by F. Kennedy, that the joint meeting of the formed trades and labor organizations represented here to-night appoint a committee for the purpose of effecting combined action for the furthering of their common interest."

A meeting of the different orders was held at the conclusion of the public meeting when a committee was appointed for the purpose of carrying out the spirit of the resolution.

The Dominion Grangers.

Yesterday morning was taken up by the Dominion grangers with the discussion on the practicability of amalgamation with the Patrons of Industry and an address from Mr. Rogers, Secretary of the Canadian Horse Breeders' Association. The feeling of the majority of the members was against union, and the matter was given into the hands of the Committee on Sister Societies. Mr. Rogers' address was full of good advice relative to the breeding problem. The Committee on Legislation reported in favor of free corn for feeding purposes, and dissatisfaction was expressed with the slight reduction in the coal oil duty.

A desire was also expressed to have a law passed with a view to the regulation of bicycle riding on country roads, as it is claimed that under existing conditions many accidents now occur.

The afternoon was devoted to committee work, reports of which will be laid before the meeting to-day.

Patrons of Industry.

The Patrons of Industry gave up the day to the discussion of matters pertaining to the financial side of this order. The directors' report was considered in the morning and most of the afternoon was taken up with a discussion of their official organ, The Farmer's Sun, and the policy to be pursued regarding it in the future.

THE ABRAMS CASE.

The New York Jew Liberated — He Went Into Business in Toronto.

TORONTO, March 2.—Harris Abrams, the Polish Jew, hailing from New York, who was arrested in this city on the 22nd ult., was released yesterday morning. His solicitors, Neville, McWhinney & Ridley accomplished this by laying before Justice Meredith at Osgoode Hall the affidavits of Abrams and J. Nathan, his brother-in-law, to the effect that the defendant Abrams had no intention of leaving Canada. Abrams also asserted that he had no means by which he might satisfy the claims of his creditors. As the caplas on which Abrams was arrested had been granted on the supposition that he was about to flee from Canada, the judge declared that document of no effect and ordered his release. Abrams told his creditors that he intended to go into business in Toronto with the capital of his wife and hoped to be able to effect a settlement with them.

Shortly after the order for discharge was made Mr. Justice MacMahon made two other orders for his arrest, one at the instance of Oelbermann, Dommerich & Co., whose claim is $1000, the other at the instance of Schaefer, Schramm & Vogel, whose claim is $3000. Both of these firms carry on business at New York.

Officers of the City Sheriff were at the jail to re-arrest Abrams when he was released, but he declined to accompany them, as they were not in possession of the proper papers. But they followed him till he took the electric car, when they lost track of him. Three of the sheriff's officers watched the office of Neville, McWhinney & Ridley all the afternoon, taking it for granted that Abrams was locked up in the private office. Meanwhile Abrams was taking an afternoon airing, after being in jail for a week.

The firm of Emil, Oelbermann & Co. of New York, to whom Abrams is indebted to the extent of $511, is the plaintiff in the last action against Abrams. Mr. Neville has addressed the plaintiff's solicitors, stating that Abrams does not intend to leave Toronto, that he has no means and that they will be held strictly responsible in case he is arrested under these circumstances.

THE WINTER'S SNOWFALL.

Many Previous Winters Showed a Much Deeper Fall.

TORONTO, March 2.—The general impression that the snowfall (5 ft. 3 in.) of the present winter is something unusual in amount is not borne out by reference to the records of previous years.

Year.	Snowfall.
1834-5	5 ft. 4 in.
1889-90	5 ft. 6 in.
1890-1	5 ft. 6 in.
1884-5	5 ft. 3 in.
1886-7	6 ft. 1 in.
1888-9	5 ft. 11 in.
1870-1	7 ft. 2 in.
1872-3	7 ft. 5 in.
1873-4	5 ft. 10 in.
1882-3	5 ft. 5 in.
1883-4	5 ft. 3 in.
1885-7	5 ft. 8 in.

These are all up to the end of February of each winter, so that this impression is largely owing to the steady low temperature of the winter, there having been only three days since the beginning of the year, the average temperature of which was above the freezing point, the absence of any well marked thaw and the small loss by evaporation.

PRINCESS KIAULANI.

She Makes a Strong Appeal To the United States.

NEW YORK, March 2.—Princess Kaiulani, niece of the deposed Queen Lilinokalani of Hawaii, arrived yesterday on the steamer Teutonic. With her were Theophilus Davies and Mrs. Davies, who are the English guardians of the Princess; Miss Davies and Miss Wharton, companions to the Princess.

Princess Kaiulani has made this statement:

NEW YORK, March 1.

To the American People:

Unbidden I stand upon your shores today where I thought so soon to receive a royal welcome on my way to my own kingdom. I come unattended except by the loving hearts that have come with me over the wintry seas. I hear that commissioners from my land have been for many days asking this great nation to take away my little vineyard. They speak no word to me and leave me to find out as I can from the rumors of the air that they would leave me without a home, or a name, or a nation.

Seventy years ago Christian America sent over Christian men and women to give religion and civilization to Hawaii. They gave us the gospel, they made us a nation, and we learned to love and trust America. To-day three of the sons of those missionaries are at your capital asking you to undo their fathers' work.

Who sent them! Who gave them authority to break the constitution which they swore they would uphold?

To-day, I, a poor weak girl, with not one of my people near me and all those Hawaiian statesmen against me, have strength to stand up for the rights of my people. Even now I can hear their wail in my heart and it gives me strength and courage and I am strong—strong in the faith of God, strong in the knowledge that I am right, strong in the strength of 70,000,000 of people who in in this free land will hear my cry and will refuse to let their flag cover dishonor to mine.

SCALDED TO DEATH.

A Boiler In a Public Bath Explodes When the Building Was Crowded.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 2.—The boiler in the Mahommedan baths in Baku exploded when the establishment was crowded. More than 30 women and children fled naked into the streets. Several persons were scalded to death.

A Rare Edition.

LONDON, March 2.—At an auction at Sautoby's, Quaritch bought for $315 a rare edition of "Epistola Christoferi Colosi," printed in Rome in 1493. This work is believed to have been the first printed account of the discovery of America.

And still Lives.

TUCSON, Ariz., March 2.—Ferdinand Merrill on Tuesday shot five 44-calibre bullets through his head, two from right to left, coming out at the temple, and three in his mouth, coming out of the top of his head. Merrill is still living.

Being now comfortably settled in the centre of trade, we are fully prepared for business, and hope to be able to serve all our old customers and many more new ones.

The ladies are especially invited to call and look through our handsome new premises, where they will find us surrounded with the latest modern store improvements, increased shelf room, better light, and other accessories for the more effective display of our large and well assorted stock of Staple and Fancy Dry Goods.

BARGAINS as BIG and as REAL as ever. Some lines of goods slightly damaged by smoke to be sold for whatever they will bring.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

D'ALTON M'CARTHY DISCLOSES HIS NEW PLATFORM.

Gives Notice of a Motion Which Inclines More to a General Reduction of the Tariff Than to "Preferential Trade With Great Britain.

OTTAWA, March 3.—D'Alton McCarthy has at last taken action with respect to the tariff, and at a late hour last night gives notice of the following motion:

That since the introduction of the protective system sufficient time has elapsed for the establishment and development of such manufacturing industries as under existing conditions can be successfully carried on in Canada. Moreover, many manufacturers, sheltered behind the ramparts thus erected, have formed combinations and trusts which prohibit competition and create and maintain monopolies.

That the existing tariff, defensible only as a protective measure, has proved in many instances oppressive and burdensome to the great mass of the consuming classes and especially to those engaged in agricultural pursuits, is unfair and unequal in its incidents, and has been productive of discontent verging on disloyalty among those who suffer from its injustice.

That no sufficient reason has been adduced or exists requiring investigation respecting the foregoing facts, which are notorious, nor justifying delay in the passage of remedial legislation, which is imperative.

That in the opinion of this House the tariff ought to be at once amended in respect to the matters herein indicated, and also by the substantial reduction of customs duties in favor of the United Kingdom, "in whose market all Canadian products are admitted duty free, and of those nations which under treaty obligations with Great Britain would be entitled to the same advantages, graduated, however, so as not unnecessarily to prejudice the business of the country nor to do wrong to those who have imported and paid duties in accordance with its provisions;

And this House declares its readiness to make a like reduction in favor of such other portions of the empire, or with such other foreign countries, especially the United States of America, as are willing to reciprocate in matters of trade with Canada on fair and equitable terms.

The greater part of the afternoon session was taken up with a discussion of Hon. Mr. Costigan's bill to amend the act relating to masters and mates, in which Mr. Baird and other Maritime Province members participated.

As was anticipated would be the case, Mr. Weldon's bill to disfranchise electors who have taken bribes, and which was so unexpectedly strangled in committee last night, was restored to the order paper by the House on motion of Mr. Weldon, after a short discussion, and will come up again next week.

In reply to Mr. McCarthy's enquiry as to what action had been taken by the Government with regard to the resolution of the House on the matter of establishment of agents at Washington and other places, Hon. Mr. Foster said that while in England he and Sir John Abbott had brought the matter to the attention of Lord Rosebery, and it was found that there were a good many difficulties in the way of carrying out the proposal. There had not been any official written communication.

The bill to amend the Act to readjust the representation in the House of Commons, passed through Commons with some slight amendments, was read a third time and passed, being the first Government measure to go through this session. The bill is merely to correct some errors in boundaries, which had crept into the bill last year.

Mr. Maclean (East York) asked Sir John Thompson whether he intended adding a clause redistributing the seats of Toronto on the basis of the recent municipal division of the city into six wards. Sir John reserved the right last session, when the bill went through, of reapportioning these seats any time before the next election.

Sir John said he had done nothing as yet, but an amendment might be in order later on.

After recess Mr. Foster moved the House into Committee of Supply, when Dr. Weldon took occasion to bring up the question of the Nova Scotia coal combine. He reviewed the question at great length, going over the subject with great minuteness, quoting from the different acts and charters to show the present position of affairs.

His argument was to the effect that the bargain made by Mr. Fielding with the Whitney syndicate was liable to be made to operate to the disadvantage of the whole Dominion, and that in the general interest of the Dominion it was the duty of the Government to step in and advise his Excellency to disallow the bill pressed by the local Government.

Sir John Thompson replied, denying the justness of Mr. Weldon's contention that the other provinces of the Dominion had the right to interfere in legislation which was wholly under the jurisdiction of the local government. He said that while personally he would not approve of the bargain made by the Government of Nova Scotia, still that Government was the duly constituted authority in the province, and as they had large majorities in both Houses it was but reasonable to suppose that they represented the majority of the people of the province.

In conclusion he said that it was not incumbent on the Dominion Ministry to advise His Excellency to disallow the legislation of the Nova Scotia Legislature.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Kenny, McNeill, Fraser and Sir Donald Smith until midnight, when the matter dropped and the House went into supply, passed a few items, and adjourned at 12.15.

In the Committee on Banking and Commerce this morning the bills to incorporate the Ocean Accident Corporation, the Ocean Guarantee Corporation and the Eastern Trust Co. were passed with some slight amendments and ordered to be reported to the House.

Quite a number of members of the House are receiving invitations to deliver addresses on St. Patrick's Day. Dr. Montague has been asked to go to Perth, Mr. C. R. Devlin to Toronto, and Messrs. McInerney, Adams and Bergin to Cornwall.

In the Senate Divorce Committee yesterday the Howard divorce case was concluded and ordered to be reported to the Senate. The case of Mr. Hebden against his wife, who eloped with Mr. J. S. Allan of Montreal, was then taken up and evidence was heard as to cohabitation, after which the bill was ordered to be reported.

It is said that Mr. McCarthy will not make his speech on the tariff until after Sir John Thompson leaves for England, but that the Manitoba school matter will come up next week, probably on Monday, when there will be a discussion as to the action of the Government in referring the matter to the Supreme Court.

It is understood to be definitely settled that Sir John Thompson will leave for England on the 10th inst. He will be accompanied by Lady Thompson and his two daughters and his private secretary, Mr. Douglas Stewart.

Mr. Lister last night gave notice that he will ask the Government whether it is intended to recoup those Canadian shippers who had to pay tolls at the Sault Ste. Marie Canal.

VERY IMPROBABLE.

Canadians and Australians Threatening to Go To Ireland to Fight.

BOSTON, Mass., March 3.—A special to The Journal from Montreal says: "There are 20,000 Orangemen in Canada who are even now actively, though secretly, preparing to help their brethren in Ulster should the Irish Home Rule Bill pass the Commons and the Lords. Orangemen here thoroughly believe that trouble will occur in Ireland if the measure becomes law, and a prominent member of the Orange order in Quebec states that Orangemen are prepared to assist Ulster with money or with men if necessary. The different lodges all over the Dominion are in active correspondence, and a large sum of money is already subscribed.

"Negotiations have been opened with Australia, where there is a very large body of Ulster Protestants, and a contingent is promised from there to go to Ireland. One of the steamship companies here has been asked for rates for several thousand men. The Orange official who gave the information is employed on the Canadian Pacific Railroad and he says there are hundreds of men on that road eager to strike work and go to Ireland.

"What is to prevent the Irish in the States from returning to Ireland?" he was asked. He answered, "They are no good. The Orangemen in Canada would like to get at them. Of one thing there can be no doubt—the Orangemen here are willing and prepared to go to Ireland in case of trouble."

HIPPOLYTE DETERMINED

To Crush the Revolutions in Hayti—Dominicans Expelled.

NEW YORK, March 3.—A special from Kingston, Jamaica, says: News has reached here that President Hippolyte is determined to put an end to the incipient revolutions which have broken out in various sections of the black republic.

While he does not think, and this belief is shared generally by well-informed people, the troubles at all serious, he has taken steps to stop them and pacify the republic. At the head of a well-equipped army he has started on a tour of the country, and it is probable that the rioters or revolutionists will not meet with any considerable degree of consideration at his hands should he fall foul of them.

A gunboat follows the coast line, within supporting distance of Hippolyte's column, so as to be able to give prompt assistance in case trouble arises in any of the coast cities.

The Dominicans who sought refuge in Hayti after the recent failure of the attempt to unseat President Heraux have been expelled from Haytian territory. This is regarded as an indication that there has been a satisfactory arrangement made between Hippolyte and Heraux.

A NEGRO EXODUS.

Black Men Leaving the South to Scatter Themselves Over the World.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 3.—A large meeting of colored men was held here Tuesday night. Reporters were excluded, but it leaked out yesterday that a scheme looking to an exodus of the negroes from the south is being worked up, headed by men prominent among the blacks, Atlanta being the focus of the operations.

Jim Easley, one of the leading spirits, said: "Already 3000 negroes have gone out of this country, and the aggregate will be swelled in a short while until the number remaining will be small. The idea does not take in any special place, but the scheme is to have the negroes scattered out all over the west on little farms of 40 acres.

"One hundred thousand negroes will leave the south in the next few months. At the meeting here 275 men paid down $2 each as the first instalment to purchase farms."

A FRIENDLY DINNER.

Harrison Will Entertain Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Friday Evening.

NEW YORK, March 3.—A despatch from Washington says that outside of the usual formal interchange of personal courtesies between an outgoing and incoming President, Gen. Harrison will exceed all precedent by giving a dinner party at the White House on Friday evening to Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland and a few other guests. This dinner is strictly non-official and entirely personal in its character.

It is understood to be the result of certain private correspondence which has been exchanged between the President and his successor. Mr. Cleveland has been most gracious and sympathetic in private communications to the President concerning his domestic afflictions, and President Harrison has been naturally responsive.

College Burned.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 3.—The Arkansas Baptist College buildings, established here six years ago by the colored Baptists for the education of girls was burned at 2 o'clock this morning. About 20 students slept in the building, and how any escaped from the burning wooden tinder box is inexplicable. All were compelled to jump and of the 26 who were badly injured two were so seriously that they will die.

Nothing was saved. Loss $8000, insurance $4000.

The office of The Arkansas Vanguard was also destroyed. The fire is believed to have been incendiary, two previous attempts to burn the college having been made.

One More Unfortunate.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Augusta Erricson, a Swedish servant, 25 years old, employed by Mrs. William Carleton of Brooklyn, threw herself before an engine on the elevated road at Third-avenue and Twenty-third-street last evening and was instantly killed. Her body was ground to a shapeless mass before the engine could be stopped and the blood trickled down through the sleepers to the street. The woman had been wronged.

IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT.

REDMOND SHOWED FIGHT IN A HEATED DEBATE.

The Objectionable Statement That the Irish Members Are Always in Sympathy With Murderers—No Security For Life and Property.

LONDON, March 3.—In the Commons to-day T. W. Russell, Liberal-Unionist, for South Tyrone, moved to adjourn the House to direct attention to the statement made by O'Brien at the opening of the Land Conference, that such lawlessness prevailed in County Clare that there was no security of life and property.

A heated debate followed. Mr. Morley, Irish Secretary, and several Irish members denounced the Justice's statement as misrepresentation of the facts for political purposes. Not only had there been no increase of crime in County Clare under the present Government, they contended, but on the contrary a slight but steady decrease.

Mr. Balfour, leader of the Unionists, questioned the correctness of this assertion. The Government, he said, had deliberately shut their eyes to a series of the most dasterdly crimes that had ever disgraced Ireland.

Col. Saunderson, the champion of the men of Ulster, supported Mr. Balfour, and denounced the Irish members as defenders of persistent criminals. He said that they were always in sympathy with murderers.

William Redmond, Parnellite leader, challenged Col. Saunderson, amid Irish cheers and Opposition laughter, to repeat these words outside the House.

Col. Saunderson offered to repeat them anywhere.

Before the vote the Opposition whips were busy bringing in every available member, as they hoped to be able to take the Government by surprise with an adverse majority.

The division, however, resulted in the defeat of Mr. Russell's motion by 230 to 216. The announcement of the figures evoked loud Liberal cheers.

TORIES SURPRISED.

Lord Randolph Churchill Defends Ireland's School System.

LONDON, March 3.—Lord Frederick Hamilton, Conservative member of Parliament for North Tyrone, in moving yesterday the second reading of the Irish Education bill urged that the Irish Board of Education ought to be controlled by Parliament in justice to the minority in Ireland. He called attention to the fact that it is the only board of the kind in the Kingdom not amenable to Parliamentary control.

Thomas Sexton, Nationalist member for North Kerry, contended that nobody suffered under the existing system of educational control in Ireland. He moved that the bill be read a second time six months from date.

T. W. Russell (Liberal Unionist), member for South Tyrone, argued that the state schools ought to be as free and open in the United Kingdom as in the United States. In Ireland Protestant children attending Catholic schools had to conform to Roman Catholic practices. [Irish laughter and cries of dissent.]

Lord Randolph Churchill made an unexpected attack on the Conservatives. He said the action of "the honorable and noble gentlemen" who had assailed the Irish educational system was illogical. That Board of Education had been in existence 70 years, and had administered the system well. It was absurd to embarrass the operations of the board by needless Parliamentary control. The board had not menaced religious freedom. He believed that the real object of those who assailed it was to prevent the Christian Brothers from sharing in the state grant as proposed. Lord Randolph paid a high tribute to the educational work of the Christian Brothers.

Chief Secretary Morley denounced the supporters of the bill for importing sectarianism into a party debate. He earnestly defended the Board of Education.

The motion for the second reading of the bill was rejected by a vote of 247 to 166.

ORANGEMEN MEET.

The Men of Ulster Declare Their Readiness to Fight.

BELFAST, March 3.—More than 5000 persons were present at the great Orange meeting yesterday. Dr. Kane, who presided, said that Ulster was prepared to defend herself to the last against the proposals of the Home Rule Bill. The men of Ulster need not feel, however, that they would be alone and unaided in the fight for their liberties. They had the sympathies of Englishmen of all classes throughout the world. He had received letters from military and police officers in England and Ireland, and telegrams from Canada and Australia, promising co-operation with the men of Ulster if the latter resorted to arms to defend their liberties against the tyranny of their historic foes. A hundred thousand Orangemen were ready to resist to the death the Home Rule bill.

William Johnston, M.P. for South Belfast, who called the meeting, concluded a violent speech by swearing on a Bible that he would never submit to the laws of a Dublin Parliament.

Dr. Kane then tore to pieces and threw to the floor a copy of the Home Rule bill and the meeting adjourned.

This evening the effigies of Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Morley were burned in High-street in the presence of a cheering crowd of thousands.

Talmage Will Stay

NEW YORK, March 3.—The rumor that Dr. Talmage is about to retire from the Brooklyn Tabernacle was denied emphatically by the doctor himself last night. He said he preferred Brooklyn to any other city for a place of residence and did not expect to leave it. The Tabernacle was threatened by a most serious exigency but he hoped and believed the trouble would be triumphantly overcome.

CONCILIATING THE COMBINE.

The Government organs made a great parade of the Government's generosity and consideration of the farmers' interests in reducing the customs duty upon binder twine from 25 to 12½ cents. But the Government has made haste to destroy the effect of this concession and make themselves solid with the combine by reducing the duty on the raw material used by the combine. At Ottawa, on Wednesday, resolutions were smuggled through the committee of ways and means at three o'clock in the morning containing one item which nobody except the Government knew anything about. It had not been announced and was not explained. It was a concession to the binder twine combine by the reduction of the duty on their raw material from 20 per cent. to 10 per cent. The resolutions in full were as follows:

"Resolved, that it is expedient to amend the Act 53, Vic., chap. 20, entitled 'An act respecting the duties of customs,' by repealing the item numbered 184 under section 10 of the said act, and to provide otherwise by enacting the following rates of duty in lieu thereof: Twine for harvest binders, of hemp, jute, manilla or sisal, and of manilla and sisal mixed, 12½ per cent., ad valorem, 12½ per cent. Rove, when imported for the manufacture of twine for harvest binders, 10 per cent. ad valorem, 10 per cent. Resolved, that it is expedient to further amend the said act, 53 Vic., chap. 20, by repealing the item numbered 291 under section 11, and substitute the following in lieu thereof: 'Mining machinery imported prior to the 16th day of May, 1896, which is at the time of its importation of a class or kind not manufactured in Canada.'"

COL. BOULTON'S FREE TRADE RESOLUTION.

In the senate Hon. Mr. Boulton, who until lately was an Albany club Conservative, moved the following resolution:—"That a select committee be appointed to inquire into the statistics of the country and its industrial progress, with the view of assimilating our commercial policy which has increased the prosperity of the people of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland in such a marked degree, with power to send for persons and papers, and to employ shorthand writers." In support of this resolution the senator from Manitoba made a carefully considered and argumentative speech. He alluded to the argument against Britain's free trade policy drawn from the agricultural depression now existing there, and gave authorites for his assertion in reply that, notwithstanding the depression, the condition of the laboring classes in Great Britain was a prosperous one. He quoted Mr. Dyke's annual report in his capacity as agent of the Canadian Gouernment at Liverpool, in which it is stated that nearly evey branch of manufacturing industry was fairly prosperous, wages increased and labour well paid, and the number of paupers smaller than at any time during the last 55 years. He gave the figures of the enormous increase in the number of cattle, sheep and pigs in Great Britain during the past two years, which did not appear to him to be evidence of great depression. Turning to Canada, Mr. Boulton expressed his want of confidence in the system tried here during the past fourteen years. Canada, with all its natural advantages, would, in his belief, go forward in prosperity if she was relieved of fiscal burdens and granted the boon of free trade. The hon. gentlemen analyzed the census returns of industries, assuming them to be correct, and drew attention to the small development in some, and to an actual decrease in one or two national industries.

Sunshine comes, no matter how dark the clouds are, when the woman who is borne down by woman's troubles turns to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If her life is made gloomy by the chronic weaknesses, delicate derangements, and painful disorders that afflict her sex, they are completely cured. If she's overworked, nervous, or "run down," she has new life and strength.

"Favorite Prescription" is a powerful, invigorating tonic and a soothing, strengthening nervine, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and vigor. For every "female complaint" and disturbance, it is the only remedy so sure and unfailing that it can be GUARANTEED.

If it dosen't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

An Inactive or Torpid Liver must be aroused and all bad bile removed. Burdock Pills are best for old or young.

A Cure for Constipation and Headache

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs, makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders. Druggists sell it at 50c. a package.

HARVEY.

Council Meeting.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Harvey council met at the clerk's office Feb'y 27th, 1893. Members all present. Minutes of January 16th read and confirmed. Communications and accounts were read from P. H. Bryce, re Harvey Board of Health officers; from F. S. Spence, re plebicite in the Province; A. E. Bottom's account for ballot box and lock; accounts of Mrs. Jos. Finlay and Wm. Finlay, for bedding, clothing and other household effects destroyed in disinfecting to stamp out diphtheria, no order. A petition was read from George Dawkins and others, for a new school section at Deer Bay neighbourhood. A motion was passed that a new school section be formed comprising all the lots and parts of lots in concessions No. 1, 2, 3 and 4 and certain lots numbered from 7 to 15 inclusive, in 5th and 6th con, of Township of Harvey. The clerk was instructed to notify the trustees of school sections 4, 5 and 6 to call meetings in their several sections and report to the council. A by-law was passed appointing pathmasters, poundkeepers, fence viewers and re-appointing the deputy-returning officers for Harvey for the current year. James Ingram was authorized to procure a steel road scraper for his road beat. Order drawn for $2 to A. E. Bottom for ballot box and lock. The reeve was instructed to attend the land sales for taxes in arrears, on behalf of the municipality. The county council of Peterborough at their late session made a grant of $100 to be expended on the road from Buckhorn to Scott's Mills, provided the Ontario Government grants $200 and the Harvey council grants $50 for the same purpose—which sum was granted by the Harvey council upon like conditions. On motion the council adjourned, to meet at Hall's Bridge school house, on Saturday the 18th day of March next.

Indispensable.

There are some simple remedies indispensable in every family. Among these, the experience of years assures us, should be recorded PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER. For both internal and external application we have found it of great value; especially can we recommend it for colds, rheumatism, or fresh wounds and bruises.

A Cure For Headache.

Headache arises from constipation, bad blood, dyspepsia or liver complaint. As B. B. B. cures all these complaints it is naturally the most successful headache cure existing. Once the cause is removed the headache vanishes.

MAKES ITSELF FELT

—the great, griping, old-fashioned pill. Not only when you take it, but unpleasant, from first to last, and it only does a little temporary good.

The things to take its place are Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. One of these at a dose will regulate the whole system perfectly. They're tiny, sugar-coated granules, scarcely larger than mustard seeds. They act in Nature's own way. No reaction afterward. Their help lasts and they do permanent good. Constipation, Indigestion, Bilious Attacks, Sick or Bilious Headaches, and all derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels are prevented, relieved, and cured.

They're the cheapest, for they're guaranteed to give satisfaction or money is returned. Nothing can be "just as good."

A CLEAN SWEEP!

LET THE GLAD TIDINGS FLY!

THE FOES ARE VANQISHED!

A clean sweep of dangerous and deadly foes is always the result, when Paine's Celery Compound is used. The prevailing troubles of humanity, such as nervousness, sleeplessness, rheumatism, general weakness and liver and kidney diseases, are always quickly banished when this great life-saving agent is called upon to show its powers. Miss Laura Eiler, of Shakespeare, Ont., writes for the benefit of suffering humanity. The following are extracts from her testimonial :—

"I was in a weak and emaciated condition for five and a half years. I had pains to the top of my head, and my heart was so much affected that I could never lie down without three pillows at my back, and in a half-sitting posture. The last time I visited the doctor, he saw I was failing in spite of everything he did for me; he told me I might have Bright's disease in the second stage. After that I started to take Paine's Celery Compound as prescribed, and I had not taken it over two days when I could sleep from night until morning, and in a few months time I was able to do some work. I am now stronger than I have been for years, and have only taken one dose of the Compound a day for the last two months ; I have taken several kinds of patent medicines, but find Paine's Celery Compound the best of all."

I certify that I am acquainted with the above party and know that what she writes to be reliable.

THE "CANADIAN" MAGAZINE.

There has just been issued the first number (March) of a new magazine and national review, devoted to politics, science, art and literature, and known as "The Canadian Magazine. It is to be published monthly by the Ontario Publishing Co., Ltd., a strong company, the first directors of which are the Hon. J. C. Patterson, Minister of Militia; Hon. Thomas Ballantyne, Speaker of the Ontario Legislature; Thomas Mulvey, Barrister; John Ferguson, M.D.; Garratt F. Frankland; T. H. Best; J. Gordon Mowat; L. Bentley, M.D.; and E. Stewart, C.E., while the stock list includes the names also of W. R. Meredith, Q.C., M.P.P.; Dr. Wylie, M.P.P.; Attorney-General Longley and other well known men. Mr. J. Gordon Mowat (Moses Oates) is the editor. The list of contributors includes many of the most prominent men in Canadian public life, among them Hon. Wilfred Laurier, R. S. White, M.P., A. McNeill, M.P., Hon. David Mills, and other statesmen, and a large number also of able and graceful writers on a variety of articles. The current issue contains a good variety of articles. D'Alton McCarthy, Q.C., M.P., deals with "The Manitoba Public School Law," and Principal Grant with "Anti-National Features of the National Policy," Rev. W. S. Blackstock in a well-written article, "The Norsemen the Discoverers of America," attacks Columbus and presents much that is new to most readers regarding Ante-Columbian discoveries and settlement on this continent. Prof. Wm. Clark, of Trinity College, writes thoughtfully of "Conduct and Manner." "In the Shadow of the Arctic" is the title of an illustrated article on Hudson's Bay, by W. W. Fox. "Some Modernisms of the Stage" are chattily discussed by Hector W. Charlesworth. J. H. Cameron in a charming well-illustrated article describes the Latin Quarter of Paris, and Uncle Thomas in "The Regenerators" humorously compares city and country life in their adaptations to people with "fads." "Sir Lancelot," a brilliant addition to the Authurian Legends, by W. W. Campbell, "The Birds' Lullaby," a very pretty short poem by E. Pauline Johnson, and an "Imitation of Horace," by S. P. Morse, comprise the poetic contributions. Two stories, "Which Is It?" a character study, by E. J. Toker, and "An Open Window," a thrilling Canadian story by Wm. T. James, make up the literary contents. The illustrations are good. The magazine should meet with the cordial support of every intelligent Canadian. The subscription is $2.50 per annum. Publishers: The Ontario Publishing Co. Ltd., Manning Arcade, Toronto.

Sick Headache BEECHAM'S PILLS.

Couldn't Keep on His Feet.

PETERBOROUGH, Jan. 31st, 1892.

To the Peterborough Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN,—If there is any medicine in the world that I pin my faith to it is Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. In my business I have to stand on my feet a good deal. About a year ago my back began to give out, weakening pains set in across my kidneys, I felt tired all the time and could hardly stand up to my work. I began to lose strength and at last had to give up work altogether. A customer advised me to try your cure which I did. Before half the bottle was used, I felt the pains and weakness leaving me and to-day I enjoy good health and can bear fatigue and work all right. One bottle was all I used.

The election to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. McAuley as reeve, took place on Thursday, and considerable interest was manifested in the election. The result as given below showed a very close vote :—

The returning officer declared Mr. Wiseman, reeve of Havelock and he received the hearty congratulations of his friends and supporters.

MOTHER, IS YOUR BABY SUFFERING FROM IMPERFECT DIGESTION?

Defects and derangements among infants and young children are common ailments, and they complicate a great variety of diseases. It would be well if mothers thoroughly realised the truth of this statement.

When baby is restless, cross and irritable it is safe to say that the little darling is suffering from some defect of indigestion brought about by improper dieting. In our experience, the common prepared foods sold in many localities are the cause of all the trouble. These foods, owing to their crude and imperfect composition would give dyspepsia or indigestion to an adult if they were used for a week.

Just imagine their terrible effect on the weak and delicate stomach of an infant! Is it any wonder that so many of these tender buds find an early grave?

To secure perfect and regular digestion the most eminent doctors of Canada are prescribing Lactated Food for infants and the young generally. The best analytical chemists affirm, without hesitation, that Lactated Food contains more nourishing and building up properties than any other now sold. These facts should influence every mother to give her babe the best as life and health depend upon wise infant dieting.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's house one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the boss" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a bluff trick,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently assertedby Companies whose business is nearly all tontines, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWEIS'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the Posts Cards and Stamps.

The new postal cards, letter cards and stamps have been issued by the Government. The letter cards are a novelty. They are in form somewhat similar to the return postal cards and are gummed on the edge and perforated. When the letter is written the card is sealed up, and to open it the perforated portion is torn off. These are sold at three cents, and for the price of a stamp, paper envelope and stamp are obtained. The new postal card is much larger than the ones that have been in use and will be more useful. The new stamps are of 20 cents and 50 cents value, and will be useful for parcel post. The 20 cents are a deep orange and the 50 cents an indigo blue. They are similar in design and resemble very much the bill stamps.

Will the Cricketers Organise?

Spring is "drawing nigh unto us" and with it is associated all the manly and athletic sports which have been so vigorously engaged in during past seasons. A prominent cricketer—one who takes a lively and enthusiastic interest in the good old English game would like to know if the lovers of the willow and wicket intend organizing a strong club this year. If so it is time that the annual meeting of the cricket club was held. While the last two years in cricket have not been as successful as desired from many points of view, still there is plenty of good material in town, and all that needs to be done is for this to be brought out and diligently trained. But there is the fault, only about half a dozen citizens turn out to practice regularly, and hence when matches came off, the home club invariably met defeat. Let local cricketeers ponder over the pros and cons in favour of a first-class cricket club existing in Peterborough, and if everything is favourable—and there is no reason why all things should not be this—let a meeting be called at an early day for organization so that all preparations may be effected in due time.

You can never tell what a slight cold may lead to; it is best, therefore, to give yourself the benefit of the doubt, and cure it as soon as possible with Aye'r Cherry Pectoral. A day's delay, sometimes an hour's delay, may result in serious consequences.

Large Sail Boat.

For some time past we have wondered how it was that the large brick building on the corner north of the post office was brilliantly lighted almost every night, and being curious as to the cause, we stepped in to enquire, and then found that it was the "Canadian" Canoe Co's factory, and that they are working on a large sail boat, which is intended to carry about 200 feet of canvass, and as they would be unable to bring it down stairs when completed, they had to build it on the ground floor. 1d

Horse Notes.

The race will be best three heats in five. The track is as smooth as a lawn and a great race may be expected. Hazel Mack and Fred S. are about evenly matched and the race will certainly be a close and exciting one.

Peterborough's Collegiate Institute.

Mr. Houston, M. A., principal of the Smith Falls' collegiate institute, accompanied by Mr. Anderson, B. A., classical master, are in town, for an inspection and examination of the organization, work, efficiency and teaching facilities of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute. It is understood that the visitors chose Peterborough's widely known collegiate institute as the one to visit and glean "pointers" upon the advice of Mr. J. E. Hodgson, M. A., high school inspector for Ontario. This is a practical proof that our town has the model collegiate institute of the province, and that its work is known and recognized as the best. It is, indeed, a deserving compliment to the excellent work done here by the vigilant Principal, Mr. Fessenden, and his able staff of assistants. A teacher's convention is being held at Smith's Falls at present and there being no classes in the Collegiate Institute there, Principal Howson and Mr. Anderson took the opportunity to visit Peterborough and it is needless to say that there visit will not be in vain.

KING CHARLES I. CHAMPIONED.

His Execution was Unjustifiable.

The regular debate of the Catholic Association held last night, was perhaps the best of the series, especially in point of attendance. The hall was literally crowded with auditors, who were delighted with the programme presented, both in a musical and eloquential sense. Mr. W. Brick, the indefatigable and enthusiastic secretary, occupied the chair. The programme opened with a well rendered chorus given by the glee club, Mr. R. J. Hiller taking the solo. This new organization is making good progress. This was followed by a well snug solo, "Love's Proving," by Mr. M. Dunn. Miss Dubruiel contributed a very creditable recitation of her own composition, entitled "Tid-bits." Mr. T. J. Begley's bass solo, "On the Rolling Wave," was very creditably sung. Miss Nellie Muncaster gave a pianoforte solo with excellent taste, expression and execution, Leybach's "Chanson a Boire," opus 50. Miss Minnie O'Leary, of Hastings, made her debut as a violinista and scored a gratifying success, hers being the only number honoured with an encore. She played waltzes from the "Chimes of Normandy," and in response to an enthusiastic recall gave that sweet theme, "Robin Adair." Capt. Howard need not think that he has the only Star in Hastings. A very effective and pleasing closing of the general programme, was the excellent exhibition of club swinging presented by Miss K. Lynch, to the pianoforte accompaniment of Miss Annie Lynch. The several accompaniments were played by Misses K. Hurley, K. Dunn, A Lynch and M. Begley. Pleasing as the general programme was, the feature of the evening was, however, the resurrection of a long-buried subject, or, rather, sovereign, King Charles I, the question of debate being "Was the execution of Charles I. justifiable?" The champions of the Puritan regicide, the affirmative, were Messrs. R. Henry, H. Cook, and the champions of the unfortunate monarch were Dr. Brennan, J. McPherson and R. W. Muncaster. The several speakers handled the subject ably, and in their addresses demonstrated the usefullness of such debates, by showing what a large amount of historical information they had gained or revived in the investigation of the subject. The arbiters, who had quite different views from the Cromwellian judges, were Messrs. T. Dolan, J.J. Sheehy and R. J. Hiller. After a few minutes consultation the judges decided in favour of the negative.

At the next regular meeting of the Association, Rev. Father Collins will deliver an address on the subject of "The Irish Character." Next Tuesday night.

SECESSION.

The Colborne Express says that the reeves and deputy-reeves of the county of Durham are about to meet in Orono for the purpose of taking steps for the separation of the "united" counties of Northumberland and Durham. This step has been prompted by the destruction of the Port Hope public buildings by fire. Erection of new ones must necessarily follow at once, and the idea of shaping them to accommodate county and court offices is very tempting. Durham, it seems, is financially the biggest half of the corporation, and as the counties had nothing at stake at Cobourg, only the gaol, the effort at separation must succeed now or never. There will be a jangle of course with Bowmanville, but if the county really desires a change the selection of Port Hope will commend itself to all interested directly.

Colorless, Emaciated, Helpless

A Complete Cure by HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA.

This is from Mr. D. M. Jordan, a retired farmer, and one of the most respected citizens of Otsego Co., N. Y.

"Fourteen years ago I had an attack of the gravel, and have since been troubled with my

Liver and Kidneys

gradually growing worse. Three years ago I got down so low that I could scarcely walk. I looked more like a corpse than a living being. I had no appetite and for five weeks I ate nothing but gruel. I was badly emaciated and had no more color than a marble statue. Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and I thought I would try it. Before I had finished the first bottle I knew that I felt better, suffered less, the inflammation of the bladder had subsided, the color began to return to my face, and I began to feel hungry. After I had taken three bottles I could eat anything without hurting me. Why, I got so hungry that I had to eat 5 times a day. I have now fully recovered, thanks to

Hood's Sarsaparilla

I feel well and am well. All who know me marvel to see me so well." D. M. JORDAN.

WELCOMING YOUNG MEN.

A Pleasant Reception at the Y. M. C. A. Rooms Last Evening—The George Street Church Young People Furnish a Capital Programme.

About one hundred and thirty young men were entertained in the Y.M.C.A. rooms last evening. The rooms presented a very lively and pleasant appearance and many were the expressions of surprise at the large number assembled and pleasure concerning the excellent and varied programme and choice refreshments, both of which were kindly furnished by the George street Young People's Society. The chair was occupied by Rev. J. H. Locke and the proceedings were opened with prayer by Rev. A. MacWilliams. The programme consisted of the following items:

Piano duet ..... Misses Wrighton and Hall
Mouth-organ solo ..... Mr. H. Dicks
Vocal solo ..... Mrs. Hamilton
Two selections ..... Y.M.C.A. Band
Reading ..... Dr. Clarke
Piano solo ..... Mr. Mitchell
Piano duet ..... Misses Edith and Abbie Robinson
Song ..... Misses Sherlock and Stevens, and Messrs. Steers and Squires
Song ..... Y.M.C.A. Quartette

Brief addresses were given by Mr. J. W. Bennet, president, and Mr. W. F. Chapman, secretary of the association, in which they heartily welcomed the young men present and expressed their warm appreciation of the very kind services of the young people of the George street church. At the close of the programme refreshments were served in the hall and to these ample justice was done. The singing of the doxology and prayer by Mr. G. M. Roger brought to a close the proceedings of a most enjoyable evening. Great credit is due to the young ladies of George street church, especially to Misses Frize and Shortly, who had charge of the refreshments and programme.

DISGRACEFUL SPORTING.

The Hastings Star says:—Considerable activity was observable among our local sports on Monday, which gave rise to the idea that another horse race was on the tapis. Enquiry however revealed the disgraceful fact that a cocking main had been arranged to be fought between a number of birds from Belleville and Peterborough. The constable was duly advised of the contemplated violation of the law but that worthy allowed himself to be spirited to Norwood and so the brutal exhibition took place without let or hinderance from any of the conservators of the peace. We learn that one of the birds from Peterborough and one from Belleville was killed and others shockingly mutilated. Some of the unfeathered bipeds had a few blows and at one time a general ruction was threatened. It is to be hoped that the matter will not be allowed to rest, but that all parties implicated in the disgraceful exhibition will be dealt with according to law, which for the information of those interested is "a fine not exceeding fifty dollars, or imprisonment with or without hard labour, or both," for aiding or assisting in such exhibitions, and a similar fine and penalty for permitting such exhibitions on any premises.

The Ladies Delighted.

The pleasant effect and the perfect safety with which ladies may use the liquid fruit laxitive, Syrup of Figs, under all conditions make it their favourite remedy. It is pleasing to the eye and to the taste, gentle, yet effectual in acting on the kidneys, liver and bowels.

For Nettle Rash, Summer Heat and general toilet purposes, use Low's Sulphur Soap.

THE LATE J. M. FERRIS, EX-M.P.P.

The announcement of the death of the J. M. Ferris, ex-M.P.P., East Northumberland, will be received with deep regret, not only in this town and district, where he was well known, but in the province at large, where his long political experience made him well known for his ability, and respected for his integrity and uprightness. His death took place at his residence Campbellford, yesterday afternoon after a long illness. The deceased gentleman was of Irish birth, a native of Belfast. He has been a citizen of Campbellford for thirty-four years and was one of the oldest merchants in the town, and has, for years been a prominent figure in many industrial and financial enterprises. He was postmaster of Campbellford about 20 years ago, and at the time of his death was President of the Eastern Ontario Investment Company, a director of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, and a director of the Grand Trunk Railway Company. The occupancy of these positions for years, was a practical tribute to the deceased gentleman's business and financial ability, integrity and usefulness, which any man in this utilitarian age might justly regard with pride. In politics Mr. Ferris was a decided Liberal, active and energetic; he impressed his political personality strongly upon the riding in which he lived and which he represented in three legislative terms, and also upon the legislature himself, where his practical grasp of public questions, his ability as a debater, his assiduous attention to his duties, and his unflinching support of honest government created for him a high degree of respect both with the members of the government and his fellow representatives of both shades of politics. He was at one time reeve of Seymour and warden of his own county. Mr. Ferris leaves behind him a wife and five children—three sons and two daughters. The funeral will take place from the family residence, Campbellford, on Sunday, the 8th inst. at 2 o'clock.

SAWNEY'S WELCOME TO QUEEN CITY CURLERS.

Toronto brethren of the "stane,"
We welcome you with heart and voice!
You must not think our greeting cold,
Simply because it is on ice.

We wave our welcoming besoms high,
As blithe as curlers aye should be,
We pray you do not think us cold,
Though our wassail cup is but "cold tea."

For when we're gathered round the rings,
And play is opened in due form,
We'll make amends with all our hearts,
And try our best to make it warm.

We polished off the Granites fine,
We ground them to Laurentian dust;
And though we'd hospitable be,
We'll do the same by you or—"bust."

Although we knew you all to be
A set of jolly curling dogs,
We take it kindly if you would Stop short of being Toronto "hogs."

It also will delight our hearts,
When y'r "shot's" the centre of the group,
To deftly "rai-e" your pot-lid off,
And gently land you in the "soop."

But, win or lose, your welcome all—
We'll have a day of glorious sport,
And though we'll place the "draw" our best,
We'll "end" it all with open "port."

And if our "port" should fail to suit
A "Toronto" curler's thirsty maw,
We'll sacrifice a curler's right
And let him nominate his "draw."

Then hail, all hail, the "roarin' game,"
With lusty lung and loyal lip;
And if there be a soul too dead,
To share our joy, then—let him "skip."

—SAWNEY SOOPERUP.

CRISP CURLING CHRONIQUES.

What is Going on at the Rink Where Curlers Most do Congregate.

An interesting match occurred at the rink yesterday afternoon between Skips Sam Clegg and Ed. Brown. The game was a friendly one and well contested. It resulted as follows:

J S Knapman,	Wm Snowdon
T Rutherford,	S Hay,
A Bates,	A Scott,
S. Pentland, skip	H Lee Brown, skip 12

The long talked-of match between rinks of curlers representing the hardware firm of McKee & Davidson and the Ontario Bank came off last evening and resulted in a victory for the former by the narrow margin of one shot. 13 ends were played and excitement ran high. The nail shovellers as a result draw eight drafts on the bankers for the payment of the oysters. Here is the score:

Ontario Bank.	McKee & Davidson.
W D Parker,	W Hall,
W J Montgomery,	R B McKee,
J Crane,	T F Conmal,
C McGill, skip 13	R S Davidson, skip .. 14

The financiers are proud of the showing they made, when it is considered that last night was the first time they ever played together. They intend playing the return match with the hardwaremen before the season for the roarin' game is over.

An interesting match came off at the rink last night between Skips J. B. Pentland and W. G. Ferguson. Fourteen ends were played. Skip Pentland's rink only captured 4 ends, yet they won by 2 shots, the score standing Pentland 10, Ferguson 14.

It is said an interesting 13 point game will come off at the rink next week between Ed. Brown and H. LeBrun.

PETERBOROUGH IS LEADING.

Six rinks of the Toronto curlers arrived in town to-day noon. The train was nearly an hour late in arriving and thus the game did not begin this afternoon until nearly two o'clock. The visitors dined at the Grand Central with a number of the Peterborough brethren of the stane, and then wended their way down to the rink. The ice is in superb condition and at three o'clock—the time of writing—the six quartettes of the Peterborough's are leading their Toronto opponents by 21 shots. Each rink had played six ends when the score was taken and the case was a parallel to that of the Granites, every Peterborough rink was in the advance from 1 to 8 shots. There are excellent prospects that this good beginning will be maintained throughout the game. The six Toronto rinks playing this afternoon will return this evening at 5.45 o'clock, while the remaining six rinks will arrive at 8.15 to-night, making in all a great 12 rink bonspiel. After this evening's affray the visitors will be entertained at the Palace Restaurant by the local lovers of the roarin' game. The Peterborough skips who are playing against the Torontos are the same as those who did battle against the Granites recently, but the personnel of most of the rinks is different.

Our Little Agents.

We would like to invite the attention of those who have in view a change of climate or a desire to make money, whether in the capacity of small farmers, or as investors, to our handsomely illustrated pamphlet entitled "Nature's Choice:" also a clever little booklet relating to the advantages offered by the North Galveston Ass'n, entitled "A Penny's Worth."

These little pamphlets will give a variety of information as to the opportunities offered for judicious investment, whether in city property or small fruit farms. The North Galveston Ass'n is represented in Peterborough by Mr. T. Hurley Peterborough, Ont. who will be happy to furnish any additional information desired. The address of the general office is Box 963, Minneapolis, Minn.

YE OLD TIME LOCOMOTIVES.

Peterborough's Association With an Old Original.

The EXAMINER'S article of last week under the above heading, has brought out the fact that one of the first locomotives in use in Canada did good service on the first lines of rails that reached Peterborough. Many of the old residents, and the "first borns" on both sides of the river will remember the old engine; she was named the "Gov. Carver," and had a nick-name that none of the newspaper talkers of today would dare to offer a prize for that is, to the party giving the first correct answer as to what it was. The "Gov. Carver" was known by all the "first boys" of Peterborough—boys that were boys when the first engine and cars reached Ashburnham and Peterborough. Some of them had their first railroad experience and free rides on her and the cars she pulled, and from her time a few date their railroad life under regular pay.

One in particular might be named Mr. J. J. English, who is now in connection with the largest locomotive building firm in the world, the Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia, which built the locomotives for the Jaffa & Jerusalem Railway, recently opened.

An engine of the same style and build was, on account of its light weight, used on the railroad track laid down on the ice of the River St. Lawrence between Montreal and the south shore during the winters of 1879, '80, '81 and '82, just previous to the building of the C. P. R. bridge over the St. Lawrence at Lachine. A children's periodical published by a leading New York house, speaks of the ice railway, in a recent number, as an existing institution, but it was really only used in years named above.

IN HIGH SOCIETY.

Lady Walden Charged With Breaking Her Marriage Vows.

LONDON, March 3.—The De Walden divorce case came up yesterday in the Divorce Court before Justice Jeune. It is regarded as the cause celebre of the year. Lady Howard De Walden brings the action for the divorce and her husband has answered by a cross suit. Lord Howard is a man of very large wealth and is one of the great ground landlords of London.

London aristocratic society has always taken a lively interest in the rather startling domestic differences of the De Waldens, and popular sympathy has oscillated between them.

His Lordship accuses Lady De Walden of adultery with Count Jean De Madre and with Captain Winter, and her ladyship seeks a separation on the ground of alleged cruelties on the part of her husband.

In his opening address for her ladyship Sir Henry James detailed various acts of cruelty which Lady De Walden charges against her husband. Sir Henry stated that his lordship had frequently abused his wife's parents and had accused her of theft. He had twisted her arm and forced her on her knees and thrown a heavy book at her in the presence of Major Graham, who intercepted the missile.

His Lordship had also struck his wife with a hair brush, drawing blood. He had also struck her with his fists, locked the doors upon her and threatened to shoot her. He frequently returned home drunk and vomited in bed, and developed filthy and hoggish habits, preventing Lady Blanche from sleeping with him.

In June, 1888, the pair mutually agreed to separate, His Lordship agreeing to make an allowance to her ladyship of £300 yearly. His Lordship afterward gradually withdrew their son, Thomas Evelyn, born in 1880, from the control of her ladyship, and withdrew the allowance in April, 1891.

NO IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

Proposal to Enlist Canadians in the Imperial Service.

LONDON, March 3.—Those members of the Imperial Federation League who are most prominently connected with the movement regret the division of the Government, as foreshadowed in Lord Rosebery's speech Wednesday night.

That decision is to the effect that the Australian depression and the Home Rule excitement make it undesirable to summon just now another Colonial Conference to discuss the creation of a Council of Defence and other points in that connection.

Sir Charles Tupper's agreement with Lord Rosebery's views is supported by the papers.

The Daily News says that Lord Rosebery's words were those of common sense and wisdom.

The Chronicle commends the reason put forward for the delay.

The St. James Gazette says: "Let us wait till the real occasion arises for the conference. Meanwhile why not cultivate the imperial spirit by placing an imperial naval training ship for boys at Halifax and sending an imperial recruiting sergeant on the rounds from Quebec and Montreal in order to encourage educated Canadians to become officers."

The Pall Mall Gazette alone disagrees and says the question of a second conference should not be allowed to drop.

Chinese Handing in Their Names.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., March 3.—"The Chinese are at last beginning to register," says General McComb, registration officer. "We are now receiving about ten applications daily, and I am informed by the Chinese that the number will be increased rapidly. Many merchants who are not required to register are doing so to avoid the annoyance of investigation later."

Why you take Cold and Cough.

Generally caused by exposure to cold, wet feet, sitting in a draught, coming from hot and crowded places, in thin dress, or wearing damp clothes, stockings, or any other cause tending to check suddenly the perspiration. The result produces inflammation of the lungs or throat, and this causes phlegm or matter, which nature tries to throw off by expectoration. In many cases she is unable to do so without assistance, and this is

PROPHECY.

Florette Deals in Futures in Millinery.

Plaid ribbons will abound in the coming spring millinery. They are in fancy plaiding, generally of the more modest and delicate colors and will be extensively used for the draperies and great bows that will trim fashionable hats. The wide ribbons have also come out in striped and brocaded floricastions, some of them showing careful introduction of tinsel. A very handsome wide ribbon in memory has a two inch band of satin in different colors on each side, and a three-inch gold tinsel floricated stripe in the centre. There are likewise ribbons in gros-grain, faille, satin, and ottoman weaves among the new things for the spring, some of them showing tasseled, feather, beaded and other fancy edges. Straw ribbons are in the list of the coming novelties. They are in various styles of braiding, some of them as smooth as satin, and some of them quite transparent. The straw ribbons seen are but of one color; doubtless the cashmere effects that are so lively in the straw braids will be seen. An occasional piece of wide gauze ribbon is to be found, but there is not much to prove that gauze ribbon will be an important factor in the millinery effects to be revealed. My sketch shows a toque made of changeable brown velvet, edged with a narrow band of blue or silver fox fur. The strings are of brown velvet to match the hat, and come from beneath two large bows that stand erect behind. In front there is a bunch of roses from which a straw-colored aigrette rises.

FLORETTE.

Knowing A Desert.

Exploration is improving the popular knowledge of the Sahara. Instead of being largely below the sea, the greater part of it is from 6,000 to 8,000 feet above the level; instead of being rainless, showers make it bloom and cover it with green grass for a few weeks every year; large flocks and herds are maintained upon its borders; the oases are depressions where the water can be collected and stored and are villainously unhealthy in hot weather because of this stagnant water and the filthy habits of the inhabitants.

A News Man's Nerves.

Nervousness shows itself in queer ways. There is a young New York newspaper man who exhibits a commendable self-possession on most occasions, and would not be supposed to have such a thing as a nerve about his person, but there is one spectacle that he cannot endure, and that is to see a man's hat blow off. If this calamity occurs in his presence he catches his breath, shudders and reaches about for something to hold to until the sensation of losing himself has passed. This is constitutional and is the only exhibition of nervous weakness that he ever makes.

"I am convinced of the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla, after having taken but a few doses"—this is what many people say.

For Sprains, and Bruises.

No other remedy cures sprains, bruises, cuts, wounds, chilblains, sore throat, rheumatism, etc., so promptly as Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It is an old standard remedy that has given perfect satisfaction for 30 years.

Big Strike in Chicago.

CHICAGO, March 2.—Nine hundred union carriage and wagon makers of Chicago went on strike yesterday morning. They demanded 9 hours for a day's work instead of 10, with the same pay, and that piece workers be given an increase of 10 per cent.

One hundred firms have granted the demands, and of the 130 makers in the city 600 returned to work.

Four of the largest manufacturers, Studebaker, Kimball, Sherman and Smith, still hold out against the workmen and say they will maintain their position. The four employed 600 of the strikers.

To Become a Catholic.

ROME, March 2.—The Agencia Italia says: The Grand Duke Frederick of Baden, by marriage uncle of Emperor William II. of Germany, and long the closest friend and adviser of the Prussian Court, is about to declare publicly his conversion to Catholicism. The Grand Duke is said to have attended all the religious ceremonies connected with the Baden celebration of the Papal jubilee.

Wants Half of Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG March 3.—The claim of Col. McLean of Ottawa to a portion of land covering half the city of Winnipeg has just been published here and is much discussed. Some are inclined to think there may be something in the claim.

A Horrible Affair.

GREENVILLE, Ky., March 2.—The residence of Cyrus Lee, about four miles north of this place, was consumed by fire last night. The occupants, Cyrus Lee, sister and brother, wife and child, were burned with the building. There is no one left to tell the tale of how it happened.

"I've tried all sorts of blood purifiers," said an old lady to a "cutter," "and you can't persuade me that any other Sarsaparilla is as good as Ayer's." There's where she had him. She knew that Ayer's was the best—and so did he, but it paid him better to sell a cheaper brand.

Cures Others

Will cure You, in a few instances, of the action of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, when taken for diseases originating in impure blood; but, while this assertion is true of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, as thousands can attest, it cannot be truthfully applied to other preparations, which unprincipled dealers will recommend, and try to impose upon you, as "just as good as Ayer's." Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's only, if you need a blood-purifier and would be benefited permanently. This medicine, for nearly fifty years, has enjoyed a reputation, and made a record for cures, that has never been equalled by other preparations. AYER'S Sarsaparilla eradicates the taint of hereditary scrofula and other blood diseases from the system, and it has, deservedly, the confidence of the people.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this, my body was covered with pimply eruptions. The remedies prescribed failed to help me. I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and, in a short time, the pains ceased and the pimples disappeared. I advise every young man or woman, in case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. L. THE SKIRT.

The Coming One is Ugly From the Ground Up.

If dressmakers will only set the coming skirt on every corner it will never arrive. It is ugly from the ground up. About the hips it clings almost like the beautiful bell skirt of last year. From that point it undulates out, taking a curve inward below the knees and just as it reaches the floor line turning out in a flare, like the lip of a bell, exaggerated. The lines are all so artificial. They are neither to be accounted for by the lines of the figure, or the sweep of drapery, and right here that skirt is going to fail. All the eccentricities of late years have been brought about by the effort to exaggerate natural effects. Even that may be said for the bustle. It was intended to amplify the figure, and to add to the apparent perkiness of the folds of the goods massed at the back. The clinging skirts of the past season has taken its lines apparently from the wearer. The setting out at the back of skirts has found favor, and might even admit some crinoline the idea being to emphasize the richness and individuality and quantity of the goods at the back and the natural grace given to the folds by motion. Even the setting out all about might prevail as a suggestion of lots of fluffy skirts. But this arbitrary geometric idea is to such an extent a departure from the philosophy that has been at the base of all our vagaries of late that if we get half a chance to realize what we are doing, we won't do it. How much more becoming and sensible is the dress pictured. It is made of the black bengaline with belt and cuffs and pendants of jet. Collar and vest are of moss-green velvet. A hat of black felt, trimmed with black feathers and a bow of moss-green velvet would be in every way harmonious to go with it.

FLORETTE.

How to Travel Cheap.

Some remarks by a drummer: "Hullo! Stopping here? What are you paying? Three dollars and fifty cents a day? Don't you know better than that? Why don't you say you're a drummer? I know you're not, but why don't you say so? Save you a dollar a day. Is it generally done? Bet your life. Thousands do it. Actors are the boys for low rates, though. I got into Savannah once on the same train with a theatrical company and happened to go to the same hotel. I had got chummy with a couple of girls in the troupe, and when I went to the desk I registered for them, too, to save them trouble. I was put into a small room on the top floor with another man that night, and after breakfast I went to the clerk and kicked. The clerk was pretty lippy, and I called for my bill. It was $1.50, half what it should have been under regular rates, for I had had a lodging and two meals. 'How's this?' said I. 'Why, that's the rate for theatrical companies,' said he. 'But I'm no actor,' said I, 'and you just give me a decent room and I'll take a fresh start.' Well, I was treated first rate after that. They had told me that the front rooms were all taken, but when they found I was a drummer you bet that plenty of them were empty."

She Knew Her Father.

A Brooklyn lady who is spending the winter in Paris with her two young daughters, while her husband's business compels him to remain at home, being anxious to have her husband join his family, said to her eldest daughter one day in presence of her youngest, a 6-year-old: "I wish your papa could be appointed as minister to some court in Europe." Whereupon the young but discriminating miss quickly responded: "Why, mamma, you must be crazy; papa couldn't preach a good sermon."

More Valuable Than Diamonds.

Cod liver oil from the cod fish when combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda, as in "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," will build up the cellular tissues and create new blood. This is just what consumptive patients need. It has cured thousands of people who would otherwise have been at this time occupying narrow spaces in the graveyards of our country. Miller's Emulsion is worth a trial. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all drug stores.

From the Far North.

In northern climates people are very subject to colds, but the natural remedy is also produced in the same climate. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Price 25c. and 50c.

A Sensible Man.

Would use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. It is curing more cases of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup and all Throat and Lung Troubles, than any other medicine. The proprietor has authorized any druggist to give you a Sample Bottle FREE to convince you of the merit of this great remedy. Large bottles 50c. and $1.

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, added by the use of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

Bad Blood Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters for bad blood and find it, without exception, the best purifying tonic in use. A short time ago two very large and painful boils came on the back of my neck, B.B.B. completely drove them away.
SAMUEL BLAIN, Toronto Junction.

Ask your neighbors if they use Dodds Kidney Pills? They strengthen the nerves, tone the system, and the most stubborn cases of kidney disease yield to their influence. They are especially appreciated by the old. Ask your neighbors about them.

An Electrical Menace.

If the San Francisco Call speaks the truth, the introduction of electrical roads into New Orleans is likely to be followed by a plague of superior cats. It says that since the trolley was established in that city the cats have grown so big and so aggressive as to constitute a nuisance and a menace. It is said that daily, about the time that the cars stop running for the night, cats from everywhere begin to congregate along the tracks for electric food or baths, one cannot tell which. Carefully selecting a suitable spot on the rail, the cat in search of refreshment will lick the rail, and then lie down upon it a few minutes. Pretty soon he will roll over on the rail, and will stand with all four feet upon it, and with wild eyes, arched back and distended tail, will yowl and dance, and amuse himself for an hour at a time. An expert electrician, who was consulted on the subject, said that he could not imagine what effects the cats could get out of the rails; but whatever it may be, the cats of the city are said to be attaining an enormous size, unheard of before, and to keep themselves in wondrous good condition.

Salaries of Women in Britain.

As many believe that the occupations of women are badly paid in Great Britian, the following list of salaries earned by the employes of a London dressmaker may possibly prove of interest. It must be understood, of course, that the establishment in question is one of the first in London, but about the same salaries are paid by most of the leading firms; Lady managers get $2,500 per annum with board and lodging, etc.; first assistants, $1,500; second assistants, $800; two third assistants, $400 each, one accountant, $2,500; and six showroom women salaries ranging from $400 to $600 per annum. In addition to the above there are about one hundred workmen who earn from $3 to $6 per week.

"Reaming Out" Noses.

There is a famous specialist in New York who has performed many operations for the enlargement of the nasal air passages, and public speakers, actors and singers are said to have been much benefitted in consequence of the "reaming out" process. In his opinion nearly half of the people are unconscious sufferers from insufficient air supply, due to tortuous, misshapen or constricted upper nostrils. He says that persons who breathe through the mouth—an unhealthy mode and one that gives a stupid appearance to a person—should submit to examination at once. The surgery needful in cutting out the bone and membrane is not very painful, as cocaine is used to produce local insensibility.

One Point of Resemblance.

At a recent conference in England on technical education in villages one speaker, referring to the prevalent ignorance about common things, said that he once saw a laborer digging flints in the chalk and asked him if he thought they grew. "No," was the reply, "I don't think about it—I knows they do." "Then place a flint on your chimney-piece and see how much it grows in a twelvemonth." "All right, sir, and do you do the same with a tater and see how much that grows."—Argonaut.

Calling in Germany.

The most fashionable time for calling in Germany is between twelve and one, since the Germans usually dine between two and four, and their supper about eight o'clock, thus rendering an evening call an inconvenience. Even when making an ordinary call one is generally offered some refreshment—a glass of wine and a cracker, a cup of tea or coffee, etc.—for German hospitality never seems to be quite satisfied until a guest has been offered something to eat.

The North and South After the War.

More and more the plantations, groperies, and orange groves of Florida are passing into the hands of northerners and Englishmen, for an enervating climate will destroy local energies in time. The "crackers" or native population, are improving under education, but they do not grow fast mentally, and their farming is confined to a little planting near their cabins. Naturally they are a simple and hospitable people, with a speech somewhat tinctured by negro dialect. Besides fruit, Florida has a vast wealth in her phosphate beds, which are of unmeasured extent, but one capitalist says that since the investment of $30,000,000 in phosphate in the south the business has been overdone, and there is no demand for phosphate land at present.

A Duel on Wheels.

Dueling on bicycles is reported to be a new diversion in Spain. Two members of the bicycle club of Granada recently met in a knife duel, which is probably the first duel ever fought on wheels. Accompanied by their seconds, they wheeled out some distance on the road to Malaga to a secluded spot. There, posted 700 feet apart, at a sign they wheeled for each other, each directing his machine with the left hand and brandishing with the right the terrible knife of Spain, the navaja. At the first clash Perez pierced the left arm of Moreno, but at the third encounter Moreno thrust his knife into Perez's right breast. In a few minutes the latter died of internal hemorrhage.

Ex-Mayor Robert Bowie, Brockville, Ont., says:—"I used Nasal Balm for a bad case of catarrh, and it cured me after having ineffectually tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head. There is no case of cold in the head or catarrh that will not yield to Nasal Balm. Try it. All dealers at 50c. and $1 a bottle, or by mail, post paid. G. T. Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

A Valuable Hint.

When you are attacked by cough or cold do not delay but commence at once to use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. This old standard remedy removes all irritation, loosens the phlegm, and heals the mucous surfaces, curing coughs and colds of all kinds.

Rough Skin.

Caused by cold weather, is made perfectly smooth by one application of Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses. Try it. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal.

Ladies appreciate Anti-Dandruff from the fact that it not only thoroughly removes Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its original color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing being used. Clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

A Great Surprise.

Is in store for all who use Kem's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the great guaranteed remedy. Would you believe that it is sold on its merits and that any druggist is authorized by the proprietor of this wonderful remedy to give you a sample bottle free? It never fails to cure acute or chronic coughs. All druggists sell Kemp's Balsam. Large Bottles 50c. and $1.

A DEFAULTER ARRESTED.

THE DETECTIVES OF TORONTO CAUGHT HIM BY A FLUKE.

He Sent the Detectives To a Chum to Prove That He Was An Honest Man, and As a Result He Is Now Held On a Charge of Robbing His Employers.

TORONTO, March 3.—Detectives Davis and Cuddy arrested a stranger yesterday afternoon, whose actions they considered sufficiently suspicious to warrant them in taking this step.

Upon arrival at Headquarters he gave his name as Henry Bowman and his residence as 24 Elizabeth-street, where he stated his chum, Brown, would be found to give him a good character.

The chum, on the appearance of the detectives, denied that his name was Brown, asserting that it was Dragavinski. His accent backed up this assertion so forcibly as to convince the detectives that he spoke the truth. He also stated that Bowman's real name was Moore. The ample confession he then made may have been good for his soul, but it was rather hard on his chum, inasmuch as he states that Moore is the absconding bookkeeper from the furniture store of Esworts & Co., Broadway and Park-avenue, Brooklyn. Moore enticed him to come to Canada with him and paid his fare.

Sgt. Reburn communicated with the Brooklyn police authorities to ascertain if Moore is "wanted" by them.

Dragavinski was not detained.

ONTARIO'S HEALTH.

Second Day's Proceedings of the Provincial Board.

TORONTO, March 3.—Dr. Cassidy presided at the meetings yesterday of the Provincial Board of Health. He produced a letter from the New York Filter Company offering to supply for the city's use a Hyatt filtering plant that would filter 18,000,000 gallons of water per day for the sum of $180,000, including buildings. It was this system which Dr. Cassidy had on the previous day so strongly advocated.

The Chairman again adverted to the danger of cholera appearing in Canada and to the risks run by drinking impure water. He hoped the city would be willing to provide the funds necessary for this system of filtration, which had proved so successful at St. Thomas and in American cities and in which he had full confidence.

Communications were read from Kincardine, Bobcaygeon and other places giving particulars of outbreaks of diphtheria. Other letters testified to the prevalence of smallpox in the border States. In view of these unsatisfactory conditions local boards of health are to be strongly urged to use all the means at their command to stamp out disease where it exists and to prevent its recurrence.

The remainder of the day was occupied in the revision of the pamphlet on "How to Check Contagious diseases."

The council of the Association of Executive Health Officers, who transacted formal business yesterday, waited on the Provincial Board in the afternoon. The business was not of public interest.

To-day the Provincial Board will wait on the Ontario Government and urge the necessity for their immediate action in issuing the order-in-council relative to the amended regulations respecting cholera.

This will conclude the quarterly business of the board.

American Silver in British Columbia.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 3.—The discount of 20 per cent. imposed by chartered banks on American silver went into effect yesterday. In Westminster a similar discount will be charged after March 10. Merchants will continue to take silver at par and intend shipping it to the United States.

A Passionate Lover.

DOMINION GRANGE.

They Pass a Number of Resolutions in Favor of Tariff Reform.

TORONTO, March 3.—The delegates to the Dominion Grange concluded their annual session yesterday. They decided to petition the Dominion Government to remove the duty on Indian corn for feeding purposes so as to place farmers on an equal footing with distillers in the matter of stock raising. They will also ask to have the duty on seal oil reduced to three cents per gallon and the duty on agricultural machinery to 15 per cent. They are anxious to have binder twine admitted free of duty and postage on letters reduced to two cents per ounce. They will memorialize the Ontario Government to introduce a bill at the coming session for the reduction of the number of county councillors, and will ask that the Game Law be amended so that the Cottontail rabbit may be killed as a nuisance, and that quail may not be killed, caught or sold, because it is the farmers' best friend. The Ontario Government will also be asked to refuse grants to those agricultural fairs which have side shows and balloon ascensions on the grounds.

The bicycle and its rider are looked upon by the farmer as an intolerable nuisance. Last night all sorts of propositions were brought forward for its restriction or total extinction. The resolution that finally passed was one asking the Ontario Government to declare that every cyclist must wear a registered number on his cap so that he may be held responsible in case of runaway accidents.

The officers elected for next year are: Master, Peter Hopenstall of Fordwich; Overseer, Dawson Kennedy of Peterboro; Secretary, R. Wilkie, Blenheim; Treasurer, George Hood, Sunshine; Lecturer, D. G. Mackenzie, Clinton; Chaplain, J. H. B. Moore, Barrie; Steward, James Skeoch, Corunna; Assistant, John Cowan of Vine; Gatekeeper, Lyman Henry of Sombra. The Executive Committee will consist of Henry Gleadinning of Manilla, Jabel Robinson of Middlemarch and Master Hopenstall. The auditors are J. N. Kaiser of Raper and James Follis of Newbridge.

The members of the executive, the master and the secretary and Dawson Kennedy were appointed representatives of the order in Canada at the World's Fair.

The Grange will meet in Toronto in 1894.

A deputation was appointed at the meeting of the Patrons of Industry yesterday to wait on the Ontario Government to ascertain what policy would be pursued with regard to the new binder twine industry at the Central Prison. The Patrons are anxious to know what charge the Government will impose for their manufactured article.

A committee was appointed to meet similar committees from the Grange and the Trades and Labor Council, and with them to draft a platform on which the three bodies might agree and co-operate for their common interests.

The session will be continued each day and evening this week.

The Procession Starts!

The arrival of New Spring Millinery has begun at the GOLDEN LION. Our advance styles are the welcome harbingers of spring—marked and exclusive enough in effect and design to suit the anticipations of lovers of the beautiful—but only a partial foretaste of the marvels of the marts of fashion yet to come.

Our Miss Neild and Miss Armstrong have just returned from visiting the leading centres of fashion, and have accomplished their tasks with unusual satisfaction. Their selections are modelled after the most approved advices recently received from abroad, and comprise many new and original novelties and effects which are sure to be favourably received by the ladies of Peterborough.

March winds have also blown us bargains in Irish Point Lace. We are not "undersellers," but yet we know that nowhere can you do better on such goods as these.

You can also tell by our prices that we mean to do the Embroidery trade of the town. You have your choice of any pattern of 15c. Embroidery for 10c., because we bought a great job lot of them, and a glance at the lengths will decide you as to their unusual value.

ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY WILL NOT ASK HIM TO RESIGN.

Great Gathering of Englishmen Last Night—There Were Divergent Views, So a Compromise Was Effected—A Motion of Censure Was Passed.

TORONTO, March 4.—There was a great gathering of Englishmen, young and old, in St. George's Hall last night. The occasion will be memorable. They met to consider a motion by Mr. J. Castell Hopkins as to the alleged unfitness of Prof. Goldwin Smith to remain a member of St. George's Society, owing to his pronounced political opinions. The terms of the motion were strong, branding the Professor as a traitor to his sovereign and country on account of his annexationist views, and calling upon him to resign.

There was a stormy discussion for three hours, but little came of it, for the result was a modified motion expressing regret that a life member of St. George's Society should hold the opinions complained of.

President Drayton was in the chair, and on the platform were: D. T. Symons, first vice-president; James Hewlett, second vice-president; Percival T. Ridout, third vice-president; W. T. Boyd, S. G. Wood, J. Herbert Mason, R. W. Elliot, C. Spooner, Robert Spratt, Barlow Cumberland, J. J. Allworth, James Cooper, past presidents; Charles Spanner, J. W. Stockwell, stewards; J. E. Pell, secretary.

Mr. J. Castell Hopkins read his well-known motion:

That in view of his advocacy of the annexation of the Dominion of Canada to the United States; his position as president of the Continental Union Association of Toronto, and treason to his sovereign, to England and to Canada involved in these conditions, this body of loyal Englishmen request Mr. Goldwin Smith to tender his resignation as a life member of St. George's Society.

Mr. J.J. Allworth asked the chairman if it was in order, alleging that it was a political question and quoting the society's rule which forbids such discussion.

The Chairman ruled the motion in order. The bylaw referred to was in the narrow sense of politics and had no reference to a question of allegiance. [Loud applause.]

Mr. Hopkins then made an effective speech brimful of loyalty and full of indignation at Mr. Goldwin Smith's treasonable actions and writing. His insidious work with a view to annexation was stoutly condemned and extracts read from the Professor's articles to prove his disloyalty.

All this was loudly cheered by the members of the society, though frequently there were conflicting voices.

"You must not only disavow his doctrines," said Mr. Hopkins, "but dissociate yourselves from Mr. Smith as members of a loyal English society.

"His words take him out of the category of loyal Englishmen; and the time has come when the stigma of treason must be attached to Goldwin Smith."

Mr. Hopkins concluded with a glowing tribute to the loyalty of Englishmen and the glory of British allegiance.

At the close of Mr. Hopkins' speech, Past-President Allworth rose and said he wished to move that the consideration of this resolution be adjourned till the first Friday in May. [Cries of "No, no."]

Col. Denison: Mr. Hopkins' motion is not seconded. I thought Mr. Allworth was going to do that. [Laughter.]

Mr. Allworth: My object is to stop this discussion entirely. [Cries of dissent.]

Mr. Charles Spanner seconded Mr. Hopkins' motion amidst applause, mingled with hisses. Said he: "I am certain that a majority of the members of St. George's Society will support it."

The Chairman: "Are you ready for the question?" [Loud cries of "Carried."]

Mr. Allworth interposed with his amendment. He wished a copy of the resolution to be forwarded to Mr. Goldwin Smith so that he might attend the next meeting and answer the charges made against him. [Disapprobation.] "We are all proud of being Englishmen," added Mr. Allworth, "and we stand up for British fair play. Do you approve of a prisoner being tried in his absence? In all fairness, as Englishmen, give Mr. Smith an opportunity of defending the charges prepounded here to-night. [Applause and hisses.] We have not the proof of these charges save Mr. Hopkins' word. [Interruptions for several minutes.]

"Well, vote the resolution down if you like, but as an old man I shall consider you don't act with any fairness. You don't want to chop his head off to-night, do you? [Cries of "Yes" and "No."] Give him a chance to reply and let us see if you will say the same things when he is present as you have to-night." [Applause and dissent.]

Mr. Spratt: You have been propounding ideas and practices which do not belong to our society at all. The chairman has ruled entirely contrary to our bylaws. [Cries of "Chair."]

The Chairman: A speaker cannot question the ruling of the chair.

Mr. Spratt was proceeding to cite the bylaw when the chairman again interposed.

Mr. Spratt: I have been a member of this society 30 years and I have only its interest at heart. I am not advocating Mr. Smith's views; I am simply vindicating the rules of the society. If you are going to investigate the religious or political views of the members——"

Here the storm of interruption broke forth and the speaker subsided.

Past-President Mason insisted on the chairman's ruling being respected. He added: "I believe in all that Mr. Hopkins has said about loyalty. I have no sympathy with annexation. Still I think the motion a most unfortunate one. Mr. Hopkins is a young member of this society: if he had consulted some of the older members he would have hesitated before bringing in what may prove a source of discord and disunion among us. We have nothing to do with anyone's opinions except as they affect bylaws of the society. [Applause and dissent.]

"If you go beyond that," added Mr. Mason, "you open up avenues to which there is no limit. There are 1100 members of this society. Are we to sit in judgment on their varied opinions? To bring in extraneous matters is foreign to our object, and we should condemn this attempt that it may never be repeated."

Mr. Allworth withdrew his amendment pro tem, and then Mr. Mason proposed the following:

That inasmuch as the only condition of membership imposed by the charter and bylaws of St. George's Society is that of English or Welsh birth, or descent in the male line, and that the only obligation required from any member is that he shall observe and conform to the charter, bylaws and rules of the society.

Speaking to the amendment Mr. Mason said: To introduce as a topic of discussion a man's action unless it be inconsistent with the bylaws is to jeopardize the best interests. The next thing will be an inquiry as to breaking the fourth commandment. [Laughter.]

"St. George's Society is a social as well as charitable society. I have always held that it should be as broad as England itself. [Applause.] There should be no distinction of religion or politics. It would be very detrimental for us to be split up. There is nothing in the constitution of this society to provide for loyalty. [Interruption.]

"Well, if I am wrong point it out. I say there is no precedent for the course Mr. Hopkins is pursuing. Therefore, let us hesitate before adopting this resolution."

Mr. S. G. Wood seconded the amendment. He held that Mr. Goldwin Smith had said and done nothing contrary to the constitution of St. George's Society. [Cries of dissent.] However much we may hold Goldwin Smith's views in detestation—and I do—[applause]—we have no right to act as proposed by Mr. Hopkins. Mr. Smith had done his duty to St. George's Society. ["No, no" and applause.]

"Therefore, we should express our utter repugnance to the course of Mr. Smith by a resolution. This should content the society. ["No, no."] By attacking him we are only giving him unnecessary notoriety, and perhaps giving him more sympathizers than he deserves. Moreover, he won't resign and we can't make him resign." [Cries of dissent.]

Mr. Wood earnestly appealed to the society not to put itself in an undignified position. By having a division it would go forth that Goldwin Smith has sympathizers here. But what is the fact—we all scorn the idea of bartering for a mess of pottage the glorious birthright we as Englishmen enjoy. [Loud cheering.]

Mr. Alfred Boultbee made a vigorous speech for which he was loudly cheered He denied that it was immaterial what a man wrote and spoke. If it were disloyal he was not a fitting member for St. George's Society. Referring to Goldwin Smith's action and speeches Mr. Boultbee vigorously declared: "It is high treason. [Loud applause.] Such acts would not be tolerated in any other country under the sun. If we are going to condone this then it is time for us to seek some other land." [Cheers.]

Mr. Beverley Cumberland maintained that Mr. Goldwin Smith's only object in remaining in St. George's Society was to show to the Americans he had a foothold amongst Englishmen in Toronto. Analyzing Mr. Smith's views he asked how long would the citizens of the United States be allowed such a course, and he answered the question—not one minute. [Applause.] For any one to vote for the amendment of Mr. Mason was to say that the only qualification for membership was to subscribe to the bylaws. ["No."] In concluding a vigorous and loyal speech, Mr. Cumberland said: "Any man who would take down the British flag and substitute that of a foreign nation ought not to be a member of St. George's Society.

Ald. Hallam wanted British fair play for everybody. Englishmen had and always would have differences. Hence he differed from a good deal of what had been said. "As an Englishman," continued the alderman, "I protest against Mr. Hopkins' resolution, because I think it will do this society a great deal of harm. It will retard its charitable work. I am going to vote for Mr. Mason's amendment, and I believe that no stigma will attach to me. I will run the risk of being misunderstood." [Cheers.] In conclusion the alderman said he believed it to be duty of everyone who loved toleration to vote against Mr. Hopkins' resolution. [Applause and cries of dissent.]

Mr. David Plews expressed the opinion, which was not endorsed, that the passing of the resolution would land the society in a lawsuit. Mr. Hopkins' resolution was giving the annexation movement too much prominence.

"Annexation is not a live question; if we pass this resolution we shall make it a live question. [Applause.] Therefore I shall vote for the amendment."

Col. Denison met with an enthusiastic reception. For some reasons, he said, he was sorry that this resolution had been brought before St. George's Society. Still, the society was never intended to include in its ranks the enemies of England. Mr. Goldwin Smith was one of these, a man persistently working against the interests of Canada. [Applause.] He is the most dangerous enemy we have got.

The Colonel said the members knew he had no sympathy with treason, and he hoped the meeting would be able to take some course to show that they had no sympathy with it either. At the same time, should there be a minority against the resolution or against the amendment it would be claimed that the annexation movement had sympathizers. Hence he pleaded for a unanimous vote.

Mr. Clarkson Jones spoke in favor of the amendment. He strenuously objected to Castell Hopkins' bombshell being thrown amongst them. To pass it would be to inflict incalculable injury on the society.

Mr. Boyd, past president, spoke to a similar effect. He objected to any side issues occupying the attention of a charitable society. He roused laughter and applause when alluding to the crowded attendance. He said that if the members would evince one quarter the interest in the work of the society that they evidently took in a question of loyalty the society would indeed flourish.

"St. George's Society is not a competent tribunal to try Goldwin Smith. [Applause and dissent.] If he has been guilty of treason, why not put the law in motion? Leave him to the tender mercies and summary jurisdiction of Col. Denison. [Roars of laughter.] I cannot vote for the amendment. There is no occasion for all this wild discussion about loyalty."

Mr. J. A. Worrell saw no practical result amidst so many divergent views. Hence he suggested a small committee to mould both resolution and amendment into such a shape that it should command universal assent and the trumpet give forth no uncertain sound.

Mr. W. T. Boyd seconded the proposal, which was endorsed by the chairman as an excellent idea. "Whatever we do," said President Drayton, "let us have a unanimous vote."

And the members cheered, and for the first time in the course of the evening there was apparent unanimity.

Then the movers and seconders of the various proposals retired to formulate the message of peace. The members took a short recess. Some of them tried to sing, but the cheers of the previous two hours

Mr. Mason added: I hope this will pass unanimously; that it will be accepted in the same spirit as it has been by members of the committee. It is the best thing we could do under the circumstances. We shall vindicate ourselves as a society, and its passing will not be any breach of our bylaws or constitution.

Mr. J. C. Hopkins said he concurred in the remarks of Mr. Mason. The adoption of the resolution would be the best way for a unanimous expression of dissatisfaction with the course of Mr. Goldwin Smith and his dangerous agitation, which was not only dangerous to Canada but inimical to the interests of Great Britain.

The resolution was then put to the meeting and carried unanimously amidst cheering.

The singing of "God Save the Queen" concluded a lively three hours' meeting. "All's well that ends well!"

IN FEAR OF CHOLERA.

The Provincial Board of Health Interviews the Government.

TORONTO, March 4.—Yesterday morning the members of the Provincial Board of Health had an interview with Hon. R. Harcourt, who represented the Ontario Government.

The board asked that the Health Act be made more stringent in view of a probable outbreak of cholera. The principal amendment suggested was one making it compulsory for every municipality within five days after receiving a registered letter from the board to organize a Local Board of Health and appoint a paid Medical Health Officer and sanitary police, and to provide grounds and buildings for service as an Isolation Hospital.

The board also recommended the appointment of provincial medical inspectors.

Hon. Mr. Harcourt promised the usual "due consideration" of the proposals.

On returning from the Parliament buildings, the board wound up their labors at the Provincial Health offices. They resolved to have printed and circulated a large edition of the pamphlet on cholera, which had been prepared and supervised by the board.

Action was taken in regard to a number of sanitary matters at various places in the province.

At noon the board had concluded its three days' labors.

CHARLES GURNEY DEAD.

A Founder of the Great Gurney Stove Business Passes Away.

HAMILTON, March 4.—Charles Gurney, one of the founders of the stove manufacturing concern now known as the E. & C. Gurney Co., died at his residence in this city yesterday after a long illness.

Mr. Gurney has been confined to his house since October last, suffering from organic troubles, and his recovery was not looked for.

In December, 1842, he and his brother Edward came to this city as young men, and in the following year—just half a century ago—they went into partnership in the stove business, the firm being known as E. & C. Gurney.

Charles Gurney was highly esteemed for personal integrity and for those qualities which go to make a man. He took a deep interest in the welfare of the city. Of late years he has lived quietly. He had reached the age of 74. A widow and two sons, Messrs. Charles and George Gurney of this city, survive him.

Typhus Removes a Family.

HALIFAX, March 4.—A year ago John Canty of this city died of typhoid fever, leaving a widow and two little girls.

Four weeks ago Mrs. Canty took ill of typhoid fever and died yesterday.

Her two children, Annie and Alice, aged 10 and 8, died one on Tuesday and one yesterday of diphtheria.

Thus the family were swept away within a year.

Found an Infant's Body.

HAMILTON, March 4.—One of a gang of railway laborers employed at the head of Wellington-street made a ghastly find yesterday afternoon. Having occasion to enter the old orchard on the south side of the railway track he found an odd-looking bundle lying behind the fence.

On opening it up he discovered underneath the newspaper wrapping the body of a newborn male child. It had evidently lived a short time after birth. Its only covering besides the newspaper was an old check gingham apron. The police are investigating.

Used a Jack Knife.

BELLEVILLE, March 4.—Michael Dougherty, an old man said to be over 90 years of age, who lives in Blecker-avenue, attempted suicide yesterday by cutting his throat with a blunt jack-knife. The injuries are very serious but not likely to result fatally. Dougherty has for some years been of weak intellect.

A Flickering Flame.

ARNPRIOR, March 4.—The Annexation Club held its first meeting at the town hall last night. Over 500 people attended, among them many ladies. There was large representation of farmers. Ald. Paxton, president of the club, occupied the chair. The principal speaker was S. R. Clark of Toronto.

Shutting Down Silver Mines.

SPOKANE FALLS, Wash., March 4.—The Bunker Hill and Sullivan mines at Wardner, probably the greatest silver and-lead property in the world, closed down on Wednesday night indefinitely. The reason assigned is the high railroad tariff on ore. It is rumored other Coeur d'Alene properties will shut down.

A DRAIN UPON THE COUNTRY.

A despatch from Ottawa states that on Thursday Mr. McMullen introduced a motion delaring that in the opinion of the house, with a view of reducing the gross amount of the annual expenditure of the Dominion, and thereby stop the drain on the people's resources as far as possible, the act providing for the superannuation of civil servants should be suspended. Mr. McMullen pointed out that with all the facilities for securing endownment and life insurance policies there was no necessity for a continuance of the superannuation system. He quoted the figures contained in a return on the subject, showing that in the last twelve years there had been paid into the fund by civil servants $676,263.45, while during that time there had been paid out $2,462,337.97, which left a net loss to the Dominion of $1,786,074.42. One hundred and forty-nine servants had been superannuated under the age of 55, 108 under the age of 50, and 71 under the age of 45. The people of Canada were now contributing to the livelihood of 550 retired civil service officers. There were evidences everywhere of the extravagance which characterised the administration of the system. Mr. Foster was proposing to change the system, but he (Mr. McMullen) would wipe it out altogether. He believed the civil servants themselves would like to see the act obliterated. The civil servants should be required to provide for themselves, and not be led to look forward to being pensioned. People in other walks of life had to make provision for their old age and it was unfair and unjust to expect them to contribute towards the sustenance of an army of retired civil servants.

A GIGANTIC LAND SLIDE.

A grand political landslide has evidently occurred. The political Trent Valley Canal has been shifted some hundred of miles west. The Ottawa Free Press says that a new canal project is being brought before the Dominion Parliament by Col. Tisdale, M.P. for South Norfolk. That gentleman wants the Government to spend a million of dollars or so in digging a canal fifteen miles long to connect Lake St. Clair with Lake Erie—the line of such canal to follow the boundary between Essex and Kent counties. Such a canal would save about fifty-six miles of navigation on the route from Lake Huron to ports on the lower lakes by avoiding the Detroit river navigation, but it is doubtful if much time would be saved, because the passage through fifteen miles of locks and canal stretches would be necessarily slow. Some of the farmers living along the route of the proposed new canal have been led to believe that such work would help to drain their lands—drainage in that neighbourhood being necessary and expensive. This is evidently a fake in the line of securing Government votes that is evidently a blood relative of the Trent Valley Canal. Otherwise if the Trent Valley is still a live ditch what are our local representatives doing to promote its construction?

Sunshine comes, no matter how dark the clouds are, when the woman who is borne down by woman's troubles turns to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If her life is made gloomy by the chronic weaknesses, delicate derangements, and painful disorders that afflict her sex, they are completely cured. If she's overworked, nervous, or "run down," she has new life and strength.

"Favorite Prescription" is a powerful, invigorating tonic and a soothing, strengthening nervine, purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, enriches the blood, dispels aches and pains, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and vigor. For every "female complaint" and disturbance, it is the only remedy so sure and unfailing that it can be GUARANTEED.

If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

Couldn't Keep on His Feet.

PETERBOROUGH, Jan. 31st, 1892.

To the Peterborough Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN,—If there is any medicine in the world that I pin my faith to it is Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. In my business I have to stand on my feet a good deal. About a year ago my back began to give out, weakening pains set in across my kidneys, I felt tired all the time and could hardly stand up to my work. I began to lose strength and at last had to give up work altogether. A customer advised me to try your cure which I did. Before half the bottle was used, I felt the pains and weakness leaving me and to-day I enjoy good health and can bear fatigue and work all right. One bottle was all I used.

WHAT PAGE, SIR?

A young barrister, intending to be very eloquent, observed, "Such principles as these, my Lord, are written in the book of Nature." "What page, sir?" said Lord Chief Justice Ellenborough: and the orator was silenced for life.

We have a couple of principles to enunciate for the benefit of sufferers. These principles are amongst the truest in Nature's code, and cannot be set aside with indifference; they are as follows: "The man or woman who is afflicted with cough, chest or throat troubles, and who treats these difficulties with contempt and carelessness, is worse than a fool."

"The man or woman who is seeking relief and cure for the above-mentioned affections, and who does not use the remedy that is curing thousands every day and that is approved of by the best doctors, is certainly lacking in ordinary common sense and judgment."

The great curing agent for coughs, sore throat, hoarseness and all bronchial affections is the celebrated and well-tested Harvard Bronchial Syrup—a remedy pure in composition, harmless in character, and so pleasant that young children cry for it. Harvard Bronchial Syrup stands to-day at the head of all cough remedies. It deserves this elevated position owing to its grand and effective work. Try one of the "big" twenty-five cent bottles.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

Has come not a little knowledge as to cookery—what to do, as well as what not to do. Thus we have learned to use the most pure and perfect and popular cooking material for all frying and shortening purposes.

PROGRESSIVE COOKING

is the natural outcome of the age, and it teaches us not to use lard, but rather the new shortening, which is far cleaner, and more digestible than any lard can be.

COTTOLENE,

The success of Cottolene has called out worthless imitations under similar names. Look out for these! Ask your Grocer for COTTOLENE, and be sure that you get it.

THE DEAR MOTHERS

OF CANADA!

ONE WHO SUFFERED

Points Out the Way to Life!

The Great Deliverer

Is Unfailing and Sure!

Try it Weary and Suffering Mother

Heaven bless the dear mothers of Canada; they suffer silently and patiently, sometimes for years. Many endeavour to shake off the toils of disease and suffering through the use of the numberless patent nostrums with which the country is now flooded. All such efforts are futile and ineffectual; these medicines have neither power nor virtue, and the use of them means waste of time and increased suffering.

MRS. C. HUMBLE.

The wise and prudent, like Mrs. C. Humble, of Brockville, Ont. always make use Paine's Celery Compound, woman's friend and benefactor. This grand remedy is the greatest boon ever given to frail, weak, exhausted and overworked women.

Mrs. Humble writes as follows:—"For about a year past I have been in a terribly poor state of health brought on by overwork, caring for a family of small children. I was so nervous and completely unstrung that to sleep or rest seemed impossible. My husband often remarked, that I had become a different woman from what I used to be. It would be impossible for me to find words to tell you how much I suffered both in body and mind.

Only two weeks ago I decided to procure a bottle of your Paine's Celery Compound; and now, before the first bottle is all done, I am quite restored to my former good health; I can sleep easily, and feel no inconvenience from eating regularly a full meal. I am thankful that I heard of the God-given remedy for nervousness, sleeplessness and general run-down state into which so many of humanity like myself have fallen.

You are at liberty to make use of these statements as you choose. I only wish every poor sickly, nervous, and tired woman would cast off all doubt as to the efficacy of Paine's Celery Compound to restore quickly and surely to perfect health.

MRS. C. HUMBLE.

MR. LAURIER'S SPEECH ON THE BUDGET.

The parliamentary correspondents have much to say in praise of Mr. Laurier's speech on the Budget, and that of Mr. Foster in reply seems to have been one of the best the finance minister has delivered in the commons.

The Toronto Telegram's bright and spirited Ottawa letter has this reference to the two speeches:

"Men are all talking of the two great speeches which the country's greatest orator and the keeper of the country's purse strings delivered last night. Great each of these speeches was, but Laurier's was the more eloquent, the more able and the more effective. Assuredly Mr. Laurier had his effort prepared for days, while Mr. Foster had to reply on the spur of the moment. But it must be remembered that the Liberal leader was dealing with a question to which he has not given nearly so much study as has Foster, whose duties as minister of finance have compelled his attention to matters concerning trade. When the days come in which this debate will be discussed on its merits, it will be found that the consensus of opinion will mark Laurier's as the greatest speech delivered in the Canadian parliament for many years. The eloquent Englishh, the able arguments of the great Frenchman, completely defeated the careful special pleading of the minister of finance. Let not this be considered, however, as anything but one man's private opinion. Political value this opinion does not possess. The fact remains that oratorically and controversially Mr. Laurier had all the best of the argument."

The Toronto Star's correspondent at the capital in his gossipy and readible letter says:—

"And such was the speech of the Liberal leader, brilliant, witty and yet abounding with facts, couched in language so graceful that at first view they scarcely seemed to be the same statements we have heard so often from wearisome speakers that we have grown tired of them. It was a great speech, brilliant in language, cogent in argument, surpassingly skilful in arrangement. It lasted long, yet scarcely seemed to be half its real duration. It was indeed a brilliant ending to the Liberal side of the debate."

The Montreal Star's correspondent says: "When Mr. Laurier rose at 8.25 there was not standing room. The leader of the opposition is always worth hearing, and last night he excelled himself. It did not matter that he spoke on a question that had been talked threadbare, so to speak. For one hour and twenty minutes he held the interest of those that heard his voice, and while he spoke Mr. Foster took notes. The Liberals greeted their champion with prolonged applause, and then lay back in their seats with expectant faces. They evidently anticipated great things, and, if so, they were not disappointed. Mr. Laurier began by criticising the budget, which he stigmatised as "no budget at all," it was merely a carefully prepared apology for the national policy. He did not soar often into flights of eloquence, but he put things in a practical way, emphasizing each point with the effectiveness of a voice and gesture that are famous throughout Canada."

And again:—

"When he came to talk of the statisticians of Canada, Mr. Laurier was reminded of a certain well-known French comedy. One of the characters had to calculate the number of widows passing over a certain bridge on a given day. He had tallied up 970 and one doubtful. But with the Canadian statistician nothing is doubtful whatever, Mr. Laurier affirmed, with a comprehensive gesture. The speech was filled with fanciful illustrations of this nature, emphasized with the grace of an accomplished orator."

The speech seems to have been a great performance. But the tongue of an angel could not influence votes in the Canadian Parliament. It is too true that men go there to vote for or against the Government. The orators talk through Hansard and the press to the country.

The great value of Hood's Sarsaparilla as a remedy for catarrh is vouched for by thousands of people whom it has cured.

As a pick-me-up after excessive exertion or exposure, Millburn's Beef, Iron and Wine is grateful and comforting.

IN IT OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day.
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the boys" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was timid and sad
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a black look,
When one's call must be studied to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straight way to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor smile of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It has and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides, by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the Died Suddenly.

On Wednesday, March 1st, an old resident of Peterborough died suddenly at Buffalo. Mrs. J. C. Holmes, the deceased lady, in company with two sons and two daughters, went to reside in Buffalo last fall, and her many friends and acquaintances were sadly surprised to receive a telegram announcing her sudden death from heart disease. She leaves behind her, besides those children in Buffalo, a daughter, Mrs. E. Round, and another daughter, Mrs. A. G. Mortimer,, wife of the publisher of the "Canadian Lumberman." Her husband, J. C. Holmes, who will be well remembered by older residents, died about sixteen years ago. The body of Mrs. Holmes was brought home for burial this morning and the funeral took place this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock.

Wood Mosaic for the World's Fair.

Mr. E. Courtney, Ashburnham, has constructed a masterpiece of wood mosaic intended for exhibition at the World's Fair, Chicago. It is called a Shaakperean card table. It is a table in antique oak two and a half feet by two feet and the top is beautifully inlaid with entirely Canadian woods. In the middle is an exact reproduction of the Shakespeare house at Stratford-on-Avon, every line distinct though finely blended and consisting of minute pieces of wood. There are over 1,003 pieces of wood in this beautiful piece of work, indicating great patience, dexterity and artistic skill. The table, which is a great credit to Mr. Courtney, may be seen this evening and Monday in the window of H. Thompson & Co.'s bookstore.

A NIGHT WITH SHAKESPEARE.

Mr. Jeffries Gives an Excellent Exposition of the Character of Macbeth before the Collegiate Institute Literary Society.

There was a very large attendance assembled in the spacious assembly room of the Collegiate Institute last evening to hear the fortnightly lecture delivered under the auspices of the Literary Society of the Institute. Mr. W. Cragg, president, occupied the chair, and in a few opening remarks thanked the citizens for their very gratifying representation there this evening, and said that as the programme was a rather lengthy one no introductory speech was needed from the chairman. He then called upon the Glee club for a selection. That musical organization which is always a popular item on any programme, then sang with splendid effect and were deservedly applauded.

DELINEATION OF MACBETH'S CHARACTER.

Mr. J. Jeffries, B.A., English Master of the Collegiate Institute then delivered an original and scholarly lecture on Shakespeare's greatest of all characters—Macbeth. The lecturer presented his subject in an interesting manner, which in addition to its being particularly well delivered held the closest attention of his auditors from beginning to end. The speaker at the outset said no man could in one night deal exhaustively with the play owing to the many varieties of themes it suggested. He would only attempt to deal briefly with two things, viz., some of the arts displayed in the construction of the plot and the main characteristics in the interpretation of the play.

After giving an outline of the story as told by Shakespeare, the speaker proceeded to develop the art displayed by the dramatist in the construction of the plot. An analysis of the plot for the purpose of ascertaining the principles underlying its construction led to the discovery of two important ones, justice and destiny. That these have been artistically followed and interwoven was proved by a number of facts. The drama is divided into two parts, the rise and the fall of Macbeth. Success constitutes the first half of the play, and failure the second half, and the transition from the one to the other is the expedition against Banquo and his son, in which success and failure are mingled. This expedition, the keystone to the arch of Macbeth's life, occupies the exact middle of the middle act. So that the dramatist in measuring out justice for crime establishes a perfect equality between the sin and its retribution. It was then shewn that in the rise and in the fall, as well as in the drama as a whole, there are involved a crime and an adequate retribution. Again in each part, as well as in the whole, there may be found a prophetic revelation, through the agency of witches, and its fulfilment. A perfect balance exists between two sub-characters, Banquo and Macduff. Macbeth's rise to the highest position of his land involves Banquo's death, which is compensated by Macbeth's death at the hand of Macduff. Macduff's entrance into prominence corresponds with Banquo's exit. Both were included in the witch's predictions. The characterization of Macbeth and Lady Macbeth was next taken up. They are contrasted types. In the hero we find portrayed extreme ambition and selfishness, and an excess of moral cowardice. But coupled with these, a high degree of experience, physical strength, energy and courage. In the heroine we find a passionate but unselfish ambition, a strong and well disciplined intellect, a most intrepid daring, with all the charms and graces of personal beauty. Macbeth originated the scheme of getting possession of the Scottish crown by murder. He lacks tender, sympathetic feelings. The irresolution and hesitancy he manifested in action was because his conscience kindled his imagination, instead of exciting remorse. His imagination swarmed with fanciful fears. The natural result of this kind of mind was that, when the first great step had been taken, his fears goaded him on to new crimes. Lady Macbeth on the other hand, is prompt of decision, firm of will and free from all the horrors which beset her husband. She was not inaccessible to remorse. The ferocity she displayed was an assumed one. Consistently with herself control, she disclosed her guilty consciousness only during sleep.

A MOST SENSITIVE IMAGINATION

SHAKESPEARIAN TABLEAUX.

At the close of Mr. Jeffrie's able lecture Misses E. Wrighton and E. Hall favoured the company with a splendidly executed piano duo. Miss Mary Fife then recited with spirit and considerable power, the words of Lady Macbeth in Scene V, Act I, of the play, where she received a letter from her husband regarding the weird visit of the three witches. Miss E. Sharpe recited in fine form and catching much of the character and associations connected with her part which was from Scene VII, Act I, Macbeth's soliloquy before the murder of Duncan. Miss E. Carey and Mr. M. O'Brien recited in a very creditable manner, the dialogue in Scene II, Act III, between Macbeth and Lady Macbeth, before the murder of Banquo. These recitations were interspersed with suitable tableaux, representing the following scenes: Macbeth's Visit to the Witches, Macbeth's Last Battle, and Lady Macbeth's Walk in Sleep. The impersonations, expressions and accessories in these tableaux were very good and those taking part in them were shown the appreciation of the audience by hearty outbursts of applause. The closing selection by the Glee Club was admirably sung and brought to a close one of the pleasantest and most profitable meetings the Literary Society has held this season.

The next lecture will be delivered by Mr. Fife, B. A., science master of the Collegiate Institute on "Coral Reefs," and as the president of the Literary Society said in his closing remarks, they hoped to see fully as large an attendance on that night, as last evening.

THE TORONTO CURLERS YIELD AND FALL BEFORE PETERBOROUGH.

In the Great Bonspiel of Yesterday—Every Rink of the Visitors is "Dead Stoned" in the Afternoon—The Evening's Events Cause Keen Excitement A Wonderful Achievement—Roarin' Game Will Soon be O'er.

The Toronto curlers—like their predecessors the Granites—met with a gigantic defeat at the hands of the Peterborough lovers of the stane at the rink here yesterday. But the visitors has one solace over their defeat and a balm to soothe their depressed spirits which the Granite stone throwers could not enjoy. It was indeed a flattering unction to them to "think, feel, know and believe," as an enthusiastic member expressed it, that they came off 36 shots better than the Granites, who were vanquished by the home team to the tune of 80 shots, whereas the Torontos were downed by only 54 shots. Six quartettes of the visiting team arrived at noon and played six rinks of the Peterborough's. The latter came off victors by the signal majority of 44 shots. The ice was in a beautiful condition and to see no less than half a century of curlers playing in a struggle of life and death as it seemed—for each rink was on victory bent—was an unusual and impressive sight. The number of spectators was large, and the attention paid to the game undivided. Now and then a cheer rent the air as a brilliant shot was made—and there were many of them, too—and thus the sport progressed from 2 o'clock until a few minutes after 5, when playing ceased in order that the contingent from Toronto might catch the 5.45 C. P. R. train as they were desirous of doing. When the result was summed up it was seen the Peterborough's were conquerors by the unexpected majority of 44 shots. It will be remembered that in the six rink contest with the Granite's last week in the afternoon contest the home team were 40 ahead. This was indeed an excellent showing and the exultation was feverish. The most friendly relations existed between the combatants, and the Queen City men took their defeat with becoming grace. Another great source of gratification was that not a single home rink went under—a parallel of the Granite match—but were successful by majorities ranging from one shot to eleven shots.

THE EVENING SET-TO.

Shortly after eight o'clock the remaining six rinks of the Toronto's arrived to complete the 12-rink competition, but three men out of one rink that had promised to come were unable to keep their engagement, but nothing daunted, the visitors came on all the same and bound they were that the bonspiel should be twelve rinks strong, and Peterborough men with their customary habit to oblige, filled in the gap, Messrs. C. McGill, R. S. Davidson and W. Sailsbury doing battle for the Toronto's against the home curlers. The affair to an outsider might appear a little incongruous but no matter—the Peterborough men played just as zealously and devotedly for the Torontos as they did for the local aggregation with whom they have been so long identified. Details of the playing in each of the rinks would be wearisome to the reader, but the affray over each potlid waxed warm until the whole 18 ends were played and the battle ended—the evening game resulting in a majority for Peterborough of 10 shots.

The Queen City men returned home this morning at 7.10 a.m.

SYMPOSIUM OF THE STANE-PUTTERS.

At the conclusion of play about one o'clock, the Peterborough curlers entertained the visiting Toronto's at Graham's restaurant, and about a hundred persons sat down.

Dr. Boucher occupied the responsible position of symposiarch, and skipped the gastronomic game, indicating the lie of the cold "tee" with an urbanity and bonhommie that made every banquetter happy and conduced largely to the enjoyable success of the supper. Of course there were the usual loyal and patriotic toasts, as well as the usual curling toasts which meet with "roarin" reception, and were honoured with witty and eloquent speeches, among which may be specially mentioned that of Hon. L. M. Jones, of Winnipeg, who spoke as a guest and a curler, and made a capital speech, sparkling with wit and punctuated with laughter and applause. Mr. Chas. Fairbairn, M.P., replied on behalf of the Tankard champions of hyperborean Bobcaygeon. A neat speech was supplied during the evening by Mr. R. M. Russell, secretary of the Ontario Curlers' Association, and songs by Mr. Thos. Dunn, and Mr. A. McNeil. The latter also read the "Welcome to the Toronto Curlers," contributed by Sawney Sooperup, Esq., to last evening's EXAMINER. Messrs. Bigger and Cameron of Toronto, gave spirited recitations. Altogether a delightful two or three hours of solid enjoyment was terminated about 3.30 by the singing of Auld Lang Syne, in which the right guid willie wacht was not a poetical figure of speech.

The Toronto curlers last evening were very well satisfied with both the game and the hosts. They, to a large extent redeemed the good curling name of the Queen City, which recent matches and a hard run of luck had somewhat impaired.

The Prospect Park curlers, of Toronto, will play the return match with the Peterboroughs at the rink here next Tuesday. It is expected the contest will be a six rink one.

The fourth annual Sunday school entertainment of the Park street Baptist Mission and the first in their neat new building was held last evening. There was a large attendance of the children of the school and their parents and their friends, the cosy little structure being filled to the door. Rev. J. E. Trotter, pastor of the Murray street Baptist church made a capable and obliging chairman. After the opening devotional exercises, the chairman expressed his pleasure at seeing so large an attendance and congratulated Miss Mann the zealous superintendent of the school and the able staff of teachers and officer on its growing condition, and the good work being done in that part of the city. The teachers and scholars would be much blessed in their work and devotion for Christ, and they might continue to go on doing the good work already done and be as abundantly prosperous in the future as in the past. The following programme was then carried out in a creditable and satisfactory manner all those taking part showing excellent training and careful preparation:

EXCELLENT STATE OF THE SCHOOL.

The fourth annual report of the librarian Mr. Geo. Benton, which was presented during the evening, spoke of the continued prosperity of the school. The report further showed the largest attendance this year being 116 scholars, and last year 90; the smallest attendance this year was 75 as compared with 40 last year, average this year 96, last year 58. The receipts of the present year were $79.93, while those for previous year were $68.51. Their present building was first entered on Oct. 9th, 1892, and the move was a good one as abundantly indicated in the general advancement shown in the above figures. Kindly references were made to the munificant gift of the late Mrs. Nicholls, without which the present building could not have been constructed.

Regretful mention was also made concerning the resignation of Mr. H. Grundy, the diligent Superintendent of the school for three years, and of the departure of Mr. Milton Minore, the careful librarian of the school for some three years. The receipts for the past year were $79.93 and the expenditure $71.02, leaving a balance on hand of $8.71. The statement of money collected for furnishing the new school, showed the receipts to be $43.45, and the expenditure to be the same. The number of scholars enrolled at present were were 122, and the number of volumes in the library 343.

The anniversary last evening was undoubtedly the most successful held in the history of this school and the librarian's report cannot but be highly satisfactory and encouraging to the superintendent, Miss Mann, and the other teachers who have so faithfully discharged their respective duties in the past. Rev. Mr. Trotter announced that he was in correspondence with a theological student at present attending McMaster Hall, Toronto, with respect to his coming here, and taking charge of the work and conducting the regular Sunday evening services which are held in the mission each Sunday and are largely attended.

It covers a good deal of ground —Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. And when you hear that it cures so many diseases, perhaps you think "it's too good to be true."

But it's only reasonable. As a blood-cleanser, flesh-builder, and strength-restorer, nothing like the "Discovery" is known to medical science. The diseases that it cures come from a torpid liver, or from impure blood. For everything of this nature, it is the only guaranteed remedy. In Dyspepsia, Biliousness; all Bronchial, Throat and Lung affections; every form of Scrofula, even Consumption (or Lung-scrofula) in its earlier stages, and in the most stubborn, Skin and Scalp Diseases—if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

The worst cases of Chronic Catarrh in the Head, yield to Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. So certain is it that its makers offer $500 reward for an incurable case.

FASHIONS IN NEW YORK

LATEST HINTS FROM THE AMERICAN METROPOLIS.

Our Weekly Fashion Letter—Correct Modes and Passing Notions—A Gown for Invalids' Wear—A New Bodice and Novel Yoke—A Rich Home Gown.

(Copyright).

NEW YORK (SPECIAL).

MY initial illustration shows a dress of green cloth, with corselet and yoke of striped velvet, and full fronts and sleeves draped with old rose surah. The skirt is of the improved umbrella pattern. It is not trimmed in any way, but a balayeuse of the material should be placed inside to keep the edge out. The bodice is first cut out in lining from an ordinary pattern, and carefully fitted. The basque is one and a half inches long at the front and back, but only one inch deep on the hips, consequently the skirt must be made to fit well around the waist, to prevent any gaps appearing. The yoke is of velvet, and reaches from the shoulders to the darts in front; while at the back it may be slightly longer. The seams of the back lining are first sewn, pressed and boned, and then the yoke is well stretched upon it. The fronts are sewn and boned, and fastened by hooks and eyes down the middle. Then the yoke is carefully pinned on to them. Great care must be taken that the stripes match at the shoulders, and are perfectly straight at the centre of both front and back. When this is done the surah is taken and arranged in three deep pleats from each shoulder at the back; it should be cut on the cross, and ought to be of very good quality, as e otherwise it will not drape well. When draping the front a point of about eight inches long is left on each side and tied by two little knots of silk; it is afterwards fastened into the armhole, appearing to form part of the drapery. The surah should be fastened into the side seams, and the armholes, but need not be brought much lower than the top of the corselet, as otherwise it will give the waist a clumsy appearance. The left side of the drapery must be fastened over the yoke with hooks and eyes, as this latter passes under it and fastens on the shoulder. The corselet can be made on the bodice, or as a separate addition. In the latter case the bodice is worn under the skirt, to which it is attached by hooks and eyes.

As it is very difficult for an amateur to make the bodice and corselet all in one, I shall describe the more simple plan of making the corselet separately. It is made of the same velvet as the yoke. A lining is first cut and fitted from the bodice pattern, then sewn and boned, with the exception of the seams at the middle of the back, the front and the sides. The corselet is now in four pieces, which should be covered with velvet—well stretched with pins—and faced with thin Italian cloth. Both velvet and lining must be cut on the cross. The corselet fastens invisibly, with hooks and eyes, at the left side. The sleeve is cut on a tight fitting lining and the lower part is covered with velvet, while the upper part consists of a large puff of surah, prettily draped, and to which the two points of the front drapery are attached. The military collar may be either of cloth or of velvet.

A very simple and pretty bed jacket is presented in the second sketch. It can be made cheaply and to look very pretty, of cream flannel, lined with rose colored crepon. Of course, it will be more expensive and handsomer if very fine cashmere be used, and then it should be lace trimmed. The material required, is one and three-quarter yards of flannel, and it can be easily made up by the most inexperienced worker. Take a piece of material one and three-quarter yards long and thirty-two inches wide. Fold it in half and mark the centre with a pin. Measure eight inches on either side of the centre pin, and mark with two other pins. Then fold the material again and cut a slit eight inches long down the fold. Turn each of the pieces thus cut over as far as the pins, forming a turn-down collar for the neck. When this is finished, measure six inches each way from the lower corners of the cape, mark with pins, and turn the corners over, fastening with a stitch or two.

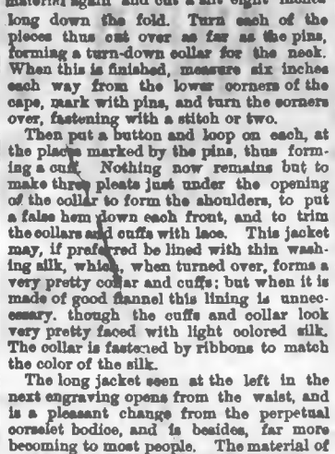
Then put a button and loop on each, at the places marked by the pins, thus forming a cuff. Nothing now remains but to make three pleats just under the opening of the collar to form the shoulders, to put a false hem down each front, and to trim the collars and cuffs with lace. This jacket may, if preferred be lined with thin washing silk, which, when turned over, forms a very pretty collar and cuffs; but when it is made of good flannel this lining is unnecessary, though the cuffs and collar look very pretty faced with light colored silk. The collar is fastened by ribbons to match the color of the silk.

The long jacket seen at the left in the next engraving opens from the waist, and is a pleasant change from the perpetual corselet bodice, and is besides, far more becoming to most people. The material of this costume is woolen goods in cream color with electric blue stripes. Large mother of pearl or bone buttons fasten it and lend a chic appearance. The sleeves, although full, are only very slightly raised on the shoulder. The revers are of surah silk, in the same shade as the stripe, and the full vest is of coffee colored surah. The same style would look equally well in any colored striped material, for instance, two shades of green, or dark blue and red, or, for a raven-haired beauty, amethyst and old gold. For half mourning, black and grey or black and red would both be effective.



A RICH HOME GOWN.

The other gown, although so simple, is very becoming and fashionable. The yoke needs a word or two of notice, for it is a novelty, and any novelty in the way of yokes is welcome. The ribbon bow, placed at the side of the yoke, is very pretty, and also takes away from the upright bow which terminates the band the one-sided look this new fashion in sashes is inclined to give the wearer.

A tea gown of red plush trimmed with cream lace and straw colored surah, is to be seen in the fourth picture. The front is formed by lace insertions divided by stripes of finely pleated surah. The collarette is also of the surah.

The little girl's dress is of cream cashmere, the skirt being strewn with small pink and blue flowerets. The bodice and sleeves are of the plain cream. The bretelles and flat flounces around the edge of the skirt are of cornflower blue velvet.

Either your gown must be draped in front and all outline of the figure about the waist line and between that line and the bust concealed, or you must particularly emphasize these lines. One way of doing so is to have the bodice fit absolutely without wrinkle or fastening. The high collar is made of a band of embroidered or beaded stuff, as broad as the neck will permit. Across the chest passes a similar band and just over the bust line another. Right above the waist line a band entirely encircles the body, and immediately below the waist line, marking the end of the bodice, there is another band about the body. The bands across the chest and breast are curved to harmonize with the circles below. The whole effect being to give an abundance of pretty curves to a good figure. Let us hope both fashions will prevail, for the loose style certainly sets off the other, and the other adds to the loose. But the woman in the loose fronted gown, if she has a figure, is at once consumed with a desire to show the other woman that she, too, can wear that style, and if she hasn't a figure she is likely to feel there is no compensation in wearing a lovely gown when she feels its style reveals or, rather, confesses her lack. She would rather go into tight fitting things, anyhow, and thus reveal to the world the fact which kept hidden so worries her. It is probably true that unless all women go into the Empire and loose style, many women will refuse to.

This last garment shown is a stylish and novel blouse. It is suitable for afternoon or evening wear, and is decidedly dressy in appearance. It should be made in some soft clinging material like bengaline, pongee, Liberty silk, crepon, etc. It is shaped to the waist by an infinite number of pleats. If for afternoon wear, passementerie can be substituted for the lace. The collar and the lower half of the sleeves is pleated to match the corselet. This useful and pretty blouse will be found a charming factor of a small trousseau, and also forms a convenient addition to the one or two dinner dresses taken to wear when on a few days' visit to friends.

"I've tried all sorts of blood purifiers," said an old lady to a "cutter," "and you can't persuade me that any other Sarsaparilla is as good as Ayer's." There's where she had him. She knew that Ayer's was the best—and so did he, but it paid him better to sell a cheaper brand.

A Cure for Dyspepsia.

Dyspepsia is a prolific cause of such diseases as bad Blood, constipation, headache and liver complaint. Burdock Blood Bitters is guaranteed to cure or relieve dyspepsia if used according to directions. Thousands have tested it with best results.

Ministers, Lawyers, Teachers, and others whose occupation gives but little exercise, should use Carter's Little Liver Pills for torpid liver and biliousness. One a dose. Try them.

Some symptoms of worms are:—fever" colic, variable appetite, restlessness, weakness and convulsions. The unfailing remedy is Dr. Lowe's Worm Syrup.

Cures Others

Will cure You, is a true statement of the action of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, when taken for diseases originating in impure blood; but, while this assertion is true of AYER'S Sarsaparilla, as thousands can attest, it cannot be truthfully applied to other preparations, which unprincipled dealers will recommend, and try to impose upon you, as "just as good as Ayer's." Take Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Ayer's only, if you need a blood-purifier and would be benefited permanently. This medicine, for nearly fifty years, has enjoyed a reputation, and made a record for cures, that has never been equalled by other preparations. AYER'S Sarsaparilla eradicates the taint of hereditary scrofula and other blood diseases from the system, and it has, deservedly, the confidence of the people.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

"I cannot forbear to express my joy at the relief I have obtained from the use of AYER'S Sarsaparilla. I was afflicted with kidney troubles for about six months, suffering greatly with pains in the small of my back. In addition to this, my body was covered with pimply eruptions. The remedies prescribed failed to help me. I then began to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla, and, in a short time, the pains ceased and the pimples disappeared. I advise every young man or woman, in case of sickness resulting from impure blood, no matter how long standing the case may be, to take AYER'S Sarsaparilla."—H. L. Jarmann, 33 William st., New York City.

ABOUT SHINING LIGHT.

THE HANDSOME IMPORTED YORKSHIRE COACH STALLION.

A Vivid Description of His Good Points—A Wonderful Record in the Prize Ring For Himself and Progeny—Twice a Sweepstakes Winner.

The horse that is portrayed upon our plate page in this issue, says the London Farmer's Advocate is one of the best specimens of the popular breed to which he belongs. Those who have watched the show ring for the past few years will have noticed that in the carriage class, which is open to all breeds of horses as long as they comply with the standard in height, it has been animals of the Yorkshire Coach and Cleveland Bay type that have won the principal prizes. The length of time that these breeds have been established has made them wonderfully prepotent, and therefore they impress upon their progeny the good qualities for which they have so long been held in repute. Therefore colts and fillies that have one, or, better still, two crosses of this breeding are hardly distinguishable in appearance from the imported animals.

Shining Light is one of the handsomest horses in America. He has a grandly formed neck and head, immense style, is beautifully turned above, his top being superbly finished, good hind quarters and shoulders, and a capital middle, and although he has been fitted for show so many times, his legs are smooth and clean, and his feet and pasterns faultless. He has abundance of hard bone below the knee and hock, while his coat, as his name so aptly expresses, is magnificent. When we last saw him, in a box stall, ungroomed, in mid-winter, he was remarkably smooth and sleek.

It is not surprising that he has been successful in the show ring, having won every year since his importation, and in the highest company, having competed with as many as twenty horses in a single class, yet he was never placed lower than third, and that on only one occasion. At succeeding shows he was placed before the horses that had previously beaten him. The fact is, few horses in any class have continued to win year after year and again return fresh to the conflict with the success that has attended this one. In 1888 he won first as a three-year-old and silver medal; in 1889, in his four-year-old form, he won second in his class, but the following year succeeded in beating the winner. In 1890 he won third in his class. In 1891 he won second at Toronto Industrial, and in 1892 he won first and a silver medal for the best horse of any age, beating one of the horses that had been placed before him in 1890. In 1892 he also won a first prize at Toronto of $60 for best stallion and five of his progeny, beating the noted winner, Prince Alexander, one of the best stock horses in Canada, and sire of the silver medal group of 1891.

Shining Light's colts are coming to the front at all the principal shows, and have succeeded in carrying more than their share of winnings. Among these is Sunlight, the first colt sired by him. This is one of the best carriage stallions in Ontario, winning first prize and sweepstakes two years in succession at Ottawa, beating the imported sweepstakes winner Argyle.

A yearling gelding by Shining Light also won silver medal at Toronto, 1892, a two-year old filly winning second, a two-year old stallion winning third.

Sunlight, Light was imported by Messrs. Irving & Christie, Winchester, Ont., and is owned by Mr. A. C. McMillan, Erin, Ont.

Shining Light, we believe, is the only horse of his class that has won sweepstakes twice at Toronto. He is registered in the Yorkshire Coach Horse Book; is a beautiful bay, free from white, black points, main and tail, stands 16¼ hands high, weighs 1,400 pounds, has capital action. He was bred by Mr. Dale, Otterington, Eng.; foaled June 10th, 1885, sired by Wonderful Boy (534); g. sire Wonderful Lad (914); sire of dam, Herod (218); sire of g. dam, Champion (85), all of which were celebrated prize-winners in their day.

More Valuable Than Diamonds.

Cod liver oil from the cod fish when combined with hypophosphites of lime and soda, as in "Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil," will build up the cellular tissues and create new blood. This is just what consumptive patients need. It has cured thousands of people who would otherwise have been at this time occupying narrow spaces in the graveyards of our country. Miller's Emulsion is worth a trial. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all drug stores.

From the Far North.

In northern climates people are very subject to colds, but the natural remedy is also produced in the same climate. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchits and all throat and lung troubles. Price 25c. and 50c.

A Sensible Man.

Would use Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs. It is curing more cases of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup and all Throat and Lung Troubles, than any other medicine. The proprietor has authorized any druggist to give you a Sample Bottle FREE to convince you of the merit of this great remedy. Large bottles 50c. and $1.

Dyspepsia in its worst forms will yield to the use of Carter's Little Nerve Pills, added by the use of Carter's Little Liver Pills. They not only relieve present distress but strengthen the stomach and digestive apparatus.

GENTLEMEN,—I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters for bad blood and find it, without exception, the best purifying tonic in use. A short time ago two very large and painful boils came on the back of my neck, B.B.B. completely drove them away.

Canadian Cyclopedias Abroad.

The importation of draught horses from Canada is a measure to which has hitherto been one of the most profitable branches of farming, the importance of which cannot be overestimated, says the Scottish Farmer. The view in Scotland has very generally prevailed that, whatever else the foreigner might be able to send, heavy work horses were an impossibility. It is, however, not so: the Province of Canada was settled by Scotchmen, and for well nigh half a century the existence and their descendants have been breeding grade Clydesdales. Starting with such prize horses as the famous Netherby and Glasgow Buchanan, they had a standard which, in course of subsequent development, produced horses of a superior draught type. A ready market was hitherto found for all that could be raised across the border; but now that there is a heavy duty on them there, the British farmer finds himself in competition with the Canadian farmer in his own market. There are several of these Canadian horses at work in Glasgow, and they are popular with contractors. A handsome young mare that had never been yoked was proceeding along Cathedral street the other morning, and on enquiry it transpired that she was a Canadian. She is owned by Messrs. Wordie, and was going to be yoked for the first time. Bay in color, with white face and white hind legs of the standard Clydesdale, she stood about 15.2, and had capital feet and legs, with sharp, clean bone. She walked well, and was not to be distinguished from the average home-bred draught horse.

A Lucky Buyer.

The advice so easily given by some agricultural writers to sell all the animals that do not pay a profit, to the first man who will make an offer for them, may be good advice for the seller, but it is rather hard on the buyer. Yet he may make a profit in buying such stock sometimes. The writer once bought a cow that probably had not paid her keeping for a year, as she gave but little milk and that too poor for butter-making, but by good pasture and a grain ration in addition after she calved she was made to give more than milk enough to pay her feeding for six months, and very good milk it was after the first two months, and in November she was sold for beef at a good advance over first cost. It was one of his first cow trades, and proved a profitable one, but the cow was so fed that she gained flesh every day during the summer and fall. It may be economy to sell the old horse that cannot earn his keeping at your work to some jockey at his first offer, but if he has been a faithful drudge or a trusted companion for years, there would be more humanity in knocking him in the head.

Effect of Tile Draining.

What a thorough and lasting improvement of rural roads is effected by the judicious use of drain tile may be seen all over the state wherever it has been given a fair trial. Just a few illustrations will tell this even better. The road between Aurora and Sugar Grove, a gravel road that had been constructed at considerable expense and had been tinkered repeatedly, was very unsatisfactory for years because of the absence of drainage. There was one stretch of this road particularly which was about as bad as bad could be. It was but a distance of forty rods, including the summit of a hill. The soil, of course, was dry. At last drain tile was put in on this section of the road, and since then it has been in good condition all the year around, no matter what kind of weather prevails, simply because the drainage is perfect, rendering this stretch perfectly dry all the while.—Chicago Herald.

An Expert's Opinion.

Here is the Jersey Bulletin's opinion: Where one owns a herd of 20 Jersey cows it will pay him better to buy a hand separator, fit up a dairy-house and hire a good butter-maker to run his dairy, than it will to send his milk to a creamery, unless he gets cash for it. If a man owns 10 good Jersey cows, and is a good butter maker, it will pay him better to make his own butter than to join a co-operative creamery. If, in addition, he is a good feeder and has business tact enough to make a market for his butter, it will pay him to buy a separator for his 10 cows, and fit up his dairy with a first-class churn and butter press.

Red Currants.

There is money in raising red currants. Last summer a New York farmer sold 16,000 pounds of red Dutch currants to a canning firm at wholesale at five cents a pound where they grew. He realized $800, or $100 a ton.

Frills of Fashion.

Graceful princess coats of ribbed velvet are worn with skirts of cloth or silk.

The very latest styles of trains for evening wear are cut square instead of round.

Goldenrod and primrose shades are considered modish as the color schemes in tea robes.

She who wears her hair in the Greek knot now fits about the knot a golden band, the precious metal being twisted as if it were a ribbon.

The new gold buckles to be worn over the broad black velvet belts are novel in design. They represent gold ribbon, about half an inch wide, twisted in and out to form a long oval shape.

Ex-Mayor Robert Bowie, Brockville, Ont., says:—"I used Nasal Balm for a bad case of catarrh, and it cured me after having ineffectually tried many other remedies. It never fails to give immediate relief for cold in the head. There is no case of cold in the head or catarrh that will not yield to Nasal Balm. Try it. All dealers at 50c. and $1 a bottle, or by mail, post paid. G. T. Fulford & Co., Brockville, Ont.

All disorders caused by a bilious state of the system can be cured by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. No pain, griping or discomfort attending their use. Try them.

A Valuable Hint.

When you are attacked by cough or cold do not delay but commence at once to use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. This old standard remedy removes all irritation, loosens the phlegm, and heals the mucous surfaces, curing coughs and colds of all kinds.

A Great Surprise.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

THE BILL RELATING TO WITNESSES AND EVIDENCE.

An Amendment Carried To the Effect That Husband and Wife of Accused Need Not Give Evidence Disclosing Conversation With Each Other.

OTTAWA, March 4.— Yesterday was lawyers day in the House, almost the whole afternoon up to recess being taken up in committee on Sir John Thompson's bill relating to witnesses and evidence. The principal point under discussion was as to accused persons being not only competent but compellable witnesses, some of the legal gentlemen being opposed to a witness being compelled to testify whether willing or not.

Sir John Thompson said that the bill introduced last year provided that a person charged with a criminal offence should be permitted to give evidence in his or her own behalf, but this year's bill went further than that and made the provisions of the bill compellable. The object of the change was to get at the truth.

Mr. Tisdale moved an amendment to the effect that neither the husband or wife of the accused person should be a competent compellable witness, which was lost.

Mr. Mulock moved an amendment to the effect that the husband or wife of the accused person should not be competent to give evidence disclosing any conversation had with each other, which was carried.

Other amendments were proposed and lost, and the committee rose and reported progress.

In reply to Mr. Laurier, Sir John Thompson said that the writ for Vaudreuil would be issued next week.

Sir John Thompson said in answer to Mr. Laurier that an order-in-council had been passed by the Postoffice Department preventing its employes from holding municipal offices, and he would bring down a copy of the order.

After some discussion on the census returns with respect to manufacturing industries, the House went into Committee of supply, taking up the balance of the supplementary estimates.

The next sitting of the Exchequer Court in Toronto for trial of cases will be held on April 4.

To-day's Canada Gazette will contain the appointments of Hugh McKenzie Wilson of Bantford as deputy judge of the county court of Brant, and of John Gilchrist of Orangeville as sub-collector of customs.

Hon. Mr. Ives, President of the Privy Council, to-day laid on the table of the House the report of Judge Wetmore, the commissioner appointed to investigate the charges against Commissioner Herchmer of the Northwest Mounted Police. The report is a very voluminous document, consisting of some 60 printed and 3500 typewritten pages, besides a large number of exhibits.

It made a heavy load for a stout page to carry from Mr. Ives' desk to the Clerk's table, and as it was placed there amid cries of "Davin's baby!" "His only child!" etc., Mr. Davin entered, and advancing to the table contemplated the ample proportions of the report with such evident satisfaction as to cause considerable amusement.

An examination of the report shows that 137 charges were made and that 38 of them were proved in whole or in part.

In concluding his report, Judge Wetmore says: "It will be seen that some of the matters of complaint brought home to the commissioner were the outcome of too much zeal on his part. Some arose from mistake of the law or from misapprehension of his powers. These mistakes and misapprehensions are such as any person in his position might be likely to make, and do not strike my mind as being of such a character as to amount to misconduct in office. The most learned and experienced judges make mistakes at times and misconceive the extent of their powers, and it is not a matter of surprise that the commissioner has sometimes done so.

"As to the remainder of the charges brought home to him I have nothing to add beyond this: That a very large proportion of them are attributable to infirmity of temper, brusqueness of manner or hasty conduct."

"I have to report that I found the relations existing between the commissioner and a large number of the commissioned officers of the force very much strained. I am not, however, prepared to state on whose shoulders the blame lies for this state of things. Of course it is alleged on the one side that it is owing to the commissioner's infirmity of temper, his brusque manner and his want of tact. On the other hand it is alleged that the fact that the commissioner was transferred from one of the Departments of the Civil Service without any very great military prestige or any record in the police force, and placed over the heads of officers who had had long experience in the force, created a jealousy which has not been assuaged, but which has grown and gained strength until the present state of affairs has been brought about. As my commission did not authorize me to inquire into the state of the force, but merely into the conduct of the commissioner, I have got before me the material necessary to enable me to express an opinion on this subject. It will be observed that none of the charges brought home to the commissioner affect his honesty, his business capacity or the efficiency of the force under his management."

Brigadier Sam Hughes, M.P., so it is said around the House to-night, is to raise a regiment of Ulster boys for service in Ireland to resist the Home Rule Parliament if it is inaugurated. Robert Birmingham of Toronto is to go as his adjutant.

Mr. Chesterworth gives notice to-night that when the bill to amend the criminal code is in Committee of the Whole he will move an amendment to the sub-sections of section 197 defining betting houses, which will have the effect of prohibiting betting on events which take place outside Canada, and also to add a new sub-section to section 204 which relates to betting and pool selling as follows:

"The provisions of this section shall apply to any bet or wager, selling any pools whether the event or events upon which such bet, wager or pool is based takes place or happens either in Canada or any other part of Her Majesty's dominions or in a foreign country."

Mr. McCarthy gives notice to-night of another batch of questions with regard to cigar and cotton manufactories.

Stanbury Coming Over.

MELBOURNE, March 3.—J. Stanbury of New South Wales, who for the last three years has held the sculling championship of the world, has sailed from Sydney for San Francisco in the s. Alameda.

Peterboro Defeats Toronto.

PETERBORO, March 3.—The Toronto Curling Club played a 12-rink game with the Peterboro curlers here to-day. Six rinks played in the afternoon and six in the evening. Peterboro won by 24 shots.

BASEBALL NEXT SEASON.

Pennants Promised for All Canadian Leagues.

TORONTO, March 4.—There promises to be a big boom in the game of baseball in Canada the coming season. Of their own accord clubs all over the country have shown unusual activity, and they will have an additional stimulus in the shape of trophies that will be given by the big firm of A. G. Spalding & Bros. of New York and Chicago.

Spalding announces that he will award the champion club in any regularly organized league in Canada a flag which will be as handsome as possible and will have the name of the winning club on it. The pennant can be unfurled on their grounds or kept as a souvenir.

All the requirements asked are that each league be composed of four clubs or more, and that each nine play not less than 12 games. Spalding does not even demand that his balls or bats be used in championship contests, but these implements of baseball warefare are in such general use that this clause was scarcely necessary.

So here is the chance for wholesale houses, printing offices, old clubs in any districts, or in fact any four clubs that know how to handle a bat from Halifax to Vancouver to organize and play ball for the prizes. The Messrs. Spalding have left the distribution of these pennants to the direction of A. N. Garrett of the Toronto University team, who will furnish prospective leaguers with copies of constitutions for amateur leagues and any other information necessary.

Daily Examiner.
MONDAY, MARCH 6, 1893.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND.

HE HAS GIVEN HIS INAUGURAL ADDRESS.

A Description of the Procession—Soldiers From All Parts of the Nation—Grover and His Fair Wife Installed in the Executive Mansion.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Grover Cleveland of New York was Saturday inducted into the high office of President of the United States for his second term, with all the appropriate ceremonies and the gathering of a mighty multitude.

Saturday also the Governors of 11 great states, New York, New Jersey, Connecticut and Massachusetts in the north and east, of Pennsylvania and Maryland among the Middle States, of Georgia, North and South Carolina and Louisiana in the south and of Wisconsin in the far west, participated in the national ceremonies and thereby emphasized the complete restoration of national unity.

Had the atmospheric conditions been anything like favorable instead of being as bad as could possible be, there would probably have been 60,000 and a number of ladies marching or riding in the parade as against 25,000 in 1885. They were all here waiting to fall in line, but at the last moment many of the organizations were compelled to desist from participation. Nevertheless the occasion was made memorable by the vast attendance.

Every foot of standing room along the route of the procession, fully two miles in length, was occupied; windows commanding a view of the parade brought fabulous prices and advantageous seats in the public stands commanded prices ranging from $5 up and down. The main stand from which President Cleveland reviewed the parade was erected immediately in front of the White House. It was 150 feet long and quite deep, and had a comfortable seating capacity for 1100 persons, 600 more than the corresponding stand erected on the same site for the inauguration of President Harrison. It was decorated with effective taste. Cushioned seats were provided for the President and his Cabinet, who surrounded him, and folding chairs were supplied for the diplomatic corps, who were arranged immediately behind him. On either side were seats for Senators, members of the House of Representatives and specially invited guests. The nearest stand to that of the President was assigned to representatives of the press. It had a seating capacity of 200, and the applications to the press committee numbered a little over 2000.

A detailed and itemised report of the great inauguration parade, which started at 11.10 a.m., is of course impossible when a mere enumeration of the various regiments, companies, posts and civic organizations participating occupies three newspaper columns. But the notes and incidents of the parade are here set down at random. Among the magnificently mounted special aides who rode behind Grand Marshal MacMahon and his staff were representatives from every state and territory in the union. The guard of honor of President Cleveland consisted of 100 members of the New York business men, Cleveland and Stevenson Association, representing 15 mercantile organizations in the Empire City.

The passage of the President along the avenue was one continual ovation of the most enthusiastic kind, the steady tramp of the superbly-drilled battalions of regulars, under the command of General Brooke, forming his escort. A feature distinctively novel was introduced into the parade by the engineer corps. This was the releasing of a number of carrier pigeons, with messages relating to the success of the inauguration destined for Philadelphia, Baltimore, Annapolis and other points. Still another original feature was afforded by the Military Bicycle Company, who, mounted upon their wheels and retaining full control of them, at the same time handled their small arms with a dexterity that indicated that this innovation in military tactics lacked nothing of success.

Recollections of Homestead came to many of the spectators, when Governor Patterson of Pennsylvania rode by at the head of the 15 regiments of blue-coated Pennsylvania troops marching like veterans who had seen service and equipped with all the essentials for active operations in the field.

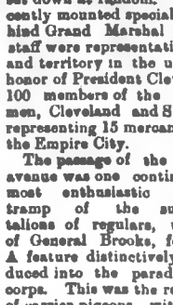
The appearance of gray-coated General Fitzhugh Lee of Virginia, in command of the third division, was the signal for a renewal of the enthusiastic ovation which greeted him when he appeared in line on the occasion of Mr. Cleveland's first inauguration. Thereafter came a procession of governors, all of whom were cheered.

Prominent among the horsemen who led the civic division of the parade was Buffalo Bill. He rode side by side with the venerable and picturesque New Yorker, General Josiah Porter, and they made a team that was in itself a feature of the division. Headed by Governor Flower and staff, the appearance of 3000 Tammany braves was a revelation to many of the spectators.

THE ADDRESS.

A Summary of the Existing Position of American Affairs and His Policy.

My Fellow-Citizens:



CLEVELAND

In obedience to the mandate of my countrymen, I am about to dedicate myself to their service under the sanction of a solemn oath. Deeply moved by the expression of confidence and personal attachment which has called me to this service, I am sure my gratitude can make no better return than the pledge I now give before God and these witnesses of unreserved and complete devotion to the interests and welfare of those who have honored me. I deem it fitting on this occasion, while indicating the opinions I hold concerning public questions of present importance, to also briefly refer to the existence of certain conditions and tendencies among our people which seem to menace the integrity and usefulness of their government. While every American citizen must contemplate with the utmost pride and enthusiasm the growth and expansion of our country, the samecleasy of our institutions to stand against the rudest shocks of violence, the wonderful thrift and enterprise of our people and the demonstrated superiority of our free government, it behooves us to constantly watch for every symptom of insidious infirmity that threatens our national vigor. The strong man, whom in confidence of sturdy health, courts the sternest activities of life and rejoices in the hardihood of constant labor, may still have lurking near his vitals the unheeded disease that dooms him to his sudden collapse.

Is cannot be doubted that our stupendous achievements as a people and our country's robust strength have given rise to a heedlessness of those laws governing our national health which we can no more evade than human life can escape the laws of God and nature.

Manifestly nothing is more vital to our supremacy as a nation and to the beneficent purposes of our government than a sound and stable currency. Its exposure to degradation should at once arouse to activity the most enlightened statesmanship, and the danger of depreciation in the purchasing powers of the wages paid to toil should furnish the strongest incentive to prompt and conservative precautions. In dealing with our present embarrassing situation as related to this subject we will be wise if we temper our confidence and faith in our national strength and resources with the frank concession that even these will not permit us to defy with impunity the inexorable laws of finance and trade. At the same time, in our efforts to adjust differences of opinion we should be free from intolerance of passion, and our judgment should be unmoved by alluring phrases and unvexed by selfish interests.

I am confident that such an approach to he subject will result in prudent and effective remedial legislation. In the meantime, as far as the executive branch of the Government can intervene, none of the powers with which it is invested will be withheld when their exercise is deemed necessary to maintain our national credit or avert financial disaster.

Closely related to the exaggerated confidence in our country's greatness, which tends to a disregard of the rules of national safety, another danger confronts us not less serious. I refer to the prevalence of a popular disposition to expect from the operation of the government especial and direct individual advantages.

The verdict of our voters, which condemned the injustice of maintaining protection for protection's sake, enjoins upon the people's servants the duty of exposing and destroying the brood of kindred evils which are the unwholesome progeny of paternalism. This is the bane of Republican institutions, and the constant peril of our government by the people. It degrades to the purposes of wirecraft the plan of rule our fathers established and bequeathed to us as an object of our love and veneration. It perverts the patriotic sentiment of our countrymen and tempts them to a pitiful calculation of the gain to be derived from their government's maintenance. It undermines the self reliance of our people and substitutes in its place dependence upon governmental favoritism. It stifles the spirit of true Americanism and stupefies every ennobling trait of American citizenship. The lessons of paternalism ought to be unlearned and the better lesson taught that while the people should patriotically and cheerfully support their government its functions do not include the support of the people. The acceptance of this principle leads to a refusal of bounties and subsidies which burden the labor and thrift of a portion of our citizens to aid ill advised or languishing enterprises in which they have no concern. It leads also to a challenge of wild and reckless pension expenditure which overleaps the bounds of grateful recognition of patriotic service and prostitutes to vicious uses the people's prompt and generous impulse to aid those disabled in their country's defence.

Every thoughtful American must realize the importance of checking its beginning—any tendency in public or private station to regard frugality and economy as virtues which we may safely outgrow. The toleration of this idea results in the waste of the people's money by their chosen servants and encourages prodigality and extravagance in the home life of our countrymen. Under our scheme of government the waste of public money is a crime against the citizen, and the contempt of our people for economy and frugality in their personal affairs deplorably saps the strength and sturdiness of our national character.

It is a plain dictate of honesty and good government that public expenditures should be limited by public necessity and that this should be measured by the rules of strict economy, and it is equally clear that frugality among the people is the best guarantee of a contented and strong support of free institutions. One mode of misappropriation of public funds is avoided when appointments to office, instead of being the rewards of partisan activity, are awarded to those whose efficiency promises a fair return of work for the compensation paid to them. To secure the fitness and competency of appointees to office and to remove from political action the demoralizing madness for spoils civil service reform has found a place in our public policy and laws. The benefits already gained through this instrumentality and the further usefulness it promises entitle to the hearty support and encouragement of all who desire to see our public service well performed or who hope for the elevation of political sentiment and purification of political methods.

The existence of immense aggregations of kindred enterprises and combinations of business interests formed for the purpose of limiting production and fixing prices, is inconsistent with the fair field which ought to be open to every independent activity. Legitimate strife in business should not be superseded by an enforced concession to the demands of combinations that have the power to destroy. Nor should the people to be served lose the benefit of cheapness which usually results from wholesome competition. These aggregations and combinations frequently constitute conspiracies against the interests of the people, and as in all their phases they are unnatural and opposed to our American sense of fairness; to the extent that they can be reached and restrained by federal power, the general government should relieve our citizens from their interference and exactions. Loyalty to the principles upon which our government rests positively demands that the equality before the law which it guarantees to every citizen should be justly and in good faith conceded in all parts of the land. The enjoyment of this right follows the badge of citizenship wherever found, and unimpaired by race or color it appeals for recognition to American manliness and fairness. Our relations with the Indians located within our borders impose upon us responsibility we cannot escape. Humanity and consistency require us to treat them with forbearance, and in our dealings with them to honestly and considerately regard their rights and interests. Every effort should be made to lead them, through the paths of civilization and education, to self-supporting and independent citizenship. In the meantime, as the nation's wards, they should be promptly defended against the cupidity of designing men and shielded from every influence or temptation that retards their advancement.

The people of the United States have decreed that on this day the control of their government in its legislative and executive branches shall be given to a political party pledged in the most positive terms to the accomplishment of tariff reform. They have thus determined in favor of a more just and equitable system of federal taxation. The agents they have chosen to carry out their purposes are bound by their promises, not less than by the command of their masters, to devote themselves unremittingly to this service. While there should be no surrender of principle, our task must be undertaken wisely and without vindictiveness. Our mission is not punishment, but the rectification of wrongs. If in lifting burdens from the daily life of our people we reduce inordinate and unequal advantages too long enjoyed, this is but a necessary incident of our return to right and justice. If we exact from unwilling minds acquiescence in the theory of an honest distribution of the fund of governmental beneficence treasured up for all, we but insist upon a principle which underlies our free institutions. When we tear aside the delusions and misconceptions which have blinded our countrymen to their condition under vicious tariff laws, we but show them how far they have been led away from the paths of contentment and prosperity. When we proclaim that the necessity for revenue to support the government furnishes the only justification for taxing the people, we announce a truth so plain that its denial would seem to indicate the extent to which judgment may be influenced by familiarity with perversions of the taxing power, and when we seek to reinstate the self-confidence and business enterprise of our citizens by discrediting an abject dependence upon Governmental favor, we strive to stimulate those elements of American character which support the hope of American achievement.

Anxiety for the redemption of the pledges which my party has made and solicitude for the complete justification of the trust the people have reposed in us constrain me to remind those with whom I am to cooperate that we can succeed in doing the work which has been especially set before us only by the most sincere harmonious and disinterested effort. Even if insuperable obstacles and opposition prevent the consummation of our task, we shall hardly be excused, and if failure can be traced to our fault or neglect, we may be sure the people will hold us to a swift and exacting account.

The oath I now take, to preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States, not only impressively defines the great responsibility I assume but suggests obedience to constitutional commands as the rule by which my official conduct must be guided. I shall to the best of my ability and within my sphere of duty preserve the constitution by loyally protecting every grant of federal power it contains by defending all its restraints when attacked by impatience and restlessness and by enforcing its limitations and reservations in favor of the States and the people.

Fully impressed with the gravity of the duties that confront me, and mindful of my weakness, I should be appalled if it were my lot to bear unaided the responsibilities which await me. I am, however, saved from discouragement when I remember that I shall have the support and the counsel and co-operation of wise and patriotic men who will stand at my side in cabinet places or will represent the people in their legislative halls.

I find, also, much comfort in remembering that my countrymen are just and generous and in the assurance that they will not condemn those who by sincere devotion to their service deserve their forbearance and approval.

Above all, I know there is a Supreme Being who rules the affairs of men, and whose goodness and mercy have always followed the American people, and I know He will not turn from us now if we humbly and reverently seek His powerful and exacting accountability.

AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Installed in the Executive Mansion for Four Years of Good or Ill.

It was shortly after 11 o'clock when President-elect Cleveland and Vice-President-elect Stevenson, accompanied by the State Committee on Arrangements, entered the executive mansion. They were received by President Harrison in the Blue Room. Five minutes later the President and his successor reappeared, and, entering an open carriage, the march of the procession to the Capitol was begun. They rode in President Harrison's carriage, drawn by four bay horses.

At 12.12 Cleveland entered the Capitol. Despite the arrangement made to handle the great crowds confusion reigned at the Capitol, and the doorkeepers were all but helpless in preventing a general rush through the door. Especially was this the case at the doors of the gallery assigned to the presidential party, to which a large number of tickets of admittance had been issued.

Mrs. Cleveland, wife of the President-elect, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Perrine, and the latter's husband, came soon after noon and took seats in the presidential gallery.

The diplomatic corps was followed by the Supreme Court. The members of the House then came in informally and unannounced.

The Presidential party, with their military escort, came in sight of the eastern entrance of the Capitol a few minutes after 12 o'clock. From the moment Mr. Cleveland descended from the carriage he was received with lusty cheers, and when he entered the Senate wing the cheers of the outside crowd gave way to an ovation.

Mr. Henry T. Thurber will be President Cleveland's private secretary. He received his appointment as a surprise, neither he nor his friends having solicited the position. He was born at Monroe, Mich., 40 years ago and resided there until he entered college at the University of Michigan. He is a lawyer, a member of the firm of Dickinson, Thurber & Stevenson of Detroit, and has been with Don M. Dickinson 18 years as student and partner. His appointment was made on the ground of his special fitness for the position.

MONDAY, MARCH 6, 1893.

THE DOMINION FRANCHISE ACT.

The following from the "Week" is a very strong condemnation of the unfairness of the anti-British Dominion Franchise Act. Coming from the Week, with its judicial poise in politics and with its stately language, the article is a very strong condemnation of an act which every-day politicians, with their heart in the right place, rightly regard as "iniquitous." The "Week" says:—

It need surprise no one that the promised revision of the Electoral Franchise Act has resolved itself into a few amendments in the mode of preparing the lists, which leave the principle of the measure untouched. The whole system is not only enormously expensive, but radically unsound, as is every system which, under party government, puts the preparation of the lists and the control of the electoral machinery so completely in the hands of the Administration of the day. It would be too much to expect that the Government should, save under pressure of a public opinion on their own side of the House much weightier than has yet been developed, deprive themselves of a weapon from which they have undoubtedly derived very great party advantage, if not an actual extension of their term of office. Should the Opposition ever come into power, there will be no better test of their honesty than that which will be afforded by their action in relation to this system. The advantages will then be wholly on their side, and they will show more stern and self-denying adherence to principle than is often manifested when the Outs have become the Ins, if they are in a hurry to make a radical change in the system which they now so vigorously and with so much reason denounce. It is, however, greatly to be regretted that a Government and party so enamoured of everything British, as are those now in the majority, is not prepared to follow British precedent so far as to put the appointment of revising officers and the preparation and printing of electoral lists beyond the reach of Government control. Canadian party politicians still need to take lessons in British fair play.

The Week may be sure that if the Liberal party should, with their hands tied by the Franchise Act, gain office, they will make short work of that buccaneering expedient for making office perpetual.

DOURO.

County Council.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The council met pursuant to adjournment on February 27th. Minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed. On motion of Mr. Garbutt, seconded by Mr. McCliggott, the clerk was instructed to procure from Warwick & Sons, Toronto, 100 copies of the pamphlet, No. 15, "to check contagious diseases." Mr. John McAuliffe applied to the council for leave to remove some trees on the Douro side of the boundary between Douro and Ashburnham. On motion of Mr. Garbutt, seconded by Mr. McCliggott, the reeve was authorized to attend to the matter and to make such removal, subject to ornament and usefulness of such trees. On motion of Mr. Garbutt, seconded by Mr. Walsh the auditor's statement of receipts and expenditures was received and adopted, and the clerk instructed to get 200 copies of the detailed statement printed in pamphlet form for distribution and to advertise the abstract statement; also that the reeve do order the payment of $8 each to Maurice Condou and R. H. Reid, salary as auditors. On motion of Mr. Walsh, seconded by Mr. Bullock, the reeve ordered the payment of $4.50 to Wm. Moher for one cord of wood for use of town hall. By-law No. 526 passed appointing pathmasters, poundkeepers and fence-viewers. On motion of Mr. Bullock, second by Mr. Garbutt, the collector was authorized to return the collector's roll to the treasurer on or before the 15th March. The reeve got leave of absence in the afternoon to attend to some matter of importance in connection with the county council, and Mr. Walsh, the deputy reeve, occupied the chair and conducted the business in a satisfactory manner. On motion of Mr. Bullock, seconded by Mr. Garbutt, the deputy-reeve ordered the following payments, viz: To Anson Cartwright, $3.00 over charge in school tax; to clerk, $15; to G. J. Galvin, $4 for attending council in connection with parties unlawfully cutting timber on River road. Council andjourned to March 27th, then to meet at 10 o'clock, a.m.

From Head to Foot

You feel the good that's done by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It purifies the blood. And through the blood, it cleanses, repairs, and invigorates the whole system.

In recovering from "La Grippe," or in convalesene from pneumonia, fevers, or other wasting diseases, nothing can equal as an appetizing, restorative tonic to build up needed flesh and strength. It rouses every organ into natural action, promotes all the bodily functions, and restores health and vigor.

For every disease that comes from a torpid liver or impure blood, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, or Scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain that it can be guaranteed. If it dosen't benefit or cure, in every case you have your money back.

For a perfect and permanent cure for Catarrh, take Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Its proprietors offer $500 reward for an incurable case of Catarrh.

For Sprains, and Bruises.

No other remedy cures sprains, bruises, cuts, wounds, chilblains, sore throat, rheumatism, etc., so promptly as Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It is an old standard remedy that has given perfect satisfaction for 30 years.

Opening of Parliament for the People!

GOUGH BROS.' CABINET FORMED AND A POLICY DECIDED ON!

February is the month of clearing up. Goughs have re-organized business for 1893 and start out to clear off the slate for spring. Trade for 1892 has been larger than ever. Profits have been smaller. Goughs have cut their prices to meet the low price of wheat; and if wheat goes lower, down go Goughs' prices. They will not be undersold by the farmer or see the farmer undersold.

CLEARING UP THE STOCK FOR SPRING.

Stock-taking is over. A lot of odd lots remain. These must go. Goughs will almost give them away to clear. Come in and run through the counters and see your opportunity.

IT CONCERNS BABY'S LIFE.

It is of the greatest importance that mothers give particular attention to the condition of the feeding bottle. Food should not be allowed to remain in the bottle after feeding, and fed again to the child. The food left in the bottle generally becomes stale; and, if used, there is danger of stomach derangements and a disordered system.

Two or more bottles should always be kept for use, and they should be very clean and sweet before the food is put into them.

With freshly washed bottles, and the life-giving Lactated Food, infants will thrive wonderfully fast. There is no other food known to the medical profession that is so well adapted to the weak digestion of an infant.

Lactated Food is a veritable substitute for breast milk, and is specially recommended by physicians because it contains sugar of milk instead of common cane sugar. Dr. C. H. Routh, in his work, "Infant Feeding and its Influence on Life," says, "Sugar of milk allays morbid irritation, and will often check diarrhœa."

Scores of strong reasons could easily be advanced why mothers should always use Lactated Food in preference to any other make. We would remind all mothers who have not yet given this great food a trial, that the Wells & Richardson Co., of Montreal, will send a full-sized can free to any mother who sends in her Post Office address.

Elderly people remember their spring bitters with a shudder. The present generation have much to be thankful for, not the least of their blessings being such a pleasant and thoroughly effective spring medicine as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is a health-restorer and health-maintainer.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may be well termed "Perfection."

As a pick-me-up after excessive exertion or exposure, Millburn's Beef, Iron and Wine is grateful and comforting.

MARKET MEMORANDA.

Prices Rule Fair, and a Good Demand All Around.

The Saturday market was fairly well attended, and plenty of produce was offered, which realized good prices. The grain market is fairly active at present, but prices remain about the same. Saturday's quotations were: Spring wheat 61c. (standard), fall 65c. (standard), a fair amount offered, lots of oats are going at 32 and 33½c. per bushel, small peas 56 to 61c., mummies 64c.—not many offering. One load of buckwheat sold at 43c. No barley was offered, but is quoted at 35 to 40c. No rye selling. A brisk demand is made for hay, which is selling at $8 to $8.50 per ton. Straw sold freely at $3. Apples sold from 75 cts to $1.00 per bag. Potatoes found a ready sale at 75 and 80 cts. The supply was limited. The meat market is fully up to the average. Dressed hogs were selling at $8 per cwt, while beef brought 5 and 6 cts, mutton 8 and 9 cts, lamb 10 and 11 cts. On the inside a fair amount of butter was sold from 20 to 22 cts in roll, and 18 to 19 cts in firkin. Eggs have become more plentiful and as a consequence a drop in price has been brought about. They sold for 18 cts per doz. Buyers purchased in the neighbourhood of some 400 dozen for shipment to Montreal. The supply of poultry was limited, but prices remained much the same. No other changes in prices.

A MODEL DANGER ESCAPE.

EASILY HANDLED!

A Child May Safely Use It!

Tested and PRONOUNCED PERFECT

The ingenuity and skill of man has given us wonderful and useful inventions for the saving of human life. Some of our modern fire escapes are ingenious contrivances, and are of great value for rescuing lives when the ordinary means of exit cannot be used. Medical science has given to man a "danger escape" or "life-saving" agent more valuable and precious than any mechanical contrivance ever designed by man. This wonderful rescuer and deliverer known as Paine's Celery Compound, daily saves thousands from foes more perilous than fire. From the humblest cottage to the loftiest mansion Paine's Celery Compound banishes such deadly foes as nervousness, insomnia, paralysis, rheumatism, neuralgia, liver and kidney diseases, and and all impurities of the system. This grand "escape," culled from some of the most precious products of nature, is adapted for all ages; even children who are weak and sickly are soon built up and strengthened by using it. "No medicine has ever been more thoroughly tested than Paine's Celery Compound, and no other has achieved such popularity and greatness. It is honest and perfect in its work. Have you tried it, sufferer? If not, we say procure it at once; it will save you and cure you.

PROGRESSIVE.—Last summer the school house in this section was bricked, fixed up and made practically a new building. It has had recent additions to the furniture and equipment, consisting of some new window curtains, a large school dictionary, a globe, a teacher's desk, etc. The trustees and people are to be congratulated on the practical way in which they manifest their interest in educational matters. There is still needed an addition to the present small playground.

SOCIAL, ADDRESSES AND ENTERTAINMENT.—A very successful social was held in the hall under the auspices of Mather's Corners Union Sabbath school on Friday evening, Feb. 24th. Addresses were delivered by Rev. E. E. Howard and Rev. F. Andrews, of Keene, and an entertainment consisting of music, recitations, etc., was given.

The Advertising.

Of Hood's Sarsaparilla is always within the bounds of reason because it is true; it always appeals to the sober, common sense of thinking people because it is true; and it is always fully substantiated by endorsements which, in the financial world would be accepted without a moment's hesitation.

For a general family cathartic we confidently reccomend Hood's Pills.

Couldn't Keep on His Feet.

PETERBOROUGH, Jan. 31st, 1892.

To the Peterborough Medicine Company:

GENTLEMEN,—If there is any medicine in the world that I pin my faith to it is Mombray's Kidney and Liver Cure. In my business I have to stand on my feet a good deal. About a year ago my back began to give out, weakening pains set in across my kidneys, I felt tired all the time and could hardly stand up to my work. I began to lose strength and at last had to give up work altogether. A customer advised me to try your cure which I did. Before half the bottle was used, I felt the pains and weakness leaving me and to-day I enjoy good health and can bear fatigue and work all right. One bottle was all I used.

Teaching a Colt.

When I wish to teach a colt to carry a saddle I first put a blanket on him, folded to about saddle size, then a strcingle strapped loosely at the next lesson. I make the strcingle quite tight, at the third lesson very tight. At the fourth lesson I tie the colt to the hitching post and put a boy on him. He soon gets accustomed to the weight and does not mind it, then I take the boy off, remove the blanket and put on the saddle, then put the boy in the saddle, letting him sit there for fifteen minutes, not quietly, but moving himself about, lifting himself in the stirrups, leaning over and patting the colt's neck, and otherwise making his presence conspicuous. Next lesson, I put the saddle on the horse, put the boy on horseback, and lead the horse about for several minutes, then give the lad the rein and let him gently exercise the horse for half an hour. After this course of training any man or boy can ride that colt providing he has sense enough to manage him kindly. Busy men will say "We have no time for such foolishness," and will proceed in the old cruel way to break the colt, making of him a spiritless thing, which I would not have on my place except as a charity. A good, gentle horse full of life and spirits, full of sense and love for his master or mistress is one of the grandest creatures in nature, but it does require time and patience to properly educate an animal.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the bore" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
When one's call must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.

HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently assertedby Companies whose business is nearly all tontined, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWEN'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

A Commendable Practice.

A students' club has been in existence some time time in connection with the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company. This club has a good membership and its object is to assist its members in the study of electrical engineering. The example of the employees of the Canadian General Electric Company is one worthy of imitation by the employees of other manufacturing establishments. The latter very properly have organizations for summer amusement, and if they devote the summer to enjoyment of sport and the incidental development of the physical side of their natures, it is only proper that the suitable season of winter should be devoted to the improvement of their minds. The artizan who devotes his energies only to putting in his hours and drawing his wages will never improve his position like the one who devotes his spare time to study that will make him a better and more intelligent workman, who will command increased remuneration and promotion to more responsible positions.

The Black Flag.

The Josie Mills Dramatic Company, under the management of Chas. H. Haystead, appeared at the opera house on Saturday evening to a fair house. Henry Pettit's melodrama "The Black Flag," was well produced and frequently applauded by the house. The characters were all favourably portrayed and each member personated his or her different part in a faithful and skilled manner. The play is one of unusual interest, and is a love story naturally and beautifully told. Miss Josie Mills as the loyal, devoted and unselfish "Ned, the Cabin Boy" was splendid and realistic and performed her part with chic and abandon. Mr. J. L. Ashton as the open hearted and noble impulsed "Harry Flyndon" of the Coast Guard, and Mr. John Wilton as the parsimonious but prejudiced "Owen Glyndon," were capital and pleased all. Miss Lillian Bayer as Naomi Bradford was also good. Mr. L. De Kalb as Lazarus, a London sharper, was unique and furnished an immense amount of fun for the audience by his antics, drollery and nonchalance.

Winnipeg Wins a Good Citizen.

Mr. F. E. Bell, who has been a life-long resident of Peterborough, leaves to-night for Winnipeg, Man., where he has accepted a responsible position—that of secretary-treasurer in connection with the Permanent Mortgage and Trust Company, of that city, the leading monetary concern of Manitoba. Mr. Bell has had an experience that specially qualifies him for the position. He was for 10 years with the Peterborough Real Estate Investment Company, and upon the amalgamation of that institution with the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, he continued in a similar position. During his long intercourse with the public Mr. Bell has earned a well deserved popularity; he is obliging and courteous as an official, is a first rate accountant and thoroughly reliable, and will doubtless render, in his new position, as valuable services as he has given in the past. Winnipeg gains a valuable addition to her citizenship in Mr. Bell, and his estimable family. He has spent his whole life in Peterborough and won a warm place in the esteem of the best social circles. He is a good musician and for a time and at times held the position of organist in St. John's Anglican church. He carries with him the best wishes of the community in which he held so respected a place.

After about an hour's work the fire was subdued.

Easter Egg Revolutionist.

The lady said—"its just too sweet for anything"—she meant the sugar hen as she saw her sitting in a candy nest in the window of Johnny Watt's confectionery store. A naturally moulded hen chocolate brown with crimson comb and wattles, sits in a nest incabating on the idea of Easter eggs. The hen and nest represents 20 lbs. of sugar and is a credit to Mr. Johnny Watt's artistic skill and his determination to be up to the times.

A Brace of Slight Accidents.

Mr. T. Joy, Ashburnham, an employee of Mr. D. Belleghem's furniture factory, had his hand slightly injured by an accident on Saturday afternoon.

Another accident, which happily did not result seriously, occurred this morning. A young daughter of Mr. Simon Murphy, while on her way to school jumped on the delivery sleigh of Mr. Harry Denne. Another conveyance was passing at the time, and the clothes of the rider caught by some means, with the result that she was thrown off. Miss Murphy was stunned by the fall, and was driven in a cab to the office of Dr. Spears. Beyond being dazed she was not much injured, and was able to proceed on her way to school.

More About the Talented Lady.

The coming concert to be given by the Belle Botsford Concert Company in the Opera House on Wednesday next will be under the auspices of Otonabee Lodge, I. O. O. F. The plan of seats open at Salisbury's bookstore. The company are exceptionally highly spoken of by the New York and Boston press. Miss Belle Botsford, violin virtuoso, has acquired a worthy reputation among the great violinists of the day having entered the Paris Conservatory, at the age of twelve. At that time there were a hundred and twenty candidates for admission, of whom only six were received, Miss Botsford's name being first. After five years' study in Paris, with Leonard, she played at several concerts in London, under Mapleson's management. In Paris her first appearance was under Gounod's direction, and in this country she made her debut at the Worcester Festival, achieving a decided success, and winning warm praise from all the first critics of the country. She has just returned from an extended tour in the large cities of the South and West, where she has been received with universal favor. Tickets only 50 and 25 cents. 1d

Trinity College Convocation.

A meeting of the local association of the convocation of Trinity University was held at the residence of Mr. J. C. Davidson, Hunter street on Saturday evening to listen to an account of the present condition and work of convocation from Rev. Prof. Cayley, M.A., of Trinity College. Rev. Mr. Davidson presided, and in his opening remarks expressed regret at the absence of the Provost who was prevented faom leaving owing to stress of business at home. Prof. Cayley spoke of the excellent and splendid work which was being done by convocation in the past term. At the last general meeting the chancellor stated that all, almost all,—every enlargement of the curriculum and teaching staff in the last few years had been due in the first instance to convocation. Convocation had the supplies and necessary funds at the start, and then after a time the permanent endowment has in several cases been procured. Last year convocation made the following, among other grants, out of its income solely derived from the annual fees: To stipend of fellows, $375; to chair in history, $400; lecturship in modern languages, $400. Prof. Cayley concluded by saying that the great importance of the work of convocation should be sustained, and strongly urged all to continue their membership, and strive to obtain new members.

OBITUARY.

The Late W. J. Mason.

Mr. W. J. Mason, a prominent and most highly respected resident of Peterborough for over half a century, died at the family residence, 60 Murray street, this morning of an illness with which he has been afflicted some time. The deceased gentleman was of Irish parentage, his father's family having come from County Sligo in 1827. In 1837 Mr. W. J. Mason, the eldest son, was born in Cobourg, and in 1840 removed with the family to Peterborough. In 1856 he entered the store of Mr. Thos. Bradburn, and subsequently became a partner in the firm of Mason & Bradburn, which was dissolved about 1876, and about 1880 Mr. Mason established the George grocery business which he has since conducted, although the last two years his sons have been associated with it under the firm name of W. J. Mason & Sons. In July, 1863, Mr. Mason was married to Miss Victoria, daughter of the late Alex. Morrow. To this marriage were born four sons and two daughters. The surviving children are W. A., (Albert, E. F. (Captain in the 57th Battalion), and Walter, Misses Bertha V., and Edith M. Rupert a son, died two years ago, come to-morrow. Mr. Mason was a prominent member of the George street Methodist church, being at the time of his death, secretary of the trustee board, and a steward, and was for a number of years superintendent of the Sunday School. He was also an active member of the old board of trade. As a friend he was held in high regard, for his many excellent and amiable personal qualities, and as a citizen enjoyed universal esteem and respect. His family will have the general sympathy of the community in the affliction that has removed a kind and affectionate husband and father. The funeral takes place on Wednesday. Service at 3 o'clock at the George street church, from which the funeral will proceed at 3:30 o'clock to the Little Lake cemetery.

"When I was 4 or 5 years old I had a scrofulous sore on the middle finger of my left hand, which got so bad that the doctors cut the finger off, and later took off more than half my hand. Then the sore broke out on my arm, came out on my neck and face on both sides, nearly destroying the sight of one eye, also on my right arm. Doctors said it was the they ever saw. It was simply awful! Five years ago I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Gradually I found that the sores were beginning to heal. I kept on till I had taken ten bottles, ten dollars! Just think of what a return I got for that investment! A thousand per cent? Yes, many thousand. For the past 4 years I have had no sores. I

THE commencement of another month awakens new interest in what we may have to tell you. Stock-taking is over and the opening up of new goods is now and will be all the month, the order of the day. This month, especially in the Dry Goods world,

COTTON IS KING.

A fresh impulse is given to the whole store by the appearance of the New Spring Cotton Goods.

Prints, Ginghams, Flannelettes and Suitings.

Not a mere handful of them either, but hundreds and hundreds of pieces to choose from. Cotton has now conquered textile art in Summer Dress Stuffs.

Some very handsome things in these goods are made on this side of the great waters; of course there is the foreign glamour of the imported article, which gives a charm that is lacking in the production of the artist nearer home.

March will be an epoch of bargains. Already it has a goodly heritage in the great display of WHITE GOODS, LINENS, HOUSEHOLD REQUISITES, as well as tempting values in DRESS GOODS. New shades; costume lengths; only one of a pattern; styles exclusively our own.

Our spring business is opening up. Look out for news. You'll find no special pleading, but from day to day, something to mark a larger energy and a better service. New merchandise constantly; great bargains often.

As we sell for SPOT CASH, we have no bad debts to take into consideration when marking our goods. It will pay you to inspect our stock before purchasing.

WON BY A GOAL.

Peterborough Defeats Port Hope at Hockey on Saturday Night.

The Port Hope town hockey team arrived in town at 5.12 o'clock on Saturday afternoon and played the Peterboroughs in a friendly contest at the rink on Saturday evening. The game was somewhat late in starting and it was not until 6.50 o'clock that the puck was faced off. The number of spectators was limited to a handful—just enough to get up a cheer now and then when either side made a good rush or some individual member scored a brilliant play. Mr. W. H. Bradburn refereed the game and their was no "kicking" at his decisions. Following are the teams:—

Port Hope.		Peterborough.
Wood	goal	Wasson
Paterson	point	Sawers
Fenwick	cover point	Carmichael
Ross	forwards	Wonham
Davidson		Parson
Foster		Montgomery
Smart		Phelan
Lauder	goal umpires	E. B. Loucks

The game was fast and furious throughout the whole contest, which only lasted 45 minutes—at the expiration of which time the rink, by order, had to be given up to the skaters. The play was, however, characterized by some roughness. Both sides played in good form, though not much team or combination work were done. The individual playing was the star of the game on both sides. A few minutes after the commencement Wonham, who played an expert game throughout, scored for Peterborough. The puck then hovered up and down the ice, now in too close proximity to Peterborough's citadel, then with most unpleasant nearness to Port Hope's territory, until Davidson who was undoubtedly the master player for the visitors scored for the seaport town by a clever shot. A few seconds later Wonham scored again for Peterborough amid considerable excitement and before the referee's whistle blew Fenwick, who played here with the Colbourgs in the league hockey games, put the rubber through for Port Hope, evening up the score 2 to 2. In the remaining fifteen minutes Peterborough scored, then Port Hope by the unerring shot of Davidson scored again, and then Peterborough scored her last goal, Parsons doing the necessary. Thus the game ended, four goals to three in favor of the home club. Port Hope's backs played in splendid style and saved their team from a far worse beating than they met with, by their practised defence work. The visitors left for home the same evening on the 8.50 o'clock train. Peterborough will play the return match at Port Hope soon.

A SUCCESSFUL SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY.

Held in the Charlotte Street Church Yesterday—Eloquent Sermons by the Rev. L. Hill, B. A., of Port Perry.

The most impressive and successful anniversary sermons ever held in the history of the Charlotte street church Sunday school occurred yesterday. The church was filled to the doors both morning and evening while the sermons delivered by Rev. Lewis Hill, B. A., of Port Perry were practical and reparkably well delivered. In the morning the preacher gave an explicit and splendid address to the children of the school who were present to the number of 300 or more. The singing was lively and the service bright throughout, all joining heartily in the numerous songs. Together with their teachers the scholars occupied the central row of seats in the church, which was crowded by a very large congregation. In the afternoon at the Sunday school brief, but timely addresses were delivered by the zealous superintendent Mr. A. L. Davis and Rev. Mr. Hill. In the evening the reverend gentleman preached more particularly to parents, basing his remarks on James 1st chapter and 27th verse:

"Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction and to keep himself unspotted from the world."

The reverend gentleman said if there was going to be any shoddy on earth let it not be in religion. Religion should be pure and genuine, for anything else than this was a debasement to heaven, and a destruction on earth. An aimless life was all in vain. Each one of us should have a definite goal in view, and keep pressing ahead with a purpose, a will and an inspiration until that goal was reached. We should not drift but steer. We should all bear the motto "Excelsior" upon our banner in overcoming all trials and difficulties. When Christians possess this spirit, praying and singing and enthusiastically worshipping and praising God, then will the golden era come on earth. Enthusiasm was what was wanted in things religious. Demosthenes caught the spirit of greatness, and labouring under all circumstances accomplished his purpose. It was possible for us to throw cheer and goodness in religion. The sainted Richard Watson began his sanctified life when a young man and his able career was a monument to the wonderful power of the Almighty working in young men. Let young men make an example of this and take that which Christ so freely gives them. We wanted no more progressive and unhopeful beings in the world to-day. The speaker said they reminded him of the now bigoted conception of the Roman, "Ne plus ultra" in regard to the ideas of territory and extent of the world. We could all have more grace and sweetness in our hearts than we have now. We wanted ambition. It stirred hope nourished faith and made us charitable, good willed and loving. The world was made great by the lofty purposes men have. The speaker forcibly illustrated this point mentioning in connection, the names of such famous men as Wolfe, Franklin, Livingstone, Stanley, Milton, Bunyan and others, and the noble deeds and work they had accomplished for the world and mankind generally. Accordingly if anything was going to be achieved we must be animated by a high purpose. This was particularly true in religion. There were three things in the

APOSTOLIC STANDING OF A CHRISTIAN.

The first was cutting loose from the world. In those days the absolute conception of a Christian was cutting loose from the world and following Christ. The holy Angustine sold all his great Roman estates and threw his whole being upon the altar of God and by writing and preaching spread the glad tidings of the gospel all over Europe. The second point was the reception of the Holy Ghost. Let the church and each person be filled with this spirit The third point was to be a martyr. We should be martyrs in our every deed, thought, word and action—all should be one grand consecration and given to God. We were not our own, but simply stewards of God. We wanted less lip service and more practical religion. This was the spirit of the day, asking about practical religion and not professional. The difference between Paul and James was that the latter reasoned a posteriori. James reasoned from the conclusion back to the premises, while Paul reached the conclusion by reasoning from the beginning. The speaker contrasted true and professional religion. One was passive, the other active. The former gave out hope, faith and charity. Let it gleam and bring down messages. We wanted a living religion about which could be said. This was the kind of religion which had practical aspects. We might not understand the construction of God's temple, but the master mind of all saw it and we were only workers. This great spirit had in it the spirit of submission. We wanted to break up our beds of ease and luxury and lay up for ourselves treasures in Heaven. In conclusion, the speaker dwelt upon the blessed effect of saving the young. Fathers and mothers should do their duty and labor with zeal, earnestness and devotion in guiding the footsteps of their children heavenward.

During the evening the choir rendered an excellent anthem, "I will praise Thee," in fine style. Mr. Davis, choir master, sang in splendid voice and with admirable effect "Lift the lights up higher."

CRISP CURLING CHRONIQUES.

What is Going on at the Rink Where Curlers Most do Congregate.

Very few curlers were at the rink on Saturday night.

Word was received to-day that the Prospect Park curlers of Toronto, would play the return match with the home club here to-morrow. The Queen City "boys" will come down eight rinks strong. It is expected that five rinks will arrive at noon and three in the evening. The Peterborough stone throwers will have another red letter day at the roarin' game.

The third and last contest for the Peterborough-Lindsay challenge cup will be played on Thursday next. Two rinks from Lindsay will come here and two rinks of the Peterboroughs go to Lindsay, making a four rink competition. If the Peterboroughs win this struggle they will hold the cup for 1893. There is no stipulation in the constitution as stated a few days ago that if the home club wi. the cup this year it is their permanent property, on account of having won it three times in succession. The trophy is to be played for from year to year and is tenable by the victors for only a year at a time.

A LIGHT WHICH SWEEPS OUT THE LIGHTS.

Disastrous Fire in Lakefield—Strickland's Canoe Factory and the Light and Power House in Ruins—The Fire Brigade Difficulty—Damage Done.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Saturday evening about 8.30 o'clock smoke was observed issuing from the roof of the large frame building on Water street, owned by the Lakefield Lumber Co. and occupied by the Electric Light Co. as a power house, by G. Fitzgerald's blacksmith shop, on the ground floor, and by A. G. Strickland as a canoe factory on the upper flat. The alarm was at once given, the first to arrive being some employees of the canoe factory, who tried to get in and save their tools but were driven back by the smoke and flames. They then turned their attention to saving the electric light plant, and managed to get one of the large dynamos loose from its place but it proved too heavy to get out, and before additional assistance arrived the fire had communicated to the room and they had to be left to their fate. The engine had by this time got to work, having been delayed by the deep snow from being got into position, and the difficulty of laying the hose. As nothing could save the building all attention was then given to the large woolen factory to the south, which was kept well wet until the danger was over. The Electric Light Co. lose their entire plant, valued at between $2,500 and $3,000, no insurance. Mr. Fitzgerald saved all his tools, etc. Mr. Strickland lost eleven canoes, five of them being destined for the World's Fair at Chicago, the last having only been finished the same afternoon. He also loses a large stock of fine lumber, hardware and the new machinery just put in, planer, sticker and saws, on which he has a small insurance. The building was also insured. The employees lost all their tools. It is not known how the fire originated but it no doubt started upstairs and made great progress, owing to the inflammable nature of the contents. We will now for a time have to fall back on the discarded coal oil lamps, the churches being the first to miss the electric lights. The English church evening service on Sunday was held in the old church, where there were lamps. The Presbyterians held their evening service at 5 p.m., while the Methodists had no service in the evening. The night was bitterly cold so that as soon as it was seen all danger was over most of our citizens hurried home, leaving two or three of the council, and a few young fellows to get the engine and long lines of frozen hose home to the fire hall. There were some loud complaints about it, the young men remarking that if the property holders in future did not lend better assistance they would not work. It would be better for the council to have a paid brigade where the cost would fall on those who are interested. After the fire appliances were safe in the hall the reeve invited the workers over to the Queen's hotel, where Mr. Munroe had a supply of hot coffee and sandwiches prepared for them, which was fully appreciated.

CHURCH CHIMES.

In St. Paul's church last evening Mrs. W. A. Sanderson sang in fine voice, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

The Charlotte street church Epworth League of Christian Endeavour will hold its regular monthly consecration meeting this evening.

The children of the Charlotte street Sunday school will present the charming cantata "Little 'tis" in the church on Friday evening next. Earnest preparations have been made for the success of the production.

The choir in St. Andrew's church yesterday morning sang an anthem, Miss Carey and Miss Heubeck taking the solo parts in fine voice. Miss Denzil also favoured with a solo in splendid style. In the evening an admirable trio was rendered by Miss Carey, Mrs. Jones and Miss Heubeck.

A PRACTICAL SERMON.

Two original and able sermons were delivered yesterday in St. Andrew's by Rev. A. MacWilliams, the pastor. In the morning his text was Numbers 32, 23: "Be sure your sins will find you out." In the evening his text was from St. Luke 10, 30. The priest and the Levite on the one hand and the good Samaritan on the other were graphically pictured. In portraying the neighborliness of the Samaritan, he showed that it was not hindered by caste, purism, nationality or sectarianism; that he was most unselfish and self sacrificing, and that he adapted his charity to the necessities of the case, providing oil, wine, a conveyance and lodging, the very things he required. So we should adapt our charity to the necessities of each individual case. Here the speaker said that two things were necessary in Peterborough—a charity committee, undenominational, that would ascertain the true condition of affairs in each case. A labour bureau was also necessary where both labourers and labour might be registered. With these two properly worked the right assistance in each case would be secured, those willing to labour would readily find employment, professional bummers would be weeded out and the public secured against such tramps, all possibility of young children starving and freezing to death around a cold stove, as reported by our local papers, while an older brother broke stones, would forever vanish, and the demoralizing and degrading influence of soliciting charity from door to door, would be prevented.

Jenny Lind's Benevolence.

The entire proceeds of the American tour, amounting to more than £20,000, were devoted by Jenny Lind to various benevolent objects. From the days of her early girlhood it had been her chief delight to use for the good of others the wealth which her genius brought her. She was ever ready to sing for a hospital, or a college, or a poor fellow artist, or for the chorus, orchestra or scene shifters of the theatre where she appeared. "Is it not beautiful that I can sing so?" she exclaimed when she was told that a large number of children would be saved from wretchedness by a concert she had given for their benefit. The volumes which contain such a record might well bear the label which Jenny Lind's old Swedish guardian placed around the packet containing her letters to him, "The mirror of a noble soul."—R. J. McNeill in Century.

EMPEROR WILLIAM.

His Speeches are Tearing Down and Create Surprise.

BERLIN, March 6.—The Emperor's speech before the members of the Brandenburg Diet has made an exceedingly favorable impression. It was temperate, thoughtful and earnest, and showed that another year's experience on the throne has done much to tone down the rash aggressiveness which has characterized the Emperor's former utterances to his Brandenburgers.

A member of the Diet, who was at the banquet, says that the speech was evidently prepared with great care, as the Emperor spoke from such voluminous notes that he might be said to have read it. While twisting the political allusions to suit their partisan tendencies, all the newspapers acknowledge that the Emperor was moderate and sagacious in his declarations and gave evidence of a desire not to arouse such conflicts as had been excited by his earliest utterances.

The supporters of the Government are somewhat disappointed because the Emperor failed to reprove the Agrarian Conservatives for their opposition to the Military bill, but all others agree that such political effects might better be left to the Chancellor.

The most significant political events of the last week tend to reaffirm the opinion that the Army Bill will pass practically unaltered.

The defection of Major Hugo Hinze, Radical member of the Parliamentary Commission, from the ranks of Eugene Richter's uncompromising opposition is represented by Richter in his Freisinnige Zeitung to be unimportant and without influence upon the other Radical deputies, who are still ready to fight the Army bill through thick and thin. This statement, however, is largely bluff, as both Rickert and Bellberger, other Radical leaders, little less influential than Richter, are ready to lead their personal followings after Hinze got into the Government camp if they only can get a few concessions in return from the Chancellor.

That the Radicals would have been brought thus far is regarded as a substantial triumph of Chancellor Von Caprivi, as for almost a century they have maintained a place in the Opposition hardly less uncompromising than the Social Democrats.

Much surprise is expressed in some quarters that the Chancellor has refused the concessions offered for the National Liberals by Herr, von Bennigsen. This attitude is approved by the Conservatives, who oppose anything looking toward a curtailment of the proposed increase of the peace effective, in their opinion the most important item of the bill.

A MOTHER'S HORROR.

The Lifeless Body of Her 7-Year-Boy Swinging From a Clothes Line.

WINNIPEG, March 6.—While two sons of Henry Cook of East Selkirk were playing upstairs, one of them, seven years old, twisted a clothes line, that was hanging from the ceiling, around his neck and got on a cradle and jumped off. He remained there for some time until his little three-year-old brother told his mother, who was down stairs, of the occurrence. When the mother went upstairs her son was hanging lifeless.

St. John's Again Suffers.

ST. JOHN'S, Que., March 6.—Our town was last evening the scene of a conflagration second only to that of 1876, in the destruction of the manufacturing portion of the St. John's Stone-Chinaware Company's Works, owned and operated by Messrs. D. & A. MacDonald, covering a space of 300 feet square, built on the four sides.

The fire was observed shortly before 6 o'clock, and though some 10 streams were poured into it from different directions persistently, continued to advance and burn until early morning, gutting the four buildings.

The loss is estimated at $100,000, on which there is $54,000 of insurance.

The number of employes thus thrown out of employment is placed at 225, representing a considerable portion of the population.

Escapes Miraculously.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 6.—Patrick Cunningham, a workman at the World's Fair grounds, escaped on the roof of the Hide and Leather Building Saturday A great gust of wind carried him off his feet and pitched him forward down the incline and finally off the roof, 60 feet from the ground.

Other men have fallen from it and been crushed beyond recognition, but fate was kind to Pat. On the ground beside the building was a horse attached to a grocery wagon. The horse stood immediately under the point of the roof over which Pat disappeared.

With a mighty thud Pat came down and struck fair upon the horse's back. Almost before he knew what had happened he was astride the animal's back and wondering how he got there.

COMING CONTESTS.

Hanlan Will Train for His Races On the Passaic, New York.

TORONTO, March 4.—Ned Hanlan arrived home from New York yesterday. He had not seen Hosmer, who arrived in America on the City of Paris Wednesday.

"Yes; everything is complete for my races with Ross and Gaudaur. I will leave soon for New York to train on the Passaic."

He had not heard a word recently from Bubear and could not say whether the Englishman would come out or not.

In an interview in New York Hosmer explained that he would discount Bubear's win. On the contrary he thinks the Englishman good enough to give even Hanlan a strong argument. He described him as "a much improved man, particularly in the art of getting away fast." Hosmer and party went on to Newark last night. The Bostonian wants to order a new "Ruddick" for the coming season.

PATRONS OF INDUSTRY.

They Resolve To Request the Government To Remove the Duties.

TORONTO, March 4.—At yesterday's meeting of the Patrons of Industry officers for the ensuing year were elected and the reports of several committees received and acted upon. With regard to the trade question it was resolved that the time has come when, in accordance with the spirit of clauses 9 and 10 of the Patrons' platform, we should request the Government to remove the duties from imports, especially the necessaries of life, coming from Great Britain.

It was recommended that that portion of the Labor Injuries Act which relates to agriculturists' liabilities be repealed.

It was recommended that the Ontario Government be asked to comply with plank No. 8 in the platform relative to the appointment of Government officials.

The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: C. A. Mallory, Warkworth, grand president; T. O. Curry, Stratford, grand vice-president; A. L. Welch, Strathroy, grand secretary-treasurer; Fergus Kennedy, Camlachie; A. Giffard, Meaford, and L. Wilson, Glengarry, grand trustees; D. A SYSTEMATIC PLOT

To Hunt Monsieur Clemenceau Out of Public Life.

LONDON, March 3.—The Paris correspondent of The Times says: The recrudescence of Panama revelations shows a systematic plot to hunt M. Clemenceau out of public life. It appears now likely to succeed.

French detectives have concentrated their efforts in their search of Arton upon the movements of the Viennese music hall singer, who was his supposed mistress. The lady, when interviewed, declared she had been offered large bribes, but would not betray Arton, with whom she has been in constant communication.

Arton, she said, did not fear arrest, as he was an expert linguist and actor; was an adept at disguising himself, and had even traveled and talked with detectives who were searching for him. At the same time she expressed surprise at the anxiety to arrest, as he possessed papers which would greatly embarrass the authorities.

Changed Her Allegiance.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., March 4.—Papers of registration were issued yesterday afternoon by the collector of the port to the International Navigation Company, owners of the steamship City of Paris, by which that vessel is entered at this port as American. The Paris, as she will hereafter be known, is the second foreign-built vessel registered under the act of May, 1892.

Typhus In Milk.

MONTREAL, March 4.—There are a large number of typhoid cases in the city which have been traced to impure milk. Some of them have resulted fatally.

Smith Defeats Goddard.

NEW ORLEANS, March 4.—Smith defeated Goddard last night in 18 rounds after looking like a loser for 17 rounds. It was a fierce battle. The odds were 5 to 1 on Goddard.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1.

DOWN WITH THE SOAP-BOX.

Together with Cheese-Cloth, Flannel and Other Aids to Decoration.

In a recent number of a housekeeper's paper a subscriber pathetically asks for practical directions for making a divan at home—"one not made of the everlasting old packing-box, which miraculously happens to be just the right size."

This is the key to the situation in the making of "home-brewed" furniture—the packing-box that is always the right size. This is what comes to pass in some people's hands, and the result is crowned with success, while with others it is so obviously a packing-box, in spite of pink silesia and muslin and lace, that the result is failure.

The feminine idea of finance is not always "up to the figures." A woman spends a dollar or two for materials, 75 cents for a "little carpentering help," a quarter and some odd dimes for gimp and tacks and various odds and ends, and the outcome is a nondescript article of furniture, with the packing box showing plainly through all the ribbons and ruffles.

With a little more money added a new article could be purchased, for furniture is marvellously cheap now.

Don't be deluded by the seductive directions for home-made gifts that are appearing in the newspapers at this season, the home-made things of beauty that remain joys forever may be counted on the fingers of one hand. They come tripping forth from their hiding places every year, well disguised it may be, but you soon recognise them. First come the cotton flannal table scarfs, with a careless spray of wild roses across the end or side or down the middle. The location of the roses may be changed from year to year, but the cotton flannel remains untouched by time and is always supposed to look like plush by persons of a highly imaginative temperament; and the roses always remain wild and careless, as though thrown down heedlessly upon the spread.

Of late denim, both blue and brown is a close second to cotton flannel. It is supposed to look like Oriental stuff—it certainly smells like it. There is positively no limit to the possibilities of denim. From a Worth costume to the covering for a shoe-box, denim stands unrivalled. Daisies, too, are formidable rivals of wild roses. These are always "strewn" across the cloth. And oh, the exquisite creations one can make—according to the apostles of domestic architecture—out of old fruit cans and little scraps of velvet and silk that every one has large and varied assortments of. Empty spools can be transformed into lovely tables and cabinets that look like quaint carving. "Quaint" indeed!

There are, too, the ornamental paper-holders of pasteboard, rice and gilding that look so firm in the illustrations, but which "wobble" and turn somersaults in the most clownish fashion when put to actual use. Umbrella-stands of pasteboard, covered with ruffled muslin and lace, will not commend themselves to a practical housekeeper, but they and their kind may prove quicksands, luring young wives to destruction.

Where Girls Often Err.

Rejected lovers may find consolation from the knowledge that some of the cleverest and handsomest men have been refused, and they have, nevertheless, managed to live on and win fame and fortune. Shakespeare is generally credited with considerable knowledge of humanity and its ways, and he describes Romeo, the prince of lovers, as being rejected by the fair Rosalind only just before Juliet fell in love with him. A certain John Scott once proposed to a Miss Allgood. While smarting from her disdain, he happened to enter a village church during divine service, and there, for the first time, he saw the pretty Miss Surtees. He wooed her, and, as her father would have nothing to say to him, he induced her to elope, and this though three wealthy suitors were already at her feet. John Scott lived to be earl of Eldon and lord high chancellor, and never regretted the day Miss Allgood rejected him. Byron was refused several times. He proposed to Miss Millbanke, a great heiress, and was rejected, though the lady expressed a wish to correspond with him. He then proposed to another lady, and his suit was rejected, too. Nothing daunted, he renewed his proposal to Miss Millbanke, and this time received a very flattering acceptance. They lived together, however, very unhappily. One of the most persistent suitors who ever proposed and was rejected was the eccentric Cruden, compiler of the concordance to the bible. Miss Abney, who had inherited a large fortune, was the subject of his attentions. For months and months he pestered her with calls and letters. When she left home he had papers printed, which he distributed in various places of worship, asking the congregation to pray for her safe return, and when she returned home he issued others asking the worshippers to return thanks. Miss Abney never became Mrs. Cruden.

Increase Your Weight.

If you are losing flesh and blood, commence at once taking Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which is far ahead of all other preparations of the kind in existence. By taking Miller's Emulsion people gain from 5 to 10 lbs. by the time the first bottle is consumed. It is the greatest blessing of the century to all in delicate health, or who suffer with coughs, colds and ailments that tend to consumption. Remember, Miller's Emulsion contains all the constituents found in wheat. It is used in the hospitals and asylums of the country. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all Drug Stores.

From the Far North.

In northern climates people are very subject to colds, but the natural remedy is also produced in the same climate. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchits and all throat and lung troubles. Price 25c. and 50c.

Interested People.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for coughs and colds does it, is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle FREE, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c. and $1. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

Every Lady Uses it.

Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses for chapped hands or lips as it effectually cures in every instance. Try it. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal.

The care shown by the SUN LIFE in the selection of its risks will be understood when it is known that the death rate in 1892 was less than that in 1891 by $16,000, notwithstanding the vast increase in business. The significance of this point will be clearly seen in the profits paid by the Company.

DEVICE FOR LIFTING BEEVES

Or Other Animals While Butchering—How it Operates.

Our illustration represents an apparatus which makes the skinning and dressing of beef on the farm a comparatively easy matter. In the crotch or fork of a good sized tree place one end of a sawed pole. Rest the other end on a fork formed by fastening together two 4x4 inch scantlings or other similar timbers by means of a rope or stay chain and spreading apart at the bottom. To the pole or cross piece attach two strong ropes long enough to reach the ground. Tie to the ends of these ropes a 3x3-inch oak or other hard wood scantling 4 feet long with two pins inserted in either end at right angles to each other. About eight inches from each end of this square timber wound off a space about three inches long on which place two iron rings. To the rings attach iron hooks or stay chains. After the animal is killed and hind legs are skinned, insert the hooks in the large tendon above hock joint.

Two men, one at each end of the gambrel, can easily lift the carcass, either raising it off the ground at once or a short distance at a time. It can be secured at any height by means of the rope A, which is arranged with a series of loops. These are slipped over the turning pins or handles and thus prevent unwinding. As the skinning proceeds the men will have to stand on barrels or some other elevation to enable them to swing the carcass clear of the ground. This apparatus can be used for lifting hogs, sheep, etc., but need not be made so strong nor so tall. The whole thing is entirely home made and easily constructed. If no tree is convenient to support one end of the pole, a post can be set in its place or three rails, fastened near the top and set up like a tripod, will do very well.—Orange Judd Farmer.

Value of Salt for Animals.

A sensible exchange remarks: The value of salt for farm animals is not sufficiently realized. We ourselves use salt at every meal and in preparation of every food. That it has a savory flavor may be taken as an example of the general law, that the palatability of foods is an index to their necessity. And that every vegetable-eating animal desires salt is one of those facts in physiology that should interest us in the study of this science and its connection with the art of feeding animals. Salt contributes its hydrochloric acid to the gastric fluid, which is partly made up of it, and to the saliva, an equally active digestive agent. Moreover salt has a powerful chemical action on the food, whether in or out of the stomach. Thus it has the effect of extracting from corn and other grain various substances very similar to those of which the animal body is made up, as the muscle; vitelline, similar to that of eggs and necessarily of other animal albumen, and also a globuline like that of the blood, and a fibrine resembling the fibrine of an animal. It is easily perceived, then, why animals should have an appetite for salt that amounts almost to a frenzy in cases where it has been denied to them, and which is clearly an instinct by which they choose their food. It may thus be considered precisely in the light of an indispensible article of daily food.

Annuals from the Seed.

There is a very cheap way of making a grand display of bloom in summer and it is by sowing the seed in the spring time of such soft-wooded bedding plants as the florists term annuals, which bloom the first year from seed, making grand displays. Prevalent among them are the following: Amaranthus tricolor, mignonette, antirrhinum, Mirabilis jalapa, aster, nasturtium (climbing), balsam, nasturtium (dwarf), canna, petunia, candytuft, Phlox drummondi, celosia, portulaca grandiflora, cosmos, verbena hybrida, delphinium chinensis, vinca, helianthus zinnia elegans fl. pl. From what I have mentioned you may make your selections. If you want hardy plants that will require but little care, as they bear the winter weather with impunity, make your selection from the shrubs, hardy herbaceous plants and hardy vines. You will have a permanent and pleasant display. If you want to make a quick show cheaply, have the ordinary bedding plants and a goodly quantity of the annuals from seed. By all means plant a few roses, which might be classed with the hardy shrubs. Whatever you plant, do not expect it to take absolute care of itself. Keep down the weeds lest they absorb all the nourishment there is in the soil.—Mirror and Farmer.

Mr. Hugh Caldwell, Clydesdale, Ont., writes:—"My daughter was troubled with female weakness and for more than a year was under the care of doctors and taking medicine without getting relief. I then got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and they have completely cured her. All dealers or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Valuable Hint.

When you are attacked by cough or cold do not delay but commence at once to use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. This old standard remedy removes all irritation, loosens the phlegm, and heals the mucous surfaces, curing coughs and colds of all kinds.

Ladies appreciate Anti-Dandruff from the fact that it not only thoroughly removes Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its orignal color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing being used. Clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

A TOWN ON THE SLIDE.

IT IS SANDGATE IN KENT COUNTY, ENGLAND.

The People Thought a Hundred Earthquakes Had Come—Two Hundred Houses Destroyed—No One Killed—The Waves Had Undermined the Town.

LONDON, March 6.—Late last night the people of Sandgate, County of Kent, were aroused by the rocking of the houses and land rumblings underground. Walls split, ceilings fell, foundations sank and roofs fell. As the inhabitants fled to the streets they found large rents in the ground and were almost overcome by noxious vapors.

Everybody supposed the town was being shaken by an earthquake, and as the rumbling continued hundreds fled in a panic to the nearest towns. A few remained behind to remove their furniture from the falling houses. The reports carried abroad by the fugitives caused the troops in an adjacent camp to hasten to the aid of the people still in Sandgate. Soldiers and citizens worked for two hours in moving the most valuable property from the houses and in erecting tents in the fields about a mile outside the town for the women and children.

At the end of that time the rumbling had ceased and the investigation was made by the commander of the troops and several citizens. They found that the ground on which Sandgate stands had sunk several feet and that a less subsidence had extended throughout the surrounding district, affecting in all about a square mile. Many cottages had been wrecked completely and the better built houses had been cracked and thrown out of plumb so that they could not be occupied with safety. Nevertheless many of the inhabitants returned to town towards morning.

Between 5 and 6 o'clock, however, they were frightened away by further subsidence of the ground and the recurrence of the rumblings. These phenomena have been repeated several times during the day and the town is practically deserted. As far as known no lives have been lost.

The disaster was caused by a landslip. The town is built upon a comparatively low cliff close to the sea. The waves are believed to have undermined the cliff, which then settled and slipped toward the water, carrying with it the town. Two hundred houses were destroyed.

GEORGIA'S CYCLONE.

Much Property Destroyed and Considerable Loss of Life Reported.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 6.—Last night a terrible wind storm swept across several counties 50 miles north of Columbus, doing great damage and causing considerable loss of life. The storm came from the northwest and struck Greenville, the county seat of Meriwether County, about 8.30 o'clock, demolishing the business portion of the town and a great number of dwellings.

Thirty-eight stores and dwellings are reported to have been blown down and but three business houses in the whole town were left intact. Every house was damaged to a greater or less extent. Only one person was killed, a negro woman. No one was injured.

Odessa, a small town near Greenville, is reported to have been completely swept away; six persons were killed. At Woodbury, 10 miles east of Greenville, houses were blown down and trees uprooted, but fortunately no lives were lost. The people at Woodbury are preparing storm pits as places of refuge in case of a repetition of last night's reign of terror. About two miles from the town two negroes and one white child were killed. Many are reported to be seriously wounded. A heavy snow fell also at Woodbury this morning.

At Molena, in Pike County, a church, academy, planing mill, two stores and several residences were blown down. Five lives were lost, a white woman named Mrs. Hall and four negroes. Telegraph wires are down. Trains coming in are delayed, and but meagre information can be obtained from points distant from the railway.

Advices from Piedmont, Pike County, a few miles distant from Molena, report that only two houses out of 20 remain standing. A lady named Hawkins was killed and her parents badly wounded. Almost everyone in the town was wounded to some extent.

NOTES FROM OTTAWA.

Debate on the Manitoba School Question Expected To-Day.

OTTAWA, March 6.—The annual dinner of the Parliamentary Press gallery was held in the restaurant of the House of Commons Saturday, President Fred Cook presiding, and having on his right Hon. Messrs. Bowell, Davies and Patterson and on his left Hon. Messrs. Laurier and Daly. About 70 sat down, amongst them being a large number of members of Parliament. The dinner was an excellent one in every respect and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Mr. E. L. Newcombe, the newly appointed Deputy Minister of Justice, arrived from Halifax Saturday and will probably enter upon the discharge of his duties at once.

The debate on the Manitoba school question commenced to-day, which will be a Government day, and Mr. Tarte will therefore have an opportunity of proposing his amendment to the motion to go into committee of supply. Just what Mr. Tarte's amendment will be is not known, but it is expected that it will include a censure of the Government for making a reference to the Supreme Court instead of proposing remedial legislation. Mr. Tarte will speak in both French and English, and it is said that the debate will last two or perhaps three days, as quite a large number of members, especially those from Quebec, intend to speak.

WILL BE USEFUL.

Henry George to Have a Position Under Cleveland's Government.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—Henry George, the well-known advocate of free trade and single tax, is to have a prominent position under the Cleveland Government.

Apropos of this announcement is the recollection of the scheme by which Mr. George's pamphlet on free trade was published in the Hansard here and copies of it sent broadcast. A Democratic member in Congress requested the privilege of including the contents of the pamphlet in his speech to the House without reading it. This request was denied, on the ground of it being against the rules. The member then gave portions of the pamphlet to other Democratic speakers, who used them in the form of quotations. In this way all of the pamphlet was read to the House and printed in the Hansard. Of course the country paid for the publication and mailing of the pamphlets to thousands of people.

BRITISH COMMENT.

Cleveland's Inaugural Address Is Acceptable In England.

LONDON, March 6.—The Daily News says: "It was worthy the occasion, which is recognized universally as by far the greatest one Americans have known since the Civil War."

The Daily Telegraph says: "Mr. Cleveland's brave words would have been more convincing to our minds of great reforms if he had not already been in power and failed to do much to root out the plagues of American life."

The Daily Chronicle says: "It is a long time since an American president has had the courage to speak such words to his countrymen."

The Standard says: "Altogether, Mr. Cleveland begins well."

The Daily Graphic says: "Mr. Cleveland's confession of faith is full of good sense and is arranged in very harmonious style."

The Morning Post says: "The address breathes throughout a resolute, practical tone."

The Times says: "The address boldly grapples with the most crying evils in American politics in language of refreshing directness."

Their selections are modelled after the most approved advices recently received from abroad, and comprise many new and original novelties and effects which are sure to be favourably received by the ladies of Peterborough.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

DEBATE ON THE MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION.

Mr. Tarte Censures the Government—The Premier Denied He Had Pledged Remedial Legislation or Had Any Terms With Archbishop Tache.

OTTAWA, March 7.—At five minutes to four the orders of the day were reached. Mr. D'Alton McCarthy and Mr. Tarte each had his eye fixed on Mr. Speaker, who was calmly contemplating the electrolier in the ceiling, and the moment the assistant clerk called "No. 21 House again in Committee of Supply," both the member for L'Islet and the member for North Simcoe started to rise.

The member for L'Islet was the most active and sprang to his feet with the agility of a cat and called the "Mr. Speaker" before the somewhat heavier and slower member from North Simcoe had quite got into an erect position. He sank back and smiled as calmly as possible, while Mr. Tarte held the floor and began rattling away in French on the Manitoba school question, keeping up his speech until 10 minutes to 6, when he started to repeat his speech in English; but Mr. Speaker thought it useless to commence a second speech at that hour, so he called it 6 o'clock and left the chair.

After recess Mr. Tarte continued his speech, varying the performance by speaking in English. He commenced by saying that we were face to face with a great political crisis, and asked who was to blame for it. Judging from The Toronto Mail, Winnipeg Tribune and other English papers, it was made to appear that the Catholic minority was to blame. He denied this. The aims of the public men at Confederation had not been fulfilled and he blamed the people of Ontario for it. He quoted from the Confederation debates part of speeches by Sir George Cartier and Hon. George Brown, and contended that the Catholics of Quebec were not narrow and bigoted, as they were represented to be.

He invited the member for North Simcoe (McCarthy) to come down to the Province of Quebec and judge for himself. He would find the people better educated than the people of other provinces. Most of the young generation understood English.

He got round at last to the Separate school question and held that the Manitoba Legislature had no more right to abolish the Separate schools than the Legislature of Quebec would have to abolish the English language in the Province of Quebec. He claimed that the Dominion Government ought to protect the Catholic minority.

He charged them with having failed to do their duty. He claimed that Mr. Chapleau had been sent down to Montreal to see Archbishop Tache, and as a result of that the Minister of Justice made the report to council on March 21 last, promising that if the judgment of the Supreme Court was reversed the Manitoba minority should receive protection and redress.

He held that the Minister of Justice bound himself not to abide by the judgment of the Privy Council, but to give remedial legislation. If Archbishop Tache had declined to accept the promise of the Government as to remedial legislation he felt confident that Sir John Macdonald would have disallowed the act of the Manitoba Legislature.

He read a letter from Archbishop Tache referring to promises alleged to have been made by the Government, and said that he stated from this place in Parliament that Hon. Mr. Chapleau, then Secretary of State, had gone to Montreal and assured Archbishop Tache in the name of the Government that there should be remedial legislation, as there could not be a disallowance of the act.

He reviewed the circumstances under which the Manitoba act was passed, holding that the terms of union provided for Separate schools, the same as in the Province of Quebec. At that time the Catholics were in a majority, but now that the Protestants are in a majority of two to one they break the compact made with the Catholics.

He wanted to know whether Manitoba was to be allowed to break the contract made by the Dominion Government. He denied the right of the majority to rule, and seemed to think, although it was somewhat difficult to tell what he meant, that minorities could acquire rights which could not under any circumstances be taken away or changed.

In conclusion, he moved the following amendment: "That all the words after 'that' be struck out and the following substituted: 'That this House desires to express its dissatisfaction at the action of the Government in dealing with the Manitoba school question, and in assuming to be possessed of judicial functions conflict with their duty as constitutional advisers of the Crown, which assumption is wholly unknown to the law, and if now acquiesced in would be entirely subversive of the principle of Ministerial responsibility."

Mr. Lariviere followed at some length, not agreeing with Mr. Tarte, and in general terms expressing satisfaction with the action of the Government so far, and expressing disapproval of the bringing the question up as a party one.

Sir John Thompson rose at 10.50, and in his opening remarks said that the member for L'Islet, in stating his case, had laid great stress on its being approached in a calm and judicial spirit, and then he proceeded to attack the Government because it had approached the subject in the very manner laid down by the hon. member.

He said that the Government had been attacked as if it was destroying the rights of a province to manage education, but it should be remembered that although the 92nd section of the British North America Act gave the control of education to the province, it was under certain reservation and restriction.

He then reviewed the clauses of the British North America Act and the Manitoba Act, and came down to the petitions which had been presented and the report to council which he made in 1891. The principle had been settled by Parliament that local acts which might be ultra vires should not be disallowed but the question of constitutionality settled by the courts. The question was tested by a suit taken in the city of Winnipeg.

He upheld the course of the Government in paying the expense of the appeal in order to determine whether the law was constitutional or not. He then reviewed the history of the New Brunswick school question, and said that the House had thus laid down the principle that disallowance should not be exercised only on the ground that the act complained of was that it was ultra vires, quoting from Sir George E. Cartier's speech when that question first came up, in which he said the question was not one to be decided by the majority, but by the courts. In 1877 a similar case came from Prince Edward Island and was not disallowed.

Coming to the report of March, 1891, he dealt with the two sets of petitions received, one for disallowance on the ground of the act being ultra vires, and the other asking for remedial legislation. He denied that any pledge of remedial legislation was given in the order of council of March, 1891, and held that no other course could be pursued than that which was adopted. He strongly denied that Mr. Chapleau or anybody else had been delegated to make terms with Archbishop Tache, or that His Grace had been deceived.

He took up the Jesuit Estate Bill and pointed out the difference between that bill and the Manitoba school question. He then took up the appeal to the Privy Council and its decision, and the petitions for remedial legislation which had been presented after that decision, and argued to show that there were serious legal questions still to be settled after the decision of the Privy Council and, therefore, it was proper that the opinion of the Supreme Court should be procured.

The legal questions must be settled before any remedial legislation could be properly dealt with. The legal questions must inevitably come up before the courts. If the Government attempted to pass remedial laws before the legal questions were settled it would only lead to confusion, and no matter what action was taken the matter must go again before the courts; and if the Government had passed remedial laws, as some gentlemen wished, those laws would have at once been appealed against.

He then took up the resolution introduced by Mr. Blake in 1890 with reference to referring cases of this kind to the Supreme Court for opinion, and quoted from Mr. Blake's speech to show that he intended that to apply to the Manitoba school question. Parliament had not only adopted that resolution but had passed an act last year based on it, the very act the Government was acting under in making this reference to the court. To disallow the act without reference to the court would have raised a storm of indignation, and the Government had adopted the only course proper for it.

Hugh John Macdonald followed, and was speaking at 1 o'clock.

The following private bills were read a third time and passed:

To incorporate the Eastern Trust Company.

To incorporate the Ocean Guarantee Company.

Respecting the Alberta Railway and Coal Company.

The following bills were read a second time and referred to Committee on Railways and Canals:

To incorporate the Canada Atlantic and Plant Steamship Company.

Respecting the Nakusp and Slocan Railway Company.

Respecting the Drummond County Railway Company.

The bill to further amend the Act to enable the city of Winnipeg to utilize the Assiniboine River water power was read a second time and referred to committee on miscellaneous public bills.

The bill respecting the British America Assurance Co. was read a second time and referred to Committee on Banking and Commerce.

In reply to Mr. Cockburn, Hon. Mr. Wood, Comptroller of Inland Revenue, said it was not the intention of the Government to introduce this year a bill for the inspection of electric light companies.

In reply to Mr. Kaulbach's question, whether it is the intention of the Government to extend the modus vivendi between Great Britain and the United States as respects the granting of privileges to American fishermen to use our Canadian fisheries on the Atlantic Coast, Hon. Mr. Costigan said that an order-in-council had been passed on Jan. 17 authorizing the issue of licenses for 1893.

Hon. Mr. Haggart said in reply to Mr. Lister that the question of recouping the owners of Canadian shipping the amounts paid as tolls at the Sault Ste. Marie Canal was under consideration.

Mr. Choquette asked whether the Government have had cognizance of the numerous articles by Mr. L. Z. Joncas, M.P. for Gaspe, published in L'Evenement, Quebec, in reference to the unequal distribution of patronage of all kinds as between the English and French elements in this country; if so, is it their purpose to put an end to a state of things so unjust to the French element?

Sir John Thompson replied with a gravity which caused a hearty laugh, that if any such inequality was found at any time the Government would at once remove it.

The bill respecting witnesses and evidence was read a third time and passed.

On motion to go into committee of supply, Mr. Davies enquired whether it was intended that the question of the lieutenant-governorship of New Brunswick should be settled before the Premier left for Paris, and was informed by Sir John Thompson that he could not say whether the appointment would be made before he left.

A quiet little meeting of Conservative members and senators was held in room 16 yesterday at which it was decided to give Sir John Thompson a "send-off" in the shape of an address to be delivered on Wednesday evening, as Sir John leaves for New York on Thursday and sails on the Britannique for Havre on Saturday morning.

Hon. Mr. Mercier is here on Supreme Court business and occupied a seat in the Speaker's gallery this afternoon, where he was "The admired of all beholders."

Attorney-General Casgrain is here in connection with the settlement of the outstanding accounts between the Dominion and the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec.

Sir John Thompson to-night gives notice that he will move on Wednesday that Thursday, including next Thursday, be taken for Government business.

Hon. Mr. Costigan to-night gives notice of a bill to repeal certain sections of the Merchant Shipping Act relating to load line so far as they affect ships registered in Canada.

ADRIFT ON THE PACIFIC

A BOAT LOAD WANDERED FOR 20 DAYS.

The Captain, His Wife, Mate, Sailor, Cook and Two Saloon Passengers Rescued —They Were Terribly Emaciated and Almost Speechless.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7.—News was received yesterday from Honolulu that a small boat containing Capt. John Peterson and wife of San Francisco, Second Mate Charles E. Brown, Cabin Boy W. Hayden, Cook Frank Villen, Seamen Emanuel and William Carlson, terribly emaciated and almost speechless, reached port Feb. 18, bringing intelligence of the loss of the bark Lady Sampson, bound from Sydney to Honolulu with a cargo of coal.

The wreck occurred Jan. 16 on a reef 40 miles south of the Palmira Islands. The bark struck in the night during a terrific hurricane, and in five minutes began to break up. The boats were lowered. In the captain's boat were those enumerated above, while in the other boat, under the command of first mate, Henry Mullet, were four seamen.

During a calm which followed the wreck, strong tides bore the small boats westward for seven days, when it was found that all the provisions and water, of which but a small quantity had been taken at first, were exhausted. They reached the vessel again on the ninth day, when nearly dead from hunger and thirst. A supply of canned goods was obtained from the bark, which had sunk on the reef and was still breaking up, and a start was then made for Honolulu.

Off the Island of Maui, one of the Hawaiian group, heavy gales were experienced and two days after leaving the vessel for a second time the first mate's boat parted with the other to take the more northerly course. The second boat has not been seen and the fate of the mate and his party is in doubt.

SENATOR MORGAN SICK.

A Representative of the U.S. in the Behring Sea Affair.

LONDON, March 7.—Senator Morgan, one of the representatives of the United States in the Behring Sea Board of Arbitration, who was a passenger on the steamer New York, which arrived at Southampton Saturday, was taken sick on the voyage. Since his arrival he has become worse, and is now confined to his bed at the Southwestern Hotel at Southampton. She physicians in attendance state that the Senator's illness is due to the strain to which he was subjected by a severe attack of seasickness.

It has transpired that Senator Morgan's illness is not entirely due to effects of seasickness. During a storm encountered by the New York Senator Morgan was thrown out of his berth and his head was injured. On Saturday last a slight attack of erysipelas set in. He was examined by three physicians this afternoon, and they state that they expect he will be able in a week to attend to the business which brought him to Europe.

A Congratulatory Message Sent to the President.

NEW YORK, March 7.—The Herald's Valparaiso correspondent cables Mr. Cleveland's inauguration as President of the United States, and the retirement of Mr. Harrison, will result in the restoration of the friendly relations between that republic and Chili. The sentiment of Chilians on this subject is shown by the following message, which was forwarded by cable on Saturday to President Cleveland by the Chilian executive:

Permit me to express the hope that your aims and motives will produce the best results for the people of the United States.

(Signed) GEORGE MONTT.

It is learned that the resignation of Mr. Conger, as Minister to Brazil, has already been sent to the Washington Government.

SWITCHMEN'S GRIEVANCES.

An Advance of Five Cents an Hour In Wages.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Representatives of all the railroads running into this city were waited upon yesterday by Grievance Committees of the Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association and presented with a request for an advance of five cents an hour in the wages of all switchmen employed in this city. The request included non-union men as well as union men, the former having empowered the representatives of the latter to act for them.

The railroad officials were given to understand that there was no desire or intention on the part of the men to precipitate a strike and a hurried consideration of the request was not expected.

In addition to the increase of wages, a request was made that a full day's time be granted to a crew, day or night, which may be called to do any yard service.

DOMINION GRANGE.

An Unusually Large Attendance of Delegates.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Dominion Grange commenced on Tuesday last week in Toronto; the number of delegates in attendance was the largest of any annual meeting for some years. Grand Master Peter Hopinstall, of Fordwick, presided. The delegates present at the opening session were:—Messrs. William Short, Oakwood; Wm. Foster, Humber; John M. Syme, Dalston; Thomas Brownridge, Omagh; James Allan, Churchill; Geo. E. Fisher, Freeman; R. Crummer, Kinsale; James Skeock, Corunna; Wm. Prangtin, St. Thomas; L. Henry, Sombra; David Ferts, Mulgrave; Dawson Kennedy, Peterborough; Wm. H. Fell, Strathnairn; Jno. Cowan, Vine; W. H. Hunter, Innisfil; Wm. Wallace, Galt; George Clark, Heathcote; J. H. B. Moore, Sarnia; Jas. Fallis, Newbridge; E. Peart, Nelson; Isaac McClure, Williscroft; George Elenton, Erin; Ed. Cooper, Fordwich; H. Reid, Annan; H. Y. Glendenning, Manilla; P. Hepinstall, Gorrie; Thomas Porter, Banda; Wm. Isbister, Wingham; R. Wilkie, Blenheim; James Edge, Edgehill; Sylvanus Austin, Whitby; Jos. M. Rodger, Woodford; J. Wilkinson, Middlemarch; J. Robinson, Middlemarch; W. M. Baker, Lambeth; D. G. McKenzie, Lucknow; Robt. McBeth, Millington; John Cumming, Londesborough; Douglas and McTavish, Clinton. A number of other delegates arrived on Wednesday.

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS.

The President, in his annual address, referred to the bountiful harvest, the excellent fruit season, and successful cattle raising which had marked the past year. Referring to labour organizations and combines, he said the inevitable result of such organizations was to raise the price of all articles, and farmers would have to combine and protect their own interests. He spoke highly of the value of education, and considered that farmers' colleges, experimental farms, etc., should be taken full advantage of by the farming classes. He considered the country was too much governed, and that party government had not been the blessing which its advocates represented. The duty of farmers was not to aid Grit or Tory, but to stand by measures which were for the general good of the country. He was opposed alike to annexation and independence, and believed that the best interests of the country would be served by an honest Government and British connection.

The Executive Committee submitted a report showing the work done during the year. It had taken an active part in endeavouring to secure legislation for the abolition of toll roads and the amendment of the Ditches and Water Courses Act. They had also prepared a petition to the Dominion Parliament in favour of the reduction of the duty on binder twine and coal oil, and also in favour of the reduction of postage on letters.

The evening session was devoted to hearing reports of delegates and discussing questions pertaining to the good of the order. The reports showed that the past year was one of considerable progress in solid grange work.

WEDNESDAY.

The Workmen's Compensation for Injuries Act was very earnestly discussed, and resulted in a decision authorizing the secretary to send the members a circular which says:—

I therefore enclose petition to the Legislature, asking for certain amendments to the Workmen's Compensation for Injuries Act, requiring your very earnest consideration, and very active efforts to see that it was signed by all those engaged in agriculture, that it is possible for you to reach. I wish to call your attention to the position we are placed in under several clauses of the above-mentioned Act. In the first place, if a man engaged by yourself or any brother farmer, should be injured by a mowing machine, self binder, or any other implement in use, although it is well known that such injury could not arise from any defect in the machinery, or if a man is injured through any negligence of a foreman you may have employed, you will be liable to pay damages, and the great difficulty is, that when you are not responsible for these accidents, the labouring man, having no financial standing, can, without any risk to himself, enter an action, and although you may succeed in convincing the court that no responsibility rests upon you, still you will be compelled to pay the costs. This is the result under section 3 of the Act mentioned.

Then take another case. Your hired man is driving along the road, the horses become frightened, the lines break, and the workman injured. If you cannot prove that the fault was not yours, and that the lines were perfectly safe, you will be compelled to pay the damages. Under Section 6 of the Consolidated Statues, Chap. 137, you may be compelled to pay the following sum, amounting to three years' wages. Thus, if you had a man employed who had been getting $180 per year and board, you would be compelled to pay $540, in addition to the amount which the Court might reasonably consider the board to be worth, which, in all probability, would amount to $450 more.

When this Act was first introduced, the intention of the Legislature evidently was, that it should apply only to those engaged in dangerous occupations, or where machinery was extensively used, but the Courts have decided that the term "a laborer in husbandry" includes all hired men in the employ of farmers. Under these circumstances a strong effort should be made to get large petitions, so that this Act may be amended in the direction suggestion by the petition, viz., the relief of the agricultural classes from the provisions of this Act.

Yours truly,
R. WILKIE,
Secretary Dominion Grange.

☞ When signed, hand to your member not later than the 15th of March.

Thursday, the reports of the various committees were listened to, and disposed of. The committee appointed to visit the Central Prison, and report on the binder twine operations in that institution, brought in a very favourable report. They found the factory provided with sufficient stock to produce an amount of twine this season equal to one-fourth of the entire demand of the Province last year.

The samples received were submitted to the meeting and were heartily approved of.

The Committee on Legislation brought in a report recommending that a petition be forwarded to the Dominion Government praying for the repeal of the duty on corn, coal and binder twine, and a reduction on coal oil to three cents per gallon, and agricultural implements to 15 per cent., and that postage on letters be placed at 2c per ounce.

Also recommend petitions to the Ontario Legislature asking for a reduction in the number of county councillors, and for the introduction of the teaching of Agriculture into the public schools, and that teachers in rural districts be required to pass an examination in Agriculture.

It also recommends the amendment of the Game Law so as to allow the destruction of cotton-tail rabbits at all seasons owing to their destructive habits, and to make the killing of quail illegal at any season of the year, as it is the farmer's best friend in the matter of destructive insects and the seeds of noxious weeds.

The report of the Committee on Agriculture was able and instructive, a copy of which will be sent to each sub-Grange.

The evening was taken up with the election of officers. The following is a list of those chosen for the ensuing year:—Worthy Master, Peter Hepinstall; Overseer, Dawson Kennedy; Secretary, R. Wilkie; Treasurer, George Hood; Lecturer, D. G. McKenzie; Chaplain, J. H. B. Moore; Steward, James Skeoch; Assistant Steward, John Cowan; Gate-keeper, Lyman Henry. Lady Officers:—Ceres, Mrs. J. Cumming; Pomona, Mrs. J. Kaiser; Flora, J. Robinson; Lady Steward, Mrs. G. Lethbridge. Executive Committee—Henry Glendenning, Jabel Robinson. Auditors—J. M. Kaiser, Mr. Follis. Delegates to the National Grange, United States—W. M. Hepinstall, H. Glendenning, J. Robinson, R. Wilkie, D. Kennedy.

On Wednesday evening a public meeting under the auspices of the Patrons, Grange add Knights of Labour was held in St. Lawrence Hall. The chair was occupied by Grand President Mallory, of the P. of I., and the meeting was addressed by Master Hepinstall and Jabel Robinson and E. H. Hilborn, of the Grange, and John Miller, A. Gifford and T. O. Currie, of the Patrons, A. F. Jury, G. T. Beales and D. A. Carey, represented the Knights of Labour. The speakers all advocated united action on all questions affecting their common interests. The meeting was very enthusiastic, and in thorough sympathy with the speakers, and unanimously agreed to the following resolution:

It was moved by Mr. J. Lockie Wilson, and seconded by Mr. D. Kennedy, "That the joint meeting of the Farmers' and Trades and Labour organizations represented here to-night appoint a committee for the purpose of effecting combined action for the furtherance of their common interests."

Several parties when leaving the hall expressed the opinion that the meeting was one of the most significant held in the city for a long time.

On Thursday each society appointed a committee to compose the joint committee, which met and organized in the evening and adjourned to meet for business on Saturday. Their proceedings will be embodied in a circular and sent to all the Lodges.

Elderly people remember their spring bitters with a shudder. The present generation have much to be thankful for, not the least of their blessings being such a pleasant and thoroughly effective spring medicine as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is a health-restorer and health-maintainer.

GOUGH BROS.' CABINET FORMED AND A POLICY DECIDED ON!

February is the month of clearing up. Goughs have re-organized business for 1893 and start out to clear off the slate for spring. Trade for 1892 has been larger than ever. Profits have been smaller. Goughs have cut their prices to meet the low price of wheat; and if wheat goes lower, down go Goughs' prices. They will not be undersold by the farmer or see the farmer undersold.

CLEARING UP THE STOCK FOR SPRING.

Stock-taking is over. A lot of odd lots remain. These must go. Goughs will almost give them away to clear. Come in and run through the counters and see your opportunity.

Clothing, Overcoats, Boys' Suits, Underclothing, Boots & Shoes

REFORM.

A Dress Example of the Severe School.

There are so many dress reform women in the world that one must recognize some charm about them, only they shouldn't be slouchy or severe. They are always one or the other, though, of course, the severe ones are the best. They have a sort of chic of their own, if they don't scare you to death at first. These people are for dress reform because they really think it attractive, and not because they want to make you miserable, or don't care whether you are miserable or not. They do cut their hair short often, not nice and fluffily short, but short like their brothers, only it is not clipped by a barber who knows the business. Then they wear fetching tams that are of hairy cloth, and at a distance you can't tell the difference between real hair and net, and it gives them a wild, hair-on-end air that really wrongs them, but that scares you just as bad. Collars and cuffs never go out with these girls, because they always have them on. Not in a jaunty masculine way, but distinctly because collars and cuffs form the plainest finish to a dress. Her waist is always as broad as her chest, or at least, she makes her bodice hang so it looks that way. She likes pleated waists belted in. She is a nice girl and she wears this sort of get up more to save herself trouble than from malice, and, of course, not having dress to take up her mind, it gets turned to education and that sort of thing, and so she becomes severe. Her eyebrows get straight, her mouth gets prim, and she takes herself in earnest. That is always a strain to a girl, because, no matter how dress reformed and educated she may be, a girl is a disconcerting thing to take in earnest. The way to save such a girl is, unbeknown to herself, to smuggle her into a regular "stunning" gown. And then, but how are you to do it?

FLORETTE.

Women Men Like.

Notwithstanding all cynical assertions to the contrary, there are some most delightful friendships existing between men and women that have in them no thought of love. There is a mental congeniality as well as an attraction of opposites that proves very delightful to many a man. They enjoy conversing with bright, clever women who have their own views on topics of the day, differing so largely in their feminine expression from the masculine arguments heard at clubs or in offices. A man delights in the contrast: the keen, clever insight of a companionable woman and the clever wit that punctuates her conversation is to him as champagne compared with porter when he thinks of some of the prosy albeit truthful sentiments issuing from the lips of members of his own sex. Such women are the equals, and in many cases the superiors, of hundreds of their male associates, yet they never act as though they knew their own worth. Therein lies their greatest charm. It takes a very clever woman to combine the strong mental qualities that lend such piquancy to her every word with a manner not humble, yet so far from being aggressive that a man feels flattered rather than outdone in every sentence she utters.

For Sore Throat.

Sudden Colds and Diptheria, no remedy has ever been discovered so powerful to cure as Davis' PAIN-KILLER. As a Liniment it has no equal in curing Rheumatism or Neuralgia, Burns and Bruises, and wounds of every description. It is the cheapest and best remedy ever offered to the public. Only 25c. for big 2 ounce bottle.

For Nettle Rash, Summer Heat and general toilet purposes, use Low's Sulphur Soap.

The Sense of Smell in Dogs.

The sense of smell is by no means so developed in man as in dogs, cats and other animals, but it is often abnormally keen in individuals deprived of other senses; blind deaf-mutes, for example, can recognise their friends and form an opinion about strangers solely by means of this sense. Possibly, however, animals are only sensitive to certain smells, while unconscious of others that affect us. If this be the case, they would naturally be able to follow up one particular scent more easily than a man, this scent to which they are sensitive being to them less confused with others.

Dogs are able to track their masters through crowded streets, where recognition by sight is quite impossible, and can find a hidden biscuit even when its faint smell is still further disguised by eau de cologne. In some experiments Mr. Romanes lately made with a dog he found that it could easily track him when he was far out of sight, though no fewer than 11 people had followed him, stepping exactly in his footprints in order to confuse the scent.

The dog seemed to track him chiefly by the smell of his boots, for when without them, or with new boots on, it failed; but followed, though slowly and hesitatingly, when his master was without either boots or stockings. Dogs and cats certainly get more information by means of this sense than a man can; they often get greatly excited over certain smells, and remember them for very long periods.—Chambers' Journal.

A Royal Wedding Present.

Perhaps the biggest and most costly wedding present ever given is now in course of manufacture. There will be 706 plates and 131 dishes, and each piece will bear the entwined monogram of the King and Queen of Greece, who will receive this magnificent gift jointly from the Czar and Czarina, King and Queen of Denmark, the Prince and Princess of Wales, and the Duke and Duchess of Cumberland on the occasion of their silver wedding.

It rouses every organ into natural action, promotes all the bodily functions, and restores health and vigor.

For every disease that comes from a torpid liver or impure blood, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Biliousness, and the most stubborn Skin, Scalp, or Scrofulous affections, the "Discovery" is the only remedy so certain that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, in every case you have your money back.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the bore" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.
HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion
On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontined, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine forms of insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides, by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

WHO BUILDS THE RAILWAY?

THE COUNCIL WRESTLES WITH THE STREET RAILWAY QUESTION.

Three Companies After the Street Railway Franchise—Mr. Green Gets the Market Again—Street and Bridge Matters—License Reduction—Miscellaneous Business—A Midnight Session.

At the regular monthly meeting of the town council held last evening, the mayor and all the councillors were present. After routine the following batch of

COMMUNICATIONS WERE PRESENTED:

From J. W. Fiske, manufacturer of ornamental iron, bronze and zinc work, stating that he had forwarded his catalogue of drinking fountains, etc., to the town.—Received.

From M. T. Ostrom asking the privilege of having a stand on the corner of George and Hunter streets, to sell fruit of all kinds and other commodities—for which privilege he was prepared to pay at the rate of $75 per year. The petitioner would also give $175 per year for a license to peddle fruit, vegetables, fish and other commodities in the town.—Referred to License Committee.

From A. Rountree, asking that the license fee for a bowling alley be reduced to $30 per year.—Referred to License Committee.

BOARD OF HEALTH RESIGNATION.

From Dr. R. P. Boucher resigning his position as a member of the Board of Health, as his time was fully occupied by professional work—Received.

From T. A. Hay, stating that professional interests prevented his becoming a member of the Board of Health and tendering his resignation—Received.

From Mrs. Winters, 109 Simcoe street, asking for Remission of taxes.—Court of Revision.

CHANGING OF TELEPHONE POLES.

From J. S. Knapman, manager of the Bell Telephone Company, stating that they had concluded the lease of the town property on George street and it would be necessary to make one or two changes in the telephone poles in the street. There will need be a pole in front of the office and one extra pole on the other side of the street, and the company would also like to put in a few extra poles on Charlotte street to make a connection with one lead of lines west bringing the majority of Charlotte street instead of by way of Simcoe. They had now two or three poles part of the way. The company also had at present a lead of lines on Water street coming over to George street a block or so so south of Charlotte street. These the company would like to continue up George towards the office making it necessary to put on a few poles on that street. They will start immediately at the work of getting out lines early for moving into the new office, and when completed will take out the extra poles where at present there are two lines of telephone poles on opposite sides of the street, which will do away with a very large number of poles now in use.—Referred to Street and Bridge Committee.

ASKING FOR THE MARKET AGAIN.

From R. H. Green, market clerk, offering to pay for the market tolls for another year, commencing on April 1st next, the sum of $1700 (the same as last year) provided that the same are let to him without being put up at auction. He would agree to measure all wood on the market, etc., which would make his duties more arduous. The revenue derived from the tolls during the current year did not warrant him giving nearly as much again another year, but owing to ill health, and the necessity for his occupation being an outdoor one, Mr. Green concluded to try it for another year on the same terms. After a year's experience if his services had been satisfactory, he trusted the committee would consider the offer favourably. — Received.

From T. H. Roberts asking for a shooting gallery license for one month, with the privilege also of running a ball game, known as the dolls, and offering the sum of $25 for the aforesaid period.—License Committee.

WANT A WATER SERVICE.

From W. Aldridge and others, property owners, on Weller street, between Park street and Mercer Avenue, petitioning that the council request the Peterborough Water Company to extend their system of water pipes from Park street west on Weller street to Mercer Avenue, and also that on such extension two hydrants be placed for fire protection. The petitioners also asked the council to request the Peterborough Light and Power Company to cause to be erected an electric pole at such point on Weller street as may give a serviceable light as they were practically without light and fire protection—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From W. Morrison, Secretary of the Extinguisher Manufacturing Company, Toronto, stating the benefits of a chemical engine and the terms on which they would supply the town with one.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

CANNOT HOLD THE TOWN FOR DAMAGES.

From Town Solicitor Edwards, stating he had considered the question of the claim made on behalf of Thos. Williams under contract between him and the town. In his (Mr. Edwards') opinion he did not think that the contract in its terms gave him the exclusive right to do the scavenger business of the town and further if such a construction could be put upon the contract it would be void, as being decidedly contrary to section 286 of the municipal act which provides that no council shall have the power to give any person the exclusive right of exercising within the municipality any trade or calling." The contract in itself provides that it shall be in force from year to year for 3 years, from May 1st, 1891, if the said corporation so elects. Mr. Edwards suggested that in view of a claim being made by Mr. Williams against the corporation for damages if there be a failure to fulfill the contract as claimed by him and now put forward, was in direct conflict with the express prohibition of the municipal act, it might be wise for the council to solve the difficulty by electing to terminate the present agreement in and from May 1st, next. The council of 1891 had no power in a matter such as this to enter into an agreement binding on the councils of future years. The failure by the contractor to perform any of the covenants of the contract would by its terms justify the council in terminating the contract.—Received.

From J. H. Maclaren, chairman of the executive committee of the Dominion Alliance, stating that it had been thought desirable by the friends of moral reform that a vote of the electors should be taken on the question of total prohibition of the liquor traffic. The council were requested to lay the communication and petition before them and return the same duly signed on behalf of the council, so that they could lay it before the Legislature through the proper channel. The petition for a plebescite was enclosed with the communication.—Received.

From N. Forcier, asking exemption from taxes for 1893.—Court of Revision.

The communication from the Women's Christian Temperance Union re the posting up of obscene play bills in the town, the evil influences created thereby upon youth and further the request that orders for groceries from the Charity Committee of the town be given to temperance stores was published in the EXAMINER a few days ago.—Petition was received.

From John R. Cobb, town clerk, stating that the duties and work developing upon him were such that to properly fulfill them the salary he now received was not adequate or fair for the services rendered and asking that the same be increased to $1200 per annum—Finance Committee.

From John R. Cobb, secretary of the Board of Health, enclosing the resolution passed at the last meeting that the scavenging of the town be done by public scavengers at the expense of the municipality —Health Committee.

THREATENED LEGAL PROCEEDINGS.

From John Burnham, Q.C., informing the council that proceedings would be taken against the corporation to restrain the emptying of the Edison sewer into Little Lake, if after the spring opens, and a reasonable time had elapsed, it was not stopped. On the application for an injunction in the case of Mr. Alfred McDonald, it was stated that such use of the sewer was only temporary, and that in the spring another outlet would be provided, and in fact the application went off principally on that account. The parties concerned in the matter thought it better to allow Mr. McDonald's suit to drop, and to commence anew and join the Edison Co. in the proceedings as defendants.—Referred to Town Solicitor.

EXEMPTION FROM TAXATION.

From G. A. Schofield, secretary of the Peterboro Canoe Company, asking for exemption from taxation for a period of ten years. The company has had erected for them a commodious building, and propose doing a large export trade with Great Britain and the United States, and will employ upwards of twenty skilled hands. —Finance Committee.

WANT THE DAM REMOVED.

From R. Clinkscale and 59 others, requesting that the dam across the creek west of Donegal street, and known as Whyte's dam, and the mill pond formed thereby, raised the water of said creek so as to form a very large body of water when the machinery was not running, and this had the effect of rendering the wells in that neighborhood unfit for use and was dangerous to public health and that proceedings be taken to have the waters of said dam run in their natural course without being damed.

Moved by Mr. Dawson that the petition be referred to the town solicitor to ascertain the best means of having the drain removed.—Carried.

From Town Solicitor Edwards, stating the action entered by Mr. MacDonald against the town of Peterborough had been dismissed.—Received.

AN OFFER TO BUILD AN ELECTRIC ROAD.

The following communication was read from Messrs. Ahearn & Soper, Ottawa:—

GENTLEMEN,—Having recently had occasion to visit your town we are impressed with its apparent need of an electric street railway and understand that the franchise has not been disposed of, we respectfully make application for the same. Should our application meet with your acceptance we would undertake the immediate construction of the railway in order that it might be in operation in the early summer. To accomplish this it would of course be necessary that prompt action should be taken in order that we might complete our arrangements for the requisite material. The rail- would, of course, have to be imported from Europe; and if an early decision was reached we could bring them on with shipments that are now being made for additional constructions in this city. In addition to the above we would also construct a line from Peterborough to Chemong Park, and to carry out our enterprise it is our intention to form a company in which it is a desire to have Peterborough's capital interested.

—Received.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. M. DENNISTOUN,
Chairman.

Mayor Kendry stated a deputation consisting of Councillor Cahill, Mr. Edwards and himself, went down to Ottawa on Thursday last on receipt of a telegram from Mr. Stevenson, as the bill in reference to the amalgamation of the Grand Trunk with the Midland would come up. The committee found out at 11 o'clock on Thursday night that the bill had been postponed until Wednesday night next when it would come before the house. The town owned some £30,000 stock in the Midland and had a mortgage on the road of some $57,000.

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS.

Mr. Kelly, chairman, presented the following committee report:—

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN.—Your Committee on Appointments and Supervision of Police beg leave to report that they have considered the application of Geo. I. Your committee would recommend that they be impowered to ask for traders for the supply of summer clothing for the police.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your License Committee to whom was referred the application of the holders of billiard and pool table licenses, asking that a reduction be made in the amount of the license fee at present charged, beg leave to report and recommend that the license fee for billiard and pool tables be as follows: First table, $40; each additional table, $30.

Your committee would further recommend that the same system as adopted in 1892, with reference to the licensing of dogs, enforcement of penalties, etc., be continued this year; that

THE STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—This question has again come suddenly to the front and to judge from the haste with which a considerable number of our very wise councillors were inclined to deal with it at last night's meeting, we might readily suppose that the construction of an electric railway is to prove the means by which we are to ward off the threatened cholera epidemic. It is usually when a body is seized with a panic that it is apt to act rashly, hence the above conclusion. But what is at the bottom of this exceeding haste? Mr. Councillor Mulhern appeared on the scene with a carefully prepared type-written resolution and used every effort to force it through and it was evident that some members of the council had been PERSUADED that it would be the very best thing for the citizens of Peterborough to give the franchise off-hand to Mr. Soper, of Ottawa, without any consideration of the terms to be imposed. Then our worthy mayor, with all the suavity for which he is so justly noted, lent his aid to this effort by trying to choke off discussion and to prevent the matter being referred to the proper committee. Of course these gentlemen are entirely disinterested, and the fact that they are part-owners of a water-power at the north end of the town had nothing to do with their action. But the citizens of Peterborough would like to know whether it is true or not that Mr. Soper had, previous to last night's meeting, agreed with Messrs. Kendry and Mulhern—(I don't use "agreed" in its technical sense) that if he obtained the franchise he would take the power from their company. I am credibly informed that such is the case, and there is a word in the Municipal Act commencing with B and ending with Y which expresses the nature of the transaction. Where now are the champions of the Edison Company or its successors the Canadian? What now about that condition so fiercely insisted upon that none but an equipment manufactured in Peterborough should ever be used on our streets? It is strange that we cannot have a little honest square dealing at our council board but that every question that is brought up must be weighed in a balance, forged by selfishness and polished by hypocrisy!

Yours, etc.,

CRISP CURLING CHRONIQUES.

What is Going on at the Rink Where Curlers Most do Congregate.

Three rinks of the Prospect Park curlers are playing a return match with the Peterboroughs this afternoon. The local skips are Messrs. Budden, Judge Weller and C. McGill. Three other rinks will arrive from Toronto this evening, making in all a six-rink contest. The skating ice has not been made to-day, owing to water not being able to be got last evening.

A very interesting match was played last night between Nails and Coffee vs. Kings of Electricity and Furniture. The nails and coffee alternately did very well, the nails scratched the furniture badly and sometimes it was just like drawing teeth to get there. Skip McGill is second to none in drawing but his sight draft fell short of the pot lid time and again. Following is the score:—

WHO BUILDS THE RAILWAY?

the scale of fees remain as heretofore, and that your committee be empowered to give the required bags when necessary, free of cost.

With reference to the application of the carters for number plates, your committee would recommend that their request be granted and that your committee be empowered to procure a supply of plates for distribution among the licensed carters.

Your committee have decided to recommend the allotment of certain places to be known as carters' stands in Peterborough, and to be occupied by them during the period of each year beginning on April 1st and ending November 1st. A resolution in accordance therewith will, as provided for in the carters' by-law now in force, be submitted for your approval.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. A. MULHERN,
Chairman.

Mr. Mulhern moved the adoption of the report.

Mr. Dennistoun asked why the License Committee should reduce the license fees without consulting the Finance Committee. Everybody knew the town fell behind last year and the expenditure was increasing from year to year. The present matter was a question of revenue, and should be considered before the report should be adopted.

Mr. Stevenson said several tables were lying idle now owing to the heavy license and that more licenses would be taken out if the fee was reduced.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Dennistoun, seconded by Mr. McElwain that the fee for billiard and pool license remain the same as previously—$40, for each table per year. The amendment was then put and lost, the original motion being carried.

Mr. Dennistoun said that he hoped all matters cutting down the revenue of the town would be referred to the Finance Committee.

TENDER THE SAME AS LAST YEAR.

Mr. Winch, chairman, presented the report of the Market Committee as follows:—

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Market Committee beg leave to report that they have carefully considered the question of the letting of the market tolls for the ensuing year commencing April 1st, 1893, and after considering a proposition from R. H. Green, the present market clerk, to pay for the tolls the same as last year—namely $1,720, and in addition to the duties at present imposed on him to measure all the wood offered for sale on the market and give the required certificates therefor. Your committee in view of the general satisfaction given by the market clerk and believing that the amount offered is a fair value for the tolls, would recommend the acceptance of his proposition and that the town solicitor be instructed to prepare the requisite contract and bond for the faithful performance of duty, etc.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

H. C. WINCH,
Chairman.

Mr. Stevenson moved the adoption of the report. The present clerk had given splendid satisfaction and had agreed to measure the wood. Mr. Kelly seconded the motion.

Mr. McElwaine said he had no objections to Mr. Green as market clerk, but they decided in committee last year to sell the market fees by auction from year to year, and he did not think this rule should be deviated from. He moved that the report referring to Mr. Green be referred back to the Market Committee, and tenders asked for, or that the tolls be put up by auction. Mr. McElwaine's motion receiving no seconder, the report was carried.

The Mayor said Mr. McElwaine's point was well taken.

FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT.

The following report was presented by Mr. Cahill.

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Fire, Water and Light Committee beg leave to report and recommend that the tender of the Gutta Percha and Rubber Mfg. Co. for the supply of 300 feet of Baker Fabric hose, 2½ inch, three ply cotton rubber lined fire hose at 75c. per foot less discount of 50 per cent. be accepted, and that the mayor and clerk be authorized to execute the required contract for the purchase of the same.

Your committee recommend that hooks be obtained for the hanging harness on in the fire hall.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THOS. CAHILL,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

STREET AND BRIDGE MATTERS.

Mr. Bradburn presented the following report:

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your street and bridge committee beg leave to report that pursuant to the power vested in your committee by the council, and acting upon the advice and with the consent of the town solicitor and engineer, they caused the Smith street bridge, crossing the Otonabee river at Smith street, to be closed against public travel, the same having been deemed to be in an unsafe and dangerous condition. The bridge was closed on March 1st, and the travelling public sufficiently warned thereof beforehand, and after the closing, by posters and placards.

With reference to the construction of the required sidewalks throughout the town during the present year, your committee would recommend that they be empowered to let by contract a portion of the work after first asking for tenders if in their opinion it is deemed advisable in the town's best interest so to do.

Owing to differences of opinion which have arisen in the past and may arise during the present year respecting the proportion of the work to be done jointly, as at present, by the town and the township of North Monaghan, on the boundary roads, your committee request that they be empowered if agreeable to the township to enter into an arrangement by which the town and the township will each agree to keep in repair a proportionate part of the boundary roads in order that it may be definitely determined the amount of work to be performed by each and to avoid disputes, and report to this council.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

T. E. BRADBURN,

Mr. Dawson would like to hear Mr. Pope's opinion on an agreement which might be entered into between town and township.

Mr. Bradburn said every year that councillors of North Monaghan were before the council complaining about the division of the work, and he thought an understanding between the town and township would save much annoyance.

Mr. Cahill said the town divided the boundary line with Smith some years ago, and since then they had no trouble. He thought the same thing should be done with Monaghan. Each corporation would look after its own portion of the road then and matters would move along smoothly. Mr. Bradburn's suggestion was in the right direction and Monaghan council was very anxious to have this done.

The report was adopted.

WHERE THE CARTERS WILL STAND.

Moved by Mr. Mulhern, seconded by Mr. McIlwaine,—That the following places shall from and after the passing of the resolution be known and recognized as the only stands which carters, truck-men and cab-men shall occupy and use in the town of Peterborough as public stands during the period of time in each and every year commencing on the first of April and ending on the first of November:—

Stand No. 1—On the west side of Water street between Fitzgerald & Stangers and the frame building to the south side thereof.

Stand No. 2—On the north side of Hunter street between D. Belleghem's and the brick store to the west thereof.

Stand No. 3—On the south side of Simcoe street between the gateway leading into the Grand Central Hotel yard and the gateway leading to the Phelan House yard, provided that no carter, hackman or cabman should occupy or use any other stand than those hereinbefore mentioned, without the written consent of the owners of the property in the vicinity being first had obtained such consent to be fyled with the town clerk, that the police be instructed to see that the terms of this resolution be strictly enforced and that no one is allowed to occupy any of the stands at present used unless by consent aforesaid during the said period of time.

On motion Daniel Hilliard was heard on behalf of the carters. The speaker did not think that they were doing any harm where they were standing now. They paid their license and had no protection whatever. There were only two or three "kickers" who wanted them removed from their present stand.

The mayor thought the matter should be referred back.

Mr. Shannon said the matter should not be referred back. It had been referred back two or three years now, and if it was not dealt with now, he would have nothing more to do with it. Immediate action should be taken.

The resolution was carried.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH.

Mr. White introduced a bylaw to amend Bylaw 670, appointing a Board of Health for 1893.

Moved by Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. Wilson, that Thos. Brooks be appointed in Dr. Boucher's place.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. White, seconded by Mr. Winch, that the name of P. J. McNamara, be inserted in the place of Thos. A. Hay.—Carried.

The bylaw was duly passed.

THE BILLIARD LICENSE BYLAW.

Mr. Mulhern introduced a bylaw to amend Bylaw No. 607, entitled a Bylaw to regulate certain municipal licenses in the town of Peterborough.

On the second reading of the bylaw some heated discussion took place.

Mr. Dennistoun asked if any member of the license committee could tell how many tables would be reduced by this amendment. No one being able to tell he thought the council should know how much the town was going to lose in a move like this. It was a question of finance and had not been properly enquired into by the council. The rate of taxation would have to be raised this year and this might mean a considerable loss in revenue to the town. He moved that the committee rise.

Mr. Mulhern thought, he said, the chairman was not responsible for the report.

Mr. Winch thought our licenses were high here and they should be reduced. In Toronto the license was only $20 a table.

Mr. Dennistoun said if they were to be reduced, this was not the time to reduce them. The auctioneers were also contemplating applying for a reduction. If the billiard license was reduced, so would the licenses for bowling alleys, auctioneers, etc. First thing if the council did not cease, instead of it being a small reduction of $100 or $200 it would be a matter of $500 or $600.

Mr. Dawson said there was a deficiency of some $4,000 and they had now by the action of the school board and the council to pay some $1800 extra salaries yearly. It was wrong to reduce the license in any shape or form. Mr. Dennistoun's objection was in the right direction.

Mr. Dennistoun said he had no objection to offer if it was not to be a financial loss to the town.

Mr. Kelly thought additional tables would be put in by the hotel men if the billiard license was reduced and the revenue would not thereby be materially decreased. Belleville and Toronto charged much less for billiard licenses than Peterborough did.

Mr. Dennistoun said the hotel men were better able to pay for their licenses than others.

Mr. Dawson said if Mr. Kelly would guarantee that the number of licenses would be increased he was prepared to vote for the motion.

Mayor Kendry thought this matter should have been brought before the council. If they granted the billiard men a reduction, auctioneers, carters and others would also apply for a reduction. The principle was bad.

Mr. Stevenson moved, seconded by Mr. Winch, that the blanks be filled in by $40 for the first table and $20 for the other tables.

Mr. Dennistoun moved in amendment, seconded by Mr. McIlwain, that the committee rise. The amendment was put and lost.

THE BY-LAW PASSES ITS SECOND READING.

Mr. Dennistoun said the matter was being rushed through without consideration. He simply asked to have the matter stand over, and called for the yeas and nays on the question.

Mr. McIlwain concurred in Mr. Dennistoun's opinion.

Mr. Stevenson said more tables would be put in by present holders if the billiard license was reduced, whereas hotels now had only pool tables.

The yeas and nays were then taken on the question.

Yea—Cahill, Winch, White, Kelly, Stevenson, Bradburn, Wilson and Collins, Nay—Dawson, McIlwain, Dennistoun and Mulhern.

Mr. Stevenson's motion accordingly carried and the by-law was duly passed.

AUDITORS' REPORTS PRINTED.

Mr. Bradburn moved seconded by Mr. Kelly that the town have 300 copies of the auditors' report printed, and that not more than one copy be given to any ratepayer, by the clerk.—Carried.

GRANTING THE FRANCHISE FOR ROAD.

Moved by Mr. Mulhern, seconded by Mr. McIlwaine,—That the application of Messrs. Ahearn and Soper for the franchise of an electric street railway in the town be granted for a period of 20 years, with an additional period of 10 years, and that the town solicitor and the railway committee are hereby instructed to prepare an agreement between the corporation and the said firm for the construction and operation of the said railway; Messrs. Ahearn and Soper to deposit with the corporation, upon the signing of an agreement, a satisfactory bond for $1,000, which shall be forfeited if substantial progress has not been made with the construction of the railway by the first day of August next. In order that the construction may be commenced without delay, this council, by this resolution, to pass the necessary by-law or by-laws confirming said agreement as soon as it shall be signed by the contracting parties, and that a special meeting of the council shall be called for this purpose.

Mr. Soper, of Ottawa, was heard. He said it was their intention to form a company for the erection of an electric street railway here and get Peterborough capital into the enterprise. The more local capital in it the more local interest in the enterprise. The communication they had submitted, dealt with the matter fully, but he might add that the company proposed erecting an electric street railway system, similar to the one they had built in Ottawa, and extending it to Chemong Park. They would have the road completed (although a large amount of grading, etc., would be required) by August 1st. Mr. Soper said he had seen the original agreement with the Edison Company, and there were no material changes that would have to be made. One change which he would like made was a stipulation in the agreement that on certain streets a single line of track only should be laid. This was not in the interest of the company or the town. Turnouts were very bad, and a double track was easier to run. He could demonstrate to the committee that it would not be necessary to have a single line of track on any street.

Mr. Bradburn moved that Mr. Soper's communication be dealt with by the Street Railway Committee.

Mr. Stevenson thought the matter should be taken up at once.

ANOTHER COMPANY WANTS THE FRANCHISE.

Mr. E. H. D. Hall was heard. The Canadian General Electric Company had, he said, put in a communication last year to the council, asking that the franchise be given to them. Their communication had been referred to a committee, and no report had ever been brought in by that committee. The matter had been held in abeyance for months. The Canadian General Electric Company only to-day learned that the matter was about to be brought up, and he had received a telegram from the company asking the council not to go ahead with the work until they heard from them. The council was not to confound the present company with the Edison General Electric Company, which had put in an application for the franchise but had since gone out of existence. He asked the council to allow the officers of the present company to meet them and talk over the franchise. The council were not in sufficient possession of facts re mileage, and as to what Mr. Soper was going to do with the town, to deal with the matter to-night. If the council would refer the matter to the committee, the officers of the Canadian company would meet the committee as soon as they could reach Peterborough, and discuss the matter. It seemed unfair that a local company like the Canadian, which had applied for the franchise, should not have a chance to put in a tender for the road, and that an outside company should be granted that privilege.

The mayor said the manager of the Canadian company had told Mr Stevenson within the past three months, that they did not want the franchise for the road in Peterborough.

Mr. Hall was satisfied the Canadian Company could build the road and equip it as soon as any company. The committee should meet both companies and see which offered the best proposition.

The Mayor thought the matter should not be left over as before and the town be humbugged. We had a chance to build the road now and this company's proposition seemed to be fair, and the work should go on at once. He would give the local company one day, and if not here, let the other company have the contract.

THE LOCAL COMPANY WANT THE FRANCHISE

Mr. Bradburn said the Peterborough and Ashburnham Railway Company had applied for a franchise to build an electric road but their application had not been dealt with. They were well able to equip the road. He did not see what object the town had in putting the road through this evening. It looked as if something was behind it all. He was of the opinion that the present application of the Ottawa company should be referred to a committee along with the other company's application.

SHOULD BE REFERRED TO A COMMITTEE.

Mr. Dennistoun thought the matter should be referred to a committee and should be dealt with at once. He would like to see the matter put off 2 or 3 days and let the council close with the best system. By this means the other companies would be given a chance to meet the council.

THE EDISON COMPANY BROKE FAITH.

Mr. Kelly said the Edison Company had broken faith with the town and did not go on with the road or put up their deposit; but they had put it off. We now had a company which was operating in Ottawa the best electric railway system in Canada, and would give their bond to faithfully perform their work, and that the road should be finished by first of August next. He would like to see the application granted, the bond given and the work gone on with at once. The local company had a good chance to go on with the road and did not. "Now we have an opportunity of having the road, said Mr. Kelly in conclusion, "and we are going to have it."

Mr. Dawson said the local companies never made a move to build the road until a foreign company came in, then they were always very active, but after that they dropped off again.

The Mayor said if the road was built to Chemong Park, it would cover more ground than the plan laid before the council by any other company.

Mr. Mulhern said he had had enough of the Edison and the local companies. They wanted the matter put off and discussed. Well, they would discuss the matter for the next four years before doing anything. We had now a company able and willing to build the road, and they meant business. They came here, not to discuss, but for business, and would put up a bond to do so.

Mr. Bradburn asked what company had applied first to the town for the franchise of an electric road.

The Mayor—The local company.

FAVOURED WAITING A DAY.

Mr. Dennistoun said the proposition made by Messrs. Ahearn & Soper was fair, but it was only only right that the Canadian Company should also appear. It would not be fair, he thought, to grant the application to-night without giving the other companies a chance to be present. A delay of two or three days would do no harm.

Considerable desultory discussion followed as to the date of dealing with the question, some being in favour of immediate action and some counselling a day or two's delay.

Mr. Cahill said that as chairman of the Railway Committee he should make an explanation. But before doing so he might say that he was strongly in favour of the street railway for the town and for its extension to Chemong, which would be in the interest of the town. Some three weeks ago he had telephoned on two or three occasions to Mr. Andrew's to arrange a meeting of the Electric Company with the committee. The reply on the first occasion was that Mr. Barr would be down the next week; on the second the reply was that Mr. Nicholls was expected in a few days. I said that if I were informed of Mr. Nicholls' arrival I would arrange a meeting of the committee with him. Mr. Cahill had heard no hing further on the subject. He added that Mr. Stevenson, president of the local comsany, had told him that he had no objection to any other company building the road. While he was in favor of prompt action, Mr. Cahill favored referring the matter to the committee to report upon the matter as one of very great importance, and he favoured it being submitted to the committee.

THE PROPOSED PLAN OF ROUTE.

Mr. Soper, when asked what plans the company had as to the route, said he was not very familiar with the names of the streets, but at present they thought of starting at H illiard's mill, coming down to Smith street, across Smith to George, down George to exhibition grounds, around by the Edison works, up Park, &c.

Mr. Hall said the Edison Company included a line on Charlotte street and another street more than just proposed in these plans. The agreement was for five miles of line.

Mr. Kelly said 2½ miles were all they were to build.

Mr. Bradburn moved in amendment to Mr. Mulhern's motion, seconded by Mr. Dennistonn,—That the application of Messrs. Ahearn and Soper be referred to the Street Railway Committee to report at a special meeting of the council to be held on Friday night next.

After considerable talk Mr. Mulhern's motion was put and the yeas and nays demanded.

YEAS.—Messrs. Kelly, Stevenson, McIlwaine, Collins and Mulhern.

NAYS.—Messrs. White, Winch, Bradburn, Dawson, Wilson and Dennistoun.

Mr. Mulhern's motion was lost.

Mr. Cahill did not vote.

Mr. Bradburn's motion was then put and carried Messrs. Stevenson and Mulhern voting against it.

The matter will accordingly come up before the committee on Thursday night, next, when representatives of the different companies will be present, and the committee will bring in its report at the council at Friday night's meeeting.

A DUMPING GROUND COMPLAINT.

Mr. Chas. Kitney said he had received a letter from the secretary of the Otonabee Board of Health, forbidding him after March 5th to have any more night soil dumped on his premises.

The matter was referred to the Health Committee.

Mr. Dennistoun referred to the convenience, the Smith street bridge, now closed, was to the residents of the north ward, as well as to Douro and Dummer farmers. The county council would only pay 1-10th of the cost of a new bridge—$12,000. If the bridge was to be rebuilt he suggested that it should be built on the site of the old railway bridge at Auburn, which would be a great convenience to the residents there, and he moved, seconded by Mr. Mulhern, that the Street and Bridge Committee be requested to report to this council on the question of constructing an iron bridge across the Otonabee river to replace the Smith street bridge, with special reference to the best and most suitable location for the same.—Carried.

On motion of Messrs. Winch and White, an account of P. Sullivan, $27.25, was paid.

A SHORTHAND REPORTER.

Moved by Mr. Dennistoun, seconded by Mr. McIlwaine, that this council recommend the appointment of W. F. Johnston, Esq., as shorthand reporter for the county court at a salary of $70 per annum, the town and county to pay a proportion of said salary according to scale adopted for the administration of justice.—Carried.

The council then adjourned at 12.

FOR RECEPTIONS.

A Unique Dress for the Social Purpose.

The sleeves and front of the skirt of the costume pictured are of light gray or beige colored cloth. The bottom of the front is trimmed with two narrow bands of fur, placed above and below a broad band of embroidery. The front width of this dress is somewhat longer than usual, so that it may form the folds which are slightly pleated in beneath the waist. The belt is sewn to the lower edge of the waist band, in such a manner that it appears to complete the folds so that it gives the impression of being a newmarket coat. The velvet portion of the waist is made on tightly fitting lining, and the front breadths are fastened in the centre. The side breadth of cloth is seamless, and is fastened on the left side with the belt. Both back and front breadths are made of velvet gathered in to fit the figure. In order to have the skirt of the required fullness, breadths are added at the bottom and it is very deeply gored at the top. It is lined with silk of the same color as the cloth. The pleated belt is of cloth, and is passed through two buckles, so that it seems a continuation of the folds in front of the waist. It is fastened with a large rosette. The collar is straight and stiff and it is trimmed in the same way as the bottom of the skirt. The velvet plastron of the waist is ornamented with passementerie. The sleeves are leg-o-mnutton on tight lining, and have three pleats on the inside seam.

Easter bonnets are to be mere headdresses, hardly more than a bow or an aigrette or a bunch of ribbon, or all three at once in tiny proportion. The hair must be dressed elaborately, and the bonnet will serve to signify that the owner has not forgotten that a hat is usually worn out of doors, and that, at the same time a headdress is the proper substitute.

FLORETTE.

The Cult of Candy.

We know of nothing in which the march of extravagance has been more rapid or apparent, than it has been in the "cult" of candy. The older of our readers must remember the time when candy was a luxury, and one that was by no means frequent in its visits. It was doled out in small pieces at time by some dear old grandmother—they had those lovely women in every family in those days—stick at a time and was of the most primitive sort; the "old-fashioned Molasses-candy—which was none of the stuff that is palmed off on unsuspecting children as such in these degenerate days—lemon, birch, sassafras. That was about the assortment. Burnt almonds were reserved for the children of the sumptuously rich—the people who were worth at least $50,000. No one had so far presumed upon the reckless habits of the rich at that time as to make chocolate creams for daily consumption; at Christmas, perhaps, a boy or girl was able to carry the head with pride, because one of those delicious morsels had been put into the stocking. But now what child would be satisfied with any such candy as the fathers and mothers had? In one purchase, nowadays, a man can buy as much as the stock of the old-fashioned dealer amounted to, and the children who receive it do not enjoy it half as much as the old folks used to.

Why, mother's eyes,
Twin patches of those summer skies
That beamed on him in Paradise.

What's for the child?

What's for the boy?

What's for the youth?
To dream of fame,
In shifting hand to write his name,
With sighs to fan a passion's flame.

What's for the man?
Courage to bear
The load of wisdom and of care,
And souse true heart its weight to share.

And what's for age?
Pain's prison bars,
Comfort that every trifle mars,
Dimness and fear—and then the stars!

One of China's Wonders.

The "Pagoda of the Great White Dragon," the architectual wonder of China, is in that part of the great celestial empire known as Sz-Chuan. It stands near the foot of one of the many sacred Chinese mountains; is built entirely of bronze, and is fifteen long stories in height, not counting the mammoth bronze pineapple which seems to be inseparable from an orthodox pig-tail palace of worship. From the ground up to and including the sacred ivory tusk which surmounts this tall structure, it is literally covered with minute figures of men, beasts and mythological creatures of all kinds. The mountain near by is known as Mount Omei, and has been a sacred peak for more than 3,000 years.

WONDER IN WELLAND!

A Representative Farmer Speaks.

MR. C. C. HAUN.

The following remarkable facts are fully certified to as being undeniably correct in every particular. Mr. Haun is well known in the vicinity, having resided here over fifty years, and is highly respected as a man of the strictest honor, whose word is as good as his bond.

As will be seen from his letter, four physicians had attended him, and it was only after he had given up hope of cure that he decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters on the recommendation of a neighbor who had been cured of a similar disease by its use. Mr. Haun writes as follows:

DEAR SIRS,—I think I have been one of the worst sufferers you have yet heard of, having been six years in the hands of four of our best doctors without obtaining permanent relief, but continually growing worse, until almost beyond hope of recovery, I tried your Bitters and got relief in a few days. Every organ of my body was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torpid, the heart and digestive organs seriously deranged, a large abscess in my back, followed by paralysis of the right leg, in fact the lower half of my body was entirely useless. After using Burdock Blood Bitters for a few days the abscess burst, discharging fully five quarts of pus in two hours. I felt as if I had received a shock from a powerful battery. My recovery after this was steady and the cure permanent, seeing that for the four years since I have had as good health as ever I had. I still take an occasional bottle, not that I need it but because I wish to keep my system in perfect working order. I can think of no more remarkable case than what I have myself passed through, and no words can express my thankfulness for such perfect recovery.

C. C. HAUN,
Welland P.O.

In this connection the following letter from T. Cumines, Esq., a leading druggist of Welland, Ont., speaks for itself:
Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto.

GENTLEMEN,—I have been personally acquainted with Mr. C. C. Haun for the last 20 years, and have always found him a very reliable man. You may place the utmost confidence in anything he says with regard to your medicine. He has on many occasions within the last four years told me that it was marvellous the way the Burdock Blood Bitters had cured him, and that he now felt as able to do a day's work as he ever felt in his life. Although quite well he still takes some B. B. B. occasionally, as he says, to keep him in perfect health.

Yours truly,
THOMAS CUMINES,
Welland, Ont.

The steadily increasing sale of B. B. B., the length of time it has been before the people, and the fact that it cures to stay cured, attest the sterling merit of this monarch of medicines, the people's favorite blood purifier, tonic and regulator.

A VISITING DRESS.

Florette Gives Directions How to Make One.

I have taken as the subject of to-day's article a visiting costume with jacket and vest suitable for a young woman. The material could be either lilse rep or serge, a darker shade of velvet, with braids of the same color as the latter. The skirt is lined with silk or satin and is bell shaped. It is made of three widths, the front one being gored and rounded at the top. The other two are strongly gored at both sides, so they leave but little material at the waist band. The bottom of the skirt has a double balayeuse and the dress skirt is trimmed with a velvet band cut on the bias. Under the jacket a blue or red Scotch blouse can be worn, made of surah. This is in two parts, back and front, and has tight fitting lining which hooks in the front. The silk in the back is taken on the straight, and gathered in at the waist, band. The front is gathered in at the neck and is seamless. The material is not pleated, but is gathered at the waist, falling naturally over the bust. The silk is faced with ribbon to prevent stretching. On this ribbon are sewed the hooks which fasten it to the lining. The jacket has a vest of light colored silk, sewed in at one side and buttoned at the other, where it is also gathered on narrow ribbons. The front parts have a turned down collar and revers. They are trimmed with braid and reach to the waist where they have buttons. The vest can also be sewed in and hook in front. A velvet clasp is sewed into the jacket, which hooks in front. The vest can be worn entirely alone, in which case the clasps are the only fastening for the jacket. The sleeves are on tight fitting lining, and end in turn down velvet cuffs.

FLORETTE.

A Vegetable Compass.

The compass plant grows on our Western prairies and, as its name indicates, is of great value to the wanderer. It is a dwarf variety of the osier, is perennial, attains usually a height of three feet six inches and has a head of yellow flowers.

The help it renders the traveller arises from the fact that the long leaves at the base of the stem, which are placed, not flat, as in plants generally, but in a vertical position, present their edges north and south.

The peculiar propensity of the foliage of this plant is attributed to the fact that both surface of its leaves display an equal receptivity for light.

All the other known varieties of its class are characterized by the presence, on the lower surface of their leaves, of from twice to thrice as many respiratory vessels as are contained on the upper surface, which is therefore the more sensitive of the two to the influence of light.

But both surfaces of the compass plant are clothed alike, with an epidermis exceptionally receptive of light; and the same instinct of its leaves that prompts them to require an equal distribution of light upon either surface causes them to assume a vertical position, and to point their edges due north and south.

Travelers, on dark nights, are said to feel the edges of the leaves to ascertain the points to the compass, when no means are available for helping them on their way.

Increase Your Weight.

If you are losing flesh and blood, commence at once taking Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which is far ahead of all other preparations of the kind in existence. By taking Miller's Emulsion people gain from 5 to 10 lbs. by the time the first bottle is consumed. It is the greatest blessing of the century to all in delicate health, or who suffer with coughs, colds and ailments that tend to consumption. Remember, Miller's Emulsion contains all the constituents found in wheat. It is used in the hospitals and asylums of the country. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all Drug Stores.

As a pick-me-up after excessive exertion or exposure, Millburn's Beef, Iron and Wine is grateful and comforting.

Every Lady Uses It.

Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses for chapped hands or lips as it effectually cures in every instance. Try it. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal.

A Valuable Hint.

When you are attacked by cough or cold do not delay but commence at once to use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. This old standard remedy removes all irritation, loosens the phlegm, and heals the mucous surfaces, curing coughs and colds of all kinds.

News About Town.

It is the current report about town that Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs is making some remarkable cures with people who are troubled with coughs, sore throat, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. Any druggist will give you a trial bottle FREE OF COST. It is guaranteed to relieve and cure. The large bottles are 50c. and $1.

From the Far North.

In northern climates people are very subject to colds, but the natural remedy is also produced in the same climate. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Price 25c. and 50c.

Derangement of the liver, with constipation, injures the complexion, induce pimples, sallow skin. Remove the cause by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One a dose. Try them.

A Cure For Headache.

Headache arises from constipation, bad blood, dyspepsia or liver complaint. As B. B. B. cures all these complaints it is naturally the most successful headache cure existing. Once the cause is removed the headache vanishes.

How a Boy Can Educate Himself.

It very often happens that a boy has to be busy with work of some kind when he really wants to read and become educated. Now this desire for education is a splendid thing in a boy. Indeed there is nothing in the world that is any better. But it often happens that a boy is prevented by circumstances from doing that which would seem to be the best thing for him.

Here is a word of encouragement to such boys. Read all you can in the best papers and magazines. Pick up scraps of information about people and things, and make them your own, so that you will remember them. Some day your knowledge, picked up little by little, will be very extensive and you will find that you compare very favorably with boys who have much better chances for education than yourself. Console yourself with the thought that some of the best work in the world has been done under very trying circumstances.

Sir Walter Raleigh wrote his "History of the World" during his eleven years' imprisonment. And who knows but you, during your years of work, when you would like to enjoy years of study and recreation, may be laying the foundation of some piece of work as great as any Sir Walter Raleigh ever did?

The Smallest Government.

There has been at different times a great deal of talk as to which is the smallest government in the world, said Max de Lipman, of Brussels. I can name it without any fear of contradiction. It is the territory of Moresnet, which lies between Germany and Belgium. It has a population of nearly 2,000. The people are devoted entirely to the tin mining industry. There is no military service, and election days are things they never heard of. There is a Senate of ten members who are appointed by the Mayor. He gets his place by being appointed by two delegates, one from Germany and one from Belgium. The police force consists of one man. He is paid out of the annual revenue, which is about 1,200 francs; this also pays for the maintenance of the roads and the schools. The territory was made independent in 1815, to settle a dispute. Germany and Belgium both wanted it on account of its tin mines, but neither of them got it. The territory contains a trifle over two square miles of ground.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

A Plan for Fast Trains.

Frederick T. Adams of Waltham, Mass., has a plan by which he proposes to increase largely the speed of railroad trains. He proposes to construct a train, the engine of which will be pointed like the bows of a ship, so as to split the atmosphere. The tender will taper back to meet the first car, to which it will be vestibuled by hoods completely encircling the space between the tender and the car. A false bottom will extend beneath the cars, dropping to within three inches of the track. Flexible and removable sections will connect the false bottom with the side of the car, and when the train is made up there will not be an opposing surface from the front end of the tender to the rear end of the last car, which will also be tapered like the stern of a vessel. By thus reducing the wind surface to 160 square feet, Mr. Adams hopes to run a locomotive and seven heavily-loaded palace cars up a grade of fifty-three feet to the mile and maintain a speed of sixty miles an hour. The trip from Chicago to New York, he says, can thus be made at the rate of seventy miles an hour, or in less than fourteen hours.

Oldest on Earth.

The oldest tree on earth, at least as far as anyone knows, is the Boo tree in the sacred city of Amarapoora, Burmah. It was planted, the record says, in the year 288 B. C., and is, therefore, about 2,000 years old. Its great age is proved by historic documents, says Sir James Emerson, who adds: "To it kings have dedicated their kingdoms in testimony of a belief that it is a branch of the identical fig tree under which Buddha reclined at Uoa, when he was undergoing his apotheosis." Its leaves are carried away by pilgrims as relics, but, as it is too sacred to be touched, even with a knife, they can only be gathered after they have fallen.

Curiosities About Snow.

The pure white luster of snow is due to the fact that all the elementary colors of light are blended together in the radiance that is thrown off from the surface of the various crystals. More than a thousand distinct and perfect forms of snow crystals have been enumerated and figured by the various investigators in that line. One hundred and fifty-one different forms were once observed by the English scientist, Glashier, who carefully made engravings of each and printed them in a paper attached to the report of the British Meteorological society for the year 1855.

He Did What He Could.

The rough Englishman has a curious way of showing his gratitude. The Dean tells of a man whose wife had been ill, and to whom the visiting clergyman had been kind. One day the husband called on his wife's spiritual adviser and said: "'Mestur Whitworth, you've been very kind to my ould girl when she wor sick so long abed, and I want to do yer a good turn, and I can do yer a good turn. There's going to be the grandliest dog fight in this place to-morrow, and I can get yer into the innerring!'"

Mr. Hugh Caldwell, Clydesdale, Ont., writes:—"My daughter was troubled with female weakness and for more than a year was under the care of doctors and taking medicine without getting relief. I then got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and they have completely cured her. All dealers or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1.

Ask your neighbors if they use Dodds Kidney Pills? They strengthen the nerves, tone the system, and the most stubborn cases of kidney disease yield to their influence. They are especially appreciated by the old. Ask your neighbors about them.

Some symptoms of worms are:—fever colic, variable appetite, restlessness, weakness and convulsions. The unfailing remedy is Dr. Lowe's Worm Syrup.

ROW OVER HOME RULE.

TWO BRITISH M.P.'S WANTED TO FIGHT BADLY.

Col. Saunderson, Grand Master of Orangemen, and William Redmond, a Parnellite, Meet in the Lobby and Tell Each Other They "Dassent" Fight.

LONDON, March 7.—When Col. Saunderson, the Grand Master of Orangemen and M.P. for North Armagh, denounced the Irish Home Rule members on last Tuesday as defenders of criminals, William Redmond, Parnellite M.P. for East Clare, challenged Col. Saunderson to repeat the words outside the House. Col. Saunderson offered to repeat the words anywhere, and after the debate he wrote a note to William Redmond offering to repeat in the lobby what he had said. This evening Col. Saunderson and Mr. Redmond encountered each other in the lobby. Mr. Redmond, going up to the doughty colonel, said:

"Do you accuse me and my colleagues of being murderers?"

Col. Saunderson, who, by the way, is not an Irishman, but a native of Scotland, coolly replied;

"I know nothing of you personally, but I accused the Irish party of conduct leading to murder."

Both Redmond and Saunderson were angry and confronted each other in a pugilistic attitude. Peers from the House of Lords and members of the House of Commons gathered around in expectation of seeing the first blood in the threatened civil war between the Ulsterites and the rest of Ireland. Just as the two seemed about to fall in, friends came up and stepped between them, preventing the threatened blows.

Speaker Peel, hearing of the encounter between Mr. Redmond and Col. Saunderson, ordered a police inspector to the scene with instructions to arrest the man who struck the first blow.

The inspector appeared toward the end of the quarrel and after having warned both members of his instructions waited to see what happened.

It is reported that Col. Saunderson has challenged Mr. Redmond to a duel on the Continent.

A HURRICANE.

It Sank Vessels and Demolished a Whole Town.

PARIS, March 6.—News of a hurricane at Tamatav, on the east coast of Madagascar, on Feb. 22, has been received yesterday. The wind came and struck the vessels near the mouth of the bay. The Alaimo, a French ship, was stripped almost instantly of masts and rigging and a few minutes later went to the bottom with all on board. Five coasting vessels anchored within the harbor foundered almost simultaneously and but ten men of their crew were saved.

Four other coasters sank before the storm passed. In Tamatav the streets were swept clean of people and vehicles in a minute. Twenty-two of the best buildings in the place and a large number of huts were wrecked. The roof of the custom house was carried away and the walls were crushed in. The British consulate was demolished and four sugar factories were leveled to the ground. Many lives were lost. Further details are lacking.

ERASTUS WIMAN.

He Has a Big Real Estate Scheme and Plans To Build a Thousand Houses.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Erastus Wiman, the Staten Island magnate, has retired from the firm of R. G. Dun & Co. so that he may give his undivided time to big real estate development schemes on Staten Island.

Together with associates, he is perfecting for the market a site about 35 minutes' ride from this city. One thousand houses are to be erected and sold on the instalment plan at prices ranging from $2000 to $5000. A novel feature of the plans of his company will be a life insurance policy, which each purchaser takes out and carries until the house is paid for at least. Should the death of the purchaser occur before all payments on the property are made the home is paid for by the insurance company and secured to the family.

Mr. Wiman wishes to construct a race track at South Beach which will eclipse the splendors of Morris Park.

WAS MACKENZIE'S SECRETARY.

Frederick Burrows Passes Away at a Ripe Old Age.

TORONTO, March 7.—Frederick Burrows, whose death is announced in the Township of King, at the age of 76, was for some 20 years foreman finisher for Messrs. Jacques & Hay in Toronto. He left Sligo, Ireland, about 1832, and after a few years in New York came to Toronto and bought the farm of 200 acres on which he died in King from the old U.C. Company. He was always an advanced Reformer, and during the troubles of 1837 was secretary to the late W. L. Mackenzie, and for a time had to leave his family in the bush and flee to the United States. He was a widower and leaves three sons, James, a farmer in Keppel; Frederick, school superintendent of Lennox and Addington; and John, who inherits the old Burrows homestead in King.

THE CENTRAL AMERICANS.

May Indulge In a General War Among Themselves.

NEW YORK, March 7.—The Herald's Panama correspondent cables: A new revolution has broken out in Southern Honduras which may lead to the overthrow of President Ponciano Leiva and possibly involve all the Central American republics in war.

Policarpo Bonilla is the leader of the new revolt. Gen. Terrencio Sierra is the chief of the revolutionary army which Bonilla has organized, and together they make up the strongest combination that could be formed in Southern Honduras.

Bonilla's first victory was won on Saturday on the plaza at Cholutaca. That town was protected by a force of 1500 men, commanded by Gen. Matute. With an army of only 1000, Bonilla and Gen. Sierra attacked the forces garrisoned at Cholutaca. They met a brave resistance, and a hotly-contested battle was fought on the plaza. The loss on each side was heavy and many buildings were destroyed, but the details of the fatalities have not yet reached this city.

After more than two hours of determined fighting Gen. Matute's broken and scattered army was forced to retreat toward Amopola, leaving Cholutaca and large amounts of arms and many prisoners in the hands of Bonilla's victorious army.

Excited by their victory and determined to make the most of it, Bonilla and Gen. Sierra are now pushing on toward Tegucigalpa, hoping to capture the capital and proclaim the success of the revolution before the Government has had time to recover from the surprise occasioned by the hard won victory of Cholutaca. Success at Tegucigalpa appears to be foreshadowed by the report that the troops in the garrison there are already in revolt, having shot the officers who remained loyal to President Leiva, and declared in favor of making Bonilla President.

President Leiva is not at the capital. The revolutionists appear to have taken advantage of his absence to strike a decisive blow. He was warned of the outbreak at Comayagua, and from there has forwarded an army to defend Tegucigalpa. A decisive battle between the army of Leiva and Bonilla's forces is expected to take place within a few days.

Meanwhile complications are arising which may bring about a war among the Central American republics. President Leiva accuses the Government of Nicaragua of aiding Bonilla in bringing about the revolution. He has telegraphed President Sacaza, at Managua, demanding an explanation. President Leiva expects to have the aid of Guatemala, and should Sacaza openly attempt to reinforce Bonilla, both Costa Rica and San Salvador may declare war against Nicaragua and thus involve all the Central American Republics, save one, in bloodshed.

A Family Poisoned.

KEMPTVILLE, Ont., March 7.—On Saturday some of the members of one of the old Scotch families were poisoned. They were Mr. Sandy Kennedy, Mrs. John Kennedy and a young servant girl. It is evident that the deadly drug was in the porridge. Alexander died a few hours after eating. Mrs. Kennedy is in a critical condition with slightly favorable prospects. The servant girl will survive. An investigation is expected.

The Procession Starts!

The arrival of New Spring Millinery has begun at the GOLDEN LION. Our advance styles are the welcome harbingers of spring—marked and exclusive enough in effect and design to suit the anticipations of lovers of the beautiful—but only a partial foretaste of the marvels of the marts of fashion yet to come.

Our Miss Neild and Miss Armstrong have just returned from visiting the leading centres of fashion, and have accomplished their tasks with unusual satisfaction. Their selections are modelled after the most approved advices recently received from abroad, and comprise many new and original novelties and effects which are sure to be favourably received by the ladies of Peterborough.

March winds have also blown us bargains in Irish Point Lace. We are not "undersellers," but yet we know that nowhere can you do better on such goods as these.

You can also tell by our prices that we mean to do the Embroidery trade of the town. You have your choice of any pattern of 15c. Embroidery for 10c., because we bought a great job lot of them, and a glance at the lengths will decide you as to their unusual value.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

MINUTES OF RECIPROCITY NEGOTIATIONS TABLED.

Mr. Blaine Never Contemplated Any Reciprocity That Did Not Mean Practically Commercial Union — Manitoba Separate School Question.

OTTAWA, March 7.—Hon. Mr. Foster yesterday afternoon laid on the table copies of minutes of the negotiations which took place between Mr. Blaine, Gen. Foster and the Canadian delegates in February of last year. The papers are very voluminous and would make five or six columns.

The most interesting part is that which covers the point which has been in controversy between General Foster and Minister of Finance Foster, as to whether the Canadian delegates could have obtained reciprocity on any other basis than discrimination against Great Britain, and an assimilation of the customs and excise tariffs of Canada and the United States on the lines of the latter.

A perusal of the following extract from the minutes of Feb. 15, and especially the last paragraph, will show that Blaine never contemplated any reciprocity which did not mean practically commercial union:

"Mr. Foster said that, in view of Mr. Blaine's positive declaration of yesterday, that it would be impossible to negotiate a reciprocity treaty between the United States and Canada upon the basis of natural products alone, he would not further press that question except to reiterate his opinion that a treaty framed upon such a basis would not be disadvantageous to the United States, but would be found to result quite as favorably to their interests as to those of Canada.

"As to Mr. Blaine's declaration of yesterday that the United States would not be inclined to accept a treaty upon any other basis than that of a free entry of both their natural and manufactured products into Canada, coupled with discrimination against all other countries, Mr. Foster desired to state frankly and shortly the difficulties which stood in the way of the acceptance of such a basis by Canada."

In the first place, Canada would thereby be obliged to give a preference to the United States as against those of Great Britain, with which country she stood in the close and valued relation of a colony to the Motherland. Aside from sentimental considerations, it was well known that the only material return which Great Britain received for the privileges and protection she gave us was the right to enter our markets on even terms with all other countries, and any arrangement which denied that right brought us face to face with considerations of the most weighty and serious character.

In the second place, the question of revenue was largely involved. Canada's revenue is derived from customs, excise and public works, very largely from the first. Under all arrangements upon the basis indicated by Mr. Blaine, Canada would lose at once about $8,000,000 now derived from the United States imports. She would also stand to lose a considerable proportion of present customs collections upon importations from other countries, which would be largely reduced by the unequal competition of free United States goods with the more or less highly-taxed goods of other countries.

Mr. Blaine inquired if Canada had any other mode of taxation, such as income, land or other direct tax.

Mr. Foster replied that the Federal Government had not had recourse to any of these forms of taxation, which were not popular with the Canadian people, but had relied entirely upon the Customs and Excise for tax revenue.

In relation to internal revenue, Mr. Blaine inquired as to what articles were included under that head, and on being informed that liquors and tobaccos were the only articles included he remarked that these duties would necessarily have to be equalized between the two countries, whereupon Mr. Foster observed that such would be necessary, and that in doing this unless the United States consented to raise its rate impost Canada would lose a very considerable portion of her present excise revenue, inasmuch as her excise tax upon spirituous liquors was $1.50 per gallon, as compared with the United States excise tax of $1.20 per gallon.

Upon malt or beer the Canadian tax was about double that of the United States impost, and upon tobaccos the Canadian excise tax was 25 cents per pound, as compared with the tax of 6 and 8 cents in the United States.

Mr. Blaine agreed that under the conditions that would exist the manufacture of spirits would naturally be transferred to corn-producing centres.

Mr. Foster went on to say that a third question arose at this point, which was in its way not less important than the two already discussed, namely, granted that discrimination in favor of United States manufactures in the Canadian market was necessary, how should the standard of discrimination be fixed and what should be its degree? Would the Canadian tariff have to be raised to an equality of that of the United States tariff upon these articles, or would the present Canadian tariff be accepted as sufficient, or would Canada be at liberty to fix the rate as and when she pleased, provided that the principles of discrimination were always maintained? He took the item of woolens and wool, and illustrated the above point by a comparison of tariffs on these in the two countries.

Mr. Blaine said that this was a vital point; that under the existing tariffs on wools and woolens in the two countries a reciprocity such as he (Mr. Foster) contemplated would result in manifest disadvantage to the United States, whose policy was one of large protection on wools as well as woolens. Unless such points were guarded there would be no security on the one hand from smuggling along a border line of over 3000 miles in length or on the other of maintaining the present policy of the United States. This could, in his opinion, only be done by making the tariff uniform for both countries and equalizing the Canadian with that of the United States.

Some conversation then ensued as to what would be the effect of such a wide reciprocity upon Canada.

Mr. Foster assumed that the trade of Canada would be directed largely towards the United States, as a discriminating tariff upon goods from other countries would practically prevent her from purchasing therefrom manufactured goods of the kinds made in the United States; that her younger and smaller industries would be exposed to a strong competition of older and well-established industries in the United States, with their accumulations of skill and immense capacity for output; and that in the matter of animal and agricultural products she would only gain access to the market which, in nearly all lines in these products, was supplied to overflowing with like products raised in the United States.

Mr. Blaine intimated that Canada would then be in much the same position in trade and industrial matters as a state of the union, one which was non-manufacturing and mainly an agricultural state, as the tendency of manufacturing was to go farther and farther west and south to the newer centres of population.

Mr. Foster continued that he had thought it well to lay thus frankly and briefly before Mr. Blaine the difficulties that met Canada when asked to accept as a basis for reciprocity an interchange of all manufactured articles as well as natural products, and he hoped that Mr. Blaine, who had had a large experience in negotiating reciprocity arrangements and who had studied the object so thoroughly, might be prepared to propose a modified basis for the consideration of the Canadian delegation which would tend to diminish the revenue difficulties and avoid the disturbance of Canada's present relations with the Mother Country.

He pointed out the generous treatment now accorded by Canada to the United States trade, and that at the present time, although Canada collects upon all imported goods dutiable and free a revenue of 20½ per cent., yet, upon all goods imported from the United States, the percentage of duty is only 14½ per cent. The free list given by the United States to Canada last year amounted to only $11,600,000, while Canada gave the United States a free list of nearly $24,000,000.

Mr. Blaine, after mentioning that this, he supposed, was largely due to geographical distribution, said he could easily understand why Canada was reluctant to enter into a treaty of unlimited reciprocity, but that it was clear to his mind that no other arrangement would suit the United States, and that it must be accompanied by discrimination in favor of the United States, especially against Great Britain, who was their great competitor, and that it must likewise be accompanied by the adoption of a uniform tariff for the United States and Canada, equal to that of the United States. He then remarked that without absolutely any discussion on this subject the delegation might proceed to consider the other points which had been mentioned.

The Manitoba school question has been under discussion all day, and the debate is still going on at midnight, with a fair prospect of its lasting an hour or two more. The feature of the day has, of course, been Mr. McCarthy's speech, which lasted from half-past three to half-past five, but did not prove to be by any means one of Mr. McCarthy's best efforts.

He commenced his speech as a narrative and ran over about the whole case without any reference to Mr. Tarte's amendment. Getting down gradually to the present position of the case, he claimed that the report to the council of March, 1891, contained a distinct promise of remedial legislation, and he argued at some length to show that this promise should not have been made.

He objected to the notion taken by council and held that the object of the whole proceedings was to destroy the School Act of 1890 passed by the Manitoba Government. There had already been two meetings, not to hear the petition on its merits, but to deal with forms, and the progress made had not been very great.

In 1891 the Minister of Justice had said that the time for remedial legislation might come, and now in 1893 the Premier seemed to think that the time had come. He held that some secret pledge must have been given or some understanding arrived at and that the program of remedial legislation was not being carried out.

Turning to Mr. Tarte's amendment, he wanted it to be clearly understood that he did not agree with the member for L'Islet that the Government should be condemned for not disallowing the Act; but what he did agree with, and what enabled him to support the first part of the amendment, was that having before them all the facts in the case the Government did not at once settle the matter by dismissing the appeal. The whole matter might just as well have been settled in September.

He said that it was not a seemly act on the part of the Government to assail the constitutionality of a provincial act. It made no difference whether the act was ultra vires or intra vires. He held that the Dominion Government had no right to impose separate schools on the people of Manitoba against their will. Fully three-fourths of the people of Ontario were opposed to separate schools and would abolish them if they could.

He entered at some length into the question of the judicial capacity in which he alleged the Ministers claimed to be acting, and quoted fully from Dicey's history of the Imperial Privy Council to show how the judicial functions had gradually been curtailed and finally disapproved, making frequent allusions to the "Star Chambers" and holding that the ministers could not make themselves judges and divest themselves of ministerial responsibility. If they attempted to exercise judicial functions, then the Court of Queen's Bench ought to intervene and by writ of certiorari remove the proceedings to that court, because the ministers could not act as judges when they were practically plaintiff in the case.

Sir Hector Langevin followed up to 6 o'clock. He briefly ran over the proceedings in London at the time of Confederation to show the intention of passing separate schools, and generally replied to Mr. McCarthy. He quoted from that gentleman's article in The Canadian Magazine on the public school question in Manitoba to show that the last part of that article was almost identical with a portion of Mr. Tarte's amendment, and it looked as if Mr. Tarte and Mr. McCarthy had put their heads together in framing the amendment so that they both could stand on it.

Hon. Mr. Curran continued the debate after recess, speaking for an hour-and-a-half. Devlin followed, championing the cause of the Roman Catholic minority, and accusing Costigan of holding different ground to-day from that he occupied in 1872, when he moved in this House for the disallowance of the New Brunswick non-sectarian school law.

Costigan followed Devlin at 10.50, saying he did not purpose to be bound hand and foot by Tarte's resolution. Conservative party gave Ontario separate schools, and, in that act of justice to the Catholic minority they were opposed by the whole Liberal party. And that was the party whose tender mercies the member for Ottawa county would entrust the rights of the minority of Manitoba. Continuing in a powerful reply to Mr. Devlin's charge that he was a demagog, and brought forth cheer after cheer from all parts of the House, and he showed from the records that, whether in the Government or in the Opposition, he had never changed his course nor evaded the direct issue with regard to the rights of minorities in school matters.

The debate was continued by Mr. [illegible] and Mr. Craig to 1 o'clock, when House adjourned.

Probably the speech made last night which has caused most talk to-day was the shortest and the last in the debate. It was delivered by Mr. Hugh John Macdonald of Winnipeg at nearly 1 o'clock this morning, and at that late hour got but slight attention from the reporters. Here is the official report of the speech:

Mr. Macdonald (Winnipeg): Mr. Speaker, at this late hour of the night it seems hardly fitting that I should rise to occupy the time of the House; but on a question which affects my province so deeply as this one does I feel it my duty to say a few words. I have listened with great attention to what has been said by my hon. friend from L'Islet (Mr. Tarte) and I have tried to follow him as closely as possible. Unfortunately, my very imperfect knowledge of the French language rendered the early part of his speech rather unintelligible to me, but I take it for granted that when he spoke in English he gave the substance of what he had already said in his own language, and if that is the case I may say that although I followed him as closely as possible I didn't hear a single argument advanced which would justify me in voting for his amendment.

I say this deliberately, and notwithstanding the fact that to a certain extent I sympathise with my hon. friend. I sympathise with him in his feeling of indignation at the way in which the Roman Catholic inhabitants of the province of Manitoba were treated with regard to the separate schools.

I sympathise with him because I know that whatever we may think as to the advisability of maintaining the system of separate schools or establishing a system of national schools in Manitoba, the manner in which the separate school system was abolished was barbarous and brutal and butchering. I believe, as has been explained by my hon. friend from Provencher (Mr. Lariviere), that the proceedings taken by the Local Government of Manitoba to enforce and carry out the School Act were such as to give the impression that it was their intention to add insult to injury and to outrage in every way in their power the feelings of the Roman Catholic mipority of the province from which I come. I also sympathize with my hon. friend in wishing that the Government of Canada had seen fit to deal with this question on their own responsibility, and not again to refer it to the courts.

But here the sympathy between us ends, and when we come to the question of the manner in which this important matter ought to have been dealt with by the Government of Canada our views are bound to be as wide as the poles asunder. So, while he regrets that Government did not disallow or veto the provincial legislation of 1890 or 1891, within the year within which the power of disallowance may be exercised, and while he now says that the Government of Canada should come to this House and ask for remedial legislation which would have for effect the removing of the injury under which he believes the Roman Catholic minority of Manitoba to be suffering, I consider that any interference with provincial legislation by the exercise of the power of disallowance would be to usurp the right of the province to which I belong; and so far am I from wishing that anything in the shape of remedial legislation should take place, my wish is that the Government declare openly to this House and the country that the matter, having been carried from the courts of Manitoba to the Supreme Court of the Dominion and from the Supreme Court of the Dominion to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council, the highest court of appeal to which the British colonies can go, and that court having decided that the Provincial Legislature acted within its rights in passing the act in question, that judgment should be considered final and binding and this local school act upheld.

As I have already said, I agree with my hon. friend in wishing that the Government should take a firm stand in this matter and decide it without reference to the courts, but after listening to the speech of my hon. friend the First Minister, the very able speech which he has just delivered, I am almost afraid that the very fact of my hon. friend from L'Islet and myself being ready to jump to a hasty conclusion and form an off-hand judgment on a matter of this importance is simply a sign that neither of us is cut out for a cabinet minister, and I am not inclined to cavil at, much less censure, the course of the Government in taking every step they are allowed by our constitution to determine what their legal rights are, and also what are the rights of the minority under the British North America Act and the Manitoba Act, for this is a question which excites interest not only in Manitoba but from one end of Canada to the other—yes, from Cape Breton to Vancouver—and it is moreover a question particularly calculated to stir the passions of which the human mind is capable.

Let us view the situation for a moment and you will find that it bears me out in what I say. You see on the one side a body of men in this House and the country whose views are very similar to those expressed by the hon. member for L'Islet (Mr. Tarte), who consider the Manitoba School Act an insult to their church, an injury to their co-religionists in the Province of Manitoba and a breach of the agreement, expressed or implied, which was entered into at the time provincial rights were given to Manitoba, and even of the understanding under which the Province of Quebec, then Lower Canada, entered into Confederation.

These gentlemen naturally enough are determined to leave no stone unturned to have this injury redressed, this insult wiped out, by means of remedial legislation in this House, which shall in some way render null and void this most objectionable Act from their standpoint.

On the other hand, you see a body of men in this House and a vast number in the country who are opposed to any interference in provincial legislation, and who are as equally determined as the hon. member for L'Islet (Mr. Tarte) and his friends. These gentlemen, although acting together, standing shoulder to shoulder to resist any attack upon this Manitoba School Act, may be very properly divided into two classes.

One is opposed to interference because they believe that this act, having been

EAST PETERBORO' FARMERS'

INSTITUTE MEETINGS AT KEENE, WESTWOOD AND NORWOOD.

Subjects of Interest to the Farmers Discussed—Addresses by Visiting Delegates.

The evening session of the Farmers' Institute held at Keene on Wednesday evening, the 1st inst. was largely attended by both ladies and gentlemen, the hall being filled to overflowing. The president, Mr. T. Birdsall, introduced the several speakers.

The Glee Club supplied excellent music for the occasion which added much to the success of the meeting.

Mr. Blezzard, M.P.P., shortly addressed the meeting, dwelling principally on winter dairying. He intimated that although in favor of cheese factories he saw many disadvantages to the farmer in sending them all the milk of the farm. The calves, pigs and even the children were deprived of what he considered their most essential nourishment.

Hon Chas. Drury, ex-Minister of Agriculture, next addressed the meeting on "Farming as an occupation." He very ably proved that farming was not only an honourable and profitable occupation but one which was worthy of a proper training and education.

Mr. Yuill, of Carleton Place, addressed the audience on butter making. He very pointedly proved where many were in error by improper management both in the feed of the cow and the care of the milk and cream.

Dr. Harrison then spoke on the error and results of improper ventilation, in both our dwelling houses, but more especially school houses.

Mr. Yuill was again called on to speak on the proper training of farmers' sons and daughters. He very ably and humorously instructed and advised the parents as to the best and most advantageous course of training to pursue in order to make successful farmers of their sons and wives of their daughters.

After a vote of thanks was tendered to the speakers, the staff of reporters, and the Glee Club, who supplied the meeting with music, God Save the Queen was sung, and the meeting closed.

THE WESTWOOD MEETING.

There was a good attendance on Wednesday, especially in the afternoon. Mr. Birdsall presided. Mr. Yuill dealt with cattle breeding. He quoted the Jersey for butter, the Ayrshire as a family cow, and the Durham for beef. He had no place for the Holstein. The Guernsey was a good general purpose cow. Hon. Mr. Drury repeated his address on Underdraining given at the Keene meeting. Mr. Blezard, M.P.P., spoke of the benefits of Farmers' Institutes, and Mr. Mills, Hastings, spoke of the "Care of Milk."

At the evening session there was a crowded meeting. Mr. Birdsall recounted the work of the Central Farmers' Institute, and Hon. Mr. Drury spoke of the advantages of Canada as a home. Mr. Yuill repeated his humourous address on the training of farmers' children. Prof. Sickels dealt with "Canada." Miss Birdsall gave a recitation, Miss Tudhope a song and Miss Blezard a pianoforte solo, using a Nordheimer piano, supplied by Mr. T. Rush, agent.

THE NORWOOD GATHERING.

The morning session was of an informal character. The afternoon session was well attended. Mr. J. B. Ewing spoke on "Swine Raising." He preferred the Berkshire. He detailed her treatment before and after farrowing—warmth and succulent food. A good ration for six months' pigs was 2½ lbs peas, 1 lb. oats and skim milk. There was little danger of overdoing the hog breeding business. There was a good market in England.

Hon. Mr. Drury said Canadian hogs were preferred to American in England. He spoke on raising cattle for beef. He preferred the Shorthorn to any of the beefing breeds, Herefords or Polled Angus. Calves should come in the fall and neither they nor cattle should be allowed to run about. He fed his stock well until the third winter, when he fed turnips and hay freely. Afterwards he fed grain. He favoured putting cattle on the market in a finished condition. Mr. Yuill and Honey continued the subject. Mr. C. C. James, deputy minister of agriculture, spoke on the "soil of the farm." He showed the benefits of cultivation and drainage—the latter permitted the soil to absorb the fertilising rain water. Dairying and butter making should be carried on with a view of keeping up the fertility of the soil. Mr. Yuill treated sheep raising; there should be a few sheep on every farm. Breeds should be adapted to the soil, heavy breeds on heavy soils and vice versa. Ewes should be kept in good condition and lambs well cared for, sheep should have good shelter but not a warm barn. February and March lambs could be weaned in September. Sheep should have a shelter in hot weather. Tar mixed with salt would prevent the maggot fly getting past the tar on the sheep's nose.

At the evening session there was a full house, Mr. Reeve Finlay gave an address of welcome, and addresses were given by Messrs. C. C. James, T. Blezard, Mr. Geo. Carlow, Mr. Yuill and Mr. Snell. Miss Mahony and Mrs. Meikle contributed musical selections. The meeting closed with the national anthem.

ONEMEE.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Farmers are making the best of the good sleighing and roads before they break up.

A Farmers' Institute meeting here last Friday was very interesting, though but few were present.

A number of valuable dogs have been poisoned of late. The travelling Jew peddlers are suspected, complaining as they have done, of the difficulties in facing a cross dog.

Robt. Hall, barrister, was here a few days ago in the interests of the Peterborough Hotel Company. Mr. Cardwell, of Peterborough, is expected to open up this fine new hotel on or about the 15th. A real, sociable, hospitable event is in contemplation.

Rev. Mr. Campbell, of Lindsay, lectured to a large audience last Monday night. His subject was "The Three Toms,"—that is Tom Campbell, Tom Hood and Tom Moore. The Y.P.S.C.E. made quite a hit in securing such an able lecturer.

Our farmers are taking advantage of the good sleighing attending Peterborough markets. Many are seen every day going through the village, and returning home in good time, well pleased.

The great attraction of the season takes place here in Bradburn's opera house on Friday night, under the auspices of our cricket club. They have secured the "Bethany Amateurs" to give "Under the Gaslight." They have given it in Bethany twice this season for charitable purposes. There promises to be a large house. The Omemee orchestra will furnish suitable music. It is hoped to see representatives both from Lindsay and Peterborough.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

JAMES STEVENSON

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the bore" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.
HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion

On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontined, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

A Prominent Woodstock Citizen Dead.

Mr. E. A. Peck received a telegram yesterday from Woodstock announcing the death of his father-in-law, Mr. Robt. Revill, ex-mayor of that town. Mr. Revill was about 70 years of age, and a life-long resident of Woodstock. He was a barrister and one of that town's most prominent and influential citizens. A wife and family of eight children are left to mourn his loss. The late Mr. Revill married the only daughter of the late Rev. Mark Burnham; of Peterborough, and was a brother-in-law of Dr. Burnham and Mr. John Burnham, Q.C., M.P., Peterborough, and Mr. Z. Burnham, Otonabee.

An Important Business Change.

Mr. T. W. Robinson, after more than thirty years successful connection with the Metropolitan grocery business, Simcoe street, has disposed of the business to Mr. W. H. Hamilton, who for the last ten years has been head clerk in the establishment. Mr. Hamilton is a young man of energy and uprightness, and will no doubt conduct the business with a keen eye to the wants and demands of its numerous customers, at has been done in the past. Mr. Robinson, in retiring after so long a business career, can review his record with pride. He will devote his time more largely to his Northwest interests, and will visit his large farm near Moose Jaw about April first.

Obituary.

It is with deep regret the death is recorded of an esteemed and highly respected resident of Peterborough, Richard B. Martyn, who died at the family residence, 7 Romaine street, Thursday, March 2nd, 1893, of an illness with which he has been afflicted some time. The funeral which took place, Saturday, March 4th, was largely attended. He was a son of M. Martyn. They together for a number of years conducted a large and flourishing flour and feed business in the north of the town at what is still known as Martyn's Mills. He was always ready and willing to extend a helping hand to the poor and needy. His family have the sympathy of the community in the sad affliction that has removed a kind and loving husband and father.

THEY WON BY ONE.

The Prospects Were Never Bright but the Home Team Won all the Same—The Most Exciting Struggle Which Ever Took Place on Ice.

The Prospect Park curlers played the return match with the Peterborough club at the rink here yesterday, and once again the home stone throwers were victorious, although it was only by a single shot. When Peterborough played the Prospect Park's in Toronto some weeks ago they were defeated by 15 shots. The three rinks which played yesterday afternoon came out conquerors by three shots. The visitors led from the start-off, until nearly the close the Peterboroughs picked up and gradually forged ahead. The ice was in splendid condition, although some of the curlers complained that it drew badly. In the evening three more rinks of the Granites arrived, and in a three-rink fight last evening triumphed over the home tossers of the stane by two shots. Thus Peterborough was left conqueror by one shot only. The evening games were the most exciting ever played here, and the interest of the spectators knew no bonds. The result of the contest was in doubt until the last stone in the last end was thrown, so closely did the opposing sides press one another. Skip Ray finished 7 ahead of his opponents while Skip Fergueson fell 5 shots behind. This left the Peterboroughs 2 up on the two rinks. The last rink to finish was Skip Rutherford, who was wrestling valiantly against Skip Corcoran. At the 19th end Peterborough was only one shot behind, and the tension of feeling while the 20th end was being played was well nigh feverish. The visitors succeeded in getting a three head and coming out four shots to boot. This knocked off Peterborough's lead in the evening game, the home team finishing two behind.

RELIGION AND POLITICS.

Rev. Thos. Goldsmith Eloquently Establishes their Interdependence—His Excellent Lecture in St. Paul's Church.

Last night there was a good attendance at St. Paul's church to listen to a lecture delivered by Rev. Mr. Goldsmith on the subject of "Religion and Politics," under the auspices of the Y.P.S.C.E. of the church. Mr. W. H. Murray occupied the chair. After devotional exercises, the reverend gentleman entered upon his subject by referring to the popular idea of the oil and water incompatibility of religion and politics. Religion he defined as residing in the passive instincts of our nature, in which sense all men were religious in endless variety, according to the object of worship. The character of a people was determined by that of their object of worship. Politics was defined as the application of ethical principles to the government of a people, and in these definitions consisted the intimate relations between religion and politics. The connection was inevitable, for politics was the expression of the character of the man, and government was but the CRYSTALLIZED SENTIMENT OF THE BODY POLITIC.

Our statute books expressed the average national character and parliamentary representatives represented the moral character of their constituents. The responsibility of the masses lay in their endorsing the character of the men they elected; this was, however, modified by the heat of passain in election contests insensibly influencing action. The politician was a man we could not safely measure owing to the circumstances of his environments and his condition while he was alive. It was only when he was dead that a correct estimate could be formed of his political character. Politicians were dangerous while they lived and opponents were afraid to concede a single virtue. He gave instances such as Wilberforce to show how grand was the character of a politician whose life was based on the Christian religion. Politicians must expect misrepresentation, but what was in him must come out. A man's political life would be as good as his religious life and no better. The speaker condemned the saying, "all is fair in politics"—falsehood was falsehood. A politician without good principles as the foundation of his character, could only express this condition in his actions—no character was better than a single transaction showed. A pure stream required a pure fountain—pure politics demanded pure politicians, and pure politicians meant a pure electorate. The speaker demonstrated the necessity of party government, and the intensitity of party feeling would be in proportion to the honesty of partizans striving for what they believed right. He had no confidence in the loyalty of a party only while it enjoyed office and bolted when the opposition replaced them. The speaker defined the Canadian people as "a rope of sand"—the diverse nationalities it contained, with their prejudices, etc., were hostile to homogeniety of sentiment. The correction of this was the training of the child by the mother, the influence of Christian homes, and the welding influences of our schools — the best system in the world, and finally, and greatest, the moulding power of the church in which the Y. P. S. C. E. was so important and element in the development of national character. Thus we saw that religion is morality in principle and morality, religion in practice. The unfavourable influences were the drinking saloon, the brothel, the gambling hell, etc. Society must be governed either by police force or moral principle. Politics and religion could not be seperated. Religion was the fountain and politics the stream. No man was better as a politician than as a Christian. There was only one code of morals. At the close of the speaker's eloquent address, richly illustrated by anecdotes and examples, a cordial vote of thanks, moved by Mr. J. W. Bennett and seconded by Mr. A. J. Johnston, was tendered him.

The meeting closed with the singing of "God Save the Queen."

THE DEAD BODY OF A CHILD

Found Lying under the Bethune Street Bridge—An Inquest in Progress.

Yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock as Mr. Donnelly, a section foreman on the Midland, and several sectionmen, were cutting a trench and digging the snow from under the Bethune street railway bridge, in order to avoid the annual spring freshet, at this point they discovered a horrible sight. It was that of the dead body of a child wrapped up in an old black shawl. The mysterious parcel was lying on the ice and snow on the east side of the bridge, only a short distance from the Rathbun Company's store house. Only a small hand of the baby which was a male and probably not twenty-four hours old was exposed, a dog having evidently been disturbing the parcel. Mr. Donnelly at once communicated with Chief Rossel regarding the infant, and he in turn notified Mr. Undertaker Belleghem, to whose establishment the remains were at once removed.. The body of the child would probably weigh eleven pounds and it bore evident signs that it had been thrown off the bridge when alive and left alone to die. The cruel act could not have been committed long—probably only the night previously—for the child would have soon been discovered and there was no snow or wet upon the parcel. Coroner Dr. Bell is holding an inquest into the cause of the child's death at the police court room this afternoon. There is no clue to the perpetrator of the awful deed.

A coroner's jury was empanelled, Mr. F. W. Millar being elected foreman. The remains were viewed and the evidence of Messrs. Geo. Clarke and John Donnelly and Dr. King taken, which was unimportant. The jury then adjourned for a week in order that Dr. King might perform a post mortem examination upon the body.

BELLE BOTSFORD'S CONCERT.

A Rousing Welcome to Ottawa Last Evening, at Peterborough This Evening.

The Ottawa Citizen of Tuesday says of Belle Botsford Company which appears at the Opera House here this evening:—

"There was an appreciative and enthusiastic audience at the Opera House last evening. Scarcely a number passed without an encore, and the artists were most obliging in their responses. Miss Belle Botsford, vollinst, played with great delicacy, and yet with a firm bold technique, arousing the sympathies of the audience from the outset. Her selections were from such violin masters as Sarasate and Wieniawski, and while being sufficiently difficult to show a wonderful mastery of her instrument, were not above popular appreciation. Foremost among her supporters was Miss Corea, a singer with a bright fresh young voice, well trained and of good capacity. Miss Bullock, violoncellist, played well and gave much satisfaction, as did also Mr. Pick, pianist and accompanist. It remains to mention Mr. Lythgoe, a stirring baritone, who has evidently studied well, sings forcibly yet fluently, and has a pleasing manner.

The talented violinist, Miss Belle Botsford, it will be remembered, visited Ottawa with the Lotus Glee Club of Boston, and materially helped to swell the Sharp shooters fund a couple of years ago. At Opera House here to-night. 1d56

WHICH IS IT?

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Mayor Kendry at the council on Monday evening, during the discussion on the street railway franchise, stated that he had been informed by Mr. Stevenson that Mr. Nicholls, of the Canadian General Electric Company, had told him that his Company did not want the street railway franchise.

Mr. Stevenson informed two members of the Peterborough and Ashburnham syndicate yesterday that he never said anything of the kind. The public would like to know who was telling the truth.

Yours inquiringly,

THE STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—In the communication of "Civis" in your last evening's issue I could discern considerable "power" but not much "light" on the subject. Is the attack on the Mayor and Councillor Mulhern made through fear that the Peterborough Milling Company may be asked to furnish power for Mr. Soper's company, and that the Light and Power Company may be passed over? We well know that some gentlemen in the council are interested in the latter company, and still I, for one, would not wish to accuse them of sinister motives. I say all honour to Messrs. Kendry and Mulhern, and other councillors, who are heartily sick of being humbugged by the Edison Company and other local gentlemen any longer, for it is quite evident that they never intended to build the road; there is too much dog-in-the-manger business about their actions. By all means let Mr. Soper, or any other gentleman, build the road, who will undertake to build it soon, and well, and if the Peterborough Milling Company can secure the contract for furnishing power, well and good, by all means let them have it.

I should judge from his letter that "Civis" has an axe to grind, for it is an old saying, "beware of the man who is always looking for wrong motives in others."

A serious accident occurred at the Eagle Mount quarry on Monday. It appears that a workman by the name of Hughes, having put a charge of powder into the rock and after waiting for some time and thinking it was not going to go, went up to examine it, when it went off, throwing the unfortunate man several feet into the air. He sustained serious injuries, which, though not fatal, will disfigure him for life. Dr. Couch was summoned, and up to date the sufferer is progressing as well as could be expected.

"When I was 4 or 5 years old I had a scrofulous sore on the middle finger of my left hand, which got so bad that the doctors cut the finger off, and later took off more than half my hand. THE IRISH CHARACTER

Graphically Delineated by Rev. Father Collins at the Catholic Association Rooms.

The rooms of the Catholic Association were crowded to the doors last night to listen to the eloquent lecture by Rev. Father Collins on "The Irish Character." Mr. Wm. Brick occupied the chair and the programme was opened with a chorus by the Glee Club. This was followed by a well rendered piano solo by Miss Harry. Mr. Burke followed with a vocal solo in good voice. Miss Dowling then favoured the audience with a recitation, rendered with great histronic power and was enthusiastically encored. Mr. H. O'Neil brought down the house with his singing. He appeared twice on the programme and each time was encored. Miss M. Riley followed with a vocal solo in which she did herself credit. Miss K. Dunn also delighted the audience with a vocal solo, rendered with great taste and expression. The song and dance of Mr. H. Kearney created a favourable impression and was encored. The accompanists of the evening were Misses K. Hurley, M. McCabe and K. Cavanagh.

The treat of the evening was, of course, the lecture by Rev. Father Collins. The reverend speaker dealt with the subject—"The Irish Character", from a religious, intellectual and social standpoint. He prefaced his remarks by referring to the splendid work being done by the Catholic Association of this town, and expressed the wish that it would still go on in its good work of improving the young men both socially, intellectually and physically. The reverend speaker referred to the early history of the Irish people—when St. Patrick spread the light of faith throughout the land, which, in spite of the oppression of centuries, still burned brightly. He also spoke of the love and respect the Irish had for their "soggarth aroon," who was always with the people in their hour of trial. In touching upon the intellectual side of the question, the speaker stated that Ireland was the seat of learning in early days—when students flocked to her schools and colleges. He referred to Ireland's grand galaxy of orators and statesman—O'Connell, Shiel, Burke, Sheridan, Father Burke and others—men whose names would always live in the hearts of the Irish people. He also related anecdotes to illustrate the wit and humour of the Irish. The social side of the question was also touched upon and the speaker defended the Emerald Isle against the slander and insults of her enemies, and pointed out how the Irish had successfully coped with other races in the different professions and walks of life. He closed his address with an eloquent plea for patience among the Irish and the chain of oppression which has encircled the Green Isle for centuries would soon be cast off. The lecture was a masterly effort and the reverend gentleman vindicated the high tone of the Irish people and the many lovable traits of their character with eloquence and effect.

At the conclusion of his lecture which was deservedly applauded by the audience, Mr. J. J. Sheehy in a few well chosen words moved a vote of thanks to the lecturer, which was seconded by Mr. M. H. LeHane, and carried unanimously.

A well rendered number by the Harmony Quartette brought the programme to a close.

Next Tuesday evening a debate on the subject, resolved, "That Daniel O'Connel is Ireland's Greatest Man," will take place. A musical programme will also be presented.

A NIGHT WITH THE TRUSTEES

THE BUSINESS DONE AT LAST NIGHT'S BOARD MEETING.

A Discussion on the Property Committee's Report—Mr. Dumble Moved an Amendment—The High School Inspector's Excellent Report—School Inspector Garvin — Miscellaneous Business.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Education held last evening the following members were present:—Dr. Burnham, (chairman), and Messrs. Wrighton, Dr. Boucher, Hill, Corkery, McKee, Hamilton, Hartley, Dennie, Dumble and Edgecombe.

After routine the following communications and accounts were presented:—

OUR EXCELLENT COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

The annual report of Mr. J. E. Hodgson, High School Inspector, who recently visited the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, was read:

ACCOMMODATIONS—Water closets, water supply, class rooms, halls, waiting rooms, cap rooms, teachers private rooms, desks, blackboards, lighting, heating and ventilation were ranked I, school grounds III and school buildings II.

EQUIPMENT—Present value of library, $700; apparatus, $750; maps and globes, $125; gymnasium, $300; equipment, $125. The report further showed that the full course of subjects taught is provided for, writing, reading, drill, calisthenics, etc., in accordance with the requirements of the regulations. The time table is excellently arranged. Division of duties among the the teachers satisfactory. Ratio of pupils to teachers satisfactory. Character of the teaching, English, drawing, classics, mathematics, French and German, reading, science, commercial, drill, calisthenics and gymnastics. Staff legally qualified discipline, excellent attendance, all the pupils have been regularly admitted, text books in accordance with the regulations. The report concludes as follows:—I have to say of this institution that it is in excellent condition, the work in all the departments being of a high order. Though the equipment is quite up to the monetary requirements of the regulations it is desirable, I think, that two or three additional compound microscopes be provided for the advanced classes in science.

Dr. Boucher could not understand that the school building in the High School Inspector's report could be classed as No. 2. Our building was fully up to the requirements. He moved that the secretary write to the educational department and find out why we should be so classed.

Mr. Fessenden stated that the class II referred to the exterior appearance only. All the inside accommodations were classed as No. 1.

Dr. Boucher could not understand why the appearance of the building externally had anything to do with the classification. He did not think the explanation given by Mr. Fessenden was sufficient. They had been harped at by the government for years and now they had done everything in their power to make it No. 1.

Mr. Dumble thought that in addition to Mr. Boucher's motion the inspector should suggest where they fell short of No. 1 in appearance and how they could bring the school up to that standing in classification, otherwise the report was highly gratifying.

The matter was left to the Secretary to write the inspector re the matter.

The members generally expressed much pleasure at the highly satisfactory nature of the report.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were read:

From S. P. May, director of Experimental exhibits, stating that it was intended to exhibit a collection of photographs of the principal school buildings of the province at the Columbian Exposition, and asking how many views exterior and interior of certain sizes may be got ready, the photographs to be delivered at the [illegible] not later than the 20th March.

From the EXAMINER Printing Company with reference to the supply of stationery.—Received.

The Principal's report of the attendance at the Collegiate Institute for the month of February gave 211 on the roll with 202 average attendance.

From A. Sperry, janitor, North Ward School, asking for an increase of salary.—Received and Referred to Committee on Appointments.

THE INSPECTOR'S REPORT

was presented as follows:

To the Chairman and Board:

Gentlemen,—The number of pupils enrolled in the public schools during the month of February was 1,401 and the average attendance 1,188 or 84 4/5 per cent. This is an increase over the number for January of 32 enrolled and 45 average attendance, and over the number for January, 1892, of 65 enrolled and an average of 108. The average attendance of the fourth classes was 90 4/5 per cent., for the third classes 88-2 5 per cent., for the second classes 90-4.5 per cent., and for the first class 80 per cent. 504 pupils attended every school day in the month, and 176 attended less than 14 days. In nearly every case the non-attendance was due to illness. The aggregate attendance for the month was 23,764. Not including the Kindergarten, the average number of pupils enrolled for each of the 25 divisions, is 54.

On roll at Central school, 622 names, average 520, or 84.5 per cent.

Rubidge street, 381 names on roll, 319 average, or 83.7 per cent.

Park street, 244 names, average 206, or 84.5 per cent.

Barnardo avenue, 154 names, average 136, or 88.3 per cent.

The average number enrolled for each division of Rubidge street school, 63; Central school, 52; Park street school, 61; Barnardo avenue, 30.

This table shows clearly that the South and West Ward Schools are overcrowded. As for the former the G.T.R. railway and Charlotte street being the east and north boundaries it is impossible to relieve the congestion therein unless an addition is built thereto or other accommodation provided. The latter could be somewhat relieved by making the northern boundary line Edinborough street instead of Antrim as at present, Park street school with the same number of rooms should not have 90 pupils more than Barnardo Avenue school. It seems to me likely that more school accommodation will be needed in the south ward immediately after the Easter holidays. The number in the lowest division is already 104, and this number will soon be no doubt considerably augmented. The ½ day system has been established in the Junior Part I classes of three of the schools.

Respectfully submitted.

J. W. GARVIN,
Inspector.

The report was received.

THE FINANCE REPORT.

Mr. Hill presented the report of the Finance Committee as follows:

To the Chairman and Board:—

GENTLEMEN,—Your Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:—

Tenders were received for furnishing the money required for one year from 1st of March, and awarded to the Ontario Bank at a rate of 5% by way of overdraft draft account. No interest to be charged from 1st of January to 1st of March for the present year on overdrawn account. Your committee recommend that $6.51 of A. Hall's account be charged to Mr. Tighe as he had no authority for ordering the same.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. G. FERGUSON,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

COMMITTEES ON SUPPLIES.

To the Chairman of the Board:

GENTLEMEN,—Your committee would recommend that the tender of H. Thompson & Co., for the supply of stationery and that Mr. A. S. MacDonald's for chemicals for the year ending March 1st, '94, be accepted, they being the lowest tender received.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. MCKEE,
Chairman.

P. S.—Mr. Thompson agreed to furnish all foolscap paper required over 75 reams at $1.00 instead of $1.25 per ream.

After a general discussion by the Board as to whether the committee had requested all the town stationers to tender and as to the course pursued by the committee, the report was adopted.

THE PROPERTY REPORT.

Mr. Hamilton then read the following report:

To the Chairman and Board:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Property Committee beg leave to report and recommend that an addition of four rooms be made to the east side of the present building, and that a new roof be put on, and the building heated throughout with the Smead-Dowd system.

Your committee after carefully considering the overcrowded state of the schools—especially in the South Ward—would recommend that a four-room school be built in that ward as soon as possible.

As instructed, your committee advertised for plans for a four-roomed school, and an addition of four rooms to the present Central school building, and we now submit them to the Board for their consideration.

Your committee have purchased the necessary desks and clocks for the different rooms.

All of the wood purchased on contracts has been delivered at the several schools.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

J. J. MCBAIN,
Chairman.

In support of the motion to adopt the committee's report Messrs. Hartley and Hamilton argued that certain rooms in the Central school were entirely unfit for the accommodation of children; that the ventilation throughout the building was so bad that the health of both teachers and pupils was endangered; that as the old building had to be renovated it was advisable to take the present basement for a new heating and ventilating apparatus and to build a four-room addition on the east side for the accommodation of the children who would otherwise have to be driven to the ward schools against the wishes of their parents. As for the south ward, more school room had to be furnished as soon as possible. There were already on an average 63 pupils to a room and the lowest division had 104. Those rooms could not be relieved unless other school rooms were provided. The Property Committee were of the opinion that a new four-room school should be built farther south. The town was growing rapidly, and it behooved the board to be abreast of the increase in population.

Mr. Dumble strongly opposed the report. He argued that the lighting of the present rooms on the east side of the central school would be greatly impaired if four new rooms were built on the east side; that a cheap ventilating apparatus might be put in combined with our present heating boiler and pipes; that if we built at all it would be better to build a new four-room building at the back of the lot and still have the present basement rooms in cases of emergency. As for the south ward, he thought that one or more rooms could be hired for this year. As the town was $9,000 in debt he did not favour building this season at all. In view of the town's present financial condition he was not prepared to support the report and moved this amendment.

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Wrighton, that inasmuch as the addition of four rooms to the Central School will close all the east windows of the six rooms now used and will result in making accommodation for only one hundred additional pupils in two new rooms—two rooms of the present building now used, though not very desirable, being thereby rendered wholly unfit for use, and inasmuch as a new four room building can be built as cheaply as by making a four room addition it is not expedient to make such addition and inasmuch as two rooms may be rented in the south ward at a small cost it is not desirable in view of the present financial position of the town, to build a new school in the south ward at present.

The vote on the amendment was then taken and the yeas and nays demanded.

Yeas—Messrs. Dumble, Wrighton, Boucher and Dennie.

Nays—Messrs. Hill, McKee, Edgecombe, Hamilton and Hartley.

The report was adopted.

Moved by Mr. Hill, seconded by Dr. Boucher, that the plans be referred to the Property Committee, and that estimates be obtained of probable cost of change suggested in the report adopted, and that the committee report at next regular meeting of the board.—Carried.

The payment of the following accounts for wood was confirmed:—

W Hoolin	$ 19 25
Ed Mahood	113 80
W H Down	21 00
Jos. Bullock	53 20

The meeting then adjourned.

A FOOT-HOLD for Consumption is what you are offering, if your blood is impure. Consumption is simply Lung Scrofula. A scrofulous condition, with a slight cough or cold, is all that it needs to develop it.

But just as it depends upon the blood for its origin, so it depends upon the blood for its cure. The surest remedy for Scrofula in every form, the most effective blood-cleanser, flesh-builder, and strength-restorer that's known to medical science, is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For Consumption in all its earlier stages, and for Weak Lungs, Asthma, Severe Coughs, and all Bronchial, Throat and Lung affections, that is the only remedy so unfailing that it can be guaranteed. If it doesn't benefit or cure, you have your money back.

For a perfect and permanent cure of Catarrh, take Doctor Sage's Catarrh Remedy. Its proprietors offer $500 reward for an incurable case of Catarrh in the Head.

Costs only 50 cents.

A HAMILTON SENATOR

Takes a Drive With Three Horses Abreast in Russian Gold-Mounted Harness.

HAMILTON, March 7.—Senator Sanford returned to Hamilton on Saturday for a brief holiday from his duties at Ottawa, for which place he left again last evening. Yesterday he was seen on the streets driving in a fashion not usual in this city, but which is quite the ordinary thing in Russia, where the Senator learnt it.

Four years ago, while on his visit to that country, he was much taken with the manner in which the Russians drive with three horses abreast, and he purchased a set of gold-mounted harness and trappings such as they use, and brought them back with him to Canada. Ever since the outfit has remained unused and almost forgotten in his stable, but this morning he had it taken out and placed on three of his finest carriage horses to make a trial of it.

As is the custom in Russia, the centre horse was the tallest of the three, the others being equally matched as to size. Although unaccustomed to the novel harness the animals behaved well, and their driver found little difficulty in managing them. The senator is well pleased with the result of his experiment, and it is probable he will repeat it frequently.

A CHURCH ROW.

Satolli's Orders Defied by a Deposed Priest.

SWEDESBORO, N. J., March 7.—Rev. William Treacey and his brother, the deposed priest, yesterday created a scene in church when Rev. Father Leahy, who was sent here by Bishop O'Farrell to take charge of the parish, attempted to read the bishop's letter to the parishioners.

Rev. William Treacey strode dramatically up to the altar and loudly commanded Father Leahy not to read the letter. The priest was accompanied by Deputy-Sheriff Garrison and Constable Taylor, who were ordered to arrest Father Leahy if the latter persisted in reading the letter. There was instant excitement in the church and a serious outbreak was imminent. Father Leahy saw that the priests and officers were in earnest and quietly withdrew.

The Treaceys are in possession of the rectory and openly defy the authority of Mgr. Satolli and Bishop O'Farrell.

Legal means will be taken by Father Leahy to secure possession of the rectory.

The first practical move toward carrying out this immense project will be started on March 20 at a meeting to be held in the Chamber of Commerce rooms in Pittsburg. The enterprise will involve the expenditure of $27,000,000.

ST. THOMAS, Ont., March 7.—William Smith, a G.T.R. foreman of Windsor, slipped while applying a brake on his engine while crossing a bridge six miles east of this city yesterday. He fell 20 feet to the bottom of the stream and received internal injuries. He is now in the hospital here.

Smash-Up at Kingston.

KINGSTON, March 7.—The up Empire State express, at about 11.15 yesterday ran into a gravel train at Tivate, and the locomotive and tender of the express were wrecked and a flat car on the gravel train was smashed. An Italian on the gravel train was killed.

The signal was up on the signal station as the express came around a long curve and the engineer quickly reversed the engine and put on brakes, thus stopping the force of the collision which followed. The engineer and fireman jumped and escaped unhurt. Beyond a bad shaking the passengers were uninjured. The tracks were soon cleared and the trains are now running as usual.

ELEGANT.

An Opera Cloak to Which This Term Applies.

This lace wrap is made of cream colored bengaline or cloth and is lined with changeable silk or pink taffeta. It has no seams on the shoulders, but falls quite straight from the collar downward. The shoulder cape or collar is very wide. The seam at the neck is hidden by large bows of cream-colored ribbon which form long loops in front. Instead of using ermine as pictured in the illustration, any other kind of fur can be used for the collar, but Chinese goatskin looks very well and has a good effect.

I saw such a dear gown of black-dotted white net. The skirt was full and short; just to show the pretty shoes. Under the net was a soft old-fashioned sort of silk. The sleeves were puffed very big, and finished off with a band of black feather trimming. Two rows of this marabout outlined the round cut neck. A part little plume stood up on each shoulder. The ruffle at the foot of the skirt was headed by marabout, with a plume every now and then to lend distinction. The short round waist was made by a bodice belt of narrow black velvet passed three times about the figure the top band being as high on one side as under the arm. On the other side all three bands were brought together by a rosette of velvet. Of course the girl was a brunette, and a little black perky tip nodded in her dusky hair. I should add that the spots of black in the net were velvet, so the crispness of the gown suggested newness, and no possibility of anything like wash tub renovation.

Now that purple is adopted we are becoming aware of different tones in the color. The purple in which the blue dominates is apt to be hard and trying. The color resulting from an even blending of the red and blue is, indeed, a royal purple, and that where the red dominates is warm and beautiful. It blends with many colors well and suits many complexions. This tone of purple is destined to be the most liked shade of the already popular color. Its distinctive name is "Dahlia."

FLORETTE.

What the Man in the Moon Sees.

"If you could stand on the moon," says an astronomer, "the earth would appear to you to be sixty-four times larger than the sun appears to the residents of this mundane sphere; this because the earth has eight times the diameter of the moon, therefore she must necessarily show the moonites sixty-four times as much surface as the moon shows us. The sun, on the other hand, would appear no larger to you from your observatory on the moon than it does from our globe. The earth's atmosphere being blue, it has been decided that the earth must appear as a blue ball to all outside onlookers. What a glorious sight it must be to our lunarian neighbors to look upon a bright blue, swift-revolving ball sixty-four times larger than the sun."

A Bright Greeting.

For years a stork and his mate regularly built their nest in the park at Schloss Ruhleben, near Berlin. The owner of the castle desiring to ascertain whether the same stork always returned there, ordered that a steel ring, upon which was engraved the name of the place and the date 1890, should be fastened around the bird's leg. Last spring the stork came back as usual to the park; and upon his other leg was a ring of silver, bearing the inscription, "India sends Germany her greeting."

Increase Your Weight.

If you are losing flesh and blood, commence at once taking Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which is far ahead of all other preparations of the kind in existence. By taking Miller's Emulsion people gain from 5 to 10 lbs. by the time the first bottle is consumed. It is the greatest blessing of the century to all in delicate health, or who suffer with coughs, colds and ailments that tend to consumption. Remember, Miller's Emulsion contains all the constituents found in wheat. It is used in the hospitals and asylums of the country. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all Drug Stores.

Any druggist will give you a trial bottle FREE OF COST. It is guaranteed to relieve and cure. The large bottles are 50c. and $1.

From the Far North.

In northern climates people are very subject to colds, but the natural remedy is also produced in the same climate. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchits and all throat and lung troubles. Price 25c. and 50c.

ALL ABOUT CUTWORMS.

Description of the Pest, Its Habits, and How to Exterminate It.

The term cutworm is very loosely used, being often applied to the larvæ of the June bug, which eat grass roots, to the wire worms, the larvæ of the snapping beetles, and even to the borers that eat channels in woody plants. The term cutworm is principally confined by entomologists to larvæ of the owlet moths (Noctuidæ), that have the habit of hiding just under the surface of the ground during the day and feeding upon the roots, stems or leaves of plants by night. When the larvæ climb high and feed upon the foliage of tall plants or trees, they are called climbing cutworms.

The cutworms may be known by the following general characters: The moths known as dart moths or owlet moths are deltoid or triangular in shape when the wings are closed, and usually fly at night, and often enter rooms, being attracted by the light. The worms when full grown measure from one to two inches in length, have sixteen legs, thick bodies which taper somewhat at the ends, without hairs and greasy looking, brown gray or greenish with indistinct longitudinal or oblique markings; head, long, shining red or brown, head and anal segments armed above with a horny plate, darker than the remainder of the body. On each segment are six or eight dark colored humps, each bearing a hair. When disturbed the worms curl themselves into a ring. There are upwards of three hundred species; one of the most common and destructive is the greasy, or black cutworm.

The larva (Fig. 1) or worm, when full grown is about an inch and a half long, a dull red brown color, with five paler stripes running along the body, the under side of the body being pale greenish yellow.

The moth (Fig. 2.) has dark forewings with a bluish tinge on the front border and with a dark-brown lance-shaped mark running from the posterior portion of the kidney-shaped spot in the middle of the wing. Hindwings pearly white and semi-transparent. There are two broods and the moths are on the wing from April to October.

The natural enemies of cutworms are various species of parasitic and predaceous insects, birds like the robin, blackbird, catbird and poultry, and animals like the skunk and mole.

Among artificial remedies we name preventive measures, a handful of salt on the surface of the plant hill, tobacco dust about the stem of plant, paper, burdock or walnut leaves wrapped around the stem of the plant, paper or tin tubes slit at one side slipped over the stem, or dusting dry powder like hellebore, air-slaked lime, ashes and pyrethrum about the stems and on the foliage of plants.

Among destructive measures we name early fall plowing which covers up the feed of the young worms and leaves them to starve, late fall and winter plowing which exposes them in their winter quarters to perish, dipping plants to be set in a solution of hellebore (one pound to ten gallons of water), or paris green (one ounce to eight gallons of water), digging out worms by hand where plants have been cut by them.

An effective method of saving a crop from their ravages is by poisoning them before the plants are set or a crop like corn comes up. To do this, grass, clover, cabbage or turnip leaves are dipped in paris-green water and scattered in small handfuls over the garden or field. A stone or piece of wood laid on it will keep the poisoned trap from drying out or blowing away. The green stuff may be moistened and poisoned plaster or flour dusted over it. Of course, poultry and animals that will be injured by eating the poisoned greens must be kept out of the field.

Kerosene emulsion has been successfully tried at the department of agriculture, Washington, D.C., for destroying root-eating grubs in grass grounds, and would, without doubt, prove as effectual in killing cutworms under similar circumstances. The places affected were thoroughly drenched with an emulsion of kerosene in the proportion of one to sixteen, and the ground then well watered. When this emulsion was used the grubs immediately ceased their depredations, penetrated further into the ground and not a live one was afterward found. For this emulsion dissolve a quarter pound hard soap in two quarts boiling water. Add one pint of kerosene and churn violently until the emulsion "comes." Add to this two gallons of water. Before sprinkling the soil dilute as above.

For cuts and many of the facts herein given we are indebted to a bulletin of the Maine state experiment station and the Farm Journal.

Mr. Hugh Caldwell, Clydesdale, Ont., writes:—"My daughter was troubled with female weakness and for more than a year was under the care of doctors and taking medicine without getting relief. I then got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and they have completely cured her. All dealers or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

For Sprains, and Bruises.
No other remedy cures sprains, bruises, cuts, wounds, chilblains, sore throat, rheumatism, etc., so promptly as Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It is an old standard remedy that has given perfect satisfaction for 30 years.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.
The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1.

Ask your neighbors if they use Dodds Kidney Pills? They strengthen the nerves, tone the system, and the most stubborn cases of kidney disease yield to their influence. They are especially appreciated by the old. Ask your neighbors about them.

Some symptoms of worms are:—fever colic, variable appetite, restlessness, weakness and convulsions. The unfailing remedy is Dr. Lowe's Worm Syrup.

decided by the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council to be intra vires of the Provincial Legislature, cannot be interfered with without a breach of the constitution and a gross interference with provincial rights. Another class care apparently little whether provincial rights are interferred with or not, but they approve of the system of national and are opposed to the system of separate schools, and do not desire to see the national schools now established in Manitoba interfered with in any way.

I may say there is perhaps a third class, composed of men like myself, who are opposed to interference on both grounds, and for myself I can only say that so strongly do I feel on this question that I am ready to oppose to the best of my ability any attempt to interfere with the Manitoba School Act, or legislation from any other province, and, if necessary, strong party man as I am, I am ready to carry my opposition so far, if necessary, for the time being, as to throw party ties to the winds and vote a want of confidence in the government I am elected to support and of whose general policy I most heartily approve.

I do not know that there is very much more for me to say after the very able speech from the head of the Government, and which, I think, effectually disposed of the claim of the honorable member for L'Islet (Mr. Tarte), that the Government is attempting to shirk its responsibility to the House and country by claiming to exercise purely judicial functions.

I think the First Minister's explanation on that point is clear and decided, and there are few men in this House or country who after hearing or reading that speech will not understand perfectly the position the Government have taken and feel it is one which is justified by the circumstances. We know that the Government cannot shirk the responsibility as adviser of His Excellency the Governor-General, which they are bound to shoulder.

In this case, however, there is no attempt to do anything of that kind. In this case there are legal points to be tested, points as to what rights the Roman Catholics of Manitoba have under the Manitoba Act and the ninety-third section of the British North America Act. It has to be decided whether, under the Manitoba Act, there is a right of appeal to the Governor-General in council from remedial legislation. It has also to be decided whether Manitoba can in any way take advantage of the British North America Act, or whether the provisions relating to educational matters in the Manitoba Act, cut that province from the older act by which the other provinces are governed.

That is a question which has to be decided, and I am certain, after having heard the First Minister, that no responsible man can fail to feel, whatever his opinion may be as to the right or wrong of the Manitoba School Act, that the Government have acted in an impartial manner in referring this matter to the courts. I am sorry that, as I sympathize with my hon. friend from L'Islet (Mr. Tarte) to a certain extent, I cannot vote for his amendment. But I do not wish him to be much disappointed at that.

I hope he will keep up his courage and try again, and I can promise him now that if it is desired that the Roman Catholic minority in the Province of Manitoba have the right to appeal to the Governor-in-Council for remedial legislation, and if the Governor-in-Council decides to grant that remedial legislation, if he, the hon. member for L'Islet, will then move a vote of censure upon the Government, I will be very glad to second it.

A Liberal caucus was held this morning at which it is said there was a good deal of difference of opinion as to supporting Mr. Tarte's amendment, and it was finally determined to allow each member to vote as he pleased, but it is pretty certain that the great majority if not the whole of the Opposition will vote with Mr. Tarte.

As to Mr. McCarthy's tariff resolution it is understood that it was agreed to support it solidly. It is also said that it was agreed not to unnecessarily prolong the session, but to get through as soon as possible.

One of the features of the last two sessions has been the annual dinner in the Senate restaurant given by Chief McLennan to his faithful clan. The third of these pleasant reunions took place this evening and was one of the most thoroughly enjoyable entertainments ever held in the precincts of the House. The following gentlemen were present:

Sir John Thompson, Hon. Messrs. Carling, Haggart, Patterson, Ouimet, Smith, McMillan, Ogilvie, Wood and Curran, Messrs. MacIntosh, Metcalfe, McKay, Ingram, Ross, Reid, Rosamond, Bergin, Tisdale, Coatsworth, Carscallen, Northrup, Montague, Cameron, Gillies, Masson, Cochrane, Hughes, Corby, Moncrief, Bennett, Sproule, Cleveland, Davin and Mara, M.P.; Premier Haultain, N.W.T.; Colonel MacDonald, Colonel MacPherson and Messrs. H. Tiffany, S. P. Lomax, D. MacMaster, Q.C.; Fred. Cook, J. A. Phillips and George MacDonnell (of Cornwall).

Mr. Wainwright, assistant general manager of the Grand Trunk, is here in connection with the Grand Trunk Amalgamation Bill, which comes up before the Railway Committee to-morrow morning.

The Trouble in Brazil.

VALPARAISO, March 8.—The Government of Brazil has seized six cars of arms destined for the revolters who are besieging Santa Ana. The cargo of the schooner Carmelita has also fallen into the hands of the Government troops. Defenders of the city of Santa Ana still hold out, awaiting relief from Porto Alegre, which has reached there from Rio Janeiro.

TWO THIEVING INDIANS

TRY TO MURDER A FARM INSTRUCTOR AT MACLEOD.

He Dodges a Bullet and Loses a Finger—Knifed Below the Eye While Pulling His Revolver—The Indians Routed—Always Considered a Hard Fighter.

WINNIPEG, March 8—A Macleod, N.W.T., special says: Last night H. H. Nash, farm instructor, Piegan reserve, 15 miles west from Macleod, heard a disturbance among the horses. He went out to investigate and saw two Indians, who walked up to him and when within arm's length one pointed a revolver at Nash and fired.

Nash threw up his arms and dodged his head to one side in time to escape the bullet aimed at his head, but he lost the middle finger of his right had. Nash then reached for his revolver. While drawing it the other Indian sprang at him with a knife, giving him a severe slash below the eye.

Nash then fired at both Indians, who fled. It is not known whether the Indians are hit.

Thirty police left for the scene of the disturbance this morning to investigate and make arrests. The trouble arose over some ration stealing.

ESCAPED WITH HIS LIFE.

While His Wife and Servants Were Riddled With Bullets.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The Herald's Kingston, Jamaica correspondent telegraphs as follows: Confirmation of the report that the troubles of President Heureaux of Santo Domingo, were increasing was brought here by Dr. Theick, a prominent man in that Republic, who managed to escape while the soldiers who had been sent to surround his house and arrest him were slaying his wife and servants. The story brought by Dr. Theick has been that President Heureaux has been uneasy ever since the discovery of the plot to overthrow him, and has regarded with suspicion all of the reputed friends of Marchena.

A few days ago President Heureaux discovered what he announced was a conspiracy against him, with which many leading men of the Dominican Capital were alleged to be connected. President Heureaux ordered that all the leaders of the conspiracy be arrested and shot.

Soldiers were sent to surround the residences of all the suspected persons. Dr. Theick's house was one of the first visited.

When the soldiers appeared he knew their visit meant death to himself, and he hastened preparations to escape. The soldiers opened fire and riddled Mrs. Theick and the servants with bullets. The doctor leaped from a window, mounted a horse and fled. He made his way to cape Hayti, and from there sailed to Kingston, reaching here in safety. His own departure was so hurried that he did not learn the fate of the other men whom Heureaux had sentenced to death.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

LAURIER SPEAKS FOR THE MANITOBA MINORITY.

He Pitches Into the Government on the Separate School Question—Sir John Thompson Given a Reception by His Colleagues Previous to His Departure.

OTTAWA, March 8.—The afternoon session of the House was taken up by Messrs. Amyot and Weldon in continuing the debate on the Manitoba school question.

After recess Mr. Casey spoke for about an hour. At 8.15 Hon. Mr. Laurier rose, amid considerable applause. He denied that Mr. McCarthy had anything to do with framing Mr. Tarte's amendment. With reference to the change of negotiations between Mr. Chapleau and Archbishop Taché, he said that of course Mr. Chapleau was not appointed under the great seal to negotiate with the Archbishop, but it was certain that he had several interviews with the Archbishop, which were all reported to the Premier.

Dealing with the assertion that the Manitoba Government would bow to the judgment of the Supreme Court, he said that did not cover the whole case, because it was based on the idea that the Supreme Court would not interfere with the legislation of Manitoba. It must be remembered that the very question referred to the Supreme Court was very dangerous. The action of the Government all through had been very shifty. Two years ago the minority in Manitoba had appealed and the polls should have dealt with it at once. The reason why it had not been dealt with was because the Government was afraid to deal with it.

The Government was halting, hesitating, afraid to decide between the Protestants of Ontario and Catholics of Quebec. There was a higher and nobler ground if the Government could have brought its courage up to striking point and have decided the question from the standpoint of the benefit of the whole country. He was a firm believer in provincial rights, which was the policy of the Liberal party. He rehearsed some of the occasions in which he claimed the Liberal party had upheld provincial rights. He held, however, that in the matter of education powers were reserved to the control of the Government by the British North America Act. The sections in the British North America Act were very puzzling. He reviewed at some length the circumstance under which the Act was framed, and quoted from the Confederation debates to show that the intention was to secure separate schools to the minority, the aim of the compromise being to secure separate schools to the Protestant minority in Quebec.

He continued at some length, reviewing the manner in which the rights to separate schools had been established under the British North America Act. He then claimed that the minority in Manitoba had been treated with barbarous tyranny and that not one hour should have been lost in granting relief.

Mr. Laurier next amused himself and his followers by giving a semi-humorous review of the proceedings of Council when hearing Mr. Ewart, and then devoted some time to considering the Ottawa despatches to a Toronto paper of Nov. 27 and 28, in the last of which it was stated that Mr. Laurier would find it difficult to blame the Government for referring the matter to the Supreme Court.

He said in conclusion that he would not blame the Government for referring the matter to the Supreme Court if he felt that the reference was made in good faith; but he did blame the Government for the long delay, and he thought that the reference was only a makeshift.

Hon. Mr. Ouimet said that the action of the Government in the past with regard to this matter was the best evidence of its intention for the future. The Government proposed to adhere to the old policy as laid down by the old chieftain, which was that of British fair play, not McCarthy fair play, which was to strangle the plaintiff before he could be heard.

He accused the Liberals of constantly endeavoring to excite race and religious prejudices, and said that the Conservative party desired to have all races and all religions treated fairly. For himself he favored separate schools and the teaching of religion in the schools as well as the three R's.

Briefly reviewing the petition received, he held that the questions involved were purely legal ones, and the proper place to settle them was the courts. He had no doubt it was intended at Confederation that the minority in Manitoba should have separate schools, but it appeared from the judgment of the Privy Council that intention had not been carried out by the act which was passed.

He argued at some length to show that there were grave doubts as to whether the Catholics of Manitoba had not some rights still which should be protected and, therefore, it was right that a reference should be made to the Supreme Court. The decision of the Supreme Court would be accepted by the majority of the people and even by the majority of the people of Manitoba.

Mr. Davin spoke against the amendment.

Mr. Maclean (York) also opposed the amendment. He said that Mr. Tarte had professed to show the course of the Conservative party, and he proposed to show the course of the Liberal party. He read a number of extracts from The Globe to show that the chief party organ had steadily opposed remedial legislation. He also quoted from the Pope's encyclical letter on the Minnesota school case to show that the Holy See was not opposed to public schools.

Sir Adolphe Caron rose at 1.15, and as several others propose to speak it will probably be daylight before a division is reached.

Room 16 was crowded to its utmost capacity yesterday afternoon by Conservative members of the Senate and Commons and a large representation of the press gallery to assist in the presentation to Sir John Thompson of the address which it was agreed a few days ago should be presented to him on the occasion of his departure for Paris to take part in the Behring Sea arbitration. Promptly at 2.45 the meeting was called to order and Senator Miller called to the chair. In a few well-chosen words he explained the object of the meeting and called on Mr. Mara, M.P., to read the address. Mr. Mara, without any preface, read the address.

Sir John Thompson was greeted with tumultuous applause and cries of "On the table." Standing on a chair, so as to be in view of almost everyone in the room, he pleasantly remarked that by the aid of a chair he was able to raise himself to the height of some of the statesmen about him. [Laughter.] He said that he would require to possess all the gifts ascribed to him in the address to fittingly express his feelings at this expression of confidence in him. He could only say that from the bottom of his heart he thanked them both for himself and his wife for their good wishes. He would say, as he had always said, that it was his duty to give thanks to them, for from the day he had first entered the Dominion Parliament he had always been received with the greatest courtesy and had been treated with the utmost confidence, both by the members of the House and of the Senate. That confidence had been several times renewed.

With regard to his mission he would merely remind them that it was only a most imperative sense of duty that could call him away at this time. He had always held it to be a member's duty to represent Parliament to the last day, but this was a call of duty not only to Canada, but to the whole Empire.

He referred to the importance of having Canada represented on the arbitration, and with regard to the tribunal he said that it was impossible to say what its determination would be, but whatever it was it would be an honor to Great Britain and the United States to have adopted this system of arbitration for the settlement of questions which but a few years ago could only have been settled by bayonets. With regard to the session he did not anticipate that it would be a long one. Great progress has been made in public business, and he left behind him able colleagues who were quite competent to conduct the business of the House. Besides this he had tried the faithfulness of the party in darker days than these, and knew that it could be depended on.

He owed an acknowledgment to the members of the Opposition for the manner in which they had not only not impeded but greatly facilitated business this session, and he wished to make this public acknowledgment to them. In conclusion he hoped that they would soon hear the guns booming for prorogation and when he returned he would not find them still struggling with a long and arduous session.

In the Railway Committee yesterday the bill to consolidate all the Grand Trunk branch lines into one system, to be known as the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, was passed.

The bill respecting the London and Port Stanley Railway was left for farther consideration.

It is understood that during the absence of Sir John Thompson, Hon. Mackenzie Bowell, senior Privy councillor, will act as Premier, the leadership of the Commons being in the hands of Hon. Mr. Foster. As to the department of Justice, Hon. J. A. Ouimet will be acting Minister.

The list of the new Q. C.'s for the Province of Quebec is not yet quite complete, but will, most probably, be published in next Saturday's Canada Gazette. Le Canada last night gave the names of four Ottawa gentlemen who, it states, are to be appointed Queen's counsel, but this is not correct, as it is understood that no appointments for Ontario will be made until the question between the Ontario and Dominion Governments as to the right of appointment is settled.

HE IS COMMITTED.

A Hotelkeeper in Novar Charged With Incendiarism.

NOVAR, Parry Sound District, March 9.—The interest taken in connection with the arrests made on the attempt to burn out the Dominion Hotel here, owned by George Thompson, has increased tenfold, owing to the further arrest of Thompson on two distinct charges, one with being an accessory with Donald Carmichael and the other of conspiracy with Carmichael to accuse and charge Mr. S. P. Cornell, the proprietor of the Queen's Hotel here, with the crime.

The developments made at the investigation yesterday before the magistrates, that Thompson himself had engaged Carmichael for $75 to set fire to his hotel, and that Thompson had been trying to induce Cornell to purchase the place, and admitting, or stating to Cornell, that he had made arrangements to "send it up in smoke," have placed Thompson in a most unenviable light, and at the same time have created a strong feeling of sympathy with Mr. Cornell.

Thompson has been committed to take his trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction for the District of Parry Sound.

SEALSKINS HIGH.

Original Advice Offered on the Sealing Question.

VICTORIA, B.C., March 9.—Good prices are expected for sealskins next season, as stocks in England are small.

It is said here that it would have paid Great Britain and the United States to pay the sealers to keep out of the Behring Sea better than policing the sea and indemnifying losses.

A Protective Zone.

VANCOUVER, B.C., March 9.—The Customs authorities of British Columbia have received instructions from N. Clarke Wallace, Comptroller of Customs, as follows:

In accordance with request from the Right Hon. Secretary of State for the Colonies I have to acquaint you that Her Majesty's Government has received a proposal from the Russian Government for the establishment of a protective zone around the islands and coast of Russia. Warn masters of sealing vessels clearing for the North Pacific to arrange for ascertaining the provisions which may be agreed to by the two Governments before proceeding to the neighborhood of Russian territory.

With three exception the entire sealing fleet of British Columbia, comprising some 59 vessels, have left for Japanese and Russian waters. It is impossible, therefore, for all concerned to be notified of the pending negotiations between Great Britain and Russia.

FRIGHTENED EMIGRANTS.

They Are Shook Up in a Railway Accident.

STRATFORD, March 9.—A train of six cars, containing German emigrants from Halifax per steamship Numidian, about 3 yesterday morning, while running at a good speed between Stratford and St. Mary's, ran foul of a number of cars that had become detached from a westward freight train.

The emigrant engine telescoped into the rear freight car, setting it on fire. For a time chaos prevailed among the startled Germans, none of them fortunately being hurt. The driver and fireman, when collision could not be avoided, jumped and, as far as could be ascertained, escaped injury. The engine was badly smashed, as were also three of the freight cars.

The Stratford auxiliary was quickly on the scene, and after two hours' delay the track was cleared.

M'CARTHY WARNED.

He Must Carry a Wand of Peace if He Goes East.

HALIFAX, March 9.—The Evening Mail, speaking of D'Alton McCarthy's prospective visit, says: If Mr. McCarthy confines himself to the discussion of political questions he will be a welcome visitor, and the hand of friendship will be extended to him by all citizens of every creed.

But if he comes to rouse sectarian prejudice and do that which he is suspected of doing in Manitoba and the Territories, he had far better stay away. We have found by experience that it is wiser to respect the opinions of others, and we will not allow anyone, whether he be a clerical, fanatical or political demagog, to pull our ears.

Several similar attempts have already failed, and Mr. McCarthy does not know us if he thinks to succeed here in such a mission.

FITZSIMMONS VS. HALL.

THE LATTER DEFEATED IN FOUR ROUNDS.

He Received a Knock-Out Blow on the Chin That Left Him Unconscious, and He Was Hardly Counted Out—Referee on the Fight.

NEW ORLEANS, March 8.—The long-disputed question of the superiority of Hall or Fitzsimmons found its final settlement at the Crescent Athletic Club last night.

FITZSIMMONS.

The fight was for a purse of $40,000, and a stake of $10,000 a side made the encouragement sum of $60,000 depended on the result.

Both men were about the same size and veritable giants, yet they were not great in bulk.

There were about 300 present.

The arrangements at the ringside were perfect. The seating capacity was more than ample to accommodate twice as many people as were expected to attend. There was room for 12,000 people more and there was no need for squeezing. The lights distributed about were numerous in quantity and exceptional in quality. The crowd was representative in character and thoroughly cosmopolitan.

The betting at this time was 9 to 10 on Hall and 95 to 100 on Fitzsimmons.

In the Hall corner the men chosen to look after his interests were the lightweight champion McAuliffe, Charley Mitchell, Squire Abington and John Kline holding the watch. Fitzsimmons had Billy Fitzsimmons, his brother, Martin Julian and Frank Bosworth, D. F. O'Malley keeping time.

The men entered the ring at 9 o'clock promptly, Hall leading the procession. Referee Duffy took his position almost immediately. Referee Duffy made a speech in which he asked the crowd to preserve order. The men then advanced to the centre of the ring followed by their seconds, where Referee Duffy cautioned them about fouls and the usual club rules. Captain Barrett weighed the gloves, finding them of lawful weight, handed them to Martin Julian, who took them over to Hall for his choice and Mitchell selected his principal's gloves. Referee Duffy announced that the pivot blow was barred and the men stripped. Time was called and the great battle was on.

FIRST ROUND—The men shook hands at 9 o'clock in the orthodox, old-time fashion, both coming to the scratch with a jauntiness which showed their seeming lack of care. They commenced work in a very easy manner, until Fitzsimmons finally led with his left and fell short. Hall's left on the counter barely touched his face. Fitzsimmons was the more active of the two, and he set a lively pace by doing all the leading and landing frequently with his left on Hall's body. Bob was quick and judged his distances so admirably that he landed almost every blow he delivered with great accuracy. Hall received some stinging blows on the ribs, but he was so thoroughly trained that they had but little or no effect.

SECOND ROUND—Fitz still pursued his leading tactics and landed his right and left several times on Jim's body. He also got in a good right and left on Hall's face. It was not until Hall succeeded in working Fitz into a corner, where he got in several good stiff clouts, that he began to strike out freely. He showed up in such fine form toward the close of the round the majority of the spectators began to have their doubts as to Larky Bob's ability to hold out against so powerful an opponent, as Hall was by far the stronger of the two. Both men did some very hard hitting and their blows fell upon each other like hail. Honors were pretty evenly divided and many rather thought Hall had the best of the hitting.

THIRD ROUND—At the call to the centre, Hall stepped briskly forward and led off with his left and caught Fitz square on the nose. The blow dazed the lanky man, yet he fought gamely and returned the compliment by sending his left hand on Hall's stomach. Hall landed again lightly on the neck, then both clinched. By mutual consent they separated, both laughing. Hall led right and left, reaching his big antagonist's body and neck. Content for a moment with this, Hall walked around the ring, Fitzsimmons following. Fitzsimmons missed a swinging right-hander, but he planted his left on Hall's stomach. Hall got his left-hand jab in Fitzsimmons' face, making the champion's head bob back as if it was on springs. Hall followed the performance with a beautiful right and left-hand blow on Bob's head and side, but the big Australian got back most too far to have the blows do damage. Bob retreated apparently no worse for the blow. The round ended by Fitz missing a swinging blow on Hall's stomach.

HALL.

FOURTH ROUND—The men were both in excellent condition and full of fight when the gong sounded for the fourth round. They responded to the call like two gladiators and went at each other as though they intended to find the winner in short order, but they had scarcely got warmed up to their work when Fitz landed that dangerous right of his on the point of the jaw and Hall fell to the floor like a dead man. It was a hard fall and the back of Hall's head came to the floor with such a sickening thud that it could be heard all through the building. It was a clean knock-out, and it was some minutes after he was counted out before his seconds succeeded in restoring him to consciousness and then he had to be carried to his corner.

The scene was the wildest that has been witnessed at a ringside for many years. The crowd cheered and yelled like Hottentots. Fitzsimmons was declared the victor and the winners were happy smiles.

Bud Renaud won $12,000, Bennett's Poolrooms of Covington, Kentucky, $36,000, Pat Duffy on commission, $30,000; John O'Neills $6000, Abe Love $6000, Johnson, the owner of the horse G. W. Johnson, $5000, and Hastings Alleyway $3000. The rapid manner in which they fought and the great victory of Fitzsimmons has created great excitement throughout the city.

The Syracuse Pool Tourney.

SYRACUSE, March 9.—In the pool tournament for the championship of the world last night, John Powers of Philadelphia defeated George N. Kuntz of this city. Score 125 to 111. Warner of Chicago beat Boos of this city, 125 to 68.

THE CATTLE SCHEDULE.

Promise of Canadian Live Cattle Again Entering Great Britain.

LONDON, March 9.—Mr. Herbert Gardner, the Secretary of the British Board of Agriculture, stated in the House of Commons last night that he hoped before long to be able to remove the restrictions against the Canadian cattle.

Home Rule Bill Amendment.

LONDON, March 9.—Sir Michael Hicks-Beach (Conservative) has given notice in the House of Commons of his intention to move an amendment to reject the Home Rule bill. This amendment will probably be the official amendment of the Opposition.

THURSDAY, MARCH 9, 1893.

LAKEFIELD.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The regular meeting of the village council will be held next Monday evening in the town hall.

The school children attending the different rooms were photographed on Monday morning.

Mr. Henderson Nesbitt, D.D.H.C.R., will institute the new court of the Canadian Order of Foresters next Monday evening, the 13th, at Selwyn.

The Lakefield school board will hold a regular meeting next Tuesday evening in the town hall.

The concert given by the ladies of the Presbyterian church in the town hall on Monday evening was a success except in point of numbers, the attendance being poor. People seem to have had a surfeit of concerts, etc., this winter.

In view of the exciting news from Belfast, the Orangemen of this place are wondering if the worthy secretary of the County Lodge has yet ordered the two guns (Gatling, it is supposed) which last 12th of July in Lakefield he promised to send when the Home Rule bill passed. Time they were on their way!

The want of a good fire alarm bell on the town hall was again brought to the notice of every one concerned last Saturday night. It was a long time before the church and mill bells were rung and then they could hardly be heard a block distant while the need of an organized and paid hose company was also potent to all. We tax our young men $2 per annum as poll tax, they have no vote, yet when a fire occurs they are the ones expected to do all the work, destroy their clothes, and when the fire is over go home wet, cold and tired without a word of thanks. Let the council pay, say ten young men, and place the hose reels in their charge, and let them alone have the management of the hose under the chief at all fires, then the work will be properly done, and those most benefited will be the ones to pay for it.

On Monday morning bright and early a representative of one of the Peterborough Canoe Factory's came up and offered work to all the men that had been thrown out of employment by the burning of Mr. Strickland's factory on Saturday evening.

Monday was a busy day with a number of our citizens hunting up and cleaning old lamps, which it was supposed were discarded for all time to come.

Mr. Stickland had $900 insurance on his plant and stock. His loss was about $2000. The Lakefield Lumber Company had $640 on the building, loss $1,200. Madill Bros. loss $2,000 on light plant; no insurance. G. Fitzgerald, loss small Most of his tools, etc., were saved.

Tuesday's bright sun had the effect of opening up the ice in the river above the dam, and for the first time this year clear water is to be seen.

Since the destruction of the electric light plant on Saturday evening it has been suggested by a number of our ratepapers that the council take the matter in hand, put in a new plant, and run it in the interest of the village. When the dam was built the Dominion Government had a race way constructed for the village in the event of their requiring water power. It is all ready to put in a wheel, and there is ground for a power house. It is understood that $4,000 will put in a plant that will met all requirements of the village of Lakefield for some time to come, the interest at 5 per cent. would be $200 per annum. We now pay for street and hall lighting some $300 per annum or one-third more than the interest on the required. Churches, lodge rooms, hotels, and stores have all patronized the company heretofore, and it would be still more used if the council put in a first-class plant and gave a good light. The matter is worth the consideration of our village fathers.

Assessor Doidge has got through with the assessment of Ward No. 1 and is well on with Ward No. 2.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people :—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.

Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.

There are many forms of nervous debility in men that yield to use of Carter's Iron Pills. Those who are troubled with nervous weakness, night sweats, etc. should try them.

For Nettle Rash, Summer Heat and general toilet purposes, use Low's Sulphur Soap.

Ladies appreciate Anti-Dandruff from the fact that it not only thoroughly removes Dandruff with three applications, but stops falling of the hair, restores fading hair to its orignal color, and makes it soft and pliable without leaving any indication of a dressing being used. Clear as crystal, clean to use, it is a valuable toilet preparation.

CLEARING UP THE STOCK FOR SPRING.

Stock-taking is over. A lot of odd lots remain. These must go. Goughs will almost give them away to clear. Come in and run through the counters and see your opportunity.

BAILLIEBORO.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

On Thursday evening, March 2nd, Mr. Wm. Heaslip was presented with an address and a valuable coon skin coat by his brother Foresters of Court Baillieboro, No. 253, Canadian Order of Foresters on his departure for Manitoba. The address was as follows:—"We the members of Court Baillieboro, No. 253, Canadian Order of Foresters, take this opportunity of expressing our regret at your departure from our midst, and since we cannot persuade you to remain with us, we earnestly wish you God speed. We have ever found you a true friend, a kind husband and father, and possessed of all the good qualities that characterize the true Forester. As a slight token of esteem in which you are held by the members of this court we now present you with this coat, hoping you will long be spared to wear it and enjoy the privileges of Forestry.

Signed on behalf of the Court.
J. W. FISHER, C. R.
WM. WATERMAN, V.C.R.
G. E. MARSHALL, R. S.

Bro. Heaslip, though taken by surprise, made a very suitable reply, thanking the members of Court Baillieboro for the valuable and appropriate present, as it was just the thing he needed to withstand the Northwest blizzard. He spoke feelingly of the many pleasant hours spent with the old friends in this locality, and particularly of the Baillieboro Foresters, and hoped he might be able to join a Court in his new home where the members would be as agreeable as in Court Baillieboro. He ended his speech by again thanking them and extending a cordial invitation to all to come and see him at the earliest opportunity at his new home in Glenboro, Man.

CHANDOS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—In the account sent you of the burning of our school house, it was stated that the fire was supposed to be the work of an incendiary. Permit me to say that we do not know the cause and have no reason to suspect anyone. The teacher was Miss Kate Kennedy and not Miss Fobert as stated.

Yours truly,
HUGH CALDWELL,
Sec.-Treas.

A regular meeting of the Ashburnham School Board was held last evening. The members present were Chairman Adams (presiding), Messrs. Craig, Peck and Reid.

A communication was read from Mr. A. D. Russell, tendering his resignation as trustee, as he had left the village, which on motion was received.

It was moved by Mr. Peck, seconded by Mr. Craig, that the village clerk be instructed to take the necessary steps to have a successor elected, instead of Mr. Russell, resigned.

The principal presented the report of attendance for February:

Mr. Dean's	room, on roll,	44,	average	39.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the boss" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.
HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion
On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontines, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the Young Women's Association.

On Saturday evening Mr. S. P. Mills will give an address in the rooms on Chinese work in British Columbia. Doubtless this will be very interesting. A. wish to extent their many thanks to Messrs. Rathbun & Co., for coal kindly donated to the Association. They also wish to extend thanks to Miss L. Sanderson for twelve volumes of Good Words, kindly donated for the reading tables.... Writing and painting class this evening.

A Social Evening with the W. C. T. U.

Mrs. Paton, of Reid street, with her usual generosity, opened her house last evening to give Miss Phelps' friends the pleasure of hearing her speak. Our hostest in hearty Scotch fashion, welcomed the guests, and called on Miss Sanderson to preside. The meeting opened with the hymn "Stand up, Stand up for Jesus," and prayer by the chairman. Miss Dollie Fowler then sang in plaintive, child-like tones "Oh, Come Home To-night Father," after which Miss Fowler played a very pretty organ solo. Mrs. Dr. Hunter followed with that sweet old Scotch song, "Life's Uphill. The selection was good and was well given. Mrs. Hunter possesses a very sympathetic voice, which has evidently been under cultivation. The last two lines of the song,

"Pray for help to climb to-gether God's most holy hill,"

if adopted as a family motto would materially improve the atmosphere of many a home circle. Mrs. Paton gave a short account of the work done by the local W. C. T.U., after which Miss Dolly Fowler sang with all the animation of a little prophetest, "Prohibition is Marching on to Win the Day." If proper care is given to her voice Miss Dolly may rise to fame. Miss Phelps being called, gave in her own clear, forcible, logical way, the past, present, and prophesied the future of the W. C. T. U. She also took up the political aspect of the prohibition question and its relation to and progress in Canada, the United States, Great Britain, and many of the European countries. At the close of Miss Phelps' address, refreshments were served, and a goodly company dispersed after a most enjoyable evening.—COM.

A Connubial Coincidence.

Yesterday two bridal parties arrived at the Snowden House. This morning the grooms, Mr. W. Hunter, of East Toronto, and Mr. Wm. Gillott, of Millbrook, met for the first time, and it was discovered that both were undertakers by profession, both had married daughters of Justices of the Peace, both had "undertaken" the responsibilities of matrimony on the same day, both are as happy as large-sized sunflowers, and it is to be hoped that both their married lives will flow along in the same channel of happiness. Mrs. Gillot married a daughter of Mr. John Breckenridge, Westwood.

The Last Sad Rites.

The funeral of the late W. J. Mason took place yesterday afternoon from the family residence on Murray street and was numerously attended. The service at the house was conducted by Rev. Jos. H. Locke, and was very impressive. At the George street Methodist church the funeral march was played by Mr. Seward and was followed by the usual burial service. A hymn was then sung and the scripture lesson read by Rev. Mr. Edwards. Another hymn was sung, prayer offered, after which the benediction was pronounced, the sad worshippers leaving the edifice, to the solemn strains of the Dead March in Saul. As the sad cortege passed down George street on the way to the Little Lake cemetery the street was lined by an immense crowd of people. There were ninety-three conveyances in the funeral procession, showing in an unmistakable manner the respect and esteem in which deceased was held. Most of the blinds of the town's business place were closed out of respect to the dead. The pallbearers were Messrs. D. W. Dumble, T. W. Robinson, Jno. Lockhart Thos. Morrow, Benjamin Shortly and A. Clegg. The floral contributions were numerous and very appropriate. Among the tributes may be mentioned a beautiful cross and crown donated by the officials of the George street church as a mark of respect to their deceased brother.

They Interview the Railway Committee.

Mayor Kendry and Town Solicitor Edwards returned home from Ottawa this morning. Yesterday morning in the house, in company with Messrs. Stevenson, M. P., and Burnham, M.P., the town's deputation, met the members of the railroad committee, in reference to the Act of the Grand Trunk Railway, now before the House, amalgamating the Midland and several other lines with the G.T.R. After some delay the bill was taken up, and objections made to it on behalf of the city of Belleville, township of Hope, and town of Peterborough, all of which places had delegations present. The members of the committee were disposed to deal shortly with the deputations and the objections raised on the ground that the three corporations were sufficiently protected by the general terms of the Act itself and several amendments proposed were voted down. The Minister of Railways promised he would submit the Minister of Justice so far as the matter to Peterborough and Port Hope were concerned, and if in his opinion any provisions were deemed necessary to protect their interests, he would see that they were inserted in the bill. The object of Peterborough's deputation was to have proper provision made to protect the town's interest regarding the the sum of $120,000 subscribed by the town in 1857 for the building of the branch from here to Millbrook.

He was seized with typhoid fever of a violent type to which he succumbed after an illness of about two weeks. AT HYMEN'S ALTAR.

The Nuptials of Mr. S. H. Might, a Former Peterborough Boy, and Miss Florence Byres.

A quiet but pretty wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. Wm. Eyres, 168 Antrim street, at five o'clock yesterday afternoon, when his eldest daughter, Miss Florence E, was wedded to Mr. S. H. Might, B.A., of Moose Jaw, Assa. The interesting ceremony was performed in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives of the contracting parties, by Rev. G. H. McCaul, B.A., B.D., of Havelock, assisted by Rev. J. H. Locke, pastor of the George street Methodist church and Rev. G. H. Raley, Bridgenorth. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary L. and Miss Ella Howden. The duties of groomsmen were ably filled by Mr. E. G. Meharry, of Port Perry, and Mr. Fred. J. Might, brother of the groom. After the marriage ceremony, the bridal party with their numerous friends, amid many felicitations, partook of an elegant wedding breakfast. The presents were many and valuable, showing in a tangible manner the popularity and esteem of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Might left on the 8.50 G.T.R. train for the east. They will take up residence at Moose Jaw, where their hosts of Peterborough friends will join with the EXAMINER in wishing them a married life long, useful and happy.

Caldwell—Millar.

A happy March event was performed at the residence of Mr. Chas. Millar, Stewart street, on Tuesday evening last, when his daughter, Miss Eliza Millar, was united in marriage to Mr. Theodore M. Caldwell of Emily Township. The happy couple were assisted by Miss May R. Marr, of Omemee, and Mr. Samuel E. Caldwell, of Hope. Rev. Mr. Locke, of the George street Methodist church, officiated in the presence of a few intimate friends. The presents were unique and choice. Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell left for the west on a short bridal tour, followed by the best wishes of their numerous acquaintenances and friends.

PETERBOROUGH TALENT AT FRAZERVILLE.

A Number of Young People Take Part in the Church Entertainment.

A most successful entertainment and concert was held in the English church at Frazerville on Tuesday night. There was a fair attendance; the Rev. Mr. Kilgour presided in an acceptable manner. Peterborough talent furnished the most of the excellent programme presented. After the opening address by the chairman, the Y. M.C.A. quartette, consisting of Messrs. Squires, Stiers, Wesley and Dicks, gave a splendid selection, followed by a pleasing duet by the Misses Stevens and Messrs. Dickson and Butcher gave a mouth organ duet in fine style. The St. Andrew's church quartette, consisting of Misses. Heubeck and Sherlock, Messrs Wesley and Squires, sang "Where the Lillies Bloom" with much taste. Miss Madden gave a capital recitation and the orchestra a well played selection. St. Andrew's church quartette sang "Moonlight on the Lake," and were liberally applauded. Mr. D. Gordon sang "Free as a Bird," and was well received. Mr. George Munro gave a stump speech in an inimitable manner, and Messrs. Dicks and Butcher a mouth-organ duet. St. Andrew's church choir sang "Row, Boatman, Row," Mr. W. Squires rendered a choice solo, "Pilot, Take Command"; Mr. Gordon sang "Old Times Somewhere," and the Y. M. C. A. quartette terminated a well rendered programme by "I am wandering down." At the close a hearty vote of thanks was moved the performers by Mr. D. Smith and seconded by Mr. Might. This was unanimously carried, after which the meeting broke up with the singing of "God Save the Queen."

LAST NIGHT'S SUCCESSFUL CONCERT.

A Good Programme Well Presented.

The large company assembled in the opera house last night expected to hear a first-class concert and were not disappointed. The programme presented by the Belle Botsford Concert Company was a well selected one and was carried out in a very satisfactory manner. While the members of the company are all good artists in their lines, Miss Belle Botsford, violiniste, was of course the "bright particular star." She gave as her programme numbers Sarasate's Faust Fantaisie, and a double number, a Chopins nocturne and a Wieliawski mazurka. She performed these selections in a thoroughly artistic manner in all respects—interpretation, expression, technique and tone. Her tone, while not particularly robust, is deliciously round, full, rich and mellow. Her execution is firm and unfailingly accurate, her bowing beautifully delicate, her harmonics pearly and perfect, her double stopping excellent, and she possesses a mastery of her instrument which places her in the front rank of lady violin virtuosi. Last night she played on a splendid $2,000 Maggini violin, selected for her in Paris by the great violin master, Leonard, whose pupil she was. She was recalled on both occasions, and her first encore number was a delightful rendering of the "Last Rose of Summer," arranged by herself. Miss Botsford is a born violinist. At the age of 7 years she made her first appearance in public in the largest hall in Boston. She is a true artist and is as charming and unaffected in private as in her public performances. Of the other members of the company, Miss Corea sang two soprano solos in a manner that showed possession of rich flexible well trained voice, and, artistically her first number, Gounod's "Nellie Calma," was better work than her second and lighter number which earned her a recall. Mr. Lythgoe, baritone, used his powerful voice to good effect in two numbers and was encored. His duet with Miss Corea, "Estudiantina," was very heartily received. Miss Bullock contributed two violoncello solos with good taste and facile execution. Mr. Pick, pianist, gave two solos and furnished the accompaniments. The closing number was a trio, violin, cello and pianoforte, Haydn's "Andante and Rondo." In the rondo Miss Botsford's bow did some bewitchingly dainty work. The company registered a distinct success, and furnished an excellent concert. The Otonabee Oddfellow's deserve thanks for providing such an excellent treat to the public. The pianoforte used on the occasion was a Nordheimer, provided by Mr. T. O. Rush.

Our Bow to the Public.

♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥

IN making this our first regular spring announcement to the citizens and residents of the town and county of Peterborough, we would address ourselves, not only to that large constituency of customers who have heretofore patronized our well known and highly esteemed predecessors, (Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co.,) but to all other readers of this journal, many of whom we hope to have the privilege of doing business with in the future.

We have a few words to say, not directly about Dry Goods.

We believe, that in all the relations of life where success is attained, mutual confidence is the basis, whether between physician and patient, lawyer and client, or merchant and customer, and, for our part, we intend to merit and expect to win confidence.

A WORD as to our taking charge of this business. It has been a matter of choice, on our part, largely influenced by some knowledge of this, "Canada's Premier Town," and surrounding district, and, as we are here to stay, we are actuated by a desire to do our best, as worthy citizens, to still further advance its interest and fair name.

OUR RECORD extends over a number of years of business life, and, with perhaps pardonable pride, we can say that during all that time, both those from whom we have bought and those to whom we have sold, have been financially benefitted.

OUR POSITION, as direct importers of Dry Goods, with a personal visitation of one of the firm twice a year to the European markets, and direct business connection with the leading manufacturers and warehousemen in Great Britain, place us in a position to give VALUE SECOND TO NONE, and styles the most correct and elegant. In no other line of business does the exercise of taste in selection come so largely into play as in the Dry Goods Trade, and in the markets we visit, there is the amplest room for its exercise.

"OUR STAFF." Almost or quite equal to a good stock of Dry Goods at right prices, as a factor in ensuring the success of a business, is competent, courteous and polite assistants. Our staff of employees in its entirety, will be composed of ladies and gentlemen of whom we expect to feel proud.

OUR AIM shall be to merit your confidence in what we may say to you in our place of business, in what we may tell you in our business announcements, in the reliable character of the goods we may have to offer you, by basing our business superstructure on the three cardinal principles,—

INTEGRITY, INTELLIGENCE AND INDUSTRY.

A WORD AS TO OUR METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS.

We fully recognize the fact that to conduct a successful business at the present day demands that all competition from any and every source should be successfully met, which means, not merely that of a local character, but that emanating from the largest houses of the largest cities, who do business exclusively for Cash, and, as a consequence, have not the factor of bad debts and capital outstanding, as well as office expenses to take into consideration, when marking the profits on their goods. This and all other honest competition we are prepared to meet, and to do this we have decided to offer attractive goods at such close prices as will draw to us that large constituency of the community who buy for Cash We have strong faith in a Cash Business, having found in our experience that this potent factor, Cash, is the key that opens all the doors where bargains are to be had. We have used it this season in making our European and Canadian purchases, and, as a result, have the best class of goods at Rock Bottom Prices.

We have already opened up several cases of new Millinery Goods, the styles of which are to be found correct. MISS WALKER has returned after visiting the centres of fashion, and will, as heretofore, be in charge of the show room, which our customers will be pleased to learn.

We have passed into stock many new Spring Suitings, Trouserings and Spring Overcoats, which we have marked at close prices. We have been successful in securing the services of MR. AMES, as Cutter for our Tailoring Department, who comes to us highly recommended, having had a long experience in large city trade. All work in this department guaranteed.

We shall be pleased to see all the old friends of the house, and will consider it a pleasure to show our goods, whether present purchases are contemplated or not.

ADJOURNED FOR A WEEK.

In Order that a Post Mortem Examination Might be Made upon the Body of the Discovered Dead Infant.

The inquest into the cause of the infant found dead under the Bethune street bridge on Tuesday afternoon, as mentioned in last night's EXAMINER adjourned after the taking of some evidence in order that a post mortem examination might be performed upon the body.

The following gentlemen were duly sworn in as jurors:—Wm. Hinchliffe, W. H. Meredith, F. S. Schneider, W. S. Robinson, P. Simons, A. E. Ostrum, R. McWhinnie, C. Halpin, F. W. Millar, J. Buller, A. W. Elcombe, Jas. Graham, E. Fairen. They elected Mr. F. W. Mullar, foreman.

The coroner then stated that all knew the reason why they had met this afternoon—to inquire into the death of the body of a child. At least half a dozen cases of this nature had occurred in the last six years and they had never been able to ferret out the perpetrator. He hoped they would be able to do so in the present case. Dr. King had been engaged to give medical testimony, and it was for the jury to say whether they desired a post mortem examination made or not. Their first duty was, of course, to view the remains.

The jury then carefully viewed the body, which was produced in the court room in a black cardboard box. After this the examination of witnesses began. Mr. Wood represented the Crown. The first witness called was Geo. Clarke.

He told of how he, Mr. Donnelly, and others started to cut the ice under the Bethune street bridge Tuesday afternoon and found the body of the child which was wrapped in a black shawl, and was the same as produced in court. The body was found on the east side of the bridge as if some one had dropped it over the railing. It was not under the bridge. There were no foot marks near the spot. The child was dead. I notified the chief. Mr. Belleghem removed the body.

Mr. John Donnelly sworn said:—I was with last witness yesterday when the body was found. His evidence is correct. I could not tell whether child had ever lived or not.

Dr. King was next sworn and said:—I saw the remains of the child. I could not unless a post mortem was made, tell whether the child had ever lived or not.

The coroner was of the opinion that a post mortem examination was necessary with the evidence before them. They had nothing to work on unless this was performed.

The jury ordered Dr. King to perform a post mortem examination, and as the body was frozen and it would take some time to perform it, the jury then adjourned to meet on Wednesday next, at 7 o'clock in the evening in order that plenty of time might be given for the post mortem, and in the meantime the police will diligently strive to find out the perpetrator of the supposed infanticide.

STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

The application of Messrs. Soper and and Ahearn, of Ottawa, made to the council on Monday night for the franchise of the streets of Peterborough for an electric railway and the action of the council thereon has brought the matter of deciding on the question of a street railway within range of the probability of immediate action. The application of these outside gentlemen has revived the claims of two local electric railway interests to a franchise for a street railway, and the council is confronted with the necessity of making a choice, for it is to be assumed, contrary to the opinions held in some quarters, that the matter will not be dealt with without reference to the two local syndicates. If all of the present claimants for a franchise were upon equal footing as to capital competency and enterprise, it is plain that the local companies should have the preference.

Look for a moment at the position of the two local concerns interested in the question of street railway construction. We have the Canadian General Electric Company syndicate, with a late application for a street franchise still undealt with. A subsequent application of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Company is still before the council undisposed of. The intimate manner in which the prosperity of these companies is associated with the prosperity of the town and the benefit its existence is to the town is shown by the fact that in the course of a single year it pays out in wages and for supplies purchased in the town, the large sum of $60,000—the interest at five per cent. on a capitalized sum of six million. The industries represented by the Peterborough and Ashburnham syndicate spend in a similar manner for wages, etc., the sum of $200,000 per year, equivalent to the interest at five per cent. on a capital of four million dollars, or these two concerns, put in circulation in the town of Peterborough every year, half a million dollars, representing at five per cent. on the enormous sum of ten million dollars. While this fact indicates the importance of these interests, it also indicates the justice of their claims to a street railway franchise, other things being equal, receiving a preference in the decision of the question. The Canadian General Electric Company came into the possession of their present establishment and business on September 1st last, and as soon as they had got into a passable working shape they, doubtless feeling that they were the lawful heirs of the franchise granted to the Edison General Electric Company, put in an application for the street railway franchise, with a view of having all arrangements completed so that they could begin construction operations early in the spring; but it appears that no action was taken in reference to their application, and on account of the changes necessary in their large establishment, the Canadian Electric Company were not in a position to urge the council to speedier action in the matter of dealing with the application for the franchise. The matter that engrossed the company's attention was the preparations for the erection of large additions to their buildings and, of course, enlarging their manufacturing operations. The plans for these new buildings are already prepared and their construction will not only give employment to builders and their assistants, but involve the employment of additional operatives in the added manufacturing departments.

It will be remembered by those familiar with the circumstances that when the question of a street railway franchise was up for consideration, that the reason the Peterborough and Ashburnham syndicate would not sign an agreement with the town was the stipulation repulring them to purchase their plant from the Edison General Electric Company, a circumstance that shewed a disposition on the part of the council to fall in line with popular sentiment by practically encouraging home enterprise.

We have now before us the apparently conflicting but in reality identical claims of two local companies for the street franchise, and it seems to us that an easy and satisfactory way of settling this question would be an amalgamation of the interests of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Syndicate, and the Canadian General Electric Company, giving preference to the employment of local capital and favouring the enjoyment by local capital of whatever profit may accrue from the operation of an electric street railway system. It would seem inevitable that the best interests of of the town would be subserved by some arrangement that would give the street franchise to one of the local applicants or—preferably to the amalgamated local applicants. We have reason to know that if the street franchise were granted to a syndicate of the combined character indicated, a satisfactory street railway system would be the result. The Canadian General Electric Company is willing to guarantee, in case the franchise is granted them, that the railway will be completed from Hilliard's Mill to the south part of the town by the first of July next.

The matter of the extension of the street railway line to Chemong Park is a question with which both of the local companies are in sympathy, if those interested in the promotion of this line are willing to practically show their faith in the success of this extension.

What Peterborough requires is the best street railway system obtainable, and if the voice of the people expressed last December meant anything it decidedly meant that the people preferred that a local company should have the street franchise for the construction of a street railway. And there are no indications that since that time the people have changed their minds. The town council have a serious responsibility to discharge at the present juncture of matters. The representatives of the people, knowing well the feeling of the people, should go cautiously into the the decision of the question of granting a street railway franchise. The most cautious deliberation is necessary. There should be a happy medium struck, between vexatious postponement and precipitate conclusion of an agreement. It should be remembered that undue anxiety on the part of the council to close negotiations, and undue anxiety to obtain a desirable object, should not lead to the sacrifice of a single interest of the town. The town solicitor should have ample opportunity for the most thorough examination of any agreement, before the mayor and town clerk are authorized to affixed their signatures. In the words of Davy Crockett, be sure you are right, then go ahead.

It is far better to have the street railway matter discussed and by people competent to deal with such a subject, than to have the matter rushed with such undue haste, that Peterborough will have her neck put in the halter of an outside company, whose only object will be to make as much money as possible out of the project, which they will spend outside. The intimations that the local companies have not pressed their claims as much as they might have done are incorrect. Those who have been watching public matters carefully know that both local syndicates have been urging the matter as much as possible, and have at all times shown their willingness to "show their faith by their works"—by implementing their propositions financially. If any one is to blame for the delay it is possible that all the blame is not outside the council.

CRISP CURLING CHRONIQUES.

What is Going on at the Rink Where Curlers Most do Congregate.

There were no curlers at the rink last night, for the first time since the season commenced.

There is considerable water on the ice, which is too heavy for curling. The lovers of the stane hope that a change will occur in the weather so that they may be enabled to play the third contest with Lindsay in the Peterborough-Lindsay Challenge Cup Series.

The hardware firm of McKee & Davidson have dispatched a singularly worded challenge to the grocery firm of P. Connal & Co. asking for a contest. The grocers state that they will wipe up some of the surface water now lying on the ice with the "Invincibles"—even thongh there may be no files on them.

OUR GIFTS FROM ABOVE.

The Church, Holy Baptism and Holy Communion are the Direct Gifts of God—Address by Rev. S. Daw, Belleville.

There was a large congregation in St. John's church last evening at the regular Wednesday evening Lenten service. Rev. W. M. Loucks conducted the service. The address was delivered by Rev. S. Daw, rector of Christ church, Belleville. The reverend gentlemen is an impressive and earnest speaker and has a wide knowledge of his subject, which he delivered in a convincing manner. He based his remarks on the words found in third chapter of Colossians, 2nd verse: "Set your affection on things above." The speaker did did not know how how we could begin better than by taking the words of the the apostle, which appeared unto us in the text. Real true heartfelt affection was lacking in us all. How were our affections drawn out towards God, the Father. The speaker said his subject, "From Above," suggested a multiplicity of things, for every good and perfect gift cometh from above. He next spoke of the gifts from the Father to the church. All the brightness, joy, sunshine and affection in our lives were from on high. Did we take them as such? Much of our lack of affection for God comes from the fact that we don't look up to Him as the giver, but take things as a matter of course. We were to look at the deliverances Christ had sent from above. How many times have we not been delivered, and not looked to him who delivered us. Look at our numerous physical deliverances. We did not look upon the fact that Satan was a great enemy, whose desire was to destroy the work of the Redemption and the Incarnation; so he was trying to undo all the work in the individual. Our secret sins had a great deal to do with us. We should not forget that we were all children of God. We don't look upon God's judgments as we ought. They were very often so as to avoid the final. There was a message to think of the higher gifts. The first gift of all was his only begotten son. Do we recognize what a gift that was? What a gift was this to give his son for redemption. This gift was expanding, and when Christ had only commenced his great work he left us another gift — the church of God. We looked upon the church from a wrong point of view —a mere invention—a very nice place to go on Sundays. This way of looking at the church was by far too general. Mr. Daw said he wanted to show that the church and all which belonged to it were gifts from above. When Christ left this world to become the head of the church and the advocate of God He sent down this great gift. He said all power is given to me in heaven and on earth. What a majesty and grandeur this was: Go ye preach the gospel in every land. What a beautiful picture! The speaker urged upon his hearers to look upon the church and all belonging to it as a gift delivered from heaven. The church was divine and this was the reason she was what she was to-day. We should speak of God's gift with affection and love. Should we not love his bride, the body, the word of Christ, and have for it a warm, loving, true affection. The speaker, in closing, dealt at some length upon the Holy Baptism and Holy Communion, being direct gifts of God, how men had tried to secularize them, but how we should look more upon the unseen and less upon the seen and recognize that these were as much direct gifts from the Heavenly Father as the church itself.

The next address will be delivered on Wednesday night next by Judge Macdonald, of Brockville, on the subject, "The Call to Work."

CHARTERED ACCOUNTANTS.

First Annual Meeting in Association Hall Last Evening.

TORONTO, March 8.—At a meeting of the members of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of Ontario last night in Association Hall, President H. W. Eddis occupied the chair, and delivered his inaugural address. After referring to the conditions of the charter, especially in relation to the educational element it contains, and to the increasing desire on the part of successive councils to raise the standard of the membership, he referred to the bylaws as revised during the past year.

The important additions were the provisions made for enabling the various educational institutions, including collegiate schools and commercial colleges, to affiliate with the Institute, admitting to certain privileges, student associates and associates who, after progressive examinations, might become members and ultimately fellows of the Institute.

He mentioned that the bylaws had provided that those who, not being necessarily accountants, but taking an interest in the advancement of the Institute and with a view to increase its usefulness, might become "subscribers," especially as it was important that the Institute should have suitable headquarters, which would require a considerable increase in the funds.

He made a strong appeal for public recognition, remarking that the Institute was not a "close corporation" of public accountants, but that it was intended to embrace all competent bookkeepers and accountants.

The balance of the evening was spent in discussing the new bylaws, and numberless questions were asked concerning the proposed affiliation with the Institute of commercial colleges and other educational institutions.

Fire at Mimico.

MIMICO, March 8.—The Morrison brass and chandelier factory, Mimico, was burned down Monday night shortly after midnight. As there is no fire protection in the place the residents were forced to let the fire burn itself out. The loss on the building, machinery and stock is estimated at $40,000, with insurance amounting to $15,000.

The factory was operated by the American Copper Company and has been working since the founding of the town. By its destruction 30 men will be thrown out of employment. The company intend to start rebuilding immediately.

Suspected Murder.

DUNDAS, Ont., March 8.—The rumor that the body of a man had been found today in the marsh near this town, proves to be only too true. The unfortunate man was an old resident of the town, Mr. Welsh, and an old soldier who has been through the American war.

The body will be brought to town and an inquest held, as there are rumors of marks on the neck, supposed to be, perhaps, traceable to foul play.

Three Tramps Killed.

LIMA, Ohio, March 8.—A freight train on the Chicago and Erie Railway went through the bridge over the Ottawa River and took with it 19 cars, piling them up in the river. Three tramps are dead in the ruins.

Victims of Football.

WICHITA, Kan., March 8.—At a football match at Sedgwick City last week, George Harvey and James Kerau, both boys of about 13, suffered injuries, from which Harvey died last night and Kerau is dying. During a rush the boys came together with their heads with such force as to cause both to fall unconscious to the ground. They were carried home, and an examination showed that both had suffered fractures of the skull.

Gibbons Won in 31 Rounds.

NEW ORLEANS, March 7.—Austin Gibbons of Paterson and Mike Daly of Bangor fought 31 rounds here last night. Gibbons was the favorite and won a plucky battle. Dolly Smith and George Dixon have been matched for $5000. There is tremendous excitement over the Half-Fitzsimmons fight that takes place to-morrow for the $10,000 purse.

Green Defeats Mecormick.

ST. JOHN, March 8.—Fred C. Green last night defeated Hugh J. McCormick half a lap in a two-mile race, 14 laps to the mile; first mile in 3 34, two miles 6.24.

Rev. Sylvanus Lane

Of the Cincinnati M. E. Conference, makes a good point when he says: "We have for years used Hood's Sarsaparilla in our family of five, and find it fully equal to all that is claimed for it. Some people are greatly prejudiced against patent medicines, but how the patent can hurt a medicine and not a machine is a mystery of mysteries to me."

HOOD'S PILLS cure liver ills.

Their gentle action and good effect on the system really make them a perfect little pill. They please those who use them. Carter's Little Liver Pills may be well termed "Perfection."

Bad Blood Cured.

GENTLEMEN,—I have used your Burdock Blood Bitters for bad blood and find it, without exception, the best purifying tonic in use. A short time ago two very large and painful boils came on the back of my neck, B.B.B. completely drove them away.

HOMELESS AND DESTITUTE.

Hundreds of People Driven Out of House And Home.

MERIDIAN, Miss., March 8.—Over 300 families have been rendered homeless and destitute in two districts of Lauderdale county by Friday's cyclone. Reports from the farming districts reveal a distressing state of affairs. Farmers are left penniless, with not an ounce of food or raiment to clothe their families.

In many instances their horses and mules were killed, and they are without means of cultivating their crops. Another mass meeting of citizens was held here yesterday to raise funds for the sufferers.

A liberal sum was subscribed and committees were appointed to distribute food and clothing among the victims. Two more of the injured at Toomsuba have died, making the death list 25 as far as known.

A Miser-Hermit Murdered.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 8.—John Lovell, an aged hermit and miser, living three miles south of Lebanon, who was known to have had considerable money secreted in the house, was found murdered in bed. Everything in the house was torn to pieces, the walls being broken and the floors torn up in search of money. It is not known what amount of money was obtained.

Montreal Electric Road.

MONTREAL, March 8.—Another electric company composed of Montreal, Toronto and New York capitalists, is contemplated to run an electric railroad in Montreal. The capital required is $6,000,000—$1,500,000 to be taken in Montreal. Works will be established in Toronto and Montreal.

Progressive Euchre parties

GUTHRIE, O. T., March 8.—The Anti-Gambling bill passed the Senate after a fight which threatened to become riotous. The bill was at once signed by the Governor. It makes any kind of gambling a felony and prohibits progressive euchre parties where prizes are offered.

Earthquakes in Oregon.

UMATILLA, Ore., March 8.—A succession of severe earthquake shocks were felt here Sunday night, spreading fear and consternation among the citizens. Buildings were violently rocked. One of the walls of a large stone warehouse fell and the remaining walls will have to be torn down.

Interested People.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for coughs and colds does it, is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle FREE, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c. and $1. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

WONDER IN WELLAND!

A Representative Farmer Speaks.

MR. C. C. HAUN.

The following remarkable facts are fully certified to as being undeniably correct in every particular. Mr. Haun is well known in the vicinity, having resided here over fifty years, and is highly respected as a man of the strictest honor, whose word is as good as his bond.

As will be seen from his letter, four physicians had attended him, and it was only after he had given up hope of cure that he decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters on the recommendation of a neighbor who had been cured of a similar disease by its use. Mr. Haun writes as follows:

DEAR SIR,—I think I have been one of the worst sufferers you have yet heard of, having been six years in the hands of four of our best doctors without obtaining permanent relief, but continually growing worse, until almost beyond hope of recovery, I tried your Bitters and got relief in a few days. Every organ of my body was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torpid, the heart and digestive organs seriously deranged, a large abscess in my back, followed by paralysis of the right leg, in fact the lower half of my body was entirely useless. After using Burdock Blood Bitters for a few days the abscess burst, discharging fully five quarts of pus in two hours. I felt as if I had received a shock from a powerful battery. My recovery after this was steady and the cure permanent, seeing that for the four years since I have had as good health as ever I had. I still take an occasional bottle, not that I need it but because I wish to keep my system in perfect working order. I can think of no more remarkable case than what I have myself passed through, and no words can express my thankfulness for such perfect recovery.

C. C. HAUN,
Welland P.O.

In this connection the following letter from T. Cumines, Esq., a leading druggist of Welland, Ont., speaks for itself:

Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto.

GENTLEMEN,—I have been personally acquainted with Mr. C. C. Haun for the last 20 years, and have always found him a very reliable man. You may place the utmost confidence in anything he says with regard to your medicine. He has on many occasions within the last four years told me that it was marvellous the way the Burdock Blood Bitters had cured him, and that he now felt as able to do a day's work as he ever felt in his life. Although quite well he still takes some B. B. B. occasionally, as he says, to keep him in perfect health.

Yours truly,
THOMAS CUMINES,
Welland, Ont.

The steadily increasing sale of B. B. B., the length of time it has been before the people, and the fact that it cures to stay cured, attest the sterling merit of this monarch of medicines, the people's favorite blood purifier, tonic and regulator.

The Lower of the Thumb.

Two men got into an argument the other day over the expansion of steam in a cylinder. "Why," said one, "you don't know anything about machinery and the principles of mechanics. Your thumbs are not shaped right." He then went on to explain that a man with long, thin thumbs did not have a mechanical turn, while those with thick thumbs, broad at the ends, were natural-born machinists.

"I never believed in physiognomy," he said, "but I do believe in thumbs. Now, thumbs have been appreciated ever since the world began. The ancients used to call the thumb the other hand. Barbarous kings used to swear and make compacts by their thumbs. In Rome it was a sign of favor to wring and kiss the thumb, and a sign of disfavor or disgrace to lift them up or turn them outward. A man who was hurt in his thumbs was excused from serving in the Roman wars. Some of the scoundrelly citizens used to cut off their thumbs, so as to remain at home and get rich. Teachers used to punish their pupils by biting their thumbs.

"Oh, the thumb is a great and an influential member. I can look at the thumb of a young woman and describe her figure. I can tell whether she is thin and bony, or plump and round; whether her joints are large and ill-shapen, or small and perfectly proportioned. By examining a man's thumb I can tell what ought to be his vocation."—New York Tribune.

A Mutual Surprise.

A hunter and a wolf had an interesting mutual surprise to themselves in the hills near Helena, Mont., a few days ago. The hunter, arrayed in heavy wolf-skin overcoat, fur side outward, was examining some traps set the previous night. He was stooping over one, rearranging the bait, when there was the sound of a fierce growl and a heavy weight fell suddenly on his back, bearing him to the ground, so that he barely missed being caught in his own trap. He managed to shake himself free, and recovering his feet found facing him a full-grown buffalo wolf. The wolf seemed quite as much surprised as the hunter, and they looked at each other for some seconds before the fight, which ended in the death of the wolf, began. The brute evidently was fooled by the overcoat and the hunter's stooping position and mistook him for an other wolf.

Celery by the New Method.

M. H. Beckwith of Newark, Del., says "We are so pleased with this method that we shall try it again the coming season and shall set the plants seven inches apart each way and make the bed very much wider, as we think by so doing the plants will blanch better." In reply to this, The Rural New Yorker says that for the benefit of its readers it will briefly repeat the main features of what is called the "New Celery Culture." The soil is well enriched and prepared with great care, being made as fine and open as tools can make it. It is then marked off in rows seven inches apart each way. The plants, started as usual from seed, are set out in the cross marks seven inches apart all over the field. They are cultivated with the wheel hoe and hand tools as long as possible and irrigated or watered so that the soil never becomes very dry. Chemical fertilizers are best.

Survival of an Old Custom.

In some of the New England towns and villages it is still customary to ring a church or factory bell at 8 o'clock at night, and no further back than war times it was a general practice in cities of over 20,000 people. This custom perpetuates the curfew (couvre feu, cover fire) of William the conqueror's time, when church bells were rung to notify the people that it was time to bank the fires and put out the lights. There is a strong New England element in Brooklyn, and it may be owing to this fact that the practice has been maintained in the neighboring city of ringing the city hall bell at 9 o'clock every night. It is a good thing on some accounts because it enables the residents of the vicinity to set their clocks and watches.

The Bear In Winter.

Along Grisly Bear river, in the Rockies, there are many bear haunts or wintering dens, which the Indian guides point out to travelers. According to Indian stories, a bear will lie in a dark and secluded retreat all winter without food or nourishment, sucking its paws. The bear does not burrow in the ground, but covers himself with fallen leaves. Over the den the snow is often many feet deep, and the bear's hiding place is only discovered by an air hole so small that nothing but the keen eye of a savage could find it. The Indians say that the Rocky mountain bear lie thus in a torpid state from December until March.

Increase Your Weight.

If you are losing flesh and blood, commence at once taking Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which is far ahead of all other preparations of the kind in existence. By taking Miller's Emulsion people gain from 5 to 10 lbs. by the time the first bottle is consumed. It is the greatest blessing of the century to all in delicate health, or who suffer with coughs, colds and ailments that tend to consumption. Remember, Miller's Emulsion contains all the constituents found in wheat. It is used in the hospitals and asylums of the country. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all Drug Stores.

As a pick-me-up after excessive exertion or exposure, Millburn's Beef, Iron and Wine is grateful and comforting.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN
NERVINE TONIC
AND Stomach and Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar.
It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the proprietors and manufacturers of the Great South American Nervine Tonic, and yet its great value as a curative agent has long been known by a few of the most learned physicians, who have not brought its merits and value to the knowledge of the general public.

This medicine has completely solved the problem of the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia, and diseases of the general nervous system. It is also of the greatest value in the cure of all forms of failing health from whatever cause. It performs this by the great nervine tonic qualities which it possesses, and by its great curative powers upon the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver and the bowels. No remedy compares with this wonderfully valuable Nervine Tonic as a builder and strengthener of the life forces of the human body, and as a great renewer of a broken-down constitution. It is also of more real permanent value in the treatment and cure of diseases of the lungs than any consumption remedy ever used on this continent. It is a marvelous cure for nervousness of females of all ages. Ladies who are approaching the critical period known as change in life, should not fail to use this great Nervine Tonic, almost constantly, for the space of two or three years. It will carry them safely over the danger. This great strengthener and curative is of inestimable value to the aged and infirm, because its great energizing properties will give them a new hold on life. It will add ten or fifteen years to the lives of many of those who will use a half dozen bottles of the remedy each year.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual. Nine-tenths of all the ailments to which the human family is heir are dependent on nervous exhaustion and impaired digestion. When there is an insufficient supply of nerve food in the blood, a general state of debility of the brain, spinal marrow, and nerves is the result. Starved nerves, like starved muscles, become strong when the right kind of food is supplied; and a thousand weaknesses and ailments disappear as the nerves recover. As the nervous system must supply all the power by which the vital forces of the body are carried on, it is the first to suffer for want of perfect nutrition. Ordinary food does not contain a sufficient quantity of the kind of nutriment necessary to repair the wear our present mode of living and labor imposes upon the nerves. For this reason it becomes necessary that a nerve food be supplied. This South American Nervine has been found by analysis to contain the essential elements out of which nerve tissue is formed. This accounts for its universal adaptability to the cure of all forms of nervous derangement.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., Aug. 20, '86.
To the Great South American Medicine Co.:
DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves. I tried every medicine I could hear of, but nothing done me any appreciable good until I was advised to try your Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and since using several bottles of it I must say that I am surprised at its wonderful powers to cure the stomach and general nervous system. If everyone knew the value of this remedy as I do you would not be able to supply the demand.
J. A. HARDEE, Ex-Treas. Montgomery Co.

REBECCA WILKINSON, of Brownsvalley, Ind., says: "I had been in a distressed condition for three years from Nervousness, Weakness of the Stomach, Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, until my health was gone. I had been doctoring constantly, with no relief. I bought one bottle of South American Nervine, which done me more good than any $50 worth of doctoring I ever did in my life. I would advise every weakly person to use this valuable and lovely remedy; a few bottles of it has cured me completely. I consider it the grandest medicine in the world."

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITAS' DANCE OR CHOREA.
CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., June 22, 1887.
My daughter, eleven years old, was severely afflicted with St. Vitus' Dance or Chorea. We gave her three and one-half bottles of South American Nervine and she is completely restored. I believe it will cure every case of St. Vitus' Dance. I have kept it in my family for two years, and am sure it is the greatest remedy in the world for Indigestion and Dyspepsia, and for all forms of Nervous Disorders and Failing Health, from whatever cause.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA.
The Great South American Nervine Tonic

Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach. No person can afford to pass by this jewel of incalculable value who is affected by disease of the stomach, because the experience and testimony of many go to prove that this is the ONE and ONLY ONE great cure in the world for this universal destroyer. There is no case of unmalignant disease of the stomach which can resist the wonderful curative powers of the South American Nervine Tonic.

HARRIET E. HAY of Waynetown, Ind., says: "I owe my life to the Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted stomach, Indigestion, Nervous Prostration, and a general shattered condition of my whole system. Had given up all hopes of getting well. Had tried three doctors, with no relief. The first bottle of the Nervine Tonic improved me so much that I was able to walk about, and a few bottles cured me entirely. I believe it is the best medicine in the world. I can not recommend it too highly."

MRS. ELLA A. BRATTON, of New Ross, Indiana, says: "I cannot express how much I owe to the Nervine Tonic. My system was completely shattered, appetite gone, was coughing and spitting up blood; am sure I was in the first stages of consumption, an inheritance handed down through several generations. I began taking the Nervine Tonic, and continued its use for about six months, and am entirely cured. It is the grandest remedy for nerves, stomach and lungs I have ever seen."

No remedy compares with SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE as a cure for the Nerves. No remedy compares with South American Nervine as a wondrous cure for the Stomach. No remedy will at all compare with South American Nervine as a cure for all forms of failing health. It never fails to cure Indigestion and Dyspepsia. It never fails to cure Chorea or St. Vitus' Dance. Its powers to build up the whole system are wonderful in the extreme. It cures the old, the young, and the middle aged. It is a great friend to the aged and infirm. Do not neglect to use this precious boon. If you do, you may neglect the only remedy which will restore you to health. South American Nervine is perfectly safe, and very pleasant to the taste. Delicate ladies, do not fail to use this great cure, because it will put the bloom of freshness and beauty upon your lips and in your cheeks, and quickly drive away your disabilities and weaknesses.

DESIRABLE

Is the Word Which Applies to the Skirt Below.

I have seen a very pretty and practical new skirt which gives hope of doing over gowns for the coming style. This skirt fits close over the hips and to about the knee. Here a ruffle constitutes the rest of the skirt and extends to the ground. The ruffle is full and has the required flare. Of course, it is easy enough to cut off the old skirt at the knees and set on a ruffle for the cut-off parts. If the gown is of cloth, the ruffle can be of velvet or silk. If of silk, then use a fancy silk that harmonizes. If of fancy or painted silk, make the ruffle part a plain color that carries out the shade of some part of the design in the other silk, and cover the ruffle with lace. The suggestions regarding silk apply also to wash fabrics. Now, follow me as I describe a ball toilette in silk muslin, garlanded with flowers. The underslip was corn colored-taffeta and the skirt was white muslin dotted with silk spots. The garlands which ornament the costume were of Parma violets primroses and heather, rising in the middle of a fairly-sized bunch and disposed as indicated in the engraving. The skirt was round and had two small flounces, the upper one of which was partly hidden by a wreath of the flowers. The taffeta skirt had also a small flounce on the bottom, and at the top it was gathered, all the fullnes possible being thrown towards the back of the skirt. The waist was closed behind and the fastening concealed by folds that start from underneath the decollete bodice. These pleats were fastened to the lining and sewn in at the same time as the lining itself underneath the arm. In front the waist had something the form of a high waist-belt, and the top was divided into shirrings by the wreath of flowers. The sleeves were very high, puffed, and tightly fitting at the bottom, where they kept in place by an elastic.

FLORETTE.

Eureka!

Eureka is from a Greek word meaning "I have found it." Archimedes was consulted by Hiero, King of Syracuse, in regard to a gold crown suspected of being alloyed with silver. How was the fraud, if any, to be detected? The mathematician pondered over the matter, and was still pondering, well-nigh hopeless of a solution, when he got into his bath. The bath was full and overflowed. Then the thought occurred to him: Exactly as much water must overflow as was equal in volume to the size of his body. Quick as lightning came another thought: If he put the crown into a vessel of water and weighed the overflow, then put into the water a piece of pure gold weighing exactly as much as the crown, the overflow should weigh exactly as much in one case as in the other provided the crown was pure. Electrified by the thought, he leaped from the bath and ran through the streets shouting: "Eureka! Eureka!" This test proved that the smith had, in fact, cheated the king. The cry is now familiarly used as an exclamation of triumph at a discovery. It is the motto of the State of California, in allusion to the discovery of gold there.

The Electrical Taste

Physicians explain in an interesting fashion that the electric current when applied to the tongue seems to taste sour. The gustatory or tasting nerves, according to the doctors, are industrious and well-meaning little things, and, although it is not their business to take cognizance of any impression made by touch, they do their best to look after anything that happens to come in their way. Thus, when subjected to the electric current, they telegraph the fact in their own language to the brain, and as their language is exclusively that of taste they inform the brain that an electric current is sour. The ordinary unscientific citizen, having confidence in the stories told by his gustatory nerves, really believes that the electric current has an acid taste.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1.

SPRING STALLION SHOW.

THE SEVENTH ANNUAL PROVINCIAL MEET.

The Show in Many Respects Ahead of Previous Ones—Large Attendance of Spectators—The Names of the Successful Prize-Winners.

TORONTO, March 9.—The seventh annual Provincial Spring Stallion Show had a very auspicious opening at the Drill Shed yesterday in so far as the quality of the exhibit was concerned and the attendance of spectators. On the whole this year's show will compare very favorably with previous ones, and in some respects it is superior, notably so in the thoroughbred class, in which there were fifteen entries, all of which lined up for inspection before Judge Pringle. They were a fine lot of animals, the finest, in fact, that have ever entered a competitive show ring in this city, and it was by no means an easy matter for Mr. Pringle to select the ribbooners. An hour was passed before the result was announced, when the much-coveted red tape was hung over the neck of Mr. W. H. Millman's entry, Dandie Dinmont, the blue ribbon falling to Wyndham, Mr. S. B. Fuller's entry, and the white to Quinn & Carter's handsome stallion Wiley Buckles. Subsequently in the sweepstakes Wiley Buckles came off the victor.

Of the ten entries in the standard-bred and roadsters' class nine responded and Proteus, 10741, by Balaklava, dam Phallas Maid, by Phallas, 2.18¼, was the lucky first and Oliver Wilkes second, the latter securing the red ribbon in the sweepstakes. Sick Headache BEECHAM'S PILLS.

"CHARLIE ROSS."

A Young Man in Toronto Thinks He Is the Missing Child.

TORONTO, March 9.—S.B. Cousins, a salesman for the Canada Paper Company, who resides at 247 Brunswick-avenue, would like to find his papa.

Mr. Cousins appears to be about 20 years of age, is a blond and a little peculiar and vague in his manner and statements.

He said: "I do not know who I am. I remember one time to have been playing in a street with my brother, when two men asked us to take a ride in a wagon. After they had gone a little way they stopped and sent my brother away, but took me on with them, and some time afterwards I was turned over to a man with ginger-colored whiskers, who kept me, and with whom I traveled in various parts of the world. His home seemed to be in France, as we stopped there longest, and there I was baptized. The man's name was Cousin or Cousin in English, and he had two sons, whom I called brothers, and I, of course, called the man my father. After much wandering from place to place we came one day to Eastbourne in England, where we stopped at a hotel. During the day a company of soldiers came marching through the town, and in my boyish enthusiasm I followed them far out of the city, being completely lost, and was at last picked up by the police in a town 15 miles distant. I was at that time perhaps 11 years of age. I was sent by the police to a photographer in Hastings, England, named Thomas, at 45 George-street, that photographs might be made of me and sent to various other cities so that, if possible, I might be returned to Mr. Cousins. The photographer kept me, and as no one came for me I was given in charge of Mr. Williams, who brought me to Canada. Mr. Williams now lives just above Hamilton, and with him I made my home until I came to Toronto a few years ago.

"After residing here some little time I was invited to the home of Mr. George F. Stephenson, barrister, through church associations, and during the evening in answer to an enquiry as to my parentage I told him what I knew of my past life and my abduction from home. He was much interested and told me the story of Charley Ross, which until then I had never known.

"After some time Mr. Stephenson concluded to write to Mr. Ross and tell him the story of my life, which seemed to coincide in so many particulars with that of his son. Since then Mr. Stephenson has had several letters from Mr. Ross. I have also corresponded with him myself, and I have concluded best to take a trip to Philadelphia and if possible solve the mystery of my parentage."

Satolli Excommunicates Two Disobedient Priests.

TRENTON, N.J., March 9.—Bishop O'Farrell has announced to Vicar-General Faul that Rev. Father P. A. Treacy of Bergen and his brother, Father W. B. P. Treacy, of Swedesboro, have been excommunicated from the Catholich church owing to their disobedience to the commands of Apostolic Delegate Satolli. Bishop O'Farrell will now take steps to instal Rev. Father Leahy in possession of the church at Swedesboro, to which he was recently appointed, but was denied admission by Father Treacy.

Some time ago Bishop O'Farrell, though Mgr. Satolli, issued orders to the priests, which they refused to obey, and defied the Bishop and apostolic delegate.

The arrival of New Spring Millinery has begun at the GOLDEN LION. Our advance styles are the welcome harbingers of spring—marked and exclusive enough in effect and design to suit the anticipations of lovers of the beautiful—but only a partial foretaste of the marvels of the marts of fashion yet to come.

Our Miss Neild and Miss Armstrong have just returned from visiting the leading centres of fashion, and have accomplished their tasks with unusual satisfaction. Their selections are modelled after the most approved advices recently received from abroad, and comprise many new and original novelties and effects which are sure to be favourably received by the ladies of Peterborough.

March winds have also blown us bargains in Irish Point Lace. We are not "undersellers," but yet we know that nowhere can you do better on such goods as these.

You can also tell by our prices that we mean to do the Embroidery trade of the town. You have your choice of any pattern of 15c. Embroidery for 10c., because we bought a great job lot of them, and a glance at the lengths will decide you as to their unusual value.

PANAMA CANAL AFFAIRS

CONFESSIONS COMING LIKE THUNDER CLAPS.

M. Baihaut Asks Pardon from His Country—Says He Cannot Understand How He Could Have Fallen So Low—Thinks He Has Sullied France.

PARIS, March 10.—Interest in the Panama trial is increasing, and the greatest curiosity is shown as to coming developments. It is reported that the frankness with which Charles De Lesseps told his story has caused surprise and some consternation in certain high circles, and that considerable anxiety has been felt in the same quarters as to subsequent testimony. The approaches to the Palais de Justice, as well as the court room, were thronged this morning, and there was a buzz of gossip among the spectators, which lasted until the presiding judge, Desjardines, took his seat.

The judge proceeded to interrogate M. Marcus Fontaine. The latter stated in reply that he was a member of the Board of Management of the Panama Canal Company when the transactions with M. Baihaut occurred. He described the visit of M. Blondin, who assured the board that M. Baihaut would introduce a bill authorizing the lottery bonds if the Panama Canal Company would make a substantial pecuniary sacrifice, and that the money would be used to procure publicity for the scheme.

M. Fontain further admitted that, acting under the direction of Charles de Lesseps, he visited M. Blondin. He found M. Baihaut there. Baihaut said:

"The money in question will be used in promoting the interests of the country."

Charles de Lesseps thereupon proceeded to discuss with M. Blondin the question of the million francs claimed by Baihaut. The matter was eventually settled at Fontane's residence.

In reply to the presiding judge, M. Fontane continued: "Some of the drafts payable to bearer were issued to pay for advertising, and others to satisfy the robbers who had waylaid us like footpads."

This closed the interrogation of M. Fontane for the time being and next followed the great sensation of the day.

M. Baihaut was called upon to answer interrogatories, the presiding judge addressing the questions to the accused. M. Baihaut showed a disposition at first to throw the blame upon M. Blondin who had acted as the go-between in the negotiations. Baihaut said:

"I acted at the instigation of Blondin, to whom I gave 7500 francs. I have wished to restore the money I received, but I feared thereby to accuse myself."

Up to this moment M. Baihaut had spoken clearly and with apparent self-control. Now he broke down, and with a pitiful expression of sorrow and despair he exclaimed in a broken voice:

"I acknowledge having been led astray. I am guilty! My words express my grief, and repentance I feel. I do not understand how I could have fallen so low. I ask pardon of my country, whose good name I have perhaps sullied!"

As soon as M. Baihaut regained his self-control, he said: "I submit in advance to any sentence which the court may pass upon me."

M. Blondin was questioned by the presiding judge as to how he came to act as intermediary between the Panama Company and M. Baihaut. He admitted that he had settled matters connected with the payment of the bribe. Charles DeLesseps had handed M. Baihaut 250,000 francs at M. Baihaut's house and 125,000 more in the lobby of the Senate.

M. Baihaut, recalled and cross-examined by counsel for the Panama creditors, stated that M. Blondon had obtained a commission on the transaction between him and M. DeLesseps.

In the midst of M. Baihaut's statement M. Fontaine sprang to his feet and shouted: "That statement is a tissue of falsehoods. The witness has not spoken a word of truth."

Turning upon his accuser, M. Baihaut said, slowly:

"I affirm that what I have said is the exact truth, and nothing but the truth."

M. Sans-Leroy, Senator Beral and Deputies Dugue de la Fanconnerie and Antonin Proust and ex-Deputy Gobron were also

DE LESSEPS ANGRY.

He Charges the Government With Attempting to Use Him as a Tool.

LONDON, March 10.—The Paris correspondent of The Morning Post says: Charles de Lesseps told a friend that prior to the recent trial he had been promised a minimum sentence if he was able to implicate any Rightists.

He replied that this was beyond his power, because, so far as he knew, no Rightists were implicated.

As he had received the maximum sentence he said he would now show no mercy towards the authorities.

INDIAN TROUBLES.

Threatened Against White Settlers in Montana.

LAUREL, Montana, March 10.—The settlers on the newly opened portion of the Crow reservation are at war with the Indians. Ranchmen are moving their families to the towns. The trouble is over the shooting of Little Face by a homesteader named Henderson and two friends. The Indians are angered at the encroachments of the whites and are preparing for a war of extermination.

The Referendum in Belgium.

BRUSSELS, March 10.—M. Grimard, President of the Referendum Committee, under whose auspices a popular vote of the manhood suffrage was taken on Feb. 26, yesterday presented to King Leopold a report of election. The King, in reply to his address, said he himself was a strong friend of liberty and has asked repeatedly but in vain for a royal referendum in matters of the military and personal service. He counselled patience among the advocates of universal suffrage until the necessary two-thirds majority should be secured in the Chamber.

Selling Wives and Children.

SHANGHAI, March 10.—The Chinese Government disputes the Russian version of the Pamirs protocol of 1884, and has ordered its Minister in St. Petersburg to maintain unyieldingly China's position. A famine prevails throughout the northern part of the Province of Shen-Si.

OTTAWA NOTES.

Division on the Manitoba Separate School Question.

OTTAWA, March 10.—The division bell did not ring in the Commons until 5.30, the last speakers being Sir Adolphe Caron and Messrs. Brodeur, Daly, McCarthy, O'Brien, Hughes, Lavergne, McNeill and Fauvel. Mr. Tarte's amendment was lost, 71 for to 120 against. There were seven pairs. Messrs. McCarthy, O'Brien, Fauvelle, Poliotier and Dugas, Conservatives, voted with the Opposition. The vote of the three last was rather unexpected.

Yesterday's proceedings in the House were neither long nor very interesting. The attendance was very slim and there was a tired look about nearly everybody but Mr. Foster, who assumed the leadership and looked as bright and alert as usual. The balance of the supplementary estimates were run through, and then Mr. Foster moved that in view of the long session the House be adjourned at 6 o'clock, which gave general satisfaction.

Sir John and Lady Thompson, with their two daughters and Lady Caron and Mr. Douglas Stewart, private secretary, left for New York at 3.25 yesterday in the special car Cumberland by the Canada Atlantic Railway. The car was beautifully decorated with wreaths of smilax and bunches and baskets of cut flowers, and will run through to New York. The station was crowded with senators, members and pressmen, about 100 being present to give the leader a hearty send-off.

Sir John and Lady Thompson and Lady Caron were each the recipient of a handsome bouquet from the Conservative party, presented through the whips. His Excellency also sent by Lord Kilcoursie, A.D.C., a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers, and the Conservative pressmen in the gallery presented Lady Thompson, through Mr. Fred Cook, president of the gallery, with a very pretty bunch of lilies of the valley and ferns.

There was a lot of handshaking and tender farewells and as the train steamed out of the station ringing cheers went up for Sir John, who stood on the front platform, and for Lady Thompson, who was on the rear platform.

The Senate Divorce Committee sat this morning to hear the evidence in the Doran divorce case. Mr. John A. Gemmill, barrister, Ottawa, appeared for the petitioner, and the evidence showed that James Frederick Doran of Lachine married in Winnipeg in 1883 Mary Augusta, daughter of the late Chief Justice Wood. After living together for a few months, Doran's wife left him and they had not since lived together.

Mr. Hogan of the St. Lawrence Hall, Montreal, testified as to Mrs. Doran since stopping at his hotel and being too intimate there with a French wine merchant on several occasions. Mr. Henshaw of Montreal, one of the groomsmen at the marriage, proved the marriage of Doran to Miss Wood.

The committee adjourned until Monday.

The many friends of Dr. Ferguson, M.P. for Leeds and Grenville, who has been dangerously ill at his home since the opening of the session, will be pleased to learn that he is rapidly recovering and is now able to be up for a few hours each day.

CONFESSED HIS GUILT.

The Defaulter Tells What a Good Time He Had in Toronto.

WILLIAMSBURG, N. Y., March 10.—Henry Mohr, the defaulting bookkeeper for furniture dealer John A. Schwarz of Broadway and Park-avenue, Williamsburgh, N.Y., who absconded to Toronto about five weeks ago with $500 in cash and a lot of checks that were given to him to deposit in bank, was arraigned in the Lee-avenue Police Court in Williamsburgh, yesterday. On the way back from Toronto he said he had had a glorious time there and was willing to stand punishment for his offence. In court he greeted his employer pleasantly and asked him how he felt. He pleaded guilty to the charge. He said that on the day he went away a sudden impulse to steal seized him and he couldn't resist it. He added that he had had opportunities many times to steal thousands of dollars, but wouldn't do it.

After Justice Connolly remanded him to await the action of the grand jury a supposed relative engaged a lawyer to defend him, and he was re-arraigned in court and pleaded not guilty. Bail was fixed at $1500. It was said afterwards that an effort would be made to have the case settled.

BACTERIA IMPORTED.

One Way of Introducing Disease Into New York.

NEW YORK, March 10.—A quantity of rags landed here from Bremen, on Dec. 9 last, on a permit issued by Dr. Jenkins, have been found on examination by medical experts to contain bacteria. Dr. Paul Gibier, who made the examination of the rags, says there is no reason why diseases of any kind cannot be contained in such matter. They would consequently be dangerous for any one who comes in contact with them and might be the means of spreading an epidemic.

STABBED IN THE BRAIN.

Awful Murder In an Algoma Lumber Camp.

TORONTO, March 10.—News reached the city yesterday of a frightful murder near Webbwood, Algoma, and the Ontario Government will be asked to send a detective to the scene. It seems a man brought in two bottles of whisky to Stone & Berrill's camp near Webbwood, intending one for himself and one for a friend. The friend seized the two bottles and treated the boys, which annoyed the first man so much that he drew his knife and stabbed him, breaking off about two inches of the blade in his head. The poor fellow was taken to the doctor at Webbwood, but died when about five miles on his way back.

Friends In Need.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 10.—The friends of Governor McKinley, author of the famous tariff bill, have subscribed sufficient money to pay his debts. A short time ago the Governor lost all his wealth by the failures of factories in which he had largely invested.

DUNDAS MARSH AFFAIR.

The Idea of Murder Is No Longer Entertained.

DUNDAS, March 10.—An inquest on the body of Daniel Welsh, found recently in the Dundas Marsh, was held yesterday. From the testimony it is probable that the old soldier wandered into the marsh during a storm and perished. The inquest was adjourned for a week, when a post-mortem examination will be made.

STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

SIR,—It is unfortunate that the management of municipal matters in the past has been such as to afford reasonable grounds for suspicion that private, and not public considerations are dictating the present civic activity in reference to street railway matters. It is just at such a juncture as the present that the municipal broker and wire-puller gets in big work and makes big money, appropriating to himself the advantage and profit attending the disposal of important franchises, which should belong to the public, and Peterborough has suffered severely at the hands of such schemers, and may do so again, if her citizens are not watchful.

At the time the C.P.R. came here, streets which had cost much money to fill in were given away, without compensation to residents, George street and the river permanently blocked without return to the town, whilst councillors were travelling about the country on free passes and receiving extravagant prices for their own land.

In the same way matters were manipulated on the deal with the Edison company so that councillors personally made money out of it while the town was shamelessly salted, and we have not seen the end of it yet.

It is now quite evident that neither of the last applicants for the charter ever intended to build the road, but wanted control of it only for the advantages attending its disposal, the one seeking a customer for their power the other for their plant.

Now the town have a right to have the charter disposed of in their own interest, and not in the interest of any individual company or clique, and it is to be hoped that the present council will prove itself more honest than some of its predecessors and insist on this.

Let such reasonable terms and conditions be attached to the grant as are in the public interest only, and as will safeguard them in the hands of any corporation and give it to the first company willing to take it upon these terms. If there is then any competition for it, offer it for sale by tender to the highest bidder as Toronto did, and make it a source of revenue to the town. From the feverish haste of one competitor and the anxiety of others it appears to be worth something; if it is, let the town get the benefit and not the power companies.

A few thousand dollars would help our finances very materially at the present time and its payment would be the best guarantee we could have for the future prosecution of the work. Had this been done on the occasion of the last flurry, if neither company meant business we would have known it on the spot and been saved all the time and money which was spent over it. Had either company been in earnest we would have had our road ere this.

Councillors never had a better opportunity of proving their fidelity and business capacity than by making this transaction a civic success and source of profit.

Yours,
PRO BONO PUBLICO.

A Splendid Portrait.

There is on exhibition in the window of Mr. Clegg, George street, a handsome portarit of the late Miss Mamie McNeil, the 10 year old daughter of Mr. A McNeil, who died in November last. The painting is an oil size 25x30 and is encased in a costly gilt frame of a very pretty pattern. Mr. T. Workman was the artist, and the naturalness, tone and finish of the work reflect deserved credit on his well known artistic ability.

Wedded at Rochester, N.Y.

A happy event took place at the residence of Mrs. Payne, 101 North Avenue, Rochester, on Wednesday evening, March 1st, when her daughter, Miss Kate Payne, formerly of Peterborough, was married to Mr. Geo. A. Koehler, of Irondequoit. Rev. J. N. Brown officiated. The bridesmaid was Miss Polly Payne, sister of the bride, while the office of best man was performed by Mr. T. Millar. Great Promise for Wood Manufacturers.

It is only quite recently that manufacturers of furniture, wagons and wood work generally have become aware of the wonderful promise offered by North Galveston, Texas. Directly tributary to this young city, and not many miles distant, in Eastern Texas, are over 40,000,000 acres of timber which comprises all of the high grade hard and soft woods.

Many people are coming in and are now doing business, but there is room for a great many more. With rail and water facilities for shipping, and markets in all directions, there should not be any hesitation about the outcome of manufacturing ventures. For further particulars, call on or write Mr. T. Hurley, Peterborough, Ont., the local agent. The address of the home office is North Galveston Association, Box 988, Minneapolis, Minn.

RE. THE QUARREL IN THE LOBBY.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Permit me through the columns of your valued paper to contradict a part of the cablegram which appeared in Tuesday evening's paper. I allude to the despatch which described the quarrel between Colonel Sanderson and Mr. Redmond, M.P.s., in the lobby of the House of Commons. The part which I want to contradict is this. "Colonel Sanderson who, by the way, is not an Irishman but a native of Scotland." I desire to say that Col. Sanderson is an Irishman whose ancestors have been in Ireland for the past three centuries. In the reign of James the Second there was a reward of one thousand pounds for any person who would bring one of Colonel Sanderson's forefathers to Dublin, dead or alive, and Castle Sanderson, which is re-built on the banks of Lough Erin, at Belturbet, County Cavan, the home of the present colonel, at that time was burned to the ground by the followers of James the Second, 1688. Hoping you will kindly insert this

I am yours,
W. H. G. ARMSTRONG,
Sherbrooke street.

Peterborough, March 7th, 1893.

IT WAS AN INTERESTING COMPARISON.

In the city of Ottawa there are two mothers in comfortable circumstances, who have had rather an interesting experience since October last.

One of the mothers was blessed with a baby girl on the 10th October; and the other received her babe with rejoicing on the 17th of the same month; both mothers are intimate and close friends.

About the first week in November, the mothers decided to use artificial foods for their babes, as the supply of breast milk was not sufficient for the proper nourishment of the little ones. The mother whose child was born on the 17th October wisely decided to use Lactated Food, after consulting her physician. The other mother was influenced by the advice of an aunt, and commenced the use of one of the artificial foods of foreign make, and which lacked the life-giving properties so much needed by infants.

The result is summed up as follows by the successful mother:—"In the second week of January my baby was bright, strong and happy, and weighed five pounds more than my friend's baby, which was the heavier one when born. I give Lactated Food the credit for my baby's amazing progress and good health; and I am glad to inform you that my friend has decided to give up the food she commenced with, and use Lactated Food in the future."

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. C. Young who has a large contract for cedar and other timber from the city of Toronto, has been absent almost continuously during the past two weeks visiting Kinmount, Haliburton, Norwood and several other places purchasing such timber as he may require.

Several of the farmers from this vicinity attended the lecture on winter dairying, etc., delivered at Selwyn on Tuesday afternoon and evening.

Miss Minnie Wier, of Peterborough, is visiting friends here.

Miss Maggie Kearney and Miss Emma Scollard have returned after a short visit to friends in Selwyn.

Miss Maggie Kearney took a prominent part in the musical selections rendered between the lectures at the Farmers' institute meeting held at Selwyn on Tuesday night.

Mr. Peter Cummings who returned home some time ago from the Muskoka district, having had his leg broken, is, we are pleased to say, rapidly progressing towards recovery, and expects soon to be able to trip the "light fantastic."

The steamer "Mary Ellen" which has been wintering in the locks here is to receive a thorough overhauling and repainting this spring. As Mr. P. P. Young, the proprietor, informed your correspondent that he expected trade to be a great deal better than usual this coming summer. The numerous friends of Capt. Scollard are pleased to hear he is again to be in charge of her with Mr. Ed. Young as mate.

The government photographer passed through here, yesterday. He photographed our school, to be sent to the world's fair.

Mr. Richard Heard, of Smith, lost a valuable horse. They were falling timber in the woods and one of the trees falling struck the horse on the head and killed it instantly.

GOUGH BROS.' CABINET FORMED AND A POLICY DECIDED ON!

February is the month of clearing up. Goughs have re-organized business for 1893 and start out to clear off the slate for spring. Trade for 1892 has been larger than ever. Profits have been smaller. Goughs have cut their prices to meet the low price of wheat; and if wheat goes lower, down go Goughs' prices. They will not be undersold by the farmer or see the farmer undersold.

CLEARING UP THE STOCK FOR SPRING.

Stock-taking is over. A lot of odd lots remain. These must go. Goughs will almost give them away to clear. Come in and run through the counters and see your opportunity.

FIRE IN BEAMSVILLE.

The Business Portion Destroyed—A Hard Fight—Timely Help from Grimsby.

BEAMSVILLE, Ont., March 10.—About 2 o'clock yesterday morning our villagers were aroused by the alarm of fire. On hurrying to the scene it was found that the general store of Henry & Oldham was a mass of flames. It was at once apparent there was no hope for either building or contents, and the efforts of the firemen were concentrated on saving the adjoining buildings.

The firemen worked like Trojans and the officers of the brigade showed excellent judgment in directing their efforts. But despite every exertion of the firemen and citizens before the flames were brought under control about 5 o'clock Henry & Oldham's general store, Ryckman's tailoring establishment, Cornwall's dry goods and groceries, Knights of Labor Hall and C. Jeffries' boot and shoe store, with almost the entire contents, were reduced to ashes.

Fortunately the night was exceptionally calm, and a heavy rain falling, or there is no telling where the fire would have been stayed. As it is, the best business portion of King-street is in ruins and the loss almost irreparable.

How the fire originated is a mystery as far as can be learned. When discovered the lower part of the building was burning so furiously that no one could enter to save anything, and the firemen's efforts were turned to saving Allan & Co.'s store on the east, and to keep the fire out of Cornwall's on the west. They were successful in the former, but the latter fell a victim, quickly followed by Jeffries' and it is very doubtful if it would have ended here, but just at the critical moment the gallant boys from Grimsby dashed up to the scene on the jump, and almost before it was known they were here had their machine unlimbered and went to work with a will.

The help was most timely, and our citizens owe them a debt of gratitude they cannot soon repay. Henry & Oldham had an insurance on their stock of some $7300, on the building $3500. George Beatty had $2000 on the building occupied by W. Cornwall. C. Jeffries had $1500 on building and stock, part of the latter saved. W. Cornwall, loss not known; little or nothing saved. Mr. Ryckman, no insurance; lost all.

Elderly people remember their spring bitters with a shudder. The present generation have much to be thankful for, not the least of their blessings being such a pleasant and thoroughly effective spring medicine as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is a health-restorer and health-maintainer.

DECOLLETE

Florette Moralizes About What Constitutes Modesty.

The contour of the neck depends a great deal upon the curve or line described by the cut of the low necked bodice. Few women present graceful curves from all points of view. Many women having a baby-like fullness of throat and smoothness of chest are ugly over the shoulders. For such the evening bodice should set well up on the shoulders, letting the arm line extend up over the shoulder, rather than permitting the shoulder line to be unbroken down on to the arm. This class of figure is also apt to have a somewhat hollow place just below the faulty shoulder line, in front. So, for two reasons, the "off shoulder" cut is undesirable. The bodice should be cut almost square at the sides, till well beyond the ugly part. If the figure below this is well developed, the bodice may be cut low and a little wider at the bust than at the shoulders. The line across will curve down a little. Such a cut in itself does not describe a true, or a graceful curve. Its excuse is that by it the best points of the particular figure it displays, are emphasized, and the defects concealed. Properly speaking, such a woman should not wear low necked gowns; she should only have them cut well away at the throat and chest in a round baby style. Only the woman with a well-shaped neck can wear a bodice cut out according to the lines of beauty in themselves. And only a neck bared along lines beautiful in themselves, will give to the owner an air of distinction instead of undress. It is thus not a question of how low a gown is cut that decides its modesty. A woman with a beautifully modeled neck exposed by a dress open along harmonious lines will look only a thing of grace and beauty, though the actual expanse of flesh exposed may be far greater than that bared to the world by a dumpy little person whose gown must be cut to cover defects and opened to show here and there patches that are not so bad. The one, somehow, seems bare; the other is more modestly clothed by her beauty than even by her draperies.

FLORETTE.

HOLDING THE REINS.

The night was clear, the sleighing good,
The cutter seat not wide;
She snuggled close beneath the robe
To her fond lover's side;
The horse was spirited and jumped,
With frequent tugs and strains,
Until she innocently said:
"Do let me hold the reins!"

They're married now, perhaps because
She was so helpful then;
She loves him well, and he loves her—
Well, in the way of men;
And yet in all their sweet delight
One sad thought makes him wince;
She held the reins that winter's night—
She's held them ever since.

The Farmer's Mistake.

The farmer that is willing to pay a good price for a horse or a cow draws the line on poultry sometimes. He wishes high prices for his poultry and eggs, but he hesitates before he will pay more than a dollar for a pure-bred male. He really, by so doing, disparages the very business he is engaged in. What he should do is to aim to secure the best male to be had, without regard to cost, as such an investment would be returned to him ten-fold.

Catarrh in the head is a constitutional disease, and requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla to effect a cure.

Too Lazy to be Rich or Poor.

A lazier man than the average Burman it would be extremely hard to find. When it is absolutely necessary for him to work he generally hits upon some method which will save him a lot of exertion. If he wishes to cultivate a piece of ground he sets light to the brushwood as a cheap, easy and efficacious method of preparing the soil. For two or three years he cultivates that piece of land, and then sets light to another spot, allowing the jungle to grow in the old place, which will be ready for reburning when the other ground wants a rest. Rice growers dispense with plows, turning loose instead a number of buffaloes, which cut up the saturated soil with their hoofs. When a Burman has earned a little money he immediately proceeds to spend it all, for the Burmese have no ambition to be rich and never hoard. Consequently there are no large landowners, and there being no aristocracy the people are as near being on an equality as possible. Poor people are about as rare as rich people, and the only beggars to be met with are the lepers, who sit on the steps of the pagodas.—Current Literature.

This Was a Long Time Ago.

A most remarkable thing is reported to have occurred at Naples in the year 1531. Antonio Lazzetti, a beggar who had formerly resided at Tarentum, but who on account of age had been sent to a home for the aged at one or the other of the places mentioned, experienced a complete renewal of life. At the beginning of the transformation he was little less than ninety years of age. The first thing noticed which suggested that something extraordinary was about to take place was in his skin, which cracked and came off like that of a toad or snake, leaving a soft, new skin instead of the wrinkled cuticle that had been worn for four score years and a half. Within a surprising short time his flaccid old muscles became strong and plump, the white hairs fell from his head and curly black hair, similar to that which had so delighted the maidens 74 years before, appeared. His eyesight also returned with all the vigor of youth; his complexion seemed fresh and rosy; in fact, he was a new man from the soles of his feet to the crown of his head. He lived sixty years after this transformation, and then died at the age of 150.—Philadelphia Press.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a friend's place one day,
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the bore" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a blank trick,
When one's coil must be shuffled to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.
HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion
On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontined, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Goverment Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

A Long to be Remembered Fox Hunt.

An exciting and quaint fox hunt occurred yesterday afternoon. Six jolly sportsmen, Messrs. M. O'Brien, A. Paterson, J. Gould, T. Sabin, H. C. Winch, and Herb. Kent of Vancouver, B. C., left town determined to procure the scalps of half-a-dozen reynards. The nimrods betook themselves to Robinson's woods near Springville. They had two sets of dogs and started two runs. One run wound up near where Mr. Kent was patrolling. He raised his "fowling piece," aimed and fired. The wary fox was too agile and escaped unscathed, excepting that he left his "brush" behind him. Mr. Kent completely severed the tail from the fox's body and now has the "brush" in his possession. The other run has not wound up yet and a set of dogs are still in pursuit. Intense sport was had, and although the search was not as successful as it might have been, still all returned home satisfied.

THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY FRANCHISE QUESTION NEARING A FOCUS

The Three Companies State their Claims Before the Railway Committee Last Night—An Agreement Agreed to and Signed—The Franchise May be Awarded at To-night's Meeting of the Council.

Last night the Railway Committee of the town council met at the clerk's office, all the members of the council, however, being present, as well as the representatives of the several street railway interests concerned. Mr. Cahill occupied the chair.

The following propositions in reference to the street railway franchise matter were presented.

PETERBOROUGH, Nov. 7th, 1892.

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—From the last published communication of the Edison Syndicate respecting construction of street railway, we are led to infer that the negotiations between the town and those gentlemen are at an end. If you think that it is in the interest of the town that the railway should be built, or would have no objection to meet a committee of the present council and discuss the matter.

Your obedient servants,
THE PETERBOROUGH AND ASHBURNHAM STREET RAILWAY COMPANY, (Ltd.)
per
A. P. POUSSETTE,
A. STEVENSON.

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—On the 5th of December last a formal application was presented to the town council on behalf of the Canadian General Electric Company, asking for the franchise to operate an electric street railway in Peterborough. The application was referred to a special committee to consider, which committee, as far as we know, never met. The Canadian General Electric Co. were at the time of making this application and still are ready to enter into an agreement with the town council for the construction of a street railway as soon as the season is far enough advanced for the purpose, and to have that portion extending from Hilliard's mills to Weir street in operation by the first of August next, and are prepared to furnish security in $1,000 that if the franchise is granted to them they will carry out this agreement. They are also prepared, if the necessary franchise can be secured and local capital amounting to one-half of the cost of construction and equipment is obtainable, to extend the railway to Chemong Lake. They are willing that at least half of the stock of the electric railway company should be taken by any parties desiring to do so. The applicants desire to point out:

1st. That their application was received by the council 3 months ago, and before that of Messrs. Ahearn & Soper, and before it was known that these gentlemen had any idea of applying for the franchise.

2nd. That your applicants are a local company and if the franchise is granted to them the appliances for the railway will be constructed in Peterborough.

3rd. That your applicants are not only a local company but have expended in buildings, machinery, etc., in Peterborough at least $560,000, and have paid in wages and local purchases since the business was started here over $300,000 each year, equal to 5% on a capital of $6,000,000, and besides have paid and are paying large sums of money for material to other local industries and merchants.

4th. That the former applicants to whom was granted a franchise are simply private parties who were officers of the Edison General Electric Company, and who, soon after the granting of the franchise, left the employ of the company and removed from Peterborough, and your applicants are not in any way responsible for their failure to carry out their arrangement for constructing a railway.

Peterborough, March 9th, 1893.
CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. (L'T'D.)
FREDERIC NICHOLLS,
Second Vice-Pres. and General Manager.

To the Mayor and Council:

GENTLEMEN,—I wish to apply for the franchise for the town of Peterborough to build an electric railway in the town—in connection with the same I will guarantee to build the line in Peterborough and also to Chemong Park, and will give a satisfactory bond to the council that this line will be built before March 9th, 1894. I will also give another bond of $1000, that the line will be built (or progress on same to the satisfaction of your council), in the town of Peterborough before August 1st, 1893. In connection with this proposition, I would call to your attention that, in my opinion, the line in the town of Peterborough would not pay any railway company, but the line outside going to Chemong will pay, for the reason that excursions in the summer, say three months in the year going to our back waters which are principally controlled by the G.T.R. go through our town, and we do not derive any benefit whatever. If we build the line to Chemong (which is our intention) in connection with the town line—the excursion parties coming on the G.T.R. and C.P.R., will be to the benefit of our town, for the reason that the greater portion of the excursionists will spend most of their time in town and also their good dollars; also excursions from our back waters, Port Perry, Lindsay, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, will also visit our town.

I do not wish to conflict with any company, local or General Electric Company, and if any of these companies have any better proposition to make to your honourable body in the interest of the town of Peeterborough, I will withdraw my proposition.

Yours, etc.,
A. ELLIOTT.

The application of Messrs. Ahearn & Soper, of Ottawa, was also read. It was published in the EXAMINER on Tuesday in connection with the last Council meeting proceedings.

IN FAVOUR OF THE PETERBOROUGH AND ASHBURNHAM SYNDICATE.

Mr. A. P. Poussette, in support of the of the application of the Peterborough and Ashburnham syndicate, pointed out that its application was the earliest in the hands of the council. It was sent in on Nov. 7th, and the General Electric Company's on Dec. 3rd. He pointed out that his company had originally obtained their charter by the help of the town council, and it was naturally expected that their claim to the franchise would receive the best attention. Mr. Poussette further reminded the committee that the members of the Peterborough and Ashburnham company embraced some of the oldest citizens and largest ratepayers and as such were entitled to proportionate consideration. It was also to be noticed that at the last meeting of the council the matter of the purchase of the plant by any company which might get the franchise, from the Canadian General Electric Company was not insisted upon, so that the Peterborough and Ashburnham Company were prepared to comply with all the conditions fixed by the council. He also added that if the council made the line to Chemong park, a sine qua non, his company was prepared to go that far, although he submitted that that condition was not fairly one that should, under the circumstances, be urged.

IN SUPPORT OF THE C. G. E. CO'S APPLICATION.

Mr. Nicholls, vice-president of the Canadian General Electric Company, said that that company had only acquired the works in September and that the former street railway franchise was granted to officers of the former Edison Company, and that within a short time they ceased to be officers of the company, and that was perhaps a reason why the railway was not proceeded with. Some time after the Canadian Company got possession they became officially aware that a franchise had been granted, and on Dec. 3rd renewed application for a street railway franchise, and since that time they had received no official notice that the application was being considered, although they were ready to meet the town and discuss the subject and make arrangements for construction of the railway. The Canadian General Electric Company were now prepared to go on and carry out the agreement made with the Edison syndicate, and to deposit a sufficient sum to demonstrate the bona fides of the company. They felt they were a local concern with about half a million dollars invested and paying out annually in wages and for supplies, $200,000, an amount that was likely to be increased, and therefore they were entitled to consideration in virtue of these facts, in the disposal of the franchise. As to the matter of the Chemong Park extension, Mr. Nicholl's said the Canadian Company would agree to furnish half the capital for that branch if the other half were subscribed by local capitalists interested directly or indirectly. This was only common business prudence; for unless those locally interested used efforts to work up a passenger traffic (which the company had not time to do), there was no probability of the Chemong branch being a paying investment. Mr. Nicholls put it to the committee whether, in case local capital was not forthcoming, it would be as wise or as good for the town for the Canadian company to invest $100,000 in a branch to Chemong, which would be unremunerative without the co-operation of local capitalists in the manner indicated, as to spend $100,000 in extending their system. However, if the Canadian Company should see that it would pay to build their line to other points outside the town they would do so. They wished to make their road a model road in connection with their works, it was natural that their line should be made the best possible, and extended in whatever direction a paying traffic existed.

MR. ELLIOTT'S PROPOSITION.

Alex. Elliott spoke very briefly. He said he was willing and prepared to carry out that was contained in his proposition. He had nothing against either of the local companies, and if they were prepared to submit a better proposition than his own, he would give way to them. His communication explained his position and he was prepared to stand by it.

Mr. Cox argued that the town of Peterborough had practically a financial interest in the Canadian General Electric Company to the amount of between $40,000 and $50,000, and that to that extent the town was directly interested in the promotion of the prosperity of the company. This monetary interest was, in addition to the benefit the town derived from the expenditure of large sums in the employment of labour, purchasing supplies, etc. He pointed out that the council by giving a franchise to the keenest opponents of the Canadian General Electric Company—the Westinghouse people—would be directly inuring the interests of the Canadian Company by depriving them of the profit implied in the manufacture of a plant for the proposed street railway. Besides, the town council would, by giving the franchise to the outside company, be giving the Westinghouse people a powerful lever to assist them to take away business from the Canadian Company—namely putting them in a position to say that when Peterborough people wanted a plant for a street railway they could not get it in Peterborough but had to patronize an outside establishment. Mr. Cox said he did not speak as a representative of the Canadian General Electric Company, he had only a small amount of stock in it, but he spoke as one having a large stake in the town and therefore anxious for its material progress. He thought it would be a suicidal policy to put such a weapon in the hands of an outside concern to use for the injury directly of the interests of the Edison Company, and as had been shown, indirectly of the interests of the town.

Mr. T. G. Hazlett pointed out the good faith that had always been shown by the Peterborough and Ashburnham syndicate. That company had always been willing to proceed with the work and whatever delay had been created was not due to any action or attitude of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Company.

Mr. D. W. Dumble spoke in favour of the claim of the Edison General Electric Company to the franchise, and of strengthening its position. He scouted the idea of the good faith of the Peterborough and Ashburnham syndicate in the matter of a desire to secure a franchise for building a street railway.

Mr. Richard Hall warmly replied that the standing of the individual members of the company was a refutation of Mr. Dumble's uncalled for insinuations.

Mr. Haslitt added that as for himself he had lived in Peterborough a good many years and it was pretty generally known that what he undertook he was in the habit of carrying out.

Mr. Poussette added that Mr. Dumble did not make or represent public opinion, as was shown by his success in manufacturing public opinion on the matter of the market building.

After some informal discussion the following agreement was executed:—

THE AGREEMENT.

A basis of agreement was formulated in which all the important conditions in the original contract with the Edison Company, entered into on January 5th, 1892, together with certain amendments, was adopted by the committee, and the several applicants for the franchise were required to subscribe their names thereto and to deposit with the treasurer of the corporation, within banking hours, on the 10th day of March, 1893, the sum of $5,000 each, as a guarantee that they were prepared to enter into, and carry out, the contract if the franchise was awarded them. The time for the completion of the road has been fixed to be in operation by 1st of August.

The Committee on Railways will meet this afternoon to consider the applications of all parties who have complied with the conditions contained in the basis of agreement signed and will report to a special meeting of the council to be held this evening with a recommendation as to what company they may deem advisable that the franchise should be awarded to, and the matter of a street railway franchise will no doubt be finally determined at this evening's session of the council.

Our Bow to the Public.

♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥

IN making this our first regular spring announcement to the citizens and residents of the town and county of Peterborough, we would address ourselves, not only to that large constituency of customers who have heretofore patronized our well known and highly esteemed predecessors, (Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co.,) but to all other readers of this journal, many of whom we hope to have the privilege of doing business with in the future.

We have a few words to say, not directly about Dry Goods.

We believe, that in all the relations of life where success is attained, mutual confidence is the basis, whether between physician and patient, lawyer and client, or merchant and customer, and, for our part, we intend to merit and expect to win confidence.

A WORD as to our taking charge of this business. It has been a matter of choice, on our part, largely influenced by some knowledge of this, "Canada's Premier Town," and surrounding district, and, as we are here to stay, we are actuated by a desire to do our best, as worthy citizens, to still further advance its interest and fair name.

OUR RECORD extends over a number of years of business life, and, with perhaps pardonable pride, we can say that during all that time, both those from whom we have bought and those to whom we have sold, have been financially benefitted.

OUR POSITION, as direct importers of Dry Goods, with a personal visitation of one of the firm twice a year to the European markets, and direct business connection with the leading manufacturers and warehousemen in Great Britain, place us in a position to give VALUE SECOND TO NONE, and styles the most correct and elegant. In no other line of business does the exercise of taste in selection come so largely into play as in the Dry Goods Trade, and in the markets we visit, there is the amplest room for its exercise.

"OUR STAFF." Almost or quite equal to a good stock of Dry Goods at right prices, as a factor in ensuring the success of a business, is competent, courteous and polite assistants. Our staff of employees in its entirety, will be composed of ladies and gentlemen of whom we expect to feel proud.

OUR AIM shall be to merit your confidence in what we may say to you in our place of business, in what we may tell you in our business announcements, in the reliable character of the goods we may have to offer you, by basing our business superstructure on the three cardinal principles,—

INTEGRITY, INTELLIGENCE AND INDUSTRY.

A WORD AS TO OUR METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS.

We fully recognize the fact that to conduct a successful business at the present day demands that all competition from any and every source should be successfully met, which means, not merely that of a local character, but that emanating from the largest houses of the largest cities, who do business exclusively for Cash, and, as a consequence, have not the factor of bad debts and capital outstanding, as well as office expenses to take into consideration, when marking the profits on their goods. This and all other honest competition we are prepared to meet, and to do this we have decided to offer attractive goods at such close prices as will draw to us that large constituency of the community who buy for Cash We have strong faith in a Cash Business, having found in our experience that this potent factor, Cash, is the key that opens all the doors where bargains are to be had. We have used it this season in making our European and Canadian purchases, and, as a result, have the best class of goods at Rock Bottom Prices.

We have already opened up several cases of new Millinery Goods, the styles of which are to be found correct. MISS WALKER has returned after visiting the centres of fashion, and will, as heretofore, be in charge of the show room, which our customers will be pleased to learn.

We have passed into stock many new Spring Suitings, Trouserings and Spring Overcoats, which we have marked at close prices. We have been successful in securing the services of MR. AMES, as Cutter for our Tailoring Department, who comes to us highly recommended, having had a long experience in large city trade. All work in this department guaranteed.

We shall be pleased to see all the old friends of the house, and will consider it a pleasure to show our goods, whether present purchases are contemplated or not.

MATTERS OF LOCAL INTEREST

DISCUSSED AT THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRADE LAST NIGHT.

The Prosperous Condition of the Board—Merchants' Protective Association—The Town's Deficit—Publication of the Assessment Rolls—Annexation of Peterborough and Ashburnham—The Removal of the Smith Street Bridge—The Electric Street Railway—Other Topics of Importance.

The annual meeting of the Board of Trade was held in the council chamber last evening. President R. Fair occupied the chair, and there was a fair attendance of members as well as a large audience present. Among the members present Messrs. Hay, Manson, Mulholland, Macdonald, Shortly, A. Hall, MacWilliams, McWhinnie, Schofield, Dobbin, H. C. Rogers, Croly, A. Rose, Learmouth, Allison, Green, Phelan, Foote, Hurley, Eastwood and LeBrun.

The president then called the meeting to order. The secretary, Mr. Hampden Burnham, read the minutes of the previous annual meeting which were confirmed. The secretary also read his annual report as follows:—

FOURTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SECRETARY OF THE PETERBOROUGH BOARD OF TRADE:

Mr. President and Gentlemen,—I have the honour to present to you my fourth annual report.

The Board is in a prosperous condition; the membership has increased from 75 to 130. Although this has been a rather uneventful year in the history of the town, there has been a good deal to occupy public attention. You will remember that two years ago there was a sudden and unexpectated failure of our water power. This was traced to the giving up by lumbermen of our small dams in the numerous lakes of our system not under the supervision of the Government. There was no check to the flow of water in the spring and there was therefore, a corresponding scarcity in the fall. A long letter was addressed to the government asking it to take over these outcast lakes so that they might be properly regulated. The local engineer received instructions to report but nothing further has been done. It would seem that in a question of such manifest importance the members of and have the matter attended to. The Board addressed the annual resolution to the government about the Trent Valley Canal, and still looks forward to its completion. On the 8th of August last three days prior to the submission to the people of the sewerage by-law a very largely attended public meeting was held by the Board to sift the proposed scheme. The vote at the polls was against it, the opinion prevailing that there had been too much tinkering with the question, and the plans were not suitable, and that it would be better to have an expert draw proper plans to be carried out under the ordinary supervision. This would ensure the best scheme at the least expense. It cannot be said that the sanitary condition of the town is reassuring in the face of what is expected in the spring. The Board of Health stated in their last report that for the year preceding that report, 1891, the death rate in Peterborough was the highest but one in Ontario. This referred to cities and towns. The distribution of that death rate in the town, itself, is such as to make plain the necessity of improvement. This Board has been in communication during the year with many of the other boards throughout the Dominion, and it cannot be a bad thing for Peterborough to have its name familiar to the commercial centres of the country. In addition to the facilities afforded by the Merchant's Protective Branch of the Board of Trade to the trading public for the collection of debts, a Bradstreet's daily reporting sheet has been placed on fyle for members in which they may see every morning the business changes, chattel mortgage registered, judgments entered, writs issued, and failures recorded of the previous day, in the Dominion. Some members of the Board have been of the opinion that the cheapest and best way to get manufactories for the town is to send a man to the United States for that purpose. On such a trip a capable agent would have the best possible opportunity for explaining the advantages of the town as a place of manufacture and of the Dominion as a market. This suggestion has been laid before the chairman of the Manufacturer's Committee of the town council, Mr. Cahill, and he seems to think the idea is a good one. At any rate it is neither too novel nor too expensive to try. The Board asked last year for a detailed report by the auditors and it was a model. For some reason or other the assessors' roll has not yet been published, and the railway gates at the crossings have not been put up.

It is a matter of congratulation that the men of capital in town, in whose hands the prosperity of the town really lies, are not backward in investing in local enterprises.

The Board has kept in view the question of freight rates, railway fares and steamboat tolls, but have nothing especial to report.

Commercially speaking, the health of the town is excellent, although it is not free from the curse of speculation.

There is a strong probability that the Reimers' Piano Co., with which the Board has had much to do, may be established here. They will employ 50 skilled hands.

J. HAMPDEN BURNHAM,
Sec.-Treas.

President Fair stated he had taken the liberty to prepare a report which he read as follows:—

THE PRESIDENT'S ANNUAL REPORT.

Mr. Robert Fair, President of the Board of Trade, presented his annual report as follows:—

In the first place, the board, I am happy to state, is in a very healthy condition, the membership being very much larger than at any time since its formation. The additions have come from the ranks of our very best citizens, including representatives from the mercantile, manufacturing and professional interests. Doubtless this increase of growth of membership is mainly owing to the deepening influence which the Board of Trade is exerting on all the local as well as national subjects of importance. I trust that this encouraging aspect of the numerical strength will be fully maintained during the ensuing year.

It is gratifying to note that Peterboro has not gone behind during the past year. The failures in business have been fewer than in former years. Competition is, however, growing keener and keener every year, and although our business men are showing first rate executive ability in holding their own, the utmost caution and wise counsels are essential. The Board of Trade should be an important factor in adjusting local trade eccentricities.

From all available sources of information we are justified in saying that Peterborough's record of trade has not only been sustained but largely increased during 1892. As evidence of this fact our local custom returns show ample proof. Our

SPLENDID MARKET FACILITIES,

(thanks to our wise city fathers) have contributed largely to the valuable influx of trade which Peterborough now enjoys, and the civic liberality exhibited in influencing new manufacturing industries, has no doubt been productive of a healthy stimulus to trade. Our agricultural interests, have not shared in that measure of prosperity which all had hoped for. Many causes are assigned for this, we hope, temporary embarrassment, chief of which may be mentioned the failure in crops and the prevailing low prices.

In this connection would it not be desirable to foster a more healthy co-operation on the part of all our civic bodies and citizens generally, encouraging and identifying ourselves more closely with our annual fall exhibitions. On these occasions a great deal of money is spent directly and indirectly in our town by visitors and others, and any helping hand, therefore, we can give to promote the the success of our annual fair would be amply rewarded.

During the past year, in connection with the Board, there was formed a which has proved itself to be a very valuable assistance to the members, who have availed themselves of its benefits. Its encouragement is highly desirable and its extremely low cost as compared with other agencies of a like character is one of its principal advantages.

In connection with municipal matters there are a number of live questions that might with good reason be referred to—one especially of such vital importance that it cannot be ignored. I refer to the town's deficit. That there is a deficit it is not denied. It's cause, origin and responsibility have been pretty well thrashed out by the newspapers and certain members of the council, but it still stares us in the face all the same. It does not matter so much what items of expenditure are involved in this deficit, or by whom or by what council the legacy has been left us, as it does to discover a remedy. It's a danger signal and we must take warning; sixteen mills in the dollar is going far enough. We must stop here if we are going to maintain a healthy municipal existence. Pass that limit and any one familiar with the history of other municipalities can prophesy what is to befall us. What seems to be a formidable burden upon us is our school expenditure. Everyone sees it and fears it. Why is it that the Board of Education have such an unlimited license on the expenditure of municipal monies without any check upon them by the municipal councils which have to provide and arrange for everything? Is there nothing wrong in the legislation which vests such enormous powers in Boards of Education, while it curbs into weakness Boards of Health?

In conclusion I would urge upon the Board increased and constant attention to all these important local questions which tend to the development of the town, prominent among which is the sewerage question, the rate of taxation, the raising of our standard of insurance and all other vital questions which must naturally arise. Personally I have to thank the officers and members of the Board for their confidence in placing me in the position of President and for their friendly assistance during the year.

Respectfully submitted.

ROBT. FAIR,
President.

A VOTE OF THANKS.

Mr. Shortly thanked the president for his thoughtful, useful and instructive report just read. He thought it would be a help to all and if acted upon individually would help the Board much. He moved a vote of thanks to the president for his splendid report. Mr. T. A. Hay seconded the motion which was acknowledged by Mr. Fair.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Application for membership were received from E. Dodds, C. L. Trotter, H. B. McHarry, P. Simons and J. W. T. Fairweather, and on motion they were received.

Mr. Burnham said he had received a letter from Ganonoque stating that they were forming a Board of Trade there and asking for a helping hand.

THE SMITH STREET BRIDGE.

Moved by Mr. T. D. Croly, seconded by Mr. V. Eastwood, Believing that the best interests of the town would not be served by the abandoning of the Smith street bridge, and that the erection of an iron bridge one-half mile further up the river, as outlined in resolution prepared by the president of the Auburn Woollen Mills in his place in the council board, and adopted by the town council, I would move that the following gentlemen: Messrs. R. S. Davidson, J. R. Stratton, John McKee, and the mover be requested to act as a committee with the Street and Bridge Commitee of the town council to consider the best means of securing a larger share of the cost of an iron bridge on Smith street from the parties interested in maintaining said bridge.

Mr. Croly spoke at some length in favour of his motion. He thought that a wooden structure on top of the present abutments would answer the purpose as well as an iron bridge which owing to the present state of finances would cost too much. He spoke strongly of the traffic over the bridge at its present place and objected to removing it up the river half a mile further as suggested for several reasons, principally because of the less number who would use the bridge up there.

Mr. Hay said the matter was in the hands of the council and had been pretty well sifted out and would be duly considered before being acted upon.

Mr. Croly said the gentlemen coming before the county council did not get a fair hearing owing to prejudice against the town commissioners and the reason he moved the gentlemen mentioned in the resolution was because he thought that they could get a better hearing before the Street and Bridge Committee of the county and obtain better terms with them regarding the county share of the cost in the erection of a new bridge.

Mr. A. Allison said he thought it entirely unnecessary for the bridge to be closed up at present. It greatly inconvenienced many at present and he thought that persons should be allowed to cross at their own risk. It was difficult for foot passengers to go across without climbing high fences.

The matter was here dropped until later in the evening.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was then proceeded with and resulted as follows:—

President—Robt. Fair, (re-elected).
Vice-President—B. Shortly, (re-elected)
Sec.-Treas.—J. Hampden Burnham. (re-elected.)

The Secretary and Mr. T. A. Hay were appointed a committee to strike the standing committes for the year and elect the council.

Mr. Fair stated it was the intention of the Merchants' Protective Association to bring a report at the next meeting.

THE ASSESSMENT ROLLS.

Mr. Fair said at a previous meeting of the Board a resolution was passed that the assessment rolls of the town should be published. The question might come again.

THE BOARD DISCUSSES ANNEXATION.

Mr. Burnham brought up the question of the union of the corporations of Ashburnham and Peterborough. The argument used against it was that Ashburnham was quite content. He understood, however, that the village had no objection to coming in. No doubt the union of the two places would mutually prosper Peterborough and enhance the value in real estate. The Ashburnham village interests were identical with ours, and he did not see why they should not be one in reality as well as in name. The speaker instanced the growth of Yorkville since annexed to Toronto.

Mr. Burnham's remarks were seconded by Dr. Rose in a short speech, regarding the reasonableness and feasibility of the proposition.

Mr. Geo. MacWilliams supported the resolution. He had advocated the union for some years past, and he thought the majority of the residents of Ashburnham were favourable to such a change. One great advantage would be the lessening of their insurance rates in the village, and they would also be benefitted in many other ways. He did not think the rate of taxation would be raised by the union.

A DIGRESSION FROM THE SUBJECT.

Mr. Geo. Rose thought that the assessment rolls of the town of Peterborough should be published, and if the Board of Trade could use their influence to have the roll published Dicken's "Curiosity Shop" would be equalled. He thought the charity distributions should be published also by the council. It would cause not a few surprises if this was done.

Mr. Fair thought that if any unfairness existed in the distribution of charity it had been remedied by the council in the appointment of a relief officer.

MUST BECOME A CITY FIRST.

Mr. Croly speaking to Mr. Burnham's motion advocated the union of the village of Ashburnham with the town. He thought most of the people in the village were anxious to become a part of the town which he thought would have to become a city before the amalgamation of the corporations took place.

Col. H. C. Rogers also favoured the resolution although he did not come prepared to discuss "annexation." He would rather see Peterborough a first class town than a fourth rate city. Living in Ashburnham he felt out of place so to speak in enjoying practically all the advantages of a town without paying anything for it. He thought the thing had only to be pushed to bring Ashburnham in. The only objection raised would be by the small ratepayers who might dread that the rate of taxation being raised, but he thought such would not be the case.

LEFT TO THE COUNCIL TO REPORT.

Moved by Mr. Burnham, seconded by Mr. H. S. Macdonald, that the council of the Board of Trade be asked to report at the next meeting of the Board upon the best plan of laying before the people the question of the union of Ashburnham and Peterborough.

THE ASSESSMENT ROLLS AGAIN.

Mr. Hall said the objection the council raised against the publication of the assessment rolls was the expense. The cost would be some $300 a year.

Mr. G. Rose said the town was unjustly assessed and the Court of Revision had killed the publication of the report in the committee because of the number of appeals which would be made to the Court of Revision and they would never get through their work.

The matter was allowed to drop here.

AUDITORS APPOINTED.

The appointment of auditors for the ensuing year then took place. Messrs. F. H. Dobbin, G. A. Schofield and A. Clegg were appointed to audit the treasurer's statement.

THE BRIDGE QUESTION.

Mr. Croly's resolution was then brought up again. He thought a better scheme for the erection of a bridge could be formulated between the town and the county, and he had the assurance of Mr. Moloney, chairman of the County Street and Bridge Committee that the council would defray one-quarter of the expense, or perhaps more, if this was done.

Mr. MacWilliams thought that the Dickson Company's bridge over which foot passengers passed now should by some means be made a public thoroughfare. He was of the opinion that the council might deal with the question. A great convenience would be afforded thereby. The resolution was then put and carried.

VOTE OF THANKS TO THE COUNCIL.

Mr. Hay moved, seconded by Mr. Clegg, that a vote of thanks be tendered the town council for the use of their council chamber for holding their meetings in—Carried.

THE ELECTRIC STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE

Mr. MacDonald brought up the question of the street railway franchise, He thought it was a burning question.

Mr. Fair was in favor of extending the line to Chemong Park, whatever company built the road.

Mr. Hay though the railway committee of the council would deal fairly in the matter, and he understood the committee intended giving the franchise to the company which would extend the road to Chemong. He thought that the railway was in sight now, as everyone was red hot after it.

Mr. Shortly war in favour of awarding the contract to a local company in preference to a foreign company. If all things were equal, all the cars, machinery, etc., would be manufactured here and the money expended. It would be a black mark to the town when we had a large electric works in Peterborough to award a contract to an outside firm. (Applause.)

Mr. Hay said on all their invoices, letter heads, contracts, etc., the name of the Canadian General Electric Co., was marked Toronto, Ont., and it could not therefore be said that the company were an advertising medium for the town of Peterborough.

Mr. MacWilliams favoured the idea of running the road to Chemong Park. It would be of great benefit in bringing people from a distance to Peterborough.

The matter was discussed in a conversational manner until ten o'clock, when the meeting adjourned, no resolution being been put.

STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

As will be seen by the report of the proceedings of the Railway Committee of the council last night that applications were presented and supported for the franchise for an electric street railway. The contest is now narrowed down to the applications of the Peterborough and Ashburnham and the Canadian General Electric Company, for at three o'clock two of these companies had each deposited the $5000 cheque, as stipulated in the agreement published elsewhere. The council in their action in the matter has recognized the set of public opinion in the character of favouring the applications that are most likely to purchase the plant from the institution in which the town has over $50,000 invested and in which the town is more directly interested than in any foreign company. Thus is avoided the granting of a franchise to an outside company whose possession of it would tend almost certainly and directly to cripple and injure the operations of the Canadian General Electric Company, by bringing them in competition with opponents in the same line of business, and giving the latter an opportunity to use the argument that the Peterborough Electric Company did not possess the confidence of the citizens of the town. The Canadian General Electric Company has consented to the elimination of the stipulation that railway plant must be purchased from them, and are prepared to compete in a fair field with other establishments. This puts the Peterborough and Ashburnham and Canadian General Electric Company on an equal footing, and the council will have to decide between them. The council will have to deal with the matter in some shape to-night, and whatever company is awarded the franchise it is to be hoped that the utmost care will be exercised to see that the public interest is protected at every point.

TWO RAILWAY ACCIDENTS.

A G. T. R. Conductor Killed in the Yards While Coupling Cars.

TORONTO, March 9.—Donald Brock, a G.T.R. yard conductor, was engaged in coupling cars on the "Dutchman's switch," near the foot of Brock-street, about 9.30 last night, when one of his mates saw his lantern fall and heard a cry for help.

Upon running over he found Brock lying alongside the track in an unconscious condition but still breathing, though with great effort.

A number of the yardmen were soon on the scene, and Brock was removed to an adjacent switch house, where he expired a few minutes later without regaining consciousness, being dead some time before Dr. Riordan, who was summoned, arrived.

The deceased was an old Toronto boy, but had been railroading in Texas for some time, having returned to the city about six months ago, since which time he has been engaged in the G.T.R. yards, having charge of a shunting engine.

Brock had a mother and a sister living in Toronto. The whereabouts of the former is unknown, but the latter, it is stated, is the wife of Mr. J. Dunn, cattle dealer, Givens-street.

The deceased was a member of the Trainmen's Brotherhood, by whose orders the remains were taken to Humphrey's undertaking establishment in Queen-street west.

Dr. Riordan states that death must have ensued 20 minutes after Brock was caught between the bumpers. His breast was crushed in, but he was not otherwise disfigured.

The ambulance wagon was despatched to remove Brock to the hospital, but when it reached the bridge in Brock-street the driver was told that the injured man was dead, but that a coupler had been injured at the foot of Bathurst-street.

The wagon was driven up to the point indicated, where Walter Strain of 541 King-street west was found lying in the switch-house with the flesh of his right hand and knee badly jammed, though no bones were broken. He was removed to his home, where Dr. Riordan dressed the wounds.

Interested People.

Advertising a patent medicine in the peculiar way in which the proprietor of Kemp's Balsam for coughs and colds does it, is indeed wonderful. He authorizes all druggists to give those who call for it a sample bottle FREE, that they may try it before purchasing. The large bottles are 50c. and $1. We certainly would advise a trial. It may save you from consumption.

BALL DRESSES.

A Wide Bertha and a Soft Folding Crepe de Chine.

Here are two pretty ball dresses. In the first, the wide bertha and puffed sleeves composed of rose-colored crepe preserve to the dress a youthful effect, which would be lost were the blacks unrelieved. The contrast of rose and black is especially liked this year, and the small pattern of the merveilleux underdress, shows very prettily through the delicate tulle material of the upper dress. The tulle skirt is edged with a band of wide guipure lace and just above that an insertion of the same lace. In the centre of the back of the skirt a point is cut out for the small back folds. The shirring at the upper edge must be very even, in the front flat, and on the hips and in the back more full. The short basque is of merveilleux and must be covered with the shirred tulle at the back. For the berthen garniture two shirred crepe stripe one and a half inches wide are joined from the inner side of the part that is cut out round. A rose colored silk lining would serve to make the b r hen more effective. The sleeve is finished by a narrow jet trimming. A jet buckle is fastened to the front of the low neck and a wide girdle must be made of crepe over the rose colored silk, and be ornamented with jet.

The right hand costume is of crepe de chine which falls in such soft folds as to make it very easy to drape the skirt. The full skirt of the crepe should have a plain underskirt. The side of the skirt overlaps the other slightly. The basque shows a dressy, pointed low neck; at the termination of the back are three small lengthwise folds, otherwise the material is placed smoothly on the lining. On the front part of the waist the slightly pleated material has a Bertha like garniture. This is slightly shirred around the back of the low neck and is fastened to the shoulder in full folds. Over the bust the lace falls smoothly. The square ends are closely pleated. A girdle is made with gold braid, which closes invisibly on the side. Full puffed sleeves add to this costume.

FLORETTE.

Starving an Orchard.

Keep the orchard fenced from all stock, plant to hoed crops for three years, and sow to clover. When the orchard gets to bearing, give it a wagon load of manure for every five barrels of apples; do not expect, as in the past, an orchard can bear twenty years without food—you have starved the old orchard to death.

Facts for Farmers.

One decided advantage with a good shelter is that the sheep will produce a greater return in sheep and wool, with less feed.

The compound given below is said to be good for the trees and to prevent damage by rabbits, viz.: two pounds soap dissolved in three gallons of hot water and two ounces carbolic acid.

French Experience.

Sheep farmers in France are returning to the pure Merino breed for mutton, as well as wool. They find that mutton sells at the same price, no matter what the breed, and that Merino wool pays better than coarser breeds, both as to quality and quantity of fleece.

Different Now.

Uncle Jeff—"Good-bye, Arthur. I hope you still kneel down before going to bed, as they taught you at home."

Arthur—"Oh, dear, no. It would spoil the creases in my pajamas."

Increase Your Weight.

If you are losing flesh and blood, commence at once taking Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which is far ahead of all other preparations of the kind in existence. By taking Miller's Emulsion people gain from 5 to 10 lbs. by the time the first bottle is consumed. It is the greatest blessing of the century to all in delicate health, or who suffer with coughs, colds and ailments that tend to consumption. Remember, Miller's Emulsion contains all the constituents found in wheat. It is used in the hospitals and asylums of the country. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all Drug Stores.

As a pick-me-up after excessive exertion or exposure, Millburn's Beef, Iron and Wine is grateful and comforting.

Every Lady Uses It.

Dyer's Jelly of Cucumber and Roses for chapped hands or lips as it effectually cures in every instance. Try it. Druggists keep it. W. A. Dyer & Co., Montreal.

A Valuable Hint.

When you are attacked by cough or cold do not delay but commence at once to use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. This old standard remedy removes all irritation, loosens the phlegm, and heals the mucous surfaces, curing coughs and colds of all kinds.

News About Town.

It is the current report about town that Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs is making some remarkable cures with people who are troubled with coughs, sore throat, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. Any druggist will give you a trial bottle FREE OF COST. It is guaranteed to relieve and cure. The large bottles are 50c. and $1.

From the Far North.

In northern climates people are very subject to colds, but the natural remedy is also produced in the same climate. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis and all throat and lung troubles. Price 25c. and 50c.

Derangement of the liver, with constipation, injures the complexion, induce pimples, sallow skin. Remove the cause by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One a dose. Try them.

A Cure For Headache.

Headache arises from constipation, bad blood, dyspepsia or liver complaint. As B. B. B. cures all these complaints it is naturally the most successful headache cure existing. Once the cause is removed the headache vanishes.

Prize Exchange-Mart.

The prize competition offered by THE TIMES to increase its sale through Newsdealers was a great success. The orders for this popular newspaper having been increased over five thousand. Its bona-fide circulation being now about 20,000 weekly, and double that of any other Saturday paper in Toronto.

To attract attention to THE TIMES' immense circulation as a medium for reaching the public, not only in Toronto, but throughout Canada, another Prize Competition is announced TO-DAY, and is given below.

The only condition necessary for participating in this contest, is that you use THE PEOPLES' 25-CENT ADVERTISING MEDIUM on trial one time.

As every body reads THE TORONTO TIMES between Saturday and Monday morning, no better medium can be found for supplying your wants than "The Times Exchange Mart," and the low price of 25 cents places it within the reach of all.

To each of the first FIFTY persons sending us 30 words made from letters contained in "Exchange Mart" (as above) will be paid $1. Each of the twenty-five persons sending 35 words (as above) will be paid $2 in cash. Each of the first ten persons sending us 40 words, will be paid $3 in cash. Each of the first five persons sending us 45 words, will be paid $4 in cash, and the first person able to make 50 words, as above, will receive the grand cash prize of $25. No charge is made for contesting for these cash prizes, simply write out an advertisement of anything you desire (not containing over 30 words, including name and address) and enclose same with twenty-five cents in cash, or ten three-cent stamps, with your list of words (numbered) which you have been able to make from "Exchange-Mart," and if entitled to one of the cash prizes you will receive it without expense or charge.

The object of giving these cash prizes is to attract your attention to "The Times' Exchange Mart" as a medium for supplying your wants.

The publisher of THE TIMES has already given away several thousand dollars in prizes, and we can supply the names and address of different persons from Nova Scotia to British Columbia, who have each received prizes in value from $25.00 to $200.00.

The care shown by the SUN LIFE in the selection of its risks will be understood when it is known that the death rate in 1892 was less than that in 1891 by $16,000, notwithstanding the vast increase in business. The significance of this point will be clearly seen in the profits paid by the Company.

Change in Hotel Business
THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING PURCHASED the hotel business of the Stewart House, recently conducted by Mr. John Callanane, two doors east of Mulholland & Roper's bank, Hunter street, desires to inform all the old customers of the Stewart House that he will continue the business and run the hotel in a thoroughly first-class manner. The travelling public and the farmers will find this one of the most central, convenient and comfortable hotels in town. The table and the bar will be supplied with the best that can be had, and he hopes to be favoured with a liberal share of the public patronage. Good stables and shedroom.

Gaining and Losing a Day.

You often hear some one who thinks himself "cute" telling how sailors in circumnavigating the globe "gain" a day. Such persons, says the St. Louis Republic, almost invariably mention the "gain" but it is seldom you hear of the "lost" day, which can also be dropped out of the existence in making a trip around the world. The facts are these: If he goes to the east he gains a day; to the west he loses one. It comes about in this way: There are 360 degrees of longitude in the entire circle of the earth. As the world rotates on its axis once in each twenty-four hours, one twenty-fourth of 360 degrees, which equals 15 degrees, corresponds to a difference of one hour in time. Now, imagine a ship sailing from New York to the eastward. When it has reached a point 15 degrees east of the starting point the sun will come to its meridian, or noon line, one hour sooner than it does at the point from which the ship sailed. When the ship has reached a place 30 degrees east of the sailing point it will be noon two hours sooner on shipboard than it will 30 degrees to the westward, and so on until when the ship has reached a point 180 degrees from the place of sailing it will be 1 o'clock, say Tuesday morning, with the people in the ship when it is only 1 o'clock in the afternoon of Monday with the people at home; in other words, the ship has sailed just one-half the distance around the world (180 degrees), and has gained exactly twelve hours. Double this and you can readily understand how the day is gained in sailing around the world to the eastward, and you will soon find the root of the mystery of the "lost" day which is dropped out of the calendar by a person who crosses the total 360 degrees with his face constantly turned to the west.

"Hard to Make Both Ends Meet."

Curiously enough, that article, now considered almost indispensable, the table napkin, was first used only by children and was only adopted by elder members of the family about the middle of the fifteenth century. At first the tablecloth was long enough to reach the floor and served the grown people instead of napkins. When they did begin to use napkins they placed them first on the shoulder, then on the left arm and finally tied them about the neck. A French writer, who was evidently conservative and did not welcome the napkin kindly, records with scorn: "The napkin is placed under the chin and fastened in the back, as if one were going to be shaved. A person told me that he wore his that way that he might not soil his beautiful frills." It was a difficult matter to tie the two corners in the back, and it is said that thence originated our expression for straitened circumstances—"hard to make both ends meet." This custom led to the habit of the waiters carrying a napkin on the left arm. Napkins became popular in France sooner than in England. At one time it was customary at great French dinners to change the napkins at every course, to perfume them with rose water and to have them folded a different way for each guest.—Providence Journal.

Farm Hints.

An apple tree will pay better than a pig, with the same attention.

Roots and tubers should generally be fed with other and more nutritious foods.

There can be no good crop without good seed; grapes do not come from thorns.

Grain and fruit growing require great care in keeping up the fertility of the soil.

Don't forget that the nitrogenous and nitrogen-producing plants are clover, beans, peas and other legumes.

Trees dug in the fall before the leaves drop are worthless. The leaves exhaust their vitality after they are dug.

A Heathen's Opinion.

"You are always complaining," said the King of the Cannibal Islands to his wife. "But I don't see bnt what, after all, you have as much as if you were civilized." "What makes you think that?" asked his wife. "Well, I have just been reading a lot of stories about American women, and there wasn't one of them who had a thing to wear."—Brooklyn Life.

Oats as Spring Food.

Oats are the best of all grains for poultry and they are wholesome and readily eaten by all classes of fowls. While corn is an excellent ration for winter, oats are more suitable for spring and summer. They contain more of the elements for producing eggs than corn, and the cost is no greater than that of other grain in proportion to their food value.

Mr. Hugh Caldwell, Clydesdale, Ont., writes:—"My daughter was troubled with female weakness and for more than a year was under the care of doctors and taking medicine without getting relief. I then got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and they have completely cured her. All dealers or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

BELLEVILLE, March 4, 1893.
Peterborough Medicine Company (Limited.)

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, bnt nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. I can also recommend it for constipation and stomach troubles.
JAMES HAROLD.

For Sprains, and Bruises.

No other remedy cures sprains, bruises, cuts, wounds, chilblains, sore throat, rheumatism, etc., so promptly as Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It is an old standard remedy that has given perfect satisfaction for 30 years.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1.

Ask your neighbors if they use Dodds Kidney Pills? They strengthen the nerves, tone the system, and the most stubborn cases of kidney disease yield to their influence. They are especially appreciated by the old. Ask your neighbors about them.

Some symptoms of worms are:—fever colic, variable appetite, restlessness, weakness and convulsions. The unfailing remedy is Dr. Lowe's Worm Syrup.

SPRING STALLION SHOW.

THE PRIZE-WINNERS IN THE HEAVY CLASSES.

The Fair is Over—Exhibition of Clydesdales Very Fine—Ten Remarkable Foals—No Better in the World, it is Claimed, by Judges.

TORONTO, March 10.—The stallion show came to a close yesterday with the judging in the heavy classes. The attendance was large and the exhibition in the Clydesdale classes was very fine. In Class vii., section 1, for foals previous to January, 1890, there were 10 remarkable animals brought into the ring. In the opinion of many competent judges no better exhibit of this class of horses could be made in any country, not even excepting Scotland.

The competition for first place in this class was very keen, but the red ribbon was finally awarded to Messrs. Sorby's (Guelph) stallion Grandeur, a horse indeed well named for his magnificent appearance and action. He was closely pressed, however, by the Graham Bros.' (Claremont) splendid prize-winning stallion Queen's Own, who has heretofore swept everything before him, securing among other prizes first at the Madison-square Gardens at New York in November last. The contests in the other classes were also close.

This year's stallion show may safely be pronounced one of the most successful in the history of the society. Following is the prize list:

AGRICULTURE AND ARTS.

Forty-Seventh Annual Meeting of the Ontario Association.

TORONTO, March 10.—The Agriculture and Arts Association of Ontario held their 47th annual meeting last night in Secretary Wade's office. Mr. Nicholas Awrey, M.L.A., president, occupied the chair.

A letter was read from the Deputy Minister of Agriculture stating that the following gentlemen had been selected to represent the divisions named on the board of the association for the ensuing term:

No. 9—William Dawson, Vittoria.
No. 10—Joseph Rowand, M.P., Dunblane.
No. 11—Robert McEwan, Byron.
No. 12—Albin Rawlins, Forest.
No. 13—Jonathan Simons, Crown Hill.

Mr. Henry Wade, the secretary, presented the forty-seventh annual report of the association. It showed that during the year there had been registered in the stud books 445 Clydesdale horses, 19 Shires, 71 draught horses and 24 Hackneys. The registrations of cattle, hogs and sheep were also satisfactory. The receipts for registrations and the sale of herd books amounted to $3142. The disbursements in connection with the spring stallion show were $854 in excess of the receipts, and there was also a deficiency of $627 in the fat stock show.

The treasurer's report showed the total receipts for the year to have been $15,289 and the disbursements $12,845, leaving a balance on hand of $3444.

A committee composed of Messrs. J. R. Rykert, James Rowand, M.P., J. C. Snell and Albin Rollins was appointed to wait on the mayors and corporations of Toronto and Guelph and on the Fair Association of Hamilton to obtain if possible suitable permanent buildings for spring and fat stock shows.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—James Rowand, M.P.
Vice-President—William Dawson.

Committee to Strike Standing Committees—Messrs. J. C. Snell, Albin Rollins, Joshua Degg, Nicholas Awrey, M.L.A., Jonathan Simons.

Our Miss Neild and Miss Armstrong have just returned from visiting the leading centres of fashion, and have accomplished their tasks with unusual satisfaction. Their selections are modelled after the most approved advices recently received from abroad, and comprise many new and original novelties and effects which are sure to be favourably received by the ladies of Peterborough.

THE JENNIE WONCH CASE

THE JURY BRING IN A VERDICT OF MURDER.

After a Deliberation of Three Hours—The Question Is, How Could the Old Grandy and Child Be Burned To Death and the House Not Be Burned.

COLLINGWOOD, Ont., March 10.—The Wonch case came up for consideration yesterday. The prisoners, Jennie Wonch and John Wonch, were brought up from Barrie. The jury on the child sat during the afternoon, and though some new witnesses were examined no new facts of importance were elicited. John Gibbons, hotelkeeper of Meaford, sworn, said: On Friday evening, Feb. 24, Jennie Wonch came to my house and said she was without a friend. She asked me to let her stay all night. In the morning she came down and said she would work if she could get work; that she had a mother nearly 100 years old and a brother who was unable to work, and also that she had a child to support.

Mrs. Gibbons, wife of the former witness, said Jennie told her she wanted work. She had her mother, her brother and a child of her brother's to support. She set her to wash dishes. She said her name was Mary Ogden. She said she looked tough, as she had to sit up with a little child she might previous. She said she had two or three brothers, who used her like a dog.

This was all the evidence that could be obtained, so after careful deliberation the jury returned the following verdict:

The child came to its death on Thursday, Feb. 23, 1893, in a shanty in the western part of the town of Collingwood by being burnt in its clothes, but how the said fire originated or came is unknown to the jury.

The adjourned inquest on the body of the mother, Mary Wonch, was resumed this evening at 7 o'clock, under Dr. Steven, coroner. County Crown Attorney Cotter of Barrie was also present on behalf of the crown.

Mrs. Rice, sworn, said: I saw Jennie Wonch on Thursday night. Saw her next day. She stayed at my house till near dinner time. I went over to her house in the afternoon. She said she had sent her mother to Campbell's and the child to McCarthur's. I saw no bedclothes in the shanty. On Sunday I saw a pig head and four pieces of bread. She said on Friday she was going to Meaford. She told me two months ago if she was rid of the old lady and the child some gentleman would marry her. The door has not been on its hinges for a month or so. I have heard Jennie scolding her mother for being dirty. I think the old lady could have got out if she was on fire, and so could the child. About 4 o'clock on Thursday I heard the little child singing when I was feeding my chickens. She had not clothing enough to burn her to death. She has not had a shoe or stocking on this winter. When I went in John was crying. Jennie said it was because she had sent her mother away.

Mr. Brillinger, sworn, said: I went up Thursday to see the shanty. Part of the floor was taken up. There was part of a lounge and a chair. I think the burning was not done with coals. [Part of the charred lounge produced.] I think the lounge was burned by fire under it and not by heat of the stove. I think the shanty would have been burned if there had not been some one to put out the fire. The burning on the lounge and on the floor are both recent. I found some paper, used to stop up cracks, lying burned on the floor.

Dr. Aylsworth, sworn, said: I assisted Dr. Hutt in the second post-mortem examination. I have not seen any reason to change my mind. I think death was caused by burning. There was no clothing on the body except six inches of a sleeve of guernsey. Edges of it were burnt, so whatever was attached to that was burnt off. The burning would cause death in one or two hours.

The written report of Drs. Aylsworth and Hutt, who made the post mortem, stated that the body was badly burned, but there were no other marks of violence. The body was well nourished, and almost all the organs in normal condition. The stomach was full of food. Death was caused by the burns, which we think took place before death.

Dr. Hutt, sworn, said: I agree with Dr. Aylsworth. I have nothing to add to his evidence and statement. I fully corroborate it.

John Wonch, not sworn, was questioned by Mrs. Rice. Why did you not come and tell me?

I did not come because Jennie said she intended to leave her there only for a few days.

What did she say she had done with the baby?

She said the baby had got badly burned. My sister would not let me come and tell you.

Crown-Attorney Cotter in addressing the jury said that the decision of this afternoon did not affect the decision of this jury. Your question is: Was the burning accidental or not? The prisoner told a direct lie when she went for the sleigh, and people generally have an object in lying. Then, what had become of the clothes is a grave question. Also it is evident that the lounge had been burnt by a fire held up to it. Next, the prisoner told a lie about where she had sent her mother and her child. The brother appears to me to be more of a knave than a fool.

Coroner Steven said the evidence showed clearly when the burning took place. Where it was done is not so clear. How the burning happened is a difficult question. The fire seems to have taken place inside, yet did not burn the building. How the fire arose there is no evidence. She may have set fire to them and then gone out and shut the door till they burned to death. We have not proof that she was cruel to her mother or the child. There is no evidence that she ill-treated them. It also is possible that the two got burned while Jennie was out cutting wood.

After a deliberation of three hours, the jury returned a verdict of murder.

CLIPPING HIS WINGS.

Cleveland Will Not Dictate the Country's Financial Policy.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—No matter what Mr. Cleveland may desire the personnel of the Finance Committee of the Senate is such as to make it almost impossible for him to dominate the financial policy to be followed by the Senate. All the anti-silver men such as Vitas, McPherson and others have been purposely kept off the committee.

JUDGE KINGSMILL RESIGNS.

The Senior Judge of Bruce to Remove To Toronto.

TORONTO, March 11.—Judge Kingsmill of Bruce has sent in his resignation to the Government, and intends to move from Walkerton to Toronto. For over 26 years Judge Kingsmill has been senior judge of the county and has established for himself an enviable reputation as one of the ablest administrators of the laws of Canada, among its county judges. In retiring from office, Judge Kingsmill carries with him the respect of all classes.

FIGHTING HOME RULE.

A Large Delegation From Ireland Interview Salisbury.

LONDON, March 10.—A large delegation of merchants, bankers and ship-owners from Dublin and other places in Leinster and also from the provinces of Munster and Connaught was received yesterday by Lord Salisbury. The object of the delegation was to show that there was a strong opposition to Home Rule in other parts of Ireland besides Ulster.

Lord Salisbury was assisted in receiving the delegation by the Right Hon. A. J. Balfour, Lord Randolph Churchill and the Right Hon G. J. Goschen.

Members of the delegation spoke of the disaster to business interests which they predicted would follow the creation of a separate government for Ireland. It was also mentioned that Mr. Gladstone had refused to receive the deputation.

Lord Salisbury expressed surprise that Mr. Gladstone should have refused to receive such a respectable delegation. There were signs, he said, of a healthy change in public opinion.

Mr. Balfour said that the chief hardship to the people of Ireland in the adoption of the separate policy would be that the comparative poverty which now prevailed there would be increased until even bankruptcy would result through capital being driven from the country.

Lord Randolph Churchill and Mr. Goschen expressed strong forebodings of financial and industrial calamity to Ireland as the outcome of the success of Mr. Gladstone's scheme.

GERMANY ARMY BILL.

The Committee Reject the Clause to Increase the Army.

BERLIN, March 10.—The Committee on the Army Bill rejected the whole of the second clause, which proposed to increase the complements of the infantry battalions from 538 to 711, of cavalry squadrons from 465 to 477, of the field artillery batteries from 434 to 494, foot artillery battalions from 31 to 37, pioneer battalions from 16 to 24 and the railway engineers from 6 to 7 battalions.

The committee further rejected the clause fixing the peace effective at 492,068, exclusive of officers and non-commissioned officers, and also rejected Herr Richter's amendment proposing that the peace effective from October, 1893, to December, 1895, should be 486,892, as at present. The committee then adjourned until March 16.

A POLITICAL FALL.

Member of the County Council Imprisoned For a Petty Theft.

LONDON, March 11.—Frederick Henderson, Progressive member of the London County Council for Clapham, a moderate Socialist, yet in a way a protege of Mr. Gladstone and Lord Salisbury, has been tried and found guilty of robbing a woman of the streets of three shillings.

He protested his innocence, but was sentenced to four months' imprisonment at hard labor.

Henderson is only 25 years old. He was formerly connected with The Star, a Radical paper, and was considered a young man of brilliant promise.

Tories are jubilant over his downfall.

Russian Roubles.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 11.—An imperial ukase authorizes the issue of an internal loan on one hundred millions of credit roubles at four and one-half per cent.

The loan is to be placed by the sale of bonds by the Imperial Bank. The Imperial Bank has given notice that it will undertake hereafter the purchase and sale of foreign drafts and the issue of bills of exchange for places abroad.

The Narcosie Still Missing.

LONDON, March 11.—The steamer Britannic, which sailed from New York on March 1, arrived at Liverpool yesterday. She deviated 90 miles from her course in a southerly direction, but saw no signs of the missing steamship. The insurance rate on the Narcosie to-day is 45 guineas.

OTTAWA NOTES.

Nearly All Items for Buildings Passed in Supply.

OTTAWA, March 11.—Dulness, varied by a little obstruction, has been the prevailing feature of yesterday's session, which has been passed almost wholly in Committee of Supply, the public works items being under discussion. Nearly all the items for buildings were passed.

The last of the shipments of fisheries' exhibits for the World's Fair have been made and Mr. Philip Veale, who will have charge of the exhibit, left for Chicago this afternoon.

A deputation consisting of Hon. Peter White and Messrs. W.J. Poupore, J. M. McDougall and others waited on the Minister of Railways and Canals and urged that a bonus be granted to the Portage du Fort Railway. The Minister promised the usual consideration, but intimated that it not at all likely that any railway subsidies would be asked for this year.

STRUCK ON A REEF.

A Passenger Steamer is in a Dangerous Position.

NEW YORK, March 10.—The Mallory Line steamship Concho is ashore on one of the Florida reefs, near Key West, and is lying in a dangerous position. She will have to be relieved of her cargo before she can be got off.

The Concho had on board 50 cabin passengers and 80 in the second-class cabin and steerage.

CUT IN BARBED WIRE.

Manufacturers Lower the Price One-Fourth of a Cent a Pound.

TORONTO, March 11.—The manufacturers of barbed wire have decided to reduce prices in Ontario and Quebec. The reduction will be equivalent to one-fourth of a cent per lb. The manufacturers met some time ago and resolved to confine the reduction to a certain portion of Ontario, but as this decision caused considerable dissatisfaction it has now been decided to extend the cut to the whole of the two provinces named

SERVICE OF SONG.

The Anniversary Service of the Charlotte Street Church Sunday School.

The anniversary service of the Charlotte street church Sunday school was held last evening and numerously attended by the children and their friends. Mr. A. J. Davis, the efficient superintendent of the school, occupied the chair. The proceedings opened with a welcome by the chairman, the singing being very hearty. The children occupied seats on the platform and the numerous choruses which they rendered during the evening were meritoriously given, showing careful exercise and diligent culture. Mr. A. G. McCallum was the musical director, and he fulfilled his duties in a first class manner. After the the opening prayer by Mr. Isaac Richardson, the Superintendent delivered a few pointed and encouraging remarks. He expressed pleasure at the large attendance. It was encouraging to the school to see the parents and members of the church taking such a manifest interest in its work. The speaker briefly reviewed the prosperity of the school during the past year. The receipts had been $232.34, and they had a balance on hand in the savings bank of $213.86, which was a healthy showing.

The annual report showed, total number of scholars on roll, 256; average attendance 219; largest attendance, 236; smallest attendance, 119; number of teachers and officers, 34; average attendance of teachers and officers, 25; average collection, [illegible]; largest collection, $3.69; smallest collection, $1.79.

Mr. Davis stated that since he had been appointed superintendent every teacher had been present Sunday after Sunday, and the only absentees were caused by illness. This showed they had the interests of the school at heart, and allowed nothing to intervene between them and their work. With the continued co-operation of parents the school would become one of the most prosperous in the province. The following programme was then pleasingly and successfully carried out and each one present spent a very delightful evening:—

Service of Song, "Little Tis," a temperance [tale

The temperance story, "Little Tis," was was read during the evening between the numbers by Mr. McCallum. It was highly interesting and instructive.

REMOVED TO PETERBOROUGH.

Mr. Wm. Madill, Druggist, has Combined His Two Large Stocks in One and Opened Out on Hunter Street in the Stand Formerly Occupied by Mr. W. R. Greatrix.

Mr. Wm. Madill, a skilled druggist and experienced chemist of some 18 years, who purchased the drug stock of Mr. W. R. Greatrex, Hunter street a few days ago, has been busily engaged in stocktaking for a few days past, but has now opened out on a large scale, and is ready for active business. Mr. Madill who has successfully run a drug store in Ashburnham for the past two years, has closed up his shop there, and removed his stock to his new premises in Peterborough, thus combining the two stocks in one. Mr. Madill keeps on hand a carefully assorted and large supply of pure drugs, chemicals and druggists' sundries, all the latest lines in perfumes, and all kinds of patent medicines, combs, brushes, sponges and a nice collection of fancy articles generally. He is prepared to do dispensing skilfully and accurately, having a long and very successful experience in this line. Mr. Madill feels certain he can give the utmost satisfaction to all who may favour him with a call or their patronage, and his prices will always be found right and his goods the best in the market.

HAVELOCK REEVESHIP.

Another Vacancy and Another Election.

Since the village of Havelock became a municipality its existence has not been a civic honeymoon, and since Mr. McAuley's resignation of the office of reeve, the village has been in a practical state of anarchy, so far as a head ruler is concerned. It is said that Mr. Wiseman, who was returned as reeve at the bye election, does not possess the necessary qualifications, owing to the fact that his saw mill having been destroyed by fire last fall, and to his not being assessed on the site of his new mill. It is declared by Mr. McAuley's opponents that even if Mr. Wiseman cannot qualify, that Mr. McAuley had he been elected would have had to disclaim his seat on account of his nomination not having been duly moved and seconded. To remove the possibility of any mistake in the reeveship, both have assented to a new election, Mr. Wiseman disclaiming his seat, and Mr. McAuley forgoing his claim. Consequently a meeting for the nominations of candidates will be held on March 16th, and if a poll shall be demanded the voting on the 23rd of March.

A PATRIOT'S PATHETIC PLAINT.

The following beautiful, pathetic Irish poem was first published under the title of "Catholic Lamentation." It was meant to describe the affliction of a poor Irish peasant—one of the good, old race—who was turned out of his farm for sectarian reasons. It was composed by George Nugent Reynolds, A.D. 1792, just a century ago—a long, weary century of hope, nearing realization. As I have no doubt but many of the same good old race in Peterborough will read the lines with pleasure and feeling, I shall be obliged to you by publishing it in your Liberal paper.

J. W. Fitzgerald.

Town, March 11th, 1893.

I.

Green were the hills where my forefathers dwelt, O;
*Erin Mavourneen, slan leat go bragh!
Tho' our farm was small, yet comforts we felt, O;
Erin Mavourneen, slan leat go bragh!
At length came the day when our lease did expire,
And fain would I live where before lived my sire,
But ah! well-a-day, I was forced to retire,
Erin mavourneen, slan leat go bragh!

II.

Though the laws I obeyed, no protection I found, O;
Erin Mavourneen slan leat go bragh!
With what grief I beheld my cot burned to the ground, O;
Erin Mavourneen, slan leat go bragh!
Forced from my home—yea from where I was born—
To range the wide world, poor helpless, forlorn;
I look back with regret, and my heart strings are torn;
Erin Mavourneen, slan leat go bragh!

III.

With principles pure, patriotic and firm,
Erin Mavourneen, slan leat go bragh;
To my country attached and a friend to reform,
Erin Mavourneen, slan leat go bragh;
I supported old Ireland, was ready to die for it;
If her foes e'er prevailed, I was well known to sigh for it;
But my faith I preserved, and am now forced to fly for it;
Erin Mavourneen, slan leat go bragh.

VI.

But hark; I hear sounds and my heart is strong beating,
Erin Mavourneen, slan leat go bragh;
Loud cries for redress and avant on retreating,
Erin Mavourneen, slan leat go bragh;
We have numbers; and numbers do constitute power,
Let us will to be free, and we're free from that hour;
Of Hibernia's brave sons, oh, we feel we're the flower;
†Benacht Dhea leat Mavourneen, Erin go bragh.

*Erin Mavourneen slan leat go bragh, English translation: "Ireland my own love, health with you for ever.
†Benacht Dhea: "God's Blessing."

A STORY

From a Toronto Post Office Clerk!

SCORES IN THE QUEEN CITY

Know It Is True!

A Prominent Toronto Druggist Acquainted with the Facts.

Interesting stories and facts often come to the public from the Post Office Department and its officials.

To-day we are permitted to make public a most interesting statement made by a Toronto post office clerk, Mr. Alfred H. Monkman, who resides at 204 Bellwoods avenue.

Mr. Monkman's story refers to his personal escape from danger and death. The story tells of the work—the plan that was adopted to banish the danger and defeat the grave.

ALJRED H. MONKMAN.

Mr. Monkman's brief narrative reads as follows:—

"Some time ago my neice, Mrs. James Currie, of 289 Delaware Ave., noticed how pale I was getting, and advised me to try your celebrated medical discovery, Paine's Celery Compound, which had done her so much good.

"To please her I got three bottles, and I assure you the Compound has caused a great improvement in my health. For a couple of years I suffered a great deal for want of sleep, and also through nervousness. I became so weak and miserable that I was almost unable to attend to my duties in the Winnipeg Post Office, and afterwards in the Post Office of this city. Indeed I was so bad at time that I was incapable of doing any work.

"This is to certify that since taking the three bottles of Paine's Celery Compound, which preparation was strongly recommended to me, I can now sleep well, and I am not nearly so nervous as I was before taking it.

"Mr. Jas. H. Hutty, druggist, corner of Yonge and Breadalbane Streets, of this city will testify to the truthfulness of what I have here written. You can use this testimonial as you feel disposed.

"ALF. H. MONKMAN,
"Post Office Clerk."

New Teeth at Ninety.

Kingston, Ont., March 10.—Mrs. John Smith of Renfrew, 90 years of age, is cutting a new set of teeth. They are already five in number and sound and beautifully white. She had never lost her own teeth, though they are now brown with age, but are dropping out to give place to the new.

Railroading Fatality.

Philadelphia, Pa., March 10.—A passenger train on the central division of the Philadelphia, Wilmington and Delaware Railway, from Oxford, Pa., yesterday, collided with a freight train on the Wilmington and Northern Railroad at Chaddsford Junction. Engineer Phillips of the passenger train was killed, and Conductor William Cummins of the same train was badly injured. The fireman escaped by jumping. No passengers were injured.

"She Looketh Well" to the ways of her household." Yes, Solomon is right; that's what the good housekeeper everywhere does, but particularly in Canada.

But her ways are not always old ways. In fact she has discarded many unsatisfactory old ways. For instance, to-day she is using the New Shortening, instead of lard. And this is in itself a reason why "she looketh well" in another sense, for she eats no lard to cause poor digestion and a worse complexion.

Cottolene

COTTOLENE is much better than lard for all cooking purposes, as every one who has tried it declares. Have you tried it?

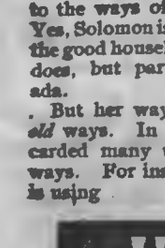
FASHIONS IN NEW YORK.

LATEST HINTS FROM THE AMERICAN METROPOLIS.

Several Types of Beauty With Their Distinguishing Characteristics Noted—The Girl With Firm Mouth and Level Eyes—The Dreamy and Unintellectual.

(Copyright).

NEW YORK (SPECIAL).



OU may see a lot of portraits in this fashion article. It doesn't matter who the girls were, further than that they were genuine belles in their first season "out" society. They were not beauties, yet not one of them lacked charm. The attractiveness in each case was a different nature. They were all young and about the same age, yet only in the case of one was the charm largely that of youth. The first was, perhaps, the "commonplace" one of the lot, but she had such a bright, wholesome face. The head was wide at the temples and just below; the cheek bones a little high, and so the cheek outline was marred somewhat; the nose, a sturdy little feature with a humorous tendency about the tip of it; a determined chin, and a mouth that needed softening a little,—kisses would do it, but make sure never a one but the right one would ever get a chance to do the softening. The coloring was ruddy and wholesome and the hair full of glints. She had a round pretty figure that might be made more of than that firm mouth and those level eyes of hers permitted. She looked a sweet, lovable, sensible girl, not beautiful, but who stopped to think of that!

The next girl would have struck you as young before any other impression was made. Her face was not beautiful either, so far as regularity of feature went, but she had such rare coloring. The skin was a pale pink, the hair like a child's, yellow without gloss, and the eyes set very far apart, were violet under black lashes. Both forehead and chin set back a little from the fullest curve of the profile. A dreamy loving unintellectual face, the sort of face that makes one remember that the loveliest woman is not, and never will to many of us, the woman with "intellect." The average blond is likely to have a sharpness of contour and wide eyes. In other words, the face though beautiful, is often a little cold, and a little shrewish a face that easily suggests temper and discontent and primness. But it is not so with this type. the head droops on the slender neck, the lids are heavy, the eyes appealing and the lips wistful. The form is likely to be slender, never angular, and the curve of the back is always lovely. The hands are delicate. The taste is so likely to suggest soft materials and delicate colors that such a girl seldom fails, all unconsciously, to be quite in harmony with herself, from the soft knot of her hair, to the soft folds about her feet, and the pale beauty of the colors she selects. Such a woman must be cared for and happy in the close gentleness of affection or she soon fades and loses her beauty. Such a woman, too, is most beautiful when her heart is full of vague maiden dreams, rather than when fulfillment has matured her. "Maidenhood" might well be drawn as belonging to this type. This girl at twenty-two seems more like eighteen, and is now at her greatest beauty.

The other girl will be prettier far in her thirties than she is now. The one takes more chances in life than does the other. What possibilities does modern life present such a face. Observe the narrow eyes and straight delicate brows; the short neck and well rounded figure; a strange mixture of feeling and intellect. The lower jaw is well in advance of the upper, the lips are full and red. It is not a modern face by any means. The pale hair and gray eyes belong to each other. A picture never does such a face justice. One is likely to say "ugly" to the picture; it never occurs to one to say so of the original. Women with faces like this used to realize their powers. In modern society they may live and die know only that they are bored a good deal. One always expects the nose to be the least bit the delicate roman type. Perhaps it is the distinctly modern line of that feature that reconciles the face to its surroundings. Such a woman is speculative, introspective and cruel, too, if it occurs to her to be. Not cruel "to hurt," but to see how the victim will act. A cold bitter cruelty to an counter, yet one that means less harm than it may accomplish. Such a woman is round limbed and lithe, except for the short neck, that somehow goes with her bull dog chin and lower lip, and adds to that part of the strange fascination of her face. She dresses conventionally always. The modern dress does not rouse her imagination. She could never realize her possibilities of beauty in it, so it is as well. She needs the vivid gowning of old times, and barbarous brilliancy of jewels, and rich drapery. It is a wonder she does not realize this! But maybe that is accounted for by her pale hair. She is a woman now at twenty-two far more than either of the others are, or for that matter ever will be. The years may bring her greater beauty; they will surely add interest to her face. She, of them all, has a future, and seems also to have had a past. Her chances for happiness are few. She is likely to make mistakes in her choice of companion. Intellect and inclination too must be satisfied; mere affection will not suffice. She will demand much and give little. Unlike the blonde just looked at, who will give all and ask only that she may give. Unlike the first girl, who will want little but practical companionship and who will give just wholesome affection and good natured comradeship. If one might go into palmistry the hands of these three would afford strange contrast. This last hand is long and firm and like a man's for strength. The palm is bright with color, and the first finger long. The hair dressing is curiously at variance with the type of face. That is because this woman gives no thought to her dress and wear.

A MODIFIED POMPADOUR.

No use talking, every style of girl does not suit the parting of hair at the brows; and those who do not should not permit themselves to be bullied into adopting it. The girl with the low forehead and strong chin will usually, be wiser if she keeps to her own modifications of the pompadour. When the pompadour is used as a hard shiny roll of hair sort of skimed back from the forehead, and outlining the temples in an uncomprising way, it is seldom a becoming style unless the features are severely regular. But the pompadour that is merely a drawing back very loosely and softly of the front hair into a soft puffy continuation of the half coil at the crown of the head as shown in the third picture is almost surely pretty. It softens and yet harmonizes with the outlines of a "strong" face, and it gives due value to the contour of a well shaped head. Great care must be taken not to exaggerate the puffing of the hair above the forehead, that the general contour of the head in profile may not be thrown out of harmonious proportion. Also the lines the bodice makes about the neck must be studied in reference to their effect upon the forehead and profile line. The woman who wears her hair high over her forehead, must carry her head well or the effect will be awkward and top heavy. Likewise, she should have a certain dignity of expression. Granted all these requirements and the effect is bound to be good, and the woman who can fill the requirements would be foolish at the caprice of fashion, to risk a change in her hair that might mar her good points. Such a type will seem to gain in dignity by the general adoption around her of parted tresses and the accompanying droopiness of effect. And she will be wise, therefore, to stick to her own style.

For the blond blessed with that wonderful shell like quality of coloring sometimes bestowed on pale yellow haired folk no gown could be more lovely than one to emphasize the impression such women give you of pink-pearl purity. See our last portrait. A word of her complexion before we speak of her gown. Most bloods make the mistake of trying to tint their skins too white. Let them instead use pink powder and in every way possible bring out whatever suggestion of pinkness their skin may possess. This is the quality of color that makes some women's skin so marvelous a thing. This pinkness should show where the contour rounds, like the bloom on a peach. A gown of white mull over a most delicate shade of clear pink silk will be a wise selection, a little startling perhaps for the lining should be of so delicate a shade that it shall blend into the color of the skin. The neck should be cut low, and the edge of the bodice set with pale blush roses. The sort that seem ready to fall away from their salmon centres. The mull, which of course is not a "dead white" but a "warm" white is set loosely on the lining. The sleeves are softly puffed, and are of the mull without the lining the flesh tint under making its absence not noticeable. These sleeves are thickly strewn with pink pearls. About the neck a row of pink pearls. A rich pure pink that shall bring out the delicacy of the skin, and not change the comparison. If such a woman lacks a deepening of color on the cheeks, by all means she must supply it, but most delicately. Her lips should be almost scarlet a tint well suggested by the neck beads, and carried out into perfection in the lips. The hair is pale gold, and the eyes dark, either violet or brown, better the latter. If the eyes are a clear turquoise blue the whole effect will be marred.

Ayer's Hair Vigor keeps the scalp free from dandruff, prevents the hair from becoming dry and harsh, and makes it flexible and glossy. All the elements that nature requires, to make the hair abundant and beautiful, are supplied by this admirable preparation.

ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE "IN IT."

A Life Agent called at a [illegible] one day;
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had seen "the bore" coming and fled from his way
HE WASN'T IN IT;
He had heard so much said, he was tired and sick
Of insurance and agents—'twas all a [illegible] trick,
When one's coil must be sacrificed to win it,
HE WASN'T IN IT.

A bit of a draft blew o'er his bald head,
HE WAS IN IT;
Pneumonia sent him straightway to his bed,
HE STAYED IN IT;
His doctor made of it a "quite special" case,
To save him for running still more of life's race,
But the grave took some chances to win it,
AND HE'S IN IT.

When approached by a gent for insuring your life,
GET RIGHT IN IT;
It's the right thing to do for your children and wife,
THEN STAY IN IT.
Remember that fires take your goods "out of sight,"
And that accidents happen each day and each night.
While insurance protects every minute,
IF YOU'RE IN IT.

A Bank Manager's Opinion.
HE IS "IN IT."

The General Manager of one of the leading banks in Canada, writing to a personal friend, says:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I place the CANADA LIFE upon the highest platform. It is in my opinion carefully, economically and honestly managed; its Reserve Funds are well invested; its rates of Premiums are low, and its future is, I think better assured than a great majority of Companies. I have my own life insured in the Company for a round amount, and would not hesitate to increase the amount of my policies should I decide upon taking out further insurance."

A Government Insurance Actuary's Opinion
On the Relation between Ordinary and Tontine Service.

It is frequently asserted by Companies whose business is nearly all tontine, that although the CANADA LIFE may and does pay large ordinary profits, yet it cannot compare so favourably on a long term distribution or tontine period, and that in the end better results can be obtained on a tontine policy in a large American Co. than on an ordinary or tontine policy in the CANADA LIFE. To prove the absurdity of this statement, the following piece of common sense is quoted from Mervin Tabor, late Actuary of the Illinois Government Insurance Department. In his well known book, "The Three Systems of Life Insurance," he says: "A company that gives large dividends on the ordinary kind of policies, can give much larger on the same kinds when Tontined, and a company that pays but meagre dividends on the usual forms, adopting perhaps the Tontine system to "cover up" its small surpluses, cannot be relied on for large returns of surplus under the Tontine Forms of Insurance."

The CANADA LIFE does not "cover up" its Quinquennial profits as some Companies do, but publishes them throughout the country.

It can and does surpass other Companies on Quinquennial profits. It should and will surpass them on Tontine profits.

WHY TO BE "IN IT."

BISHOP HAWKE'S REASON:—"I claim that Life Insurance is not only a humane, but I might say a Christian Institution."

LORD LYNDHURST'S REASON:—"A Policy of Life Insurance is always an evidence of prudent forethought. No man with a dependent family is free from reproach if not insured."

WHEN TO BE "IN IT."

The younger, the cheaper. Therefore insure when young. Besides by insuring in the CANADA LIFE now, you will share in three years' profits.

WHERE TO BE "IN IT."

The best place to be "in it" is in the Company that gives the best returns for the least money, consistent with absolute security. Therefore, in order to be "in it," choose the

A Dandy Window Sign.

On the window of Mr. J. McBride's butcher shop and meat market in Snowden's block, Simcoe street, has been emblazoned with an attractive sign—a representation of an ox's head in a circle. The painting and scroll work which was artistically executed by Johndy Costello, is quite an attraction to passers by.

E. B. A. and C. A.

A fine concert under the auspices of the Emerald Beneficial Association and the Catholic Association will take place on the 17th of March, when one of the most attractive programmes ever placed before a Peterborough audience will be presented. The committee of managemet have been very fortunate in securing the services of Miss Marguerite Dunn, one of the cleverest elocutionists in America, who will render the following selections: "Erin, my Country," "Aunt Mellisy on Boys" and the "Battle of Fontenoy." Don't miss the opportunity of hearing this talented young lady. Tickets 50 and 25 cents. Plan of hall at Sallsbury's bookstore.

A Young Life Closed.

The many friends of Miss Flossie Ferguson, Gilmour street, will be pained to learn that her death took place this morning. It was thought that her health was steadily improving but her treacherous disease—consumption, suddenly took an unfavourable turn and death closed her bright young life on the threshold of womanhood. The deceased young lady was well beloved for her almability of character and winning disposition, and the relatives will have general sympathy in their bereavement. The remains will be removed to Smith's Falls for interement on Monday.

Easter Opening.

The brightness of spring brings with it increasing trade. This, at least, is the experience of Miss Delaney, with whom in fact there scarcely ever seems to be any season of dullness, but rather an overflow of business, and no wonder, for where else are the whispers of fashion more frequently heard at present than in connection with Miss Delaney's early spring display of stylish millinery? It must be delightfully refreshing for ladies at this season of the year to indulge in a visit to the establishment, and take in the bright spring effects which have been personally selected from the fashionable centres of the world. Miss Delaney has already had an active demand for her veilings in fancy gauzes and nets, which are in great favour, over one hundred different pieces of which are shown. The new conceits in millinery and fancy novelties, flowers, ribbons and laces give richness and variety to her stock, and evince first-rate skill and taste in her selections. Her patterns, bonnets and hats furnish fresh interest to the ladies, and stimulate admiration at the first glance. Miss Delaney also devotes special attention to imported mantles and Eton jackets. Her Easter opening—which is to be a specially marked event this spring—will no doubt be looked forward to with anxious interest; and ladies who do not wish to be disappointed are enjoined to place their orders for Easter early, for their own interest as well as Miss Delaney's. 50-tf

Died in Kingston.

Among the obituary notices is recorded the death of Mr. William J. Wilson, druggist, of Kingston. Deceased was a cousin of our townsman, Mr. C. B. Routley, and was a highly respected citizen of the Limestone City. By his death Kington loses an active an energetic young citizen at the early age of 35 years, who will be missed in numerous ranks of the people with whom he was intimately identified. The late Mr. Wilson had always taken an active interest in the public and social affairs of the city, and was held in high respect in societies. In the Masonic order he had attained to the high rank of the 33°. His funeral, which took place on Sunday last, was one of the largest seen in Kingston for some time. He leaves a wife and four children to mourn his loss. Mr. C. B. Routley, who has been in Kingston all week assisting in the settlement of the affairs of deceased, returned home last night.

A Unique and Artistic Window.

Messrs. Clarke & Gibson, jewellers, Hunter street, have just put in one of the prettiest and most artistic show case windows out. It is the cynosure of all eyes and many flattering remarks are heard as to the neatness, beauty and finish of this latest addition. Panes of sand cut glass are set in a case of cherry frames with mahogany finish. To the left of the window is a costly British plate mirror. The reflection from these numerous looking glasses is quite dazzling and shows the valuable collection of gold watches, chains, lockets and diamond rings exhibited therein with splendid effect and power. The window is an innovation in its line in Peterborough, and another advantage it possesses is that it can never become frosted, the temperature inside being so regulated by air pipes and gratings that it is kept at the same degree as the outside atmosphere. Mr. D. Belleghem did the cabinet work in good style, and Mr. H. W. Watson painted the magnificent illuminated shaded and gold sign, "Clarke & Gibson," which has been added as an accompaniment to other vast interior improvements to the shop.

MR. KENDRY AND "CIVIS."

On Tuesday last a communication appeared in the EXAMINER over the pseudonym of "Civis," and purporting to deal with the question of the street railway franchise, and contained certain statements or insinuations in reference to Mr. James Kendry, to which he makes emphatic objection. So far as the EXAMINER is concerned when dealing with public questions it has not hesitated, when circumstances required it, to use language sufficiently explicit to make its meaning clear, but in the case of the communication referred to, we know nothing about the circumstances and have no knowledge or opinion as to the truth of the allegations, expressed or implied, which the letter of "Civis" contained, and which Mr. Kendry denies. The EXAMINER having been the medium of making public the statements of which Mr. Kendry complains, in justice very readily expresses its willingness to give him the opportunity of making through its columns, as explicit and circumstantial denial as he choses to make. No malice can be attributed to THE EXAMINER in publishing the letter of "Civis," for the publisher was out of town on the day of publication and had no knowledge of the letter till the following day. If the contents of the letter of "Civis" have been received by the public with a degree of belief that has placed him in a false position, we regret it, and repeat the tender of the use of the columns of THE EXAMINER to permit of Mr. Kendry making any denial or statement in reference to the matter he desires.

STREET RAILWAY FRANCHISE.

LAST night at a special meeting of the town council a report of which appears in this issue, the franchise for an electric street railway company was awarded to the Canadian General Electric Company for a term of twenty years, and the sum of $5000 is placed to the credit of the town, as a guarantee for the fulfillment of the contract entered into by the company as a condition of receiving the franchise. The narrowing down of the competition to two local companies made it a difficult matter for the council to decide as between them, for both companies had strong claims to consideration in the matter. From the nature of the discussion last night it seemed that the desire to laid the operations and promote the prosperity of an important manufacturing establishment in which the town has so much invested and whose continued prosperity means so much for the town, was a chief factor in determining the council to give the franchise to the Canadian General Electric Company. All the members of the council, as well as ourselves and the citizens of the town generally, were in sympathy with the proposal to extend the line to Chemong Park, whose deserved, popularity as one of the most delightful summer resorts of the district, render it very desirable that access to it should be made as easy as possible. But the matter did not take such a shape before the committee yesterday afternoon as to admit of its being included in the report of the committee, thus excluding its practical consideration last night. But the conditional offer of the Canadian General Electric Company in reference to the extension to Chemong, places the construction of such an extension within the range of probability. The town now has $5,000 on deposit as a guarantee of the bona fides of the present possessors of the street railway franchise, and it will be the council's duty to see that the conditions of the contract are faithfully observed in the town's interest, which, judging by the careful disposition shown by the mayor and council last night will probably qe done.

Scarlet Fever in Ashburnham.

The last scarlet fever placard was taken down a few days ago. The Medical Health Officer says that in this outbreak the advantages of thorough isolation and disinfection have been demonstrated in a striking way. The disease broke out in several houses, each containing a number of children. In all the cases but one it was promptly recognized, the child isolated at once and disinfection kept up constantly. The result was that no second case occured. But in one house the first case was of so mild a form that it was not recognised as scarlet fever, no physician having been called in. A second member of the family was attacked but still with a mild form. Then a third took the disease in such a magligant type that it proved fatal in a day or two. Had the disease been recognised at first and proper sanitary precautions taken, there is no doubt a life would have been saved.

No flowery rhetoric can tell the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla as well as the cures accomplished by this excellent medicine.

Rev. Dr. Willoughby, special representative of the Manufacturers' Life Assurance company, is in town to-day on business connected with the company. It appears that the late W. J. Mason was insured in this company for the benefit of his wife to the extent of $2,000 and that during his illness the payment of the last premium was neglected and in a few days the local agent of the company returned the certificate to the company, by which all the claims under the policy were forfeited. The stockholders of the company in Peterborough, feeling that the spirit of the contract of insurance had not been violated by Mr. Mason's oversight in making payment of the last premium, and that in equity, if not legally, his widow was entitled to the benefit of the amount of the policy, have thus represented the matter to the company with a request that the amount be paid, a request which, from the reputation of the company for a liberal and equitable treatment of its clients, will in all probability be acceded to. From personal knowledge of the general manager, we have no doubt that the most favourable report possible under the circumstances will be made to the directors.

Our Bow to the Public.

♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥ ♥

IN making this our first regular spring announcement to the citizens and residents of the town and county of Peterborough, we would address ourselves, not only to that large constituency of customers who have heretofore patronized our well known and highly esteemed predecessors, (Messrs. Hall, Innes & Co.,) but to all other readers of this journal, many of whom we hope to have the privilege of doing business with in the future.

We have a few words to say, not directly about Dry Goods.

We believe, that in all the relations of life where success is attained, mutual confidence is the basis, whether between physician and patient, lawyer and client, or merchant and customer, and, for our part, we intend to merit and expect to win confidence.

A WORD as to our taking charge of this business. It has been a matter of choice, on our part, largely influenced by some knowledge of this, "Canada's Premier Town," and surrounding district, and, as we are here to stay, we are actuated by a desire to do our best, as worthy citizens, to still further advance its interest and fair name.

OUR RECORD extends over a number of years of business life, and, with perhaps pardonable pride, we can say that during all that time, both those from whom we have bought and those to whom we have sold, have been financially benefitted.

OUR POSITION, as direct importers of Dry Goods, with a personal visitation of one of the firm twice a year to the European markets, and direct business connection with the leading manufacturers and warehousemen in Great Britain, place us in a position to give VALUE SECOND TO NONE, and styles the most correct and elegant. In no other line of business does the exercise of taste in selection come so largely into play as in the Dry Goods Trade, and in the markets we visit, there is the amplest room for its exercise.

"OUR STAFF." Almost or quite equal to a good stock of Dry Goods at right prices, as a factor in ensuring the success of a business, is competent, courteous and polite assistants. Our staff of employees in its entirety, will be composed of ladies and gentlemen of whom we expect to feel proud.

OUR AIM shall be to merit your confidence in what we may say to you in our place of business, in what we may tell you in our business announcements, in the reliable character of the goods we may have to offer you, by basing our business superstructure on the three cardinal principles,—

INTEGRITY, INTELLIGENCE AND INDUSTRY.

A WORD AS TO OUR METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS.

We fully recognize the fact that to conduct a successful business at the present day demands that all competition from any and every source should be successfully met, which means, not merely that of a local character, but that emanating from the largest houses of the largest cities, who do business exclusively for Cash, and, as a consequence, have not the factor of bad debts and capital outstanding, as well as office expenses to take into consideration, when marking the profits on their goods. This and all other honest competition we are prepared to meet, and to do this we have decided to offer attractive goods at such close prices as will draw to us that large constituency of the community who buy for Cash We have strong faith in a Cash Business, having found in our experience that this potent factor, Cash, is the key that opens all the doors where bargains are to be had. We have used it this season in making our European and Canadian purchases, and, as a result, have the best class of goods at Rock Bottom Prices.

We have already opened up several cases of new Millinery Goods, the styles of which are to be found correct. MISS WALKER has returned after visiting the centres of fashion, and will, as heretofore, be in charge of the show room, which our customers will be pleased to learn.

We have passed into stock many new Spring Suitings, Trouserings and Spring Overcoats, which we have marked at close prices. We have been successful in securing the services of MR. AMES, as Cutter for our Tailoring Department, who comes to us highly recommended, having had a long experience in large city trade. All work in this department guaranteed.

We shall be pleased to see all the old friends of the house, and will consider it a pleasure to show our goods, whether present purchases are contemplated or not.

THE "CANADIAN" COMPANY GETS THE FRANCHISE FOR THE ROAD.

Two Applications Considered by the Council—Mr. Elliott Speaks—The Ottawa Corporation Drops Out of the Race—The Agreements with the Company—A Lively Discussion on the Committee's Report—Work to be Begun by May 1st, 1899—The Line to be Completed from Hilliard's Mill to Ware Street by August 1st.

At the special meeting of the council held last night to deal with the electric street railway franchise there were present Mayor Kendry, and Councillors Cahill, White, Winch, Bradburn, Kelly, Stevenson, Dawson, Wilson, Collins, McIlwain, Dennistoun and Mulhern. There was a tremendously large attendance of citizens in the auditorium.

The Mayor called the meeting to order and said the object was to deal with the street railway matter, and no other business would be taken up.

COMMITTEE ON RAILWAYS.

Mr. Cahill, chairman of the Railway Committee, presented the report of the committee as follows:

To the Mayor and Council:

Gentlemen,—Your Manufacturers' and Railway Committee, to which was referred the several applications for the street railway franchise, beg leave to report that they have considered the same. At a meeting of the committee held last night a motion was carried requiring the parties tendering for the franchise to deposit an accepted cheek for the sum of $5,000, payable to the corporation of the town of Peterborough as liquidated damages to the corporation in case the company to which the franchise was awarded should fail in carrying out the contract. With these conditions the Canadian General Electric Company and the Peterborough and Ashburnham Railway Company have complied.

Your Committee recommend that the franchise be awarded to the Canadian General Electric Company, subject to terms of agreement and bylaw submitted herewith.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

THOS. CAHILL,
Chairman.

Mr. Cahill stated that in addition to the two applications entered and mentioned in the report, Mr. Elliott put in an application which was considered by the committee, but he had made no deposit, and the Ottawa firm had also not put up a bond, hence they were not considered in the report presented.

MOVES AN AMENDMENT.

Mr. Stevenson read the following telegram from Messrs. Ahern & Soper, Ottawa:

"Before beginning negotiations we understood that Mr. Stevenson's company would support our application, and as this is not the case, and we do not desire to antagonize local interests, we withdraw our application. Please notify Mr. Kendry."

Mr. Stevenson then said he would move the following amendment:

"That the franchise of the streets of Peterborough be given to any person or corporation providing that they build a line to Chemong Park, and that the franchise of the road through the township of Smith be guaranteed, and comply with the agreement with the town council."

He said he was backed up by the Board of Trade, and many thought that a line built out to Chemong Park would pay well.

MR. ELLIOTT SPEAKS.

Mr. Alex. Elliott was, on motion, heard. He said the council had an application from Mr. Soper, of Ottawa, but Mr. Soper had failed to appear. The speaker last night put in a proposition to the council, which, he thought, was the best they had received yet. He would put up a bond of $1000, and if necessary $5000, and would extend the line to Chemong Park. If necessary he would put up this deposit before Monday next. Mr. Soper had put in an application, but for some reason or other Mr. Soper did not appear. There was a nigger in the fence somewhere, and they could draw their own conclusion. Mr. Soper was anxious to get the franchise and wished to put up his money to that effect. He was taking Mr. Soper's place in this connection and he would guarantee to have the road built to Chemong Park which was the best proposition yet. Mr. Elliott had nothing to say against either of the local companies. He had not yet put up the check but was prepared to do so. He as a citizen paying taxes had as good a right to get the franchise as any other company. Peterborough wanted the railway and he thought that he should have it. He had offered to give Mr. Soper his own valuator and put stock in the line to Chemong Park. This would cost some $14,000 or $15,000. He intended to build the road himself. He was backed up by business men but was not making a dollar out of it. The matter rested entirely with the council as to what they would do.

Mr. Mulhern said as no one consented to speak before they voted he would like to have the original agreement made between the town and Edison Company read.

MORE DISCUSSION ON THE AGREEMENTS.

Mr. Stevenson said some merchants did not want cars running up and down George street, and he thought that the agreement should be read.

Mr. Bradburn said that it was agreed by the committee that the agreement should apply to the new company and if they gave a rehash of it the council would probably run a chance of losing the street railway.

Mr. Cahill said the deposits of $5,000 were put up on the general lines of that agreement with the Edison Company.

Mr. Bradburn said certain clauses were inserted last night, and they could not be changed.

Mr. Dennistoun said any councillor not familiar with the agreement was grossly negligent. They ought to have examined it enough to know the contents.

Mr. Dawson said they had not had an opportunity of hearing what was in the agreement.

THE AGREEMENT READ.

On motion, the original agreement between the Edison Company and the town of Peterborough was read.

Mr. Bradburn moved that the new agreement entered into last night by the committe be read.

This was done, Mr. Town Solicitor Edwards reading the same.

Mr. Stevenson called attention to the fact that the Peterborough and Ashburnham Railway Company had signed the second agreement drawn up last night, re Chemong Park extension which the Canadian General Electric Company had not.

Mr. Edwards said the Canadian Company had agreed to build to Chemong Park on certain conditions, and not build to Chemong Park in the general system.

HE WAS UNACQUAINTED WITH THE PLACE.

Mr. Nicholls was on motion heard. He said the only reason of his speaking was the Chemong clause. The company had already signed an agreement to extend to Chemong Park under certain conditions. He did not know anything about Chemong Park. He had stated last night if it would pay as a commercial venture they would favourably consider it, but the company had gone further and bound themselves that if half the stock was subscribed by local capital, they would extend the line to Chemong, and if it were such a paying enterprise, he thought that there would not be any difficulty in meeting this demand.

WHAT ABOUT OUTSIDERS?

Mr. Cahill favoured the suggestion of Mr Edwards, that an outside firm or party be granted the privilege of the streets to extend the line to a railway station if desired. This would meet Mr. Elliott's case very favourably and he thought a clause to that effect should be inserted in the agreement.

The Mayor said he would like to have the consent of the company to whom they awarded the franchise before putting the question.

Mr. Dennistoun pointed out that the Peterborough and Ashburnham Company offered to go to Chemong Park themselves with the road.

THEY WANTED TO KEEP FAITH.

The Mayor said they had a deposit of $5,000 from 2 companies and they did not want to break away. They wanted to keep faith and not lose the road. They had no such jurisdiction in law as it was a matter entirely outside the corporation.

Mr. Cahill said if the one company were willing to go to Chemong it was no hardship to have this clause inserted and if the other company were not willing that was the reason why they should have the clause inserted in order that some other company might go there.

Mr. Stevenson stated that Mr. Elliott had the franchise for the road through the township of Smith, and he could give to either company.

Mr. Elliott said he had the franchise for the township of Smith.

HE WANTED THE AGREEMENT TO STAND.

Mr. Nicholls said they had been asked to agree to certain conditions in the agreement which were very onerous, and they had done so. The committee had drawn a good bargain so they thought. There were a number of clauses he would like changed and if they were prepared to open the agreement again he would like to see certain amendments made in return for the one inserted granting a franchise to Chemong.

NOT PREPARED TO ALLOW IT.

Mr. Hazlitt said the Peterborough and Ashburnham Railway Co., had deposited their check of $5000 and expected the agreement they had entered into to be carried out. They were not prepared at the present juncture to say whether they would accept a change of this kind or not. They were prepared to stand by their former agreement though some of the conditions were very onerous and should be changed, but to open up the agreement now would not be right. He was not prepared to say that the company should accept that condition.

Mr. Mulhern said it made little difference to which company they granted the franchise for they were both the same in effect. He knew which company he would vote for, though.

Mr. Cahill said it was an important question to reserve the right of allowing other companies to come in and go to railway station; as it was now they are shut out. If there were severe conditions in the agreement, as the other companies had said, he thought that they could be remedied if pointed out. The question was, had we better face this difficulty now or face a bigger difficulty in the future.

Mayor Kendry said last night was the time this clause should be considered. They had neglected to insert this clause. They had been dealing with the matter for years, and if they carried out or the matter upon the agreement either company would build the road. If the agreement was opened to-night it would be impossible to tell where the question would end. He was prepared, right or wrong, to stand by the agreement made last night. After some further conversational discussion he said the meeting was called as a whole council last night, and if nobody objected the agreement was carried.

Mr. Mulhern stated that there was no vote taken on the agreement last night, and hence it was not passed.

The mayor said Mr. Stevenson's motion broke the agreement.

Mr. Stevenson said that last night's meeting was only a committee meeting, not a council meeting.

Mr. Cahill said he understood that it was a meeting of the council in committee of the whole, but no vote was taken.

Mr. Kelly seconded Mr. Stevenson's amendment.

WANTS THE FRANCHISE GIVEN TO THE PETERBOROUGH & ASHBURNHAM CO.

Mr. Dennistoun moved, seconded by Mr. McIlwain, that the report be amended so as to read "that the franchise be awarded to the Peterborough and Ashburnham Company."

Mr. Dennistoun said that the matter came down to-day to a question of two companies—the Peterborough and Ashburnham Railway Company and the Canadian General Electric Company. He wished it understood that the Canadian General Electric Company was distinct from the Edison Company, who broke faith with the town. He said that the Peterborough and Ashburnham Railway Company, who put in the first application, were men of means and influence, and had been treated but shabbily and were entitled to a consideration from the council. The question of the franchise was put to the people and they decided in favour of the Edison, who failed to carry out the franchise. What had this town to fear when the Peterborough and Ashburnham Company were prepared to give bonds and carry out the franchise, which if they did not do would revert to the town of Peterborough. They had put in a second application before the Canadian Electric. The company had all along behaved in a straightforward, manly way, and were certainly entitled to some consideration from the council, When asked for a bond for the first time, they had put it up. Mr. Nicholls stated last night at the meeting they were prepared to meet any company in a fair field with electrical appliances and hence this cause of objection was removed, and the Peterborough and Ashburnham Company, said in this matter, all things being considered, they would give the preference to the Canadian General Company. A surprising change had taken place since last Monday night's council meeting. The Westinghouse people had disappeared from the face of the earth and instead of the council voting for this concern they had all changed and were now voting for the Canadian General Electric Company. He did not know why these changes. The Peterborough and Ashburnham Company had always maintained the same front, and had offered to extend the road to Chemong. He had nothing against the Canadian General Electric Company, and believed them to be a good corporation. He did not think that a separate franchise should be given to an outside company to extend the line from Chemong Park to the town, and he could not therefore favour the committee's proposition.

Mr. McIlwain said he did not understand Mr. Hazlitt to say that they would not run to Chemong. He understood him to say that they objected to having a clause inserted giving that franchise to another company.

Mr. Cahill said they could all agree with Mr. Dennistoun's remarks regarding the Peterborough and Ashburnham Company. They all knew they were men of means. They also agreed with Mr. Dennistoun that the present Canadian Company had nothing to do with the Edison Compony. In bringing the works of the Canadian Co'y to the town, he thought it would not be wise to confine them to the thirty-acre field down there. They employed some 300 men, and if the town did anything to turn these out of work they would be condemned. These were the speaker's reasons, and only reasons, why he voted for the Canadian General Electric Company. On this question rested the decision whether the company would extend their operations in Peterborough or not.

After some further inconsequential discussion, Mr. Cahill said notwithstanding all he had said he would vote for the Peterborough and Ashburnham Company if they would extend the line to Chemong.

Mr. Stevenson concurred with Mr. Cahill in his choice.

Mr. Stevenson's amendment was then put and lost, only Messrs. Stevenson and Kelly voting for it.

Mr. Dennistoun's amendment to the report then came up.

Mr. Stevenson asked if there was any difference in the agreements to the two company's. He would like to know this before voting.

The Mayor said there was no difference in the propositions laid before the committee. They were both the same, and if the committee's report was adopted or the amendment the same would refer to both.

After considerable unimportant discussion respecting matters which at that time could not be affected by discussion, the Mayor asked if both companies assented to the agreement.

Mr. Hazlitt, on behalf of the Peterborough and Ashburnham Company answered yes.

Mr. Nicholls, on behalf of the Canadian General Electric Company,—If what is read as the agreement is the same as the original Edison agreement, with the changes agreed to last night—yes.

Mr. Cahill said that we wanted the document signed that night and he invited the representatives of both companies to come forward and examine the agreement and sign it to-night and have no more humbugging about the matter.

The representatives of both companies said they were willing to sign any agreement that conformed to the agreement signed the previous night.

After some further discussion about the terms of the agreement, Councillor Dennistoun jocularly remarked that, as chairman of the Finance Committee, he would like to see both of the $5,000 deposits pass into the town treasury, and then," he asked amidst great laughter "where would the EXAMINER's deficit be?"

Mr. Mulhern said it was not compulsory to settle the matter to-night, the town had five days in which to come to a decision.

The voting was proceeded with and resulted in the rejection of Mr. Dennistoun's amendment, only he and his seconder, Mr. McIlwaine, voting for it.

The main motion to adopt the report of the committee granting the franchise to the Canadian General Electric Company was carried on the same vote reversed.

A bylaw to confirm the agreement and exempt the street railway from taxation was duly passed.

The council adjourned at eleven o'clock.

HIS WIFE WAS DEAD.

The Dark Angel Visited Mr. Yates' House While He Was Away.

HAMILTON, March 10.—Mr. George Yates, nightwatchman at the Hamilton Bridge Company's works, met a terrible sight when between 7 and 8 o'clock Friday morning he arrived at his home, No. 82 Ferrie-street east, after his night's work. Last night he went to his work at about the usual time, about 7 o'clock, leaving his wife in her usual health, alone in the house.

This morning when he got home he found her lying face down on the floor, dead. She was dressed just as he had left her and was in the same room, her head close to a door leading upstairs, and frothy blood issuing from her mouth.

As quickly as possible he sent word to a married daughter, and she was soon on the terrible scene. Dr. Woolverton was telephoned for, and things in the house were left just as they had been found until he arrived. The post-mortem symptoms and the position of the body in respect to a chair which stood near the stove convinced him that Mrs. Yates had had an apoplectic fit as she sat in the chair and had fallen forward.

As she was unable to help herself and there was no one in the house to assist her she must soon have smothered as she lay with her face flat on the floor. Mrs. Yates was a very stout lady, but had enjoyed good health. She was about 56 years of age. Dr. Woolverton thought it unnecessary to hold an inquest.

DISASTROUS ICE SLIDE.

The Tramway Wrecked—A Police man Severely Burned and May Die.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., March 10.—Yesterday the thousands of tons of ice that had accumulated on the roof of the incline railway from the New York State reservation down the bank to the base of the American Falls from the spray from the falls was loosened from its fastenings by the heavy rains of the last two days and slid down upon the office and approach below, smashing and tearing everything in its way.

Luckily for a carload of tourists they had just landed at the top, but Edward Lane was hemmed below amongst broken timbers, which soon caught fire.

Thomas Welch, superintendent of the park, ordered out the fire department, which held the flames in check until 5. Park police worked like Trojans below to rescue their comrade. He received frightful burns on the head and shoulders, and it is expected he cannot survive. The flames were not under control until $2500 damage was done.

Encouragement for old People.

It may sound queer to talk about curing old people of Kidney and Urinary troubles after they have passed the alloted period of three score years and ten, but the following extraordinary recovery of an old veteran by Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure, ought to be of great encouragement to old people:—

GENTLEMEN,—I owe a great debt of gratitude to Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure for the prompt and speedy relief which I have received from the use of only one bottle of your great medicine. I have suffered from Kidney and Urinary troubles, inflammation of the neck of the bladder, &c. for many a long day. No one knows better than old people how great a blessing it is to be cured. I doctored a lot, but nothing did me so much good as your cure. I have lived about half a century in Belleville, and will be only to glad to speak a good word in favour of Membray's Kidney and Liver Cure. That Humming on the Wires.

You have all heard the humming and singing of telegraph and telephone wires as you pass the poles along the streets. No doubt you have concluded that it is caused by the action of the wind on the wires and given it no further thought. But it is not true that the singing is caused by the wind, and if you are at all observing you will notice that often the humming sound is to be heard these cold winter mornings when the smoke from chimneys goes straight up until it is lost in the clouds and when the frost on the wires is as fuzzy and thick as a roll of chenille fringe. The wind has nothing to do with the sound, and according to an Austrian scientist, quoted by the Detroit Free Press, the vibrations are due to the changes of atmospheric temperature, and especially through the action of the cold, as a lowering of temperature induces a shortening of the wires extending over the whole of the conductor. A considerable amount of friction is produced on the supporting bell, thus inducing sounds both in the wires and the poles. When this humming has been going on birds have mistaken the sound for insects inside the poles, and have been seen to peck with their bills on the outside as they do upon apple and other trees. The story is told of a bear that mistook the humming noise as coming from a nest of bees, and clawed at the pole and tore away the stones at its base in the hope of finding the much-coveted honey.

Analyses of Army Bread.

Analyses of the bread supplied to the French army shows that the soft part contains from 38 to 49 per cent. and the crust from 16 to 25 per cent. of water. The investigator reports that, weight for weight, there is an advantage in having a bread rich in crust for army use. He therefore proposes that the present ration of eight pounds of bread a day should consist of two loaves of four pounds each, preferably of a long shape and having a crust without fissures.

WONDER IN WELLAND!

A Representative Farmer Speaks.

MR. C. C. HAUN.

The following remarkable facts are fully certified to as being undeniably correct in every particular. Mr. Haun is well known in the vicinity, having resided here over fifty years, and is highly respected as a man of the strictest honor, whose word is as good as his bond.

As will be seen from his letter, four physicians had attended him, and it was only after he had given up hope of cure that he decided to try Burdock Blood Bitters on the recommendation of a neighbor who had been cured of a similar disease by its use. Mr. Haun writes as follows:

DEAR SIRS,—I think I have been one of the worst sufferers you have yet heard of, having been six years in the hands of four of our best doctors without obtaining permanent relief, but continually growing worse, until almost beyond hope of recovery, I tried your Bitters and got relief in a few days. Every organ of my body was deranged, the liver enlarged, hardened and torpid, the heart and digestive organs seriously deranged, a large abscess in my back, followed by paralysis of the right leg, in fact the lower half of my body was entirely useless. After using Burdock Blood Bitters for a few days the abscess burst, discharging fully five quarts of pus in two hours. I felt as if I had received a shock from a powerful battery. My recovery after this was steady and the cure permanent, seeing that for the four years since I have had as good health as ever I had. I still take an occasional bottle, not that I need it but because I wish to keep my system in perfect working order. I can think of no more remarkable case than what I have myself passed through, and no words can express my thankfulness for such perfect recovery.

C. C. HAUN,
Welland P.O.

In this connection the following letter from T. Cumines, Esq., a leading druggist of Welland, Ont., speaks for itself:

Messrs. T. Milburn & Co., Toronto.

GENTLEMEN,—I have been personally acquainted with Mr. C. C. Haun for the last 20 years, and have always found him a very reliable man. You may place the utmost confidence in anything he says with regard to your medicine. He has on many occasions within the last four years told me that it was marvellous the way the Burdock Blood Bitters had cured him, and that he now felt as able to do a day's work as he ever felt in his life. Although quite well he still takes some B. B. B. occasionally, as he says, to keep him in perfect health.

Yours truly,
THOMAS CUMINES,
Welland, Ont.

The steadily increasing sale of B. B. B., the length of time it has been before the people, and the fact that it cures to stay cured, attest the sterling merit of this monarch of medicines, the people's favorite blood purifier, tonic and regulator.

BARRELS WORTH SAVING.

How They Can be Transformed Into Useful and Ornamental Articles.

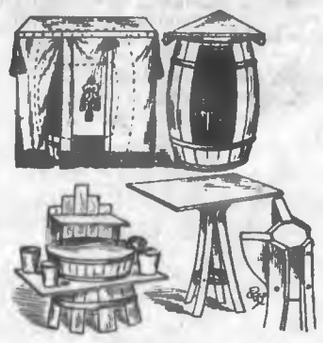
The old barrel, with a little ingenuity and less expense, may easily be turned into a useful and ornamental article of furniture. Perhaps the kitchen lacks a small closet room, where towels, kitchen cloths, brushes, etc., can be hung; if so take a barrel, and having secured the hoops by extra nails, saw a panel out of the side just below the top hoop and above the second hoop at the bottom, removing part of the intervening hoops with the staves. Near the top put a row of hooks or nails around on the inside, then place the barrel in the corner with the opening in front. With some planed boards make a triangular cover to fit the corner and extend out as far as the middle of the barrel; hang a curtain across the front on a wire and if preferred cover the top with a cloth. This affords a convenient little closet with a neat table above.

Another barrel may be used as a place of storage for boots and shoes, a scrap bag and a receptacle for wrapping paper, etc., by fitting it up in the following way:—

In the front saw out three openings, using a gimlet and key hole saw where it is necessary to begin the cuts. The middle one is a small square just below the top hoop. Around this drive in a half dozen furniture tacks and make a scrap bag deep enough to rest on the bottom inside the barrel, passing the mouth of the bag through the hole. Loop it on the tacks by buttonholes made in the bag. On either side of this centre fasten a good sized box in the barrel, or if better suited to the purpose put in two board partitions in the lower half of the barrel, leaving a central space large enough for the bag. Saw out large panels on either side half way up the barrel for handy access to these compartments. Smooth off the edges, remove any nails inside and it is ready to cover. Make the top of nicely planed and squared boards, with the old barrel head nailed on the under side to keep it from slipping out of place. Cover this with furniture cloth, and around the sides hang two straight pieces of the same, coming nearly together in front. Over the narrow space left hang a broad double plait of the same material. This will serve to conceal the edges of the side flaps, which open into the barrel, while a slit forms a pocket into the scrap bag.

A light table may be constructed with four nicely curved staves for table legs. Get a square piece of timber, only a few inches long, and about five and one-half inches square; take off the corners for about an inch and fasten on the sides four staves with the ends well squared and smoothed off. Between these fasten on some brackets at the corners to support the top. A small hoop may be placed between the staves near the floor to make them more firm.

A very convenient plant stand may be formed by cutting a barrel in halves and sawing out each alternate stave in one part.



VARIOUS DESIGNS.

Turn this down for a base. Upon this place a broad board shelf. Then saw away the staves for about three-quarters of the circumference of the other half, leaving the remainder for a back, against which a smaller shelf may rest, supported by boards extending down to the bottom of the barrel. This half of the barrel is to be filled with earth, after being made watertight, and set in the centre of the broad bottom shelf. Those pieces of furniture should be stained or painted some quiet tint.

Stands may also be made from barrels and trays for holding plants or various domestic articles. One may consist of two ends of a barrel with the heads in, each part being sawed off just at the second hoop. Through four holes in the lower one run the supports of the frame and let the top part rest upon their ends. Some small brackets under each barrel head will strengthen the whole. Covered and decorated with cloth and plush and with cushioned sides and pockets, this makes a very convenient work table, or decorated in rustic fashion a very pretty plant stand. Another may be made of a barrel sawed in half lengthwise and resting on a framework of plain boards with a shelf below; this may be filled with earth for a winter window garden or may have a cover hinged on for a table and be draped with a cloth to hide the barrel shape, which affords a spacious receptacle.

Increase Your Weight.

If you are losing flesh and blood, commence at once taking Miller's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, which is far ahead of all other preparations of the kind in existence. By taking Miller's Emulsion people gain from 5 to 10 lbs. by the time the first bottle is consumed. It is the greatest blessing of the century to all in delicate health, or who suffer with coughs, colds and ailments that tend to consumption. Remember, Miller's Emulsion contains all the constituents found in wheat. It is used in the hospitals and asylums of the country. In big bottles, 50c. and $1, at all Drug Stores.

A Valuable Hint.

When you are attacked by cough or cold do not delay but commence at once to use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. This old standard remedy removes all irritation, loosens the phlegm, and heals the mucous surfaces, curing coughs and colds of all kinds.

News About Town.

It is the current report about town that Kemp's Balsam for the throat and lungs is making some remarkable cures with people who are troubled with coughs, sore throat, asthma, bronchitis and consumption. Any druggist will give you a trial bottle FREE OF COST. It is guaranteed to relieve and cure. The large bottles are 50c. and $1.

From the Far North.

In northern climates people are very subject to colds, but the natural remedy is also produced in the same climate. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup cures coughs, colds, hoarseness, asthma, bronchits and all throat and lung troubles. Price 25c. and 50c.

Derangement of the liver, with constipation, injures the complexion, induce pimples, sallow skin. Remove the cause by using Carter's Little Liver Pills. One a dose. Try them.

A Cure For Headache.

Headache arises from constipation, bad blood, dyspepsia or liver complaint. As B. B. B. cures all these complaints it is naturally the most successful headache cure existing. Once the cause is removed the headache vanishes.

TWO YOUNGSTERS ELOPE

THEY ARE PUPILS OF SCHOOLS IN TORONTO.

[illegible] To Hamilton With Eighteen-Year-Old Minnie Butler, Esq. the Accountant [illegible]

Toronto, March [illegible] late lamented Lucrezia Borgia penned true words that when he said that "In the spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." This is also true of maidens, and Harbord-street Collegiate Institute, whose [illegible] gentle maidens study there hours of Terpsichore, has been the first to prove their truth by something more potent than a pedagog's exegesis.

The young lady interested is Miss Minnie Butler, blonde and blue-eyed, and one of the fairest flowers in Principal Spotton's educational garden. Miss Minnie is sweet 16, with dresses to her boot tops and is in the lower fifth or matriculation form of the Harbord-street Institute. She is also very vivacious and wears her sunny brown hair as natural and rippling gloriously to her waist. It goes without saying that she is a general favorite with her class-mates, who are greatly flattered over the naughty eagle who has penetrated their doveote. She lives with her parents in a pretty villa at 405 Markham-street, and within convenient calling distance at 502 Markham lives her youthful 18-year-old lover, Fred S. Hammill, son of Thomas J. Hammill, lumberman, and only scion of the house. Minnie is also an only child, which gives especial interest to the case.

Fred, who has symptoms of a mustache, has been going for some time to Dillon's private academy at 192 Spadina-avenue. In the quiet and seclusion of this institution, away from the rude bustle of a public school, he has had time to cultivate the grande passion, and the object of his callow affection has been Miss Minnie, at whose house he is on visiting terms.

Some months ago the young couple became engaged, their parents wisely deferring marriage until they had reached more mature years.

Tired of the hope which maketh the heart sick, the young pair determined to precipitate matters, and on Friday morning last took the matter into their own hands. On the Thursday night previous Fred and Minnie met and made arrangements for an elopement. Fred, whose exchequer was limited, had succeeded in saving up $5—enough for a license and two fares to Hamilton, a place that he had selected as being quiet and sufficiently suitable for a Gretna Green marriage.

After having a good dinner, the lovers left their respective homes and met at Ulster and Borden-streets, according to appointment. Love's young dream did not induce Fred to be reckless in his expenses. The pair rejected a carriage as being too expensive, and rode to the Union Station in a prosaic street car. Thence they took the 12.50 train to Hamilton, where they arrived at 3 p.m., and at once proceeded to the residence of Mr. Evans, a friend of Fred's family.

In the meantime Mrs. Butler became alarmed at Minnie's absence, and when on comparing notes with the Hammills she discovered that Fred was also missing she at once concluded that the pair had gone for a honeymoon. Mr. Butler was down town at the time, and Mr. Hammill at once proceeded in hot haste to the Union Station, where he took the next train for Hamilton. He arrived at that suburb about 5 p.m., when he immediately repaired to the Evans mansion.

When Mr. Hammill entered Fred and Minnie were seated in the drawing-room, not having yet gone out to look for the parson that was to make them one.

Mr. Hammill at once called his son into an adjoining room. What happened there deponent sayeth not, but as a result the eloping couple returned by the next train to Toronto in company with Freddie's papa, arriving in the city at 9 p.m.

When a reporter called at Mr William Butler's residence last night he was met at the door by Miss Minnie herself, who listened eagerly to the ensuing interview with her father. As the outcome of a talk with Mr. and Mrs. Butler and Miss Minnie the facts above stated were elicited.

"It was only a girlish escapade," said Mrs. Butler, "and Fred and Minnie were unwise in trying to hurry a marriage to which there is no objection later on."

Miss Minnie, who had been studying her lessons with the aid of a dainty pince-nez which hung suspended by a golden chain from her neck, took a prominent part in the conversation. She told of her engagement with Fred and gave many of the details before recited. "I hope you are not going to put this in the papers," she pleaded. "If you do I can never go to school again."

The reporters hard heart was almost most melted by the entreaty of the big, blue eyes, but he stuck strictly to duty and asked if she had any particular parson in view when they went to Hamilton. "Oh, no," she replied, "we were just going to take any that came handy. Freddie and I came home with his papa, who read papers all the way, and said nothing to me at all. I think you are real mean if you put this in the paper, because we have now decided to wait."

A visit to Mr. Hammill's was not so productive of results. Mr. Hammill was out at church meeting, and would not be in till late. Freddie himself had gone to hear Dr. Talmage at Cooke's Church.

Mrs. Hammill, however, was at home. She regarded the whole matter as a boyish frolic on the part of Fred, who had not considered how it would look if he took Minnie with him to Hamilton. "I have been talking to him to-day and telling him how foolish he was. I do not think they were going to be married at all. Fred merely took Minnie with him for a holiday, and intended returning on the next train."

Mr. Hugh Caldwell, Clydesdale, Ont., writes:—"My daughter was troubled with female weakness and for more than a year was under the care of doctors and taking medicine without getting relief. I then got Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for her and they have completely cured her. All dealers or by mail at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. Dr. Williams' Med. Co., Brockville, Ont.

No other remedy cures sprains, bruises, cuts, wounds, chilblains, sore throat, rheumatism, etc., so promptly as Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It is an old standard remedy that has given perfect satisfaction for 30 years.

A Pleasant Herb Drink.

The best cure we know of for constipation and headache is the pleasant herb drink called Lane's Family Medicine. It is said to be Oregon grape root, combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring boiling water onto the dried roots and herbs. It is remarkably efficacious in all blood disorders, and is now the sovereign remedy with ladies for clearing up the complexion. Druggists sell the packages at 50c. and $1.

A NEW MILITIA CORPS.

MOHAWK INDIANS AS MOUNTED INFANTRY.

When Other Nations Want to See a Tip-Top Army Dress Parade They Will Have to Visit England's Greatest Colony.

TORONTO, March 11.—The desire to create that which will make the crowd stare is regarded as natural to all races and in all places; but it is in the dressing of the armies of the world that such desire runs rampant. And there is method in that madness—if madness it can be termed—for the apparent pomp and splendor of soldiering in time of peace is a prominent power to persuade many men to train themselves for the work of butchering their fellows in time of war. Were that pomp and splendor not intruded so ingeniously by those who are ready to use warfare as a means to national or personal aggrandisement it is probable that army life would be accepted only by those who have sufficiently the spirit of paupers to accept food and clothing from Governments in return for employment in semi-idleness.

But moralizing will not tell Canadians that the Mohawk Indians at Deseronto are organizing a corps of mounted infantry to form a part of the Canadian militia. The Mohawks have in their tribe plenty of young men and spirited horses to place an effective and brilliant centrepiece in the grouping of our citizen soldiery. The young men are red-hot on the scheme. The head chief of the tribe, Mr. Jacob B. Grant, is in active sympathy with the young men. Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha of this city, who is ever solicitous for the welfare of the people who were in proud possession of this country when the daring Spaniard landed his fretful followers upon the shores of the then new world, is handling the business of the commissary department with his characteristic energy. His father is also betraying an eagerness to carry the project through by attending to necessary business with the Minister of Militia and the House of Commons. With organizers of this stamp of men there is bright promise that the C.M.R.—Canadian Mounted Royalists—will be an active and attractive part of the Canadian militia before the next harvests are stored in the barns.

And the promise looks even more bright since it is learned that the first meeting for organization will be held on the first day of next May, and that in the meantime Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha is arranging a series of entertainments by the Mohawks, to be given in this city before the spring is over.

A word about these entertainments: they are a portrayal of the customs and pleasures of the Indians while they lived in sympathy with the grandeur of the unbroken forests, in harmony with the music of the waterfalls that shared no power with artificial machinery, in consonance with the primitive laws of supply and demand. As portrayed, their customs and pastimes then show a form of life that certainly has the approval frequently of many pale faces who squint at the beauty-wealth of nature over desks heaped with correspondence and account books, and who go to their graves with the grime of dollars and cents built like a mound from their hearts up to their nostrils.

The profits of these entertainments are to be placed in the strong-box in the commissary department and are to be expanded in good time upon uniforms, saddles and other equipments.

The C. M. R. will number between 50 and 55, rank and file. The corps will be known as mounted infantry, that is, the men will be drilled as infantry as well as cavalry.

The uniforms will be patterned after the buckskin suits of former days, having the skirted coat and the tightly fitting trousers with plenty of fringed trimming, and moccasins for foot-wear. Instead of buckskin, which is uncomfortable in wet weather, the uniform will be made of dressed calfskin, in imitation of buckskin. The headdress will be a band, circled with feathers. The officers will be distinguished by headdresses of deeper bands and gayer feathers. On these bands will be the letters "C.M.R.," and beneath a silver wolf—the totem of the leading clan of the Mohawk tribe. And, as a relief to the dead color of the coat and trousers, a red sash will be worn over the shoulder and tied at the side. This sash will be used also as a support for the sword and side-arm.

The style of rifle has not yet been decided and the manner of carrying the rifle is yet unsettled, although it is probable that the weapon will be swung across the pommel of the saddle, it being more convenient there than suspended from the shoulder and over the back.

The saddles will be what are termed Texan, that is, with high cantle and pommel, and wide stirrups and stirrup straps.

The effect on parade of the C.M.R. will be very striking, and the Highlanders will have to be content to share their glory. It is also probable that the C.M.R. will have numerous invitations to visit numerous places for exhibition.

The name of the corps evidences the loyal sentiment pervading the Mohawk Indians of the Bay of Quinte, and shows that the Dominion can place every dependence upon them to furnish valuable aid to the country should their military services ever be required.

Elderly people remember their spring bitters with a shudder. The present generation have much to be thankful for, not the least of their blessings being such a pleasant and thoroughly effective spring medicine as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is a health-restorer and health-maintainer.

THE BENNETT GANG.

The Case Will Be Given to the Jury To-Day.

TORONTO, March 11.—The jewelry store and bank robbers George Bennett, William Norris and William and Edward Archer, were put on trial at the assizes yesterday.

Norris pleaded guilty to the robbery of Ammon Davis' jewelry store and also Roberts' jewelry store in Queen-street west. Lawyer Murdoch appeared as Norris' counsel. He said his client was 21 years old, had been married three years and had a child nine months old. He had always borne a good name and had been honest and industrious.

The prisoner was asked what he wished to say before he was sentenced and said he would try to live a better life in the future.

His Honor hoped he would carry out that resolution and keep from bad company the rest of his life. The sentence then pronounced was two years less one day in the Central Prison upon each charge, the two terms to run concurrently.

The Davis jewelry store robbery case was then proceeded with. Bennett had no counsel, Mr. DuVernet appearing for William Archer only. Mr. DuVernet challenged 11 jurymen and Mr. Dewart six.

The case dragged wearily along during the whole day. The evidence that every juryman who has read the papers must be familiar with was slowly and tediously adduced. Mrs. Bennett and little pale-faced Mrs. Norris were in the room. Mrs. Norris was in the witness box, but forgot all she knew about the case.

Mr. Du Vernet objected to Detective Duncan giving as evidence the conversation he heard between the two prisoners. His Honor ruled that the evidence was perfectly admissible. Then Mr. Du Vernet objected to the evidence offered by Sergeant Slemin, because the officer had not cautioned the prisoner on every occasion on which they talked. His Honor was not at all clear on the point and went into the Assize Court to ask the opinion of Chief Justice Armour. He returned and announced that the Chief Justice was of the opinion that such evidence was admissible, but that he personally did not usually receive it. Then Mr. Dewart concluded that he would not put in the evidence for fear of a "reserved case."

John Rosenthal, the pawnbroker's son, took the oath in Hebrew fashion with his hat on, and then swore that William Archer pawned a watch at the store of the witness' father, which watch was produced in court and claimed by Davis.

Josephine Kennedy, a little girl who "minded" the baby at the Norris house, also gave evidence. Her mother told her not to swear by the Bible and so she affirmed. She said she saw the prisoners at Norris' house and that they were "cobbing and sewing leathers," presumably the sand bags found by the detectives.

The jury were locked up at the conclusion of the evidence and the lawyers and the judge will make their addresses to-day.

THE CAN EXPLODED.

And Husband, Wife and Three Children Were Burned to Death.

OMAHA, Neb., March 11.—Mrs. J. D. Kissler started the kitchen fire yesterday with kerosene oil. It exploded, fatally burning herself, her husband and three children, besides destroying the house.

The Procession Starts!

The arrival of New Spring Millinery has begun at the GOLDEN LION. Our advance styles are the welcome harbingers of spring—marked and exclusive enough in effect and design to suit the anticipations of lovers of the beautiful—but only a partial foretaste of the marvels of the marts of fashion yet to come.

Our Miss Neild and Miss Armstrong have just returned from visiting the leading centres of fashion, and have accomplished their tasks with unusual satisfaction. Their selections are modelled after the most approved advices recently received from abroad, and comprise many new and original novelties and effects which are sure to be favourably received by the ladies of Peterborough.

March winds have also blown us bargains in Irish Point Lace. We are not "undersellers," but yet we know that nowhere can you do better on such goods as these.

You can also tell by our prices that we mean to do the Embroidery trade of the town. You have your choice of any pattern of 15c. Embroidery for 10c., because we bought a great job lot of them, and a glance at the lengths will decide you as to their unusual value.

THE ARMY BILL HAS NOT BRIGHT PROSPECTS.

Bad Setbacks in Committee—Jew-Baiter Ahlwardt Breaks Out Again in the Reichstag—The Kaiser and the Pope—Movement in Hungary.

BERLIN, March 13.—Once more the opponents of the Army bill are jubilant. They declare that the Government sustained a decisive defeat Saturday by the committee of 28 rejecting essential clauses, but the organs of Chancellor von Caprivi respond that the result of the committee's action will be a negative one and that it leaves the fate of the bill unsettled. They add that even if a majority of the committee finally refuses to compromise the Government will not cease the struggle until it challenges a vote at a plenary sitting of the Reichstag.

"Take what course the Government may, says the Freisinnige Zeitung, commenting in a gleeful article on Saturday's events, "Chancellor von Caprivi has only the alternative of the dissolution of the Reichstag" or retirement from office."

Both the confidence expressed in official circles in the eventual acceptance of the bill and the certainty expressed by the opponents of the measure in its defeat are features of a game of bluff on either side. The truth is, the Government is realizing more and more how difficult it will be to obtain any form of bill worth having, and it is manœuvering for time during which it hopes to take advantage of the dissensions of the Centrist party to secure a small majority.

The Freisinnige members also feel that their position is rendered insecure by the divisions within the party. Led by Herr Hinze, a full meeting of the Freisinnige members of the Reichstag was held, and after a heated interchange of views, which lasted three hours, the dissension was marked by an agreement that the party as such would continue to reject the Government's demands in toto, leaving each member to follow his individual conviction. Despite the denials to the contrary it is obvious that a right and left wing exist, and these are likely to weaken the party at a critical moment. As proof of this statement the fact can be cited that Herr Rickert was not present at yesterday's meeting of the committee.

Similar conditions prevail in the Centre party. Count Von Ballestrem, the leader of the party, who is favorable to the Army bill, absented himself from the meeting. While maintaining a surface appearance of unity the party is fast dividing into two factions, the Catholic Democrats and the Catholic Federal, the latter mostly comprising Prussian autocrats, who are ready to make common cause with the Prussian Conservatives. For the present the Centrists await the issue of the debate on the Jesuit question in the Reichstag.

This debate was fixed to take place on March 15. Through the strategy of President von Levetzow, who acted in union with the Chancellor, who wants the discussion delayed, the motion in regard to the return of the Jesuits to Germany has been postponed. The time is not yet opportune for the Government to declare its intentions in this matter. The negotiations with the Vatican, though almost hopeless, still proceed. Gen. von Loe, who was appointed as the Special Envoy of Emperor William to convey to the Pope His Majesty's congratulations on the occasion of the Pontiff's Episcopal Jubilee, has returned with a papal decoration, but if his mission had any political end in view the result shows that he is a complete failure as a diplomat.

Count von Ballestrem has been left with nominally free action; the Pope, in the interviews which took place between himself, Cardinal Rampolla and Gen. von Loe, declining to interfere with the course of the Centrist leader, whatever that course might be. Count von Ballestrem, it is said, is secretly offering the Chancellor the support of the Centrists in exchange for the readmission of the Jesuits. Through this tangle of party schisms and lobby intrigues the Army bill may emerge safe, but not for many days.

Herr Ahlwardt, the notorious Jew-baiter, made his first speech in the Reichstag during the discussion of the war budget. It was an entirely personal speech, having no relation whatever to the matter before the House. The Chancellor, Herr Ahlwardt said, had called him a libeler. He maintained that he had only fulfilled a patriotic duty in revealing the faults of those who had entrusted Jews with the armament of the German forces. He repeated amid chilling silence his accusations against the Government for taking the defective Loewe rifles.

During the same debate Herr Richter asked whether the budget included the sums paid to newspapers for supporting the Army bill. Chancellor von Caprivi indignantly denied that a single pfennig had been so expended.

The latest development in the agrarian question is the Government's proposal to establish a Chamber of Agriculture. A bill will be introduced in the Landtag creating such a chamber, which will be regulated by Government officials. The agrarian leaders eye the project askance.

The visit of the Emperor and Empress to Rome on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the marriage of King Humbert to Queen Margherite, which occurs on April 22 next, was arranged through Count Lanza, the Italian ambassador to Germany. On the way to Rome the Emperor will go to Dresden and the King of Saxony will accompany him thence to the Italian capital. What interests the diplomatic world is not the Emperor's reception at the Quirinal but what will occur at the Vatican. Overtures for an interview between the Emperor and the Pope have met with a cold response from Cardinal Rampolla, Pontifical Secretary of State, to the effect that the Pope cannot refuse to see Emperor William, but if His Majesty desires to confer on political subjects His Holiness would prefer to communicate with him through his cardinal secretary.

Cardinal Kopp, Prince Archbishop of Breslau, has vainly tried to influence the Pope to reconsider his French policy, and it is stated that, as a first step to this, asked for the dismissal of Cardinal Rampolla and the appointment of Cardinal Gallimberti, or some other prelate favoring the Triple Alliance, as Papal Secretary in his stead. The Pope was entirely deaf to Cardinal Kopp's arguments, and was equally deaf to the persuasions of others with supposedly high influences. There is no doubt that he will also pay as little attention to Emperor William's influence so that the visit of the Emperor to the Vatican will be merely ceremonial.

The Kulturkampf in Hungary is exciting strong interest here, in view of the fact that the policy of the Catholic bishops in Hungary aims at the destruction of the Triple Alliance. The debates this week in the Hungarian Diet have fully developed what animates the bishops' protests against the Government's project to legalize civil marriage. Liberal members of the Diet commented upon the Pope's alliance with France, where civil marriages have long been recognized. They declared that if Austria-Hungary would leave the Triple Alliance and abandon Italy the Vatican would cease trying to excite the people against the Government. The Hungarian Liberals express confidence that the people, with whom the Triple Alliance is intensely popular as an assurance against Russia, will support the Government against the Clericals.

The monotony of Friday's Parliamentary sitting was broken by a turbulent scene in which Gen. Von Kaltenborn, War Minister, and August Bebel, Social Democratic leader, were the chief figures.

In the debate on the Military budget Bebel made a bitter speech concerning the cruelty of officers to privates. He cited several cases in which non-commissioned officers have recently crippled recruits for life by striking or kicking them at drill; blamed the War Department for its clemency towards such offenders, and eventually denounced vehemently the whole military establishment for the arrogance and brutality manifested by it towards civilians and their rights.

Hardly a week passed, he said, without some atrocious assault by soldiers upon unoffending citizens. Officers enjoyed special privileges in this direction and most of their brutal acts were committed with full impunity. Even in cases of murder the hand of justice was invariably stayed. Thus Lieut. Saltzah had been sentenced to but one month's confinement in a fortress for having killed a civilian.

To men capable of such crimes, Bebel said in conclusion, the private soldiers were delivered without hope of redress. They were the legitimate prey of these military butchers.

This statement brought to his feet Gen. von Kaltenborn, who called out excitedly: "Even the freedom of the speaker's tribune does not permit such utterances nor allow dishonors to be attributed to the army. Only the Social Democrats would be guilty of such insults."

The Social Democratic members rose in a body, protesting against this accusation, and Bebel instantly replied that the Social Democrats did not hate the army as the War Minister would have the deputies believe.

As for provoking the army with insults, he added, the Social Democrats were to wise to give the Government such a pretext to turn the military loose upon them.

General Von Kaltenborn interrupted Bebel to repeat that the Social Democrats wished to discredit the army.

The Social Democrats shouted back, "That is false!"

The Conservatives answered with shouts for the Government, and the House became so uproarious that the ringing of the President's bell for order was inaudible in the din. The incident is not closed, as Bebel intends to return to the charge at some sitting in the near future.

The international sanitary conference was opened in Dresden Saturday in the hall of the Foreign Office. Sixty delegates were present. The program is so elaborate as to require a long session. The principal work of the conference will concern the expected reappearance of cholera throughout Europe next summer.

Prince Bismarck, who has been ailing for some time, has suffered so keenly in the last two weeks from phlebitis and neuralgia that he summoned Dr. Schweninger to Friedrichsruhe. After a few days' treatment he feels much relieved.

Owing to official communications from Paris and London the German authorities are watching anxiously for a party of Nihilists said to have arrived in Hamburg and to purpose crossing the frontier into Russia with the intention of assassinating the Czar. The plot is reported to have been hatched in Berlin, although the conviction here is that it originated in Paris, and the French Government is trying to unload the responsibility on Germany merely to interrupt the exchange of civilities between the Berlin and St. Petersburg courts. Several suspects have already been arrested.

BANK CONSOLIDATION.

Three Great Institutions of Rome Combine Under a New Title.

ROME, March 13.—The shareholders of three issue banks of this city have sanctioned the consolidation of the three institutions under the name of the Bank of Italy. The combined capital will be 300,000,000 lire ($60,000,000), of which 200,000,000 lire is paid up. The excessive amount of the capital is rendered necessary by the fact that so much is locked up in real estate as an outcome of the Government's desire to avert a crash growing out of the building crisis that has existed in Rome since 1888. Of the new capital 60,000,000 lire will be held by the shareholders of the Banca Nationale. It is hoped that the combined concern will be strong enough to take over the whole of the Banca Romana's liabilities, involving a loss of 50,000,000 lire. As compensation the Government will reduce the tax on note issue.

As to Irish Mails.

LONDON, March 13.—In response to several questions as to the effect which the docking of American Line steamships at Southampton would have upon the transmission of the mails from America to Ireland, Arnold Morley, Postmaster-General, said that he would observe the consequence of the abandonment of Queenstown by the American Line, and if he found that the change had resulted in the delaying of the Irish mails, he would direct the attention of the United States Government to the matter.

Father of Twenty-One Children.

MONTREAL, March 13.—Mr. Charles Marsada, an old patriot who took part in the engagement at St. Charles, has just died in the parish of St. Simon at the age of 79 years. He was the father of 21 children, 17 of whom survive him.

General Store Burned.

HASTINGS, Ont., March 13.—Mr. Henry Orser' general store in Foxella was burned on Saturday morning, together with contents and dwelling, including the postoffice and telephone office. The fire caught from the stove pipes and was beyond control when discovered. Everything was consumed. Loss about $2000, insured for $1400.

A SENSATIONAL TRIAL.

THE PANAMA CANAL CASE IS A DAISY.

M. Arton Was Promised Protection If He Would Refrain From Implicating Certain High Officials—Another Witness Steps Down.

PARIS, March 13.—There were new sensations in the Panama trial Saturday. The audience was much larger than on the previous day, owing to the expectation of new developments, and the deepest interest was exhibited in the evidence given.

A juryman asked whether it was possible to trace 300,000 francs which Charles de Lesseps alleged that he had given to M. Floquet. M. de Lesseps replied that he could not tell how to trace the money. "I have been so long in prison," said DeLesseps, plaintively, "that I am forgetting matters that I knew."

M. Rano testified to having accompanied M. Clemenceau to see M. de Freycinet, about the time testified to by Charles de Lesseps as that at which M. de Freycinet advised Charles de Lesseps not to have litigation with Baron de Reinach. Rano said that the Government was then in the throes of the conflict with Boulangism and a lawsuit between the Panama Canal Company and Baron Reinach would have been hurtful to the Republic. No question arose, so Rano testified, in regard to bringing pressure to bear upon the Panama Canal Company.

Deputy Leon Boric, Boulangist, and a bitter enemy of opportunism next testified. He created a decided sensation in court by stating that a man named Blanchett had offered him 25,000 francs for each deputy that he would induce to vote for the Panama Lottery Bond bill.

Charles de Lesseps here spoke up and protested that he never knew Blanchett.

M. Andrieux, who is generally held responsible as the originator of the Panama revelations, next took the stand. He testified that the list of Reinach checks which he had given to the Committee of Investigation had been handed to him by Cornelius Herz in the same form as received by Herz from Reinach. Andrieux admitted in reply to questions that he had looked through Arton's papers in order to serve a political purpose. Andrieux testified further that he wrote to Arton through Deschamps in regard to the bribery charges, but that Arton declined to communicate with him lest he should compromise the deputies. Arton said that he would not betray persons who had given him their confidence, and that moreover he himself would be no longer secure, if he once surrendered the list in his possession.

There was a murmur of surprise in court at this hint of hidden protection extended over Arton while he maintained reserve in regard to implicated officials.
